The member for St. James' division of Montreal, has been led to submit this important amendment to the House by reason of what he regards as the unfair prosecutions which have taken place in certain Ontario cities, notably Hamilton and London. He regards it as unjust that one section of the community, workmen or employes, shall be permitted to combine for their own protection, while the retail merchants of Canada are debarred from this privilege under the existing law. Mr. Gervais holds strong views as to the responsibility of the Government in trade matters. Instead of bringing respectable merchants before the courts, the Montreal representative holds that the Government should assume the responsibility of protecting the consumer against trade restrictions. Thus, assuming that a Retail Grocers' Association or a Retail Hardware Association were abnormally or unfairly to increase prices on one or more commodities, then the Government could meet the situation by temporarily reducing the customs duty upon such articles. In this way Mr. Gervais would remove the stigma of criminality from retail merchants and at the same time protect the householder from extortionate prices.

PACKAGE TEA CHANGES.

The Grocer received with considerable satisfaction this week the news that the leading package tea houses, with a few exceptions, have removed their twenty-five cent package from the market. This is a matter we have been strongly advocating for some months as being in the interests of the retailer and ultimately also, to the consumer, and we naturally feel that we can take considerable credit for the change which has just been made.

The larger packers freely admit that with the exceedingly high prices which have prevailed in all grades of common teas for a year or more they have been losing money in putting up a satisfactory package to sell wholesale at 20 cents. And with the record advances in these teas during the last few months the problem became a very serious one and it was seen that the business could not be carried on for any length of time on this losing basis. There were two lines of action possible. The packers must either increase the cost of their package to the retailer or raise the price to the consumer. It was realized that the retailer's profit would be anything but satisfactory if the wholesale price was raised, so the latter course was adopted and the twenty-five cent package was discontinued in favor of one at thirty cents. The change, if it makes any difference at all, should benefit the retailer. The wholesale prices on the thirty cent packages are twenty-four and twenty-five cents, so that his profit is practically the same, or at the former price, greater, than it was on the old basis. On the other hand also, the consumer will doubtless receive a better grade of tea in the thirty cent package. The consumer, if he only could be brought to believe it, really gets better all-round value, as he uses tea approaching the higher grades and should be educated to that standpoint. The abolition of the twenty-five cent package is a step in this direction and should be satisfactory to the retailer generally.

A PICNIC AT LONDON.

Considerable interest is being taken in several sections in Ontario in the suggestion, mentioned recently in our columns, that a union picnic of Western Ontario grocers should be held at London some time during the coming summer. The suggestion is a good one, and though February seems perhaps a peculiar time to talk about summer picnics the present is really the time when the matter should be considered.

As a site for a gathering of Western Ontario grocers, London is ideal. The excellent railway facilities would permit of the attendance of members of the trade from an exceedingly large section. Last year the London grocers picnicked in Toronto. Why shouldn't Toronto grocers picnic in London? The cities more closely situated would no doubt send along a good-sized quota and merchants in Sarnia, Windsor and other border towns could go and return without difficulty. Beside convenient location London has an abundance of natural attractions in her parks and beauty spots which deserve the acquaintance of the citizens of other towns and perhaps best of all, the city has a large and active retail grocers' association which would be perfectly capable and willing to handle a gathering such as is proposed.

MORE COMPLAINTS OF EXPORTS.

Canada's exports are certainly receiving heavy thumps from foreign markets in different parts of the world these days. And the matter is one which has assumed a very serious aspect. Last week we noted complaints from Japan in regard to shipments of Canadian butter. This week, even more discouraging reports have come in from the commercial agents and others, as is noted at greater length on another page, regarding Canadian apples in England.

Viewed from the standpoint of local dealers, these reports are to some small extent, exaggerated. They all agree, however, that there is a good deal of truth in the statements.

Undoubtedly these matters mean a great blow to Canadian trade. And, coming at a time when our export trade in these commodities is assuming a good deal of importance, the blow will be doubly harmful. It only needs a few such instances to cripple vitally our export business.

These matters must be investigated immediately. It is true that the peculiar conditions prevailing in the apple packing industry in Canada last season would seem to provide a reason for some of the conditions complained of but this should not be accepted as an excuse in this case. The fact that some Canadian dealers are disreputable enough to injure the whole Canadian export trade in the hope of a small amount of personal gain is exceedingly regrettable. The conditions complained of in regard to apples seem to point to the fact that the Fruit Marks Act is being toyed with.

It would seem an easy matter to trace these questionable shipments back to the Canadian firms who are responsible for them and to deal with these as the case justifies.

LINES OF SUGAR DECLINED.

The St. Lawrence sugar refinery reduced refined granulated and yellow sugar by ten cents per hundredweight early in the week. Other refiners have maintained their prices, claiming the decline of ten cents on refined in New York did not warrant a reduction here. The general opinion among jobbers seems to be that the St. Lawrence Co. has a surplus of stock which they would like to clear out, and that the decline is only of a temporary nature.

CHANGES IN AUSTRALIAN TARIFF

The Canadian Trade Commissioner in Australia, J. S. Larke, in a recent report, states that the new Australian tariff will be on the average five per cent. higher than the old, but on no one line will it be so high as to be practically prohibitive. On most lines the effect of the preference granted to Great Britain is of more value than the additions to the tariff. If Canada secures the advantage of this preference, its position will be materially improved over that which it occupied under the old tariff on many lines of goods which Australia must continue to import. The greatest impediment to Canadian trade in Australia will be hereafter, as it has been in past years, the inability of Canadian manufacturers to fill the orders that they might otherwise obtain.

THE SITUATION IN THE WEST

The Grain Exchange Charter Question—Wheat Markets Slumped But Recovering —Good Conditions in the Grocery Trade.

By our Special Winnipeg Correspondent.

The situation in the West has developed many features of interest during the past two weeks but the question of the amendments to the Grain Exchange charter continues to be paramount in grain circles at least. The gravity of the situation has increased rather than diminished. The agricultural committee have passed the bill in its most confiscatory form and have recommended it to the legislature in that form in spite of the representations made by counsel for the Grain Exchange. The Grain Exchange has filed a formal protest to the legislature against the passing of the bill, but it is not expected that this will have any effect in deterring the passage, which has apparently been determined upon by the Premier, Hon. R. P. Roblin.

To what extent the well ordered and well established grain markets will be disturbed and destroyed it is too early to determine, but, although there are differences of opinion on some passages of the bill and their effect, there seems to be but one opinion, outside of the Provincial Minister, pledged to it, and the little coterie of grain growers that have fathered the bill, and that is that it is unquestionably the most vicious piece of legislation that has ever been brought before a Canadian Parliament, and so far from accomplishing the end desired by its authors will have the effect of upsetting the entire grain trade, both domestic and export, possibly for years to come.

The wheat market has in common with world markets, suffered a very serious slump in the past ten days, but now shows signs of recovery and a return to normal conditions. It is worthy of note that the Winnipeg market was the slowest to break and has been the first to show recovery to any material extent. The receipts of wheat for inspection have been growing smaller daily for some time, and the receipts at country elevators still smaller, indeed the amount now in farmers' hands must be small indeed, and apart from any good wheat that may have been reserved for seed, is generally of low grade. When the slump reached good proportions there was a considerable revival of export trade, which has been very dull since the heavy Argentine shipments have begun to come in. The inquiry was for No. 1 and 2 Northern or else for low grades. The usual midwinter dullness which is always a feature of the early part of February, is passing and generally more active conditions are looked for as the season advances. In spite of the heavy weekly all-rail shipments, stocks are accumulating at the lake fronts, very much in excess of any previous year. Of course, during the entire season, there has never been a week when it has not been easy to carry wheat from interior points to the lakes, owing to the very open season.

The distribution of seed grain is being watched with keen interest by business men as well as farmers, for on the early seeding of a large area with good seed depends largely whether the year 1907 was as disastrous to mercantile interests as was at first anticipated. There is no question, that although conditions have not proved as bad as many anticipated, a backward spring with slow seeding and a scarcity of seed calculated to produce a vigorous crop would be very prejudicial and would precipitate many failures that are now being staved off. Recently there have been quite a number of rather material failures in Winnipeg though none of a character to occasion any very widespread loss. The tightening of things has been noticed, most especially in furniture lines, and one very large concern that did a heavy credit business in these lines has gone under and a receiver has been appointed. The period of rapid expansion through which the city has been passing, the very high rents, and the consequent renting of larger houses and putting in of new furniture and renting rooms that has been carried on to a surprising deegree, has been very largely done on the instalment plan. Many of the people with roomers are finding their rooms vacated or have been obliged to accept very much lower rents and in turn have not been able to keep up payments on furniture, so that this in a measure accounts for this branch of trade feeling the squeeze severely. Grocers, especially wholesale groders, and dealers in heavy and necessary clothing, report conditions better than they expected to find them when the winter season opened. They claim that the fact that people have had to spend so much less on fuel than usual has left more money to invest in food and clothing, whatever the reason the fact remains that accounts of this character have been very well met.

The real estate situation shows very decided improvement in the past two weeks, though the inquiry is almost entirely for inside properties and some fairly good deals have changed hands. It is noticeable that the best investors at the present time are English capitalists. There have been premature reports about local factories being bought by Old Country concerns and these have been strenuously denied by present holders but there no manner of doubt that important negotiations looking to transfers of this kind have been going on all winter and though some of them may fall through others will be carried to completion and very considerable expansion in local manufacturers may be looked for in this way.

The lumber and wood men have rejoiced greatly over the recent snow falls that have assisted materially in forwarding matters in the busy season. The cut of the winter has been a heavy one and there is now a good prospect that it will be gotten out without too much expense and trouble.—H.

TORONTO FRUIT MEN BOWL.

The Toronto Fruit Market on its busiest day looked tame compared with the lively scenes witnessed at the Toronto Bowling Club last Thursday evening, when the wholesale fruit men participated in their first tenpin tournament. A quiet fruit man is a rare article, so that the dullest imagination can picture pretty well what an animated lot of beings congregated that evening.

The games started sharply at eight o'clock, and then the fun began. The different participants were graded into three classes, A, B, and C, according to their estimated ability. Before the tournament was over the presence of some leading lights was in evidence. Chas. Kimpton was master of ceremonies, having for his assistants in directing the combat Messrs. Oke, Langskill and Stringer.

Class C, or the green fruit of the bunch in the tenpin game, was given the right of way and commenced doing all sorts of unusual things with the pins. Many fruitless attempts to dislodge the pins caused rounds of fun. After Class C had finished rolling, Class B and Class A started, the former being composed of bowlers of this year's standing, while the latter contained the so-called professionals of the bunch. Some splendid scoring was done by Class A.

At the conclusion of the games Chas. Kimpton ascended the throne and distributed the prizes of the evening to the winners. The prizes were won as follows :

Class A—Special prize for single high game, gold stick pin, presented by T. F. Ryan, won by Ted Oke, score 189.

For two high games : Total

First prize, cut glass—J. Langskill 321
Second prize, cuff links—T. Vance.. 317
Third prize, umbrella—W. B. Stringer..... 306
Fourth prize, necktie—N. Peters. . 280
Fifth prize, braces—E. Provan..... 279

Class B, single high game, fountain pen, R. Bain, 163.

Two high games : Total

First, cut glass berry bowl, F. C. Matthews..... 301
Second, watch fob—R. Powers. . . 271
Third, cuff links—F. Kimpton . . . 277
Fourth, umbrella—H. Peters 274
Fifth, umbrella—W. H. Despard . . 273
Sixth, braces—R. Husband 248
Seventh, braces—Cam. Husband . . 251
Eighth, necktie—Geo. Stewart . . . 245
Ninth, necktie—Geo. Everist 243
Tenth, shaving mug—Geo. Olcott . 242

In Class C sixteen prizes were handed out, including cut glass berry bowls, watch fobs, cuff links, braces, neckties, shaving mugs, etc.

Unsatisfactory Apple Shipments

Trade Commissioners in England and Newfoundland Complain of Past Season's Shipments—What a Liverpool Dealer Thinks—The Position of Local Shippers.

The past season seems to have been a very unsatisfactory one for Canadian apple shippers and judging from reports which are coming in from various sources a good many dealers seem to have been trying to make up for losses in Canada by using questionable methods in their export business. The following paragraphs give undeniable evidence of the unsatisfactory condition of a good many of last year's shipments of apples.

English Commissioner's Report.

In the current report of the Department of Trade and Commerce, J. B. Jackson, in a letter from Leeds, dated Jan. 22, 1908, speaking of Canadian apples on the British market says:

"The closing weeks of the apple season are now near at hand, and it is with much regret that I have to report that Canadian apples have not maintained their well-known reputation on the British market this season. Indeed, speaking from a knowledge of the principal markets in this district which include such important distributing centres as Leeds, Hull, Newcastle-on-Tyne and Sheffield, very many complaints have been made against the packing and grading in fact, the shipments this season are looked upon by the best judges in the trade as not only inferior in quality to those received for many years, but that the grading and packing has scarcely ever been worse.

Faulty Packing and Grading.

"Various complaints have reached this office from the leading houses in the trade, which, after being fully investigated, all point to the one regrettable fact, viz.: that the Fruit Marks Act has not been complied with. Different kinds of apples appear to have been indiscriminately packed together without any due regard to the grading. Especially does this apply to No. 2s., which has caused the merchants to go to the trouble and expense of having the apples repacked before they could be successfully disposed of to the retail trade. It must be remembered that packing of this kind is equally as disastrous in its effects to the merchant on this side as it is to the exporter in Canada. When the customers purchase a barrel of apples, which judging from the surface appearance, are of good sound quality throughout, but find, on investigation further, that this applies to the top layers only, then not only does this seriously injure the trade of the merchant, but, in the same way, materially lowers the reputation of Canadian fruit in his own estimation.

Cases of Complaints.

"An idea of the sort of grievances which have been found can be gathered from the following: A consignment of apples which were marked as No. 1 'Kings' and sold as such at auction to local merchants for 17s. per barrel, were, when opened, found to be inferior 'St. Lawrences,' and the purchasers eventually disposed of them for 5s. per barrel. Similar cases could also be quoted. Barrels, for instance marked as No. 1 'Spy,' turned out to contain No. 2 'Snows,' and No. 2 'Baldwins' were packed in barrels marked No. 2 'Spy,' and so on. It is also said that many barrels marked No. 1, were not entitled to that mark as the fruit was grubby and small. The complaint as to the smallness of the fruit by the way, is almost general in this district indeed, on account of this, many No. 1's have only, with difficulty, been disposed of at a price which good No. 2's have obtained in past seasons.

"The following paragraph, however, which appeared in the "British Fruit Grower" of January 9, 1908, is commended to the notice of fruit circles in Canada, coming as it does, from one of the recognized organs of the fruit trade in this country:

"'During the present season for Canadian and Nova Scotian apples our market representative has on two or three occasions called attention in his notes to the grading of these apples, the marks on the barrels (owing to the small size of the fruit in the crop) not representing the character of apples which had come to be associated with No. 1 and No. 2 grades in previous seasons. As the season has advanced the grievance felt by buyers has been accentuated by a distinct faling off in the actual grading of the apples, the first grade varying considerably in size of fruit, and in some cases the contents of the barrels should, in the opinion of some of the best judges in the trade, have been marked No. 3 instead of No. 1, and in a few instances No. 2 were found to be superior to the best mark.

"'It seems to us that, following the excessively dry season and the consequent all-round smaller size of the fruits, the Nova Scotia growers have failed to realize that the No. 1 grade of other seasons was not to be found, and that, in fact, there should have been none or very few of No. 1 marked. The 'large' apples of 1907 should have been packed as second grade. This explanation will, of course, not cover the instances where No. 2 and No. 1 have come mixed indiscriminately in one barrel. Some of the Nova Scotia fruit growers are as blind to their own interests as are their brothers on this side, and nothing short of coercion will ever make them pack fair and square. Nova Scotia has had a good name for square dealing in the past, but we would remind our friends on the other side that to be 'ill deemed is to be half hanged.' There is one point to which the growers may not be altogether to blame. Much of the fruit in Ontario and Nova Scotia is bought on the trees by Yankee and other packers, and it is quite within the possibilities that these gentlemen are responsible for some of the slipshod work. Such a thing as 'stove piping' the barrels of fruit in packing is not unknown to these Yankee gentlemen.

"'The only redeeming feature to the whole disagreeable business is that the shipments sent into this district by some of the reputable apple shippers of Ontario have been all right in packing and grading, taking into account the average size of the Canadian apple of this year—but even these did not realize the prices which should have been obtained owing to the false, fradulent and slipshod methods of those who were responsible for the actual packing of the majority of the fruit.

"'Canadian apples are to-day a poor second in this market to American apples, which have this year been better packed and graded than ever before.'"

Similar Reports From Newfoundland.

Somewhat similar reports are coming also from Newfoundland. In the same department report E. D. Arnaud, the resident commercial agent, writing from St. John's under date of January 30, says:

"My attention has again been called during the past season of apple imports to the unsatisfactory way in which several barrels sent here from Nova Scotia have been packed, and from a personal knowledge of the matter I am satisfied that the regulations laid down in the Fruit Marks Act were not observed, and that the complaints of the retailers here were well founded.

"It will be instructive to read what a local trade journal has recently had to say on the subject:

"'There is supposed to be a very rigid inspection of Canadian apples for export, but, notwithstanding, there is a crop of complaints again this year against the goods sent out. In England there is a vigorous kicking by retail fruit and grocery men, against the faulty nature of the Dominion Government inspection of apples, and St. John's grocers are making similar complaints. Many barrels of apples arriving here, branded No. 1 are, really only second grade, and second grade apples are merely 'windfalls.' Mr. Arnaud, the Canadian Commissioner, made strong representations on this subject to the Dominion Government last year, but though the lines of inspection were tightened, there is still much to complain of. Individual dealers have also sent complaints to Canada, but the Dominion shippers always seem to make a plausible excuse, and wriggle clear of the complaints.' "

"When asked the other day why he didn't repudiate orders, and send inferior stuff back, one of the largest dealers in the city said : 'Under all the circumstances, it would never pay us to do so, and we must only grin and bear a situation which we cannot change. We order apples to reach us just when we want them in our trade, and if we don't accept what we get we will have no apples to supply our customers. In the case of unsound apples, if we make complaint, the shippers will say that the goods were all right when they left their hands, and they must have deteriorated on the voyage. There is no way to disprove this contention and rather than make a noise from which no benefit can come, St. John's dealers make the best of a bad bargain by sorting and picking, try to get their own money out of the lot. And even if a case be made out against the shippers, the latter will shift the blame over on the shoulders of the inspectors or growers, and that is the last word to be said on the subject."

An English Importer Speaks.

Added to this, the following letter from Liverpool, dated Feb. 8, from one of the largest firms of apple importers in England, shows how serious the matter really is :

"Editor, The Canadian Grocer.

"Dear Sir,—I have just received a copy of your valued paper, issued on January 24 last, and note with interest an article under the title, "Heavy Losses in Apples," to which I feel compelled to reply.

"You state in your article that ruinous prices are ruling on this side, resulting in heavy losses to speculators, and this would, of course, lead to inquiries as to the cause. I have every reason to know that the crop of Canadian apples this season was exceptionally large, and there is no doubt, to my mind, that it was underestimated, with the result that growers held out for high prices, and that the apple speculators both in England and America swallowed the bait.

"I maintain that if the apples had been properly graded and branded the result would have been profitable to speculators in spite of the heavy arrivals.

"The Liverpool market handles, as you are aware, an enormous quantity of apples, and to instance the variations in prices, the following figures, which are from the sale catalogue of last Wednesday will suffice, the apples in question being all branded No. 1, and ex "Welshman" at Liverpool, February 5 and 7 :

"Spies made as high as 21s; Baldwins as high as 19s; Ben Davis, 14s; and again, Spies made as low as 15s; Baldwins as low as 15s 6d, and Ben Davis, 13s.

"You will see that there is a difference in the prices of Spies of 6s, and yet, I repeat, that they were all branded 'No. 1.' The same variations exist in the case of Baldwins and Ben Davis. In the event of these prices being doubted, I may say that they can easily be verified, but the instances go to support the statement that Canadian apples have never been so badly and unfairly packed as this year.

"There is no doubt in my mind that the Canadian Government will no longer close their eyes to the fact that the 'Fruit Marks Act' is being played with, and some strong measures will have to be adopted in the near future if this industry is going to maintain its high place in the commerce of the world. The heavy crop is no excuse for false packing, because the demand was quite up to the supply, and the market for the best known brands, fairly packed, has been steady all the season.

"Some Canadian apple growers were recently in Liverpool and they could scarcely believe their eyes at some of the barrels they saw opened for their inspection.

"In conclusion, it is to be hoped that such steps will be taken by the government, supported by the press, to bring about a more desirable state of affairs, and thus prevent the recurrence of a season which buyers here are likely to remember.

(Signed) W. A. CROUCH."

The Canadian Viewpoint.

With a view to finding out how the matter was viewed by Canadian shippers, several leading dealers in Toronto were seen. It is generally conceded by them that there has been a lot of unscrupulous packing. As one shipper tritely put it, "Some of the packers have been rotten." But while there are good grounds for many of the complaints, it is manifestly unfair to denounce unsparingly the whole trade. In the fruit industry there are men, certainly, who seem to have no compunction as to how they grade and pack apples. But while this is so, there are a great many more who are perfectly honest and conscientious about their grading. One Canadian firm, out of shipments aggregating 60,000 barrels, has had practically no complaints about its apples.

Several exporters have pointed out that much of the trouble has arisen from the poor quality of apples this year. They were small and grubby, due to the late spring and cold autumn. The result was that the best apples branded as "No. 1's," were below the standard of other years. It is candidly admitted that apples have been packed as No. 1 which other years would be branded as No. 2, but which, considering this season's crop, were entitled to be graded as the best. This would go to show that circumstances, rather than fraud, had something to do with the unsatisfactory grading. The Dominion inspectors have been very active this year in investigating the apples business and enforcing the Fruit Marks Act. Several packers have been found guilty of questionable practices, but this has by no means been the general rule.

It is maintained again that market conditions have had a great deal to do with the complaints. The Canadian crop was exceptionally large, contrary to general expectations. "If the crop had been half what it is, there would have been little complaint about the grading," said one leading exporter. When the market broke and prices fell, it is alleged that English receivers endeavored to break their contracts and to do so used the argument of low quality and poor grading. One large consignor says that the excuses made by English receivers for the low prices obtained "bore every evidence of being made out of whole cloth." These are but samples of the arguments used in explanation of the charges of fraudulent grading and packing.

Another argument heard was the fact that large receiving points, like Liverpool, have at their disposal an inspector who has wide enough latitude to check the importation of illegally packed apples. It is contended that English buyers have thus the machinery at hand to stop these questionable practices. Should the inspector discover cases where the Fruit Marks Act is being tampered with all he has to do is report the offenders to the Dominion Government, which, thereby, becomes responsible for their prosecution. Exporters claim that this would help very materially to put an end to the dishonest methods of Canadian packers. While this fact may be true, it is not this that must be looked to for a remedy. The matter must be looked after here in Canada where the trouble originates.

HOW TO SELL ORANGES.

"Oranges by the peck." This—which was suggested in The Grocer recently—was the attractive feature of an advertisement of a local grocer during the past week, and in connection with the retailing of the golden fruit was certainly an innovation here. Care was taken to emphasize the fact that the oranges had been purchased in extensive quantities and that this plan had been devised for a quick disposal. It was also stated in the advertisement that the oranges were "large, juicy and sweet," and it is needless to say that the grocer did a brisk trade in oranges. The price was quoted at 35 cents, and lovers of oranges who have always been in the habit of buying them by the dozen recognized the opportunity as a snap of snaps, and the majority of those who wanted oranges bought them by the peck. While the merchant is not disposed to discuss profits, one thing is certain that he will not have many oranges of this particular kind on hand very long, and it is a certainty that he has been benefitted in other respects. The incident illustrates the advantages of originality in advertising and how "specials" from week to week can be made to attract new customers and add to the permanency of trade provided merit and honesty are not lacking. "Specials" have been the leverage by which the trade of the departmental stores has been built up—they are kept up from day to day, neveral allowing public interest to wane—and why can't they be used with a proportionate degree of success by the smaller merchants ?—Woodstock Correspondent.

FINAL MATCH POSTPONED.

Lack of ice caused the postponement of the final game in the Toronto Wholesalers' Hockey League till this evening, when, if 'Varsity rink's surface is in satisfactory condition, the T. Kinnear Co. and Jas. Lumbers Co.'s teams will line up for what promises to be a strenuous struggle. The fact that both teams are on the same terms and that this match decides the ownership of the cup, which has been in possession of the Brokers' team since last year.

What is Doing in the Trade in Canadian Cities and Towns—Outlook Generally Considered Bright for Good Business in the Spring.

CHATHAM.

Tasty window dressing is steadily and swiftly advancing in favor among Maple City grocers. A stroll down King street any day will emphasize this fact. The groceries of the Maple City certainly never presented a higher average of effectiveness and tastiness in the matter of window display than they do this week. A few months ago "any old thing to fill up" seemed the general rule, with a few notable exceptions. To-day there is scarcely a window, even on unconspicuous side streets, where an effort is not noticeable to attract attention and custom from the passer-by. Just what has wrought the change is a little hard to fathom ; but there certainly has been a distinct advance. Doubtless, The Canadian Grocer, which the progressive grocers of the city read regularly, had a large share to do with it.

Last week the Palmer Baking Company, of which J. R. Palmer, formerly of Tilbury, is the head, took over the city bread route of E. A. Mounteer. The new proprietors are featuring a Table Queen loaf, in place of the Butternut bread, the rights of which they did not acquire. The Palmer Bakery is in many respects a model establishment. Thorough cleanliness is aimed at throughout, and the various departments, baking room, engine room, flour room and packing room, are so arranged that all are directly under the eye of the "man at the desk." A notable innovation is the use of gas for the ovens, as well as for light. The company has a large wholesale business, and with a present capacity of over 6,000 loaves daily, looks forward to enlarging in the near future.

W. C. Crawford's "Big Store," at Tilbury, has inaugurated a tremendous campaign for business in the shape of a prize contest sale. The sale lasts during the month of February, and the prizes range from a grand piano downward. Each purchaser of one dollar's worth of goods receives a numbered coupon, and the lucky numbers draw the prizes. This applies only to cash sales ; though customers with accounts who settle before Feb. 29 are entitled to one coupon for every three dollars paid. The contest is being largely advertised in the various local papers in the vicinity of Tilbury. A helpful feature of the circular literature issued is a list of articles which can be purchased for the sum of $1.

Jasperson's tobacco warehouse at Leamington was destroyed by fire early last week. The damage was $7,000, partly insured. About a dozen hands are thrown out of employment.

BARRIE.

Buying and storing apples for spring trade has been a losing venture with a great many merchants of the town. Several of the larger merchants who bought heavily in the fall and paid a high price, are now offering their holdings at from fifty to one dollar a barrel less than they paid for them and picked over stock at that. The trouble arose over the heavy rot which has occurred this winter. In the fall buyers paid as high as $3.50 a barrel for No. 1 Spys, but the average price paid was $3.

A week ago butter and eggs sold here at thirty-five cents all round and this week they are selling at twenty-five cents. The cause of this is the terrible storms of the previous two weeks. The farmers in this district have actually been snowbound for two and in some cases three weeks and are now flocking to town with their held-back produce and hence the great drop in the prices.

The Canadian Shredded Wheat Company made a hit with their shredded wheat banquet, which was held in one of the leading churches here this week. Needless to say, their demonstrations will not fade from the people's minds for some time. This is an excellent way of advertising and other firms might fall into line with advantage.

A terrible accident happened this week whereby an old man was killed. While walking along Dunlop Street a great piece of frozen snow and ice fell from the roof of one of the buildings, crushing his skull and almost killing him instantly. Other merchants and men in general are now looking at, and attending to their roofs. Merchants of other towns take notice of this before it comes home to you.

We are pleased to note the number of farmers throughout the surrounding country who have telephones in their homes, they are all beginning to see the conveniences of these instruments, both with their neighbors and storekeepers in town and country.

GUELPH.

Spring is here, so said one of Bobbie Willar's neat signs in Geo. William's grocery store window this week, and it certainly looked like it. This was one of the most attractive windows we have had in Guelph this year, and Mr. Willar had it very neatly dressed indeed. There were choice big juicy strawberries, nice and ripe in boxes, large bunches of white, crisp celery tied with pink and red ribbon, ripe tomatoes, green lettuce, mushrooms, new beets, carrots, turnips, radish and cauliflowers, which after the long cold days we have had looked very tempting and was greatly admired by the ladies, even if the prices were a shade too high for some of them.

The market Saturday was the poorest attended here for years and the prices were pretty stiff, more so than was really necessary, as the few fine days during the week had brought in enough produce to put the grocers on easy street, as nearly all the stores were overstocked with butter and eggs. Some stores advertised on Saturday 25 cents a dozen for eggs, and butter 25 cents a pound, while those few on the market got 35 cents. The roads were impassible but will be all right again by the beginning of the week.

The talk of removing the winter fair from Guelph to Toronto Junction has caused quite a little excitement among the merchants and our city council. But they all got busy and you may be pretty sure it will stay at home here where it was born and raised, right near the O.A.C., where they have got the experts who make the show the success it is.

INGERSOLL.

When will we get cheaper butter? This is the question that is agitating the mind of every householder at the present time. Of the commodities of daily consumption there is none in which the purchaser seems to get so little for his money as in a pound of butter. For weeks past first quality butter has been retailing here at 35 cents per pound. When this high-water mark was first reached the prediction was made that it would be only temporary, but it would really appear to have assumed a permanent nature. The assurance was given in the leading papers some time ago that to relieve the butter famine large consignments of foreign butter would be brought in, but if any of these have arrived, they certainly have not been noticed here. Very little of the dairy product is being marketed, while a large proportion of the creamery butter is brought in. There is probably nothing that would cause greater delight to the average family than to be able to buy good butter once more for twenty-five cents, or less, per pound.

The past week was a splendid one in business circles. The mild weather which followed the blizzards of the preceding week was an incentive for people to turn out again. The country people, especially, were quick to take advantage of the improved condition of the roads, and they made frequent trips to town, both with produce and for supplies. Poultry is not being marketed in very large quantities, but the farmers have been bringing in their wood and grain, and everyone knows that when the farmers come to town trade is always better.

C. C. L. Wilson, manager of the Ingersoll Packing Co., who was recently nominated by the Liberals of South Oxford as their standard-bearer for the next provincial election, has declined the nomination, owing to business responsibilities. Mr. Wilson's nomination was unanimous and the enthusiasm and harmony which prevailed at the meeting were striking tributes to his executive ability and far-reaching popularity.

The Ingersoll board of trade has reorganized for the present year and a period of unprecedented activity is anticipated. At the reorganization meeting there was a splendid rally of representative citizens, a feature which indicates that a lively interest is being taken in the work of the board. Much important work in the direction of industrial expansion can be accomplished by a live board of trade, and Ingersoll is one of the towns in Ontario that has vim and push and is anxious to become bigger and better in every respect. There are many encouraging signs at the present time and every effort will be made to gain one or more substantial industries during the year. Business men, above all others, should know the advantages of a larger number of industries, and not only here, but everywhere, they should join in the movement to build up their respective towns.

It is an old saying "that the poor are always with us" the truth of which cannot be questioned. But Ingersoll has been fortunate this year in comparison with other places. Speaking at the board of trade meeting last week, J. A. Coulter, president and manager of the John Morrow Screw Co., Limited, stated that he believed there was less poverty and fewer men idle in Ingersoll than in any other town in the province. He gave it as his opinion that there were not over fifty men out of employment here. This is certainly very gratifying to the merchants—in fact, everyone—when it is considered that in many places, some of them no larger than Ingersoll, hundreds have been out of work for months.

H. D. McCarty, grocer, who served as chairman of the board of education very acceptably last year, has retired from that body. Mr. McCarty was a valued member of the board for several years and has always evinced a keen interest in educational matters as well as civic affairs generally. On the eve of his retirement he banquetted his colleagues at Brooks Bros.' parlors, and a delightful social period was spent.

KINGSTON.

Our street cars were tied up for a week and some of our influential citizens waited on the City Council asking them to do the part they were responsible for, clean the snow off the streets and the company would, according to agreement, clean the tracks. A thousand of the unemployed got to work and made the snow fly. The greatest sufferers by the late snow storms were the poor delivery horses and woe betide the driver who acts cruelly to his horse if he is brought up before Magistrate Farrell.

Our Chinamen had their New Year's big time and they enjoyed themselves. They paid up all their debts and filled up on roast chicken, mushrooms, wine, fruits and candies.

It would be a good thing if a lot of Canadian people would follow their example and pay up. If a Chinaman sells out his laundry and owes you a bill his successor will pay it up cheerfully.

Kenneth H. Munroe, of the Jacob Biscuit Co., is taking an extended tour of Europe, combining business and pleasure. His last card came from Inverness. He will have a lot to say when he comes back. I expect to see two columns in The Grocer from his pen. This would save him a lot of lectures for all his friends will expect a private discourse about his narrow escapes, etc.

Many of our grocers and their employes got valentines, generally one centers and with pretty rough hits in the form of poetry.

Mr. Thickson, of Kilgour Bros., Toronto, bagged a lot of orders here last week. He is popular and one of the kind of gripmen who get acquainted at once. He was a grocer behind the counter once, that's why. They make the best travelers.

The McLaren Cheese Co. are demonstrating in the store of Ridden & Dyde, dispensing jelly and peanut butter. The demand for peanut butter has increased since they put the price down to 10 and 15 cents. The number of jelly powders is increasing and will soon catch up to the baking powders.

The fact of wholesalers selling to consumers is a great injustice to the retailer and retailers should boycott such. It is penny wise and pound foolish for, although retailers may keep quiet, they have sense enough to hold their orders for the straight wholesaler. I know of a wholesaler here who refused a large order from one of our hotels.

LONDON.

Trade, both wholesale and retail, continues quiet, bad roads affecting both. Teas are still advancing and sugars, coffees and other staples are firm. Travelers in on Saturday spoke most optimistically of the outlook, and are confident that as soon as the weather settles down and the roads improve, business will begin to hum. The same spirit of cheerfulness prevails in retail circles.

The rapid advance in the price of teas during the past couple of months is causing some uneasiness among the trade, as it is now apparently only a short time before the 25-cent goods will disappear from the market and the 30-cent line will be the lowest-priced obtainable. One dealer stated to-day that he had only enough 25-cent tea to last him another week and that after that he would be compelled to raise the price. There will still be a 25-cent tea, but the grocers believe that there will be very little of its used on account of the poor quality. Two reasons for the advance are given. One is that Russia formerly obtained most of its tea from Japan, but is now getting it from Ceylon, which is the source of most of the tea consumed here. The other reason is that India tea growers have found the rubber plant a much more profitable crop and are consequently diminishing their tea plantations and going more into rubber growing. The advance is four to five cents on Ceylon teas and about three cents on Japans and will affect the cheaper goods much more than the more expensive, because much larger quantities of the cheaper qualities are consumed.

The aldermen of London are moving in the direction of having the law so amended that bakers will be compelled to make bread of the weight of two and four pounds to the loaf. The Toronto council has been approached on the subject, and until it has been heard from no definite action will be taken. Local bakers meanwhile are up in arms over the suggestion and declare they will fight such a proposal to the death.

A downward tendency in the price of butter is noticeable, first-class creamery being sold on the market last week at 25 cents a pound.

The committee having charge of the arrangements for the grocers' banquet on the 27th inst. reports everything going on nicely. Already some seventy-five acceptances of invitations have been received and a big attendance is assured. The musical programme will be a feature, and among the expected speakers are the local members of the commons and legislature and the mayor.

SASKATOON.

About two months ago the restaurant belonging to W. H. Gains was wiped out by fire. This week Mr. Gains opened new premises on Twentieth Street, with lunch counter and grill room, and is now ready to wait on the hungry as before. Mr. Gains has shown much enterprise in thus starting up so soon as it is said that in the recent fire he lost every cent he had.

The Hub cigar store has been fitted with a fine row of wall casings specially made for the handling of tobaccos, cigars and cigarettes. The new fittings are twenty feet in length, with glass front compartments and sliding doors, which may be removed for cleaning purposes. One feature of the arrangement is a small panel which slips below the different tiers and is fitted with a heavy removable felt pad, which by being kept damp allows a well regulated moisture to rise up through the case. Fred Mackinnon is the proprietor and the new arrangement is a vast improvement to the store.

Very little can be said regarding the grocery business this week, but the usual trade is being done at the stores, which is in keeping with the season of the year.

Some discussion is taking place just now in Prince Albert regarding the size of loaf which the bakers should make. The regulation size has been two pounds but the city council is preparing a by-law to make the size one and one-half pounds. The new by-law has been given its first reading, but the matter has been laid over in the meantime. A motion was passed that all the bakers in the city be notified to appear at the next meeting of the council to discuss the subject.

The Prince Albert board of trade has been granted $3,500 from the city for the purpose of carrying on its work during the present year. Much good work has been done in the past and this year it is hoped to push the advertising campaign still further.

The annual meeting has been held of the shareholders of the Farmers' Milling & Elevator Co., Ltd. R. S. Cook, president of the company, presided, and the balance sheet showed a profit of $3,763. The meeting was well attended and the shareholders were satisfied with the good showing the mill had made since it was put in operation less than a year ago.

VANCOUVER.

As far as features go in the local situation this week the scarcity of onions may be mentioned. These are difficult to get even at good prices and all that is available is Oregon stock, which retails at about five cents per pound. It will be another month at least, and more likely about a month and a half before the Australian onions arrive on the market and by that time the price will be stiff.

Local eggs are moving well, and as pointed out last week the continuation of the mild weather will mean a depreciation in eastern glycerine stock. This winter has been a mild one, and the Pacific coast spring is at hand, so it is not probable that there will be anything much of a cold spell. Locals sell at from 35 to 37½ wholesale, while eastern bring about 25 cents.

Hams and bacon are easy, and there are no changes in butter. There is no shortage of potatoes at present, though the Ashcroft, which is the favorite, go at from $28 to $30 per ton. Many of the lower mainland farmers have stocks of locals on hand, and at the market at New Westminster about $18 per ton was the price asked.

In the potato line, word comes from Dawson that the native article is beginning to loom up on the market there. Large amounts of potatoes have been shipped from Vancouver in past years, but with heavy freight charges, the people in the Yukon have tried to grow what they can. It has been estimated that fifteen per cent. of all the freight going into Dawson comprises potatoes, but according to the outlook this figure will be considerably reduced in the next few years. The Yukon people are favoring local spuds, with the result that gardeners are beginning to plant. One Dawson man will lay out twenty acres this spring in potatoes, and others, seeing the possibility of a good market, are planning large acreages. Some of the Dawson grocers are selling nothing but native potatoes this winter, and are meeting with success.

Up in the Yukon is where eggs are gold nuggets this time of year. Outside eggs have stiffened slightly, but advices do not say what the price is. It may be judged, however, when it is stated that after ranch eggs have taken a drop they were down to the low price of two dollars and a half a dozen, retailing in some of the restaurants at 75c. for two eggs.

Once in a while one hears of the benefits enjoyed by those south of the boundary line in comparison with those who live in Canadian territory. That the trusts make the consumer contribute liberally to their millions, which go to some European in a marriage trade, is shown by the statement of a visitor here. He comes from a small town near Spokane, Eastern Washington, and says that the people pay $2 a can for Eocene oil, and $1.75 for Pearl. After paying a heavy duty, Eocene sells here for $1.75 and Pearl for $1.65. There 12½ lbs. of sugar are given for a dollar, while here it is about 17 lbs. These, he said, are examples of the prices paid for staples controlled by combinations.

California vegetables are coming in freely, and the shipment which arrived this week by train is in very fine shape. The quality is much better by car than by boat, though in the latter instance the freight is much cheaper. Prices are high, cauliflowers bringing 25c. retail, radishes 10c. per bunch, and so on, but green goods are pretty nice this time of year and like the farmer in the joke, we must have them.

Apples are held in good quality and fair stocks at rather high prices. As a consequence there have been some importations from Eastern Washington. A couple of carloads have arrived lately, and it is possible to get a good cooking apple at from $1.25 to $1.50 per box. Good table brands can be had in locals and Wenatchee at about $2.

It is peculiar to note the varying success of creameries in different parts of the province. While the Victoria Creamery Association, on Vancouver Island, reported an excellent year at its annual meeting of a week ago, there is the complaint from Armstrong, in the Okanagan Valley that the creamery there is not accorded sufficient patronage in the summer, with the result that now, when butter is in great demand at good prices, the creamery has none to offer. Early last fall, the Armstrong creamery shareholders decided to close the plant, but a few of the directors got active and kept it in operation during the winter under lease. It is expected that a more general interest will be taken in the institution during the coming summer.

Organization business has been completed by the Enderby Fruit and Produce Association, in the Okanagan. It is the intention of the association to form a part of the B. C. Fruit and Produce Association, having its central office at Revelstoke. With good, responsible men in charge, this should prove a boon to the farmers and fruit growers in the vicinity of Enderby.

The last weekly auction held in connection with the market at New Westminster, was the best for several weeks. A number of fine dairy cows went under the hammer, and brought reasonable prices.

A peculiar feature has arisen in connection with the hop-growing business in Washington state, but it is hardly expected that it will have any effect on the business in British Columbia. In this province a considerable acreage is in hops at Agassiz and Chilliwack. So many prohibition enactments are before the National Congress that over 1,000 individual telegrams have been received by the Brewers' Association, protesting that the passing of these will seriously menace the hop-growing on the Pacific coast. Most of the hops grown in British Columbia are marketed in England, though at times some are sold in the United States, the growers being principally men from San Francisco.

MONTREAL.

In following up the suggestion made by a Point St. Charles grocer recently in regard to forming an English-speaking section of the Retail Grocers' Association, several calls were made upon the retail grocery trade in this connection, and in nearly every case the matter was received in a most favorable manner.

The idea is to hold meetings whereat the English language would be used, and to work in perfect harmony with the present association. As it is at present the business of the Retail Grocers' Association is carried on solely in the French language, and, as a consequence, the English speaking grocers, many of whom are not conversant with the French language, do not attend the meetings and thus are handicapped in the knowledge of what is going on. It is the general opinion that if an English section was formed it would be to the betterment of both sections. One would keep the other posted on their respective proceedings.

Business in Montreal this week has been brisk, despite the general high prices which rule. Butter is at a premium owing to the bad condition of the country roads, the farmers being unable to reach the markets. Eggs also are at a high price. Fresh laid, which are scarce, are quoted as high as 45c. a dozen.

The general high cost of living is being keenly felt by the working class. High class grocers report business as being as good as ever among the higher class of trade, although the payments are slower than usual. This is in consequence of the recent stringency in the money market, the big merchant or broker having felt the effect of the panic, are inclined to let their debts run on for a little, reserving as much cash as possible for their business, knowing that the stringency was to be only temporary.

The middle classes have not been affected to any extent as there has been steady employment for the office man and others fitting a like sphere, right through.

NEW CANADIAN FACTORY

Large American Can Company Attracted by Growth of Canning Industry—Establishing a Modern Building and Equipment at Niagara Falls.

One of the most evident proofs of the remarkable growth of the Canadian canning industry is seen in the fact that recently a large American company, the Sanitary Can Co., of New York, has been attracted by prospects of business here, have established a Canadian branch of their company and are completing a modern factory and equipment at Niagara Falls.

This company has had a remarkable growth in the United States during the last few years. A daily capacity of 15,000 cans has grown until its capacity in 1907 was about 600,000 cans. The original plant at Fairport, N.Y., has grown to be one of the finest can plants in America. This plant has its own machine shop, generates its own power for heating and lighting, is equipped throughout with sprinkler system, has its own private telephone exchange, large can and tin plate warehouses, and is thoroughly equipped with modern appliances for making up-to-date cans. The plant at Indianapolis, Indiana, is of reinforced concrete construction, and is admitted to be one of the finest manufacturing plants in the city of Indianapolis. The factory at Bridgeton, N.J., is of cement block construction, and is modern in every respect.

The plant of the Canadian branch of this company is located at Niagara Falls, Ontario, and is now nearing completion. The manufacturing building is built of brick, three storeys in height, with dimensions of 60x175 feet. This plant will be operated by electric power, and will be complete in every detail. The admirable location of this plant in the centre of the fruit and vegetable district of Canada, together with the fine shipping facilities afforded by its location on the Michigan Central Railway, will assure packers of prompt shipment of cans when needed. This plant will be managed by James S. Carmer, who has been connected with the Sanitary Can Company of the United States.

The Sanitary can differs from the cap-hole can in that the entire end of the can is open for filling, and that the can is sealed without the use of solder or acid. The can, after filling, is sealed by making a perfectly air-tight package, which is not only more sanitary, but at the same time more attractive than the can sealed with solder. The advantage of the Sanitary can lies in the fact that goods can be more easily and more carefully filled through the open end than through the cap-hole with its sharp edge, which will necessarily result in the crushing and tearing of goods forced through it. This is particularly the case in the packing of tomatoes. Tomatoes packed in the Sanitary can can be packed whole, and will open whole, the fruit not having been torn to pieces by being forced through a cap-hole. Syrup goods such as pears, peaches, etc, packed in this way are not only packed whole, but when the can is opened, no black specks are seen, because of syrup having been scorched by hot capping steels; the fact that the Sanitary can is sealed without the use of heat will account for this.

The Sanitary enamel-lined can is used for the packing of red fruits and goods of strong acidity. It is a well-known fact that when goods of color are packed in tin, there is a chemical action takes place between the acid of the fruit and the tin, resulting in a bleaching out of contents of can. The enamel-lining of the Sanitary enamel-lined can prevents goods from coming in direct contact with tin, and this action cannot take place. Strawberries, raspberries, beets, red cherries, etc., packed in the Sanitary enamel-lined can, have the same natural color and flavor as the fresh fruit. There has been no chemical action and consequently no bleaching.

Markets and Market Notes

Several Important Changes in Staple Lines This Week—Sugar and Beans Declined—Lines of Tobacco Advanced—Notes From the World's Markets.

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—
Fish—Revised.
Butter—Firm.
Ham—Down ½c.
Beans—Down 10c.
Sugar—Down 10c.
Molasses—Scarce.

The feature of the markets this week is the reduction in sugar, it being down 10c. Business in this line has been slow for the past couple of weeks, but with the price reduced, an improvement is noticeable. Some tobaccos have gone up in price. Macdonald's "Napoleon" is advanced 2c per lb.; "Prince of Wales," 2c a lb. also, and his "Index" 1c. Evaporated apples are selling well at advanced prices. Beans are somewhat easier this week, as will be noticed in quotations. Butter is firm, and creamery and fresh rolls are being eagerly sought after. There is an easier feeling in hams, the price being down ½c. Some orders are still being booked for Easter, but as yet it is too early for much activity in this trade. Fish dealers are busily preparing for the Lenten season, which is now only two weeks off, and they all expect a brisk trade.

SUGAR—A drop of ten cents in sugar stimulated buying during the middle part of the week. The Canada Sugar Refining Company had not brought down their price at the time of writing, but the St. Lawrence was selling at lower figures.

CANNED GOODS

Montreal—There is little activity in canned goods worth speaking of as all the lines usually in demand at this season are moving out as they always do.

Toronto—Business passing is only fair and the recent advance seems to have had no noticeable effect. The wholesalers report that the new prices are being obtained without any difficulty.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Sugar—St. Lawrence declined 10c.
Tobacco—Advanced.
Package Teas—Advanced.
Teas—Continue strong.
Collections—Fair.

Toronto, Feb. 20, 1908.

Reports from wholesalers continue to be encouraging, and the majority report this week's business as substantially better than the transactions of the last fortnight. The financial side, too, while not altogether satisfactory, is more encouraging.

The event of the week has been the change made by the tea packing houses in their 25 and 30-cent lines of package teas. New wholesale prices are 24 and 25 cents on packages to retail at 30 cents. The advance was not a surprise, as it was well-known that the tea packing houses had been losing money on their 25-cent packages for some time, but it was not just known when the change would take place. The great advance on common teas during the last year has made this move necessary, and it is rather a cause for comment that it has not occurred before this. The abolition of the 25-cent package tea has been advocated for some time by The Grocer, and we feel that we can justly take considerable credit for the matter just consummated.

The other notable incidents of the week are the decline in St. Lawrence sugar and the advance in several lines of McDonald's tobaccos.

TEA—The opinion is expressed by some houses that the recent advance in package teas will have a beneficial effect on the sale of bulk teas for some time, at least. It cannot be said, however, that this is general.

Reports from the primary and British markets point to a continuance of and even a strengthening of the present high prices. A report from a reliable London house, dated Feb. 6th, says of the present situation:

"Owing to the two million increase in China imports last month, the stocks and bond show a decrease of only two millions on those of 1907. It may well be doubted, however, if these arrivals of China are likely to have much influence on the course of the market, for the teas are mostly of a very common description, and of a type which the public have previously refused to accept in their blends, as may be gathered from the low bids which have been offered by the trade. The details of total clearances given by the Brokers' Association, showing a deficiency of one million lbs., do not agree with the customs daily entries, which are fully equal to last year, so that the official figures when issued should disclose a more favorable position.

COFFEE—Local trade is fairly good, at steady prices.

SUGAR—A drop of 10c in St. Lawrence granulated is noted since last report. The general opinion seems to be that this is a result of overstock and is only temporary. Other lines are steady.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES—Business continues quiet at prevailing prices. Some houses report a brisk demand for goldenette, which, for 2's, is quoted at $1.30, but other lines are quiet.

RICE AND TAPIOCA—Only an ordinary staple business is being done on low stocks, tapioca, pa(ticularly, being scarce. Recent cables from primary markets report that shipments of new crop Patna rice will be on a very high basis, even threepence above last year's high prices being mentioned. This will place this variety on what is perhaps a record basis.

SPICES—Only a fair amount of business is passing at steady prices.

BEANS—Prices are on an even basis with last week's quotations, though the market is less steady, and there seems to be an easier tendency evident.

HIDES AND WOOL—The market is in very unsatisfactory condition again, in sympathy with American flurries. The quality of receipts is not encouraging and little business is passing.

RETAIL GROCERS MEET.

Toronto Association Discussed Matters of Trade Interest on Monday Evening.

The Toronto Retail Grocers' Association held their regular monthly meeting on Monday evening in their rooms in the Temple Building.

The feature of the meeting was the presentation to retiring president Ben. Snow of a very handsome cabinet of cutlery. President Fred Thorn made the presentation in his usual graceful manner and Mr. Snow replied in a characteristic way which expressed his heartfelt appreciation of the remembrance.

Reports from the association's "At Home" on the evening of the 12th were very satisfactory and showed the function to have been a success financially as well as socially.

Several matters of trade interest were discussed during the evening, one of them the change made in package teas by the packing houses. Several present expressed themselves as against the change and announced their intention of pushing bulk teas in opposition to the package.

The matter of securing new members for the association and of generally strengthening it was also discussed.

Dairy Produce and Provisions

General Dullness Characterizes Markets—Cheese is Firm and Butter Advancing—Hams and Lard Are Easier in Tone.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

Firm markets rule again this week in cheese, but there is not as much activity in the article as there was a week ago. Prices continue about the same, dealers asking around 13c to 13¼c, with some willing to take ¼c less than the lowest, and others who will not part with holdings unless they make the even ½c.

In the Old Country there has not been any material change in this market. Our prices have for some time been rather too high to greatly interest those in a position to buy on the other side, and it is apparent that they are awaiting a decline in quotations cabled by Canadian firms.

Business, however, is not quite at a standstill, for there are always some sales being made, small though they may be in the majority of instances. Holders have succeeded in getting a good price for what thus passed out of their hands. Getting it down to a fine point, holders are not very keen to dispose of what they have in store, and many of them do not care to offer anything large. They are quite content to sell in small lots so as to scatter the small supply they have over as large an area of customers as possible.

Whether stocks of cheese will last out until the new make is a question which none can decide. There are some houses who have fairly large lots in store, but it is impossible to obtain from everybody information as to the size of these holdings—which is not otherwise than could be expected—and consequently one cannot more than guess at what stocks in Montreal amount to this month. It is quite evident from the position taken by sellers that stocks are very considerably below last year.

Receipts of cheese last week amounted to 125 boxes, against 44 boxes previous week and 137 boxes same week last year. Total receipts for the season amount to 2,053,760 boxes, against 2,349,407 boxes same period 1906-07.

During the past week there has been more or less excitement in the butter market, due to the firmness that has characterized it. Prices are still very high and all things point to their maintenance, for the time being at least, which is rather paradoxical, considering the time of year it is. Those who expected prices to drop about this season were disappointed.

Dealers are asking 31c for finest fall creamery, though they will take less money. Current receipts range all the way from 28½c to 30c, according to quality, quantity, and other such considerations. Dairy is quoted 26c to 27c.

Reports which have reached here from the other side would indicate almost a famine in butter there. It has been known all along that they were none too well supplied, but it was also generally thought that the amount of New Zealand butter going into England was such as would keep them going for the time being at least. It is now apparent that this was all that was accomplished by the New Zealand article. Stocks did not accumulate at all, and with a market almost bare it is not surprising that prices should be very firm, with an advancing tendency, rather than a declining, as is usual at this season.

Many Canadian dealers had lots of New Zealand cheese on the water coming to Canada. They expected to bring it in here and sell it on a 30c market, which they could do, but seeing the state of affairs in the United Kingdom they did not think again of bringing the shipment through to Canada, but placed it on the Old Country market and disposed of it at good profit. Some quantities of New Zealand, Siberian and Irish factory which was held in Montreal was also reshipped to England and there sold at sufficient profit to pay freight both ways, carrying charges and a profit.

Dairy is as scarce as ever. Local trade is brisk enough and dealers would experience not the slightest trouble in disposing of all their holdings in one day if they desired to clean out, but they are wary and will not sell except in small lots.

Receipts of butter last week were 1,076 packages, against 225 packages previous week and 1,732 packages same week a year ago. Total receipts amount to 411,658 packages, against 606,748 packages.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

Conditions prevalent in the Canadian hog markets are slightly more encouraging this week than at last reports. Shipments to the British market were not so abnormally large last week as for the two weeks previous, and though it is still in a very weak condition it has recovered to some slight extent. Formerly the British market was swamped with Danish and American hogs. This week, consequent on considerably lighter deliveries, it is open for at least light shipments from other markets. Last week's Danish "killings" aggregated 36,000, which is fully ten thousand less than the previous week. American deliveries, while large, were also not equal to the previous week.

Business is still prevailingly quiet among Canadian packers. The storms which blocked the roads so as to practically cripple deliveries for two weeks has left effects which are not yet overcome, and the supply of hogs sent in has been comparatively light. Prices, too, are not particularly encouraging for many deliveries. They are on practically the same basis as last week, viz., for fed and watered stock, $4.90, and for hogs at factory, $5.30 to $5.40, according to distance. The next week will likely see some change in the situation.

Conditions in the American markets are summed up in the following weekly report of the New York Journal of Commerce:

Liquidation has been the order of the day in hog products, the past week as well as in grain, more in sympathy with wheat than with corn, as the latter has been held up by a bull pool, and values of which have not been readjusted to after-panic conditions and the general depression in trade, both at home and abroad, which has reduced the consumption of wheat and hog products to a point that packers have abandoned their early crop ideas that 4c. hogs and products were necessarily too cheap to continue the balance of the year. The heavy increase of stocks during January of 100,000,000 pounds, and the continued enormous receipts of hogs and the plentiful supply back in the country, have now convinced them that there will be no reaction in prices before the summer months, by which time it is feared stocks will have become burdensome instead of so light as to cause a recovery in prices before another packing season. This and the indisposition of the trade to buy beyond immediate wants and of exporters to take beyond after-panic purchases for forward shipment, have made the spot markets weaker than the future, with increasing pressure to sell all these products.

PROVISION MARKETS

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—Dullness characterizes the market for provisions this week. Hams are slightly easier, as will be seen from quotations. Lard is easy. Some orders for Easter are being booked, but they are few in number.

BUTTER—The butter market is very firm, owing to short supplies. A slight advance over last week's prices is noticeable. There is scarcely any creamery, and very few fresh rolls coming in, and a butter famine is likely to occur in a couple of weeks at the present rate. New York and Great Britain prices are so high that there can be no importations from these places, in fact, some quantity has been exported to England.

PROVISIONS—Business is fair on the market. The demand, while not sharp, is considered satisfactory for this time of the year. Backs are scarce. An easier feeling is noticeable in lard, a drop all around of ½c being registered. Otherwise prices remain materially the same.

BUTTER—Prices have been advanced 1c on creamery prints, and 2c on solids. The market is extremely firm on account of the strong British demand, and the shortage of stocks here. Choice dairy prints are short, with the result that prices have advanced a point.

BUSINESS IMPROVING IN OSHAWA

C. H. Crysdale, of Oshawa, was in Toronto this week one one of his periodical business trips. Busy man and all that Mr. Crysdale is he has for some years found time to pay a good deal of attention to municipal matters in his town. He says that business is beginning to improve in Oshawa and the outlook is brighter on account of the fact that some of the large manufacturing industries there which were running on short time have increased the number of days on which their factories are running. In fact, most of them are now running on full time. During the last year or two a number of immigrants have settled in the town and during the winter some 65 families have had to be looked after. The way in which the town looks after them is somewhat unique. Several of the most prominent citizens donated substantial sums of money and this, instead of being used for charitable purposes, was utilized for paying the men for work they did. For example, the town got in a lot of stone and had this broken, remuneration for which came in the shape of provisions and household necessities in general, which were bought with the money which had been subscribed by private citizens. Then some of the water works mains were paid for in this way, so that instead of being a burden to the town these indigent people were really utilized for furthering the interests of the town. There are about half a dozen families which have proved so worthless that they are to be deported.

MOVING TO NEW WAREHOUSE.

The fine new warehouses and offices of the F. T. James Co., wholesale fish merchants, Toronto, are rapidly being finished. During the past week some of the stock has been removed from their present premises on Colborne St. to the new headquarters at the corner of Church and Colborne. The renovations and improvements are being pushed forward as quickly as possible in anticipation of a big Lenten business.

Jobbers Don't Know

We do not think that jobbers half appreciate how hard it is for a retailer to sell any Pork and Beans except Clark's, and how a retailer who does not handle them is apt to lose trade. If they did they would give up other lines and confine their energies to our celebrated goods.

Clark's Pork and Beans are as necessary to a well assorted stock as sugar or tea, and whatever else may be neglected, keep up your supply of "Clark's."

THE FLOUR AND CEREAL MARKETS

Wheat Depressed Through Reports From Argentine But Government Purchases Have Steadying Effects—Impassable Roads Affect Deliveries.

Prices in Canadian cereal markets continue fairly steady, though the general feeling is rather different than at last reports.

The wheat markets, for instance, have been depressed for some days, principally as a result of the reports of large crops and shipments from the Argentine Republic.

The appearance of the government in the grain markets as a buyer on a large scale has however kept the markets steady in the face of rather violent fluctuations on the Chicago exchange. It is estimated that government aid will be needed in the purchase of 1,400,000 bushels of wheat, 1,650,000 bushels of oats, and 300,000 bushels of barley. The announcement that the government would buy at least this much grain was not the only bullish factor developed by the appeal to Ottawa, for the official representations made to the Minister of the Interior placed on record statements concerning the failure of the crop in extensive areas which had not been widely realized before. The restrictions placed upon the grades of seed grain which can be used in the west are apt to make the task of procuring a sufficient quantity an expensive operation, and the sum appropriated, $2,850,000, will not be too large. So much depends upon the next crop that the government will no doubt receive valuable support from the grain dealers and exporters, and the expedition with which the situation has been handled will redound to the credit of both the federal and new provincial administrations. It is unfortunate that the great falling off in the Ontario oat crop will probably make it necessary for the government's agents to go into foreign markets to complete their requirements for seed oats.

The cereal markets continue fairly brisk though deliveries of supplies from country points have been very small on account of the almost impassable condition of the roads. Considerable shipping business is being done locally.

CO-OPERATIVE BILL DELAYED

Will Probably Not Be Brought Up At This Session—Strong Opposition Has Developed Among Retail Merchants.

From our Special Ottawa Correspondent

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—A curious situation of affairs has developed in connection with the business of the House, one which led to a vigorous protest on the part of certain members last week. Your readers are doubtless well aware that facilities are provided in the rules of both Houses for the passage of private bill legislation. Of course, it is expected that the notices and petitions are regular in the first place, and are presented within the time called for by the rules, and after that it is generally plain sailing.

Of public bills there are two classes, those which proceed from the Government others which are presented by private members. It is with regard to the latter that difficulty has arisen.

Under the rules adopted a year ago, Thursdays, after the first four weeks of the session, are automatically absorbed by the Government for its business. It so happens that Thursday is the only day in the week upon which public bills in the hands of private members have precedence, and as Thursday is now a Government day it has not been possible for Mr. Monk to reach his bill respecting co-operation. It may be that the Thursday order of business heretofore existing may be adopted for Monday, because Parliament can change its order of business as often as it pleases, but in the event of such a change not being made, the co-operation measure is now effectively killed for the session.

I asked Mr. Lemieux this week if he were prepared to impliment his promise of last session to take over Mr. Monk's bill as a government measure. Mr. Lemieux stated that he was as warm a supporter as ever of the principle of co-operation, but so far he had not found an over-whelming demand for it. On the contrary, he realized that there was a very strong feeling against it on the part of the retail merchants of the country, especially with regard to the provision which would make it so easy for a co-operative society to become incorporated. Personally, he was not desirous of forcing his views respecting co-operation on the people of Canada unless they wanted the measure, and therefore, for the present at any rate, it would be left an open question whether or not the Government should take hold of Mr. Monk's bill or introduce a somewhat different one.

From the statement of the Minister it would appear that it is now up to the retail merchants to make their influence felt if they desire to block this legislation, or at any rate to minimize it to such an extent that the retail trade of the country will not be injured. In the meantime Mackenzie King, Deputy Minister of Labor, is gathering the latest statistics and reports of co-operative societies in different parts of the world for the use of parliament should the measure be taken up at this or some other session.

F. D. Monk., M.P., in expressing his thanks for a copy of The Canadian Grocer containing the article on co-operation says:

"I think the co-operative companies you mention in the article as having failed were as a rule, only co-operative in name; they were, in reality, either firms or joint stock companies, but they differed absolutely in principle from real co-operative societies. The underlying principle of co-operation lies in the fact that the society can only deal with its own members and this is no doubt the reason why co-operative societies, real ones, have never gone into bankruptcy." Mr. Monk, it may be mentioned, is as keen upon the subject as ever, and if the rules of the House will permit, will press his measure this session no matter whether the Government decides to deal with the subject or not.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Business Opening Up Better in Fruits —Potatoes Have An Easier Feeling —Anticipated Big Business in Fish During Lent.

There has been a much better feeling in the fruit market. The mild weather has brightened matters up considerably and a return to normal conditions will soon result. Oranges have been fairly active, though no advances have occurred. Bitter oranges are in good demand for marmalade purposes. An easier feeling is noticeable in lemons. Apples are firmer. Grape fruit is higher and good stuff is rather scarce. Cranberries are dull and short in quantity. The expected tumble in potatoes has happened, a decline of 5 cents for both Delawares and Ontarios being the feature of the market. The market has taken a weak turn and is decidedly easy. A fair demand is reported for domestic vegetables, fine samples of imported lettuce, tomatoes, strawberries and such lines are in evidence. They are not moving freely. Nor can they be expected to at such prices.

An unusually heavy run on fish is being looked forward to during the Lenten season. Prices, while exceedingly firm, are not quotably higher. Circumstances will in all probability cause a more or less general use. Grave fears are being entertained with regard to the available supplies of fish. A shortage seems likely, and it is expected that Boston will have to be drawn upon for supplies of haddocks and cod for a time.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—Business in green fruits has been a shade better this week and a firmer tone is evident. Valencia oranges have advanced in price, being as high as $3.50 per case. Other lines are in fair demand at the old quotations. Bitter oranges are in good request for marmalade making.

VEGETABLES—Business has improved slightly this week. A firmer tone in the market is evident. Mushrooms, green beans, egg plant, Florida tomatoes and sweet potatoes have all been advanced in price, while Boston lettuce is reduced. Other lines are unchanged.

FISH—Business continues very brisk in fish this week. Owing to the constant demand for fresh fish, a shortness is feared for the Lent season. It is expected that for the first two weeks of Lent it will be necessary to get supplies of haddock and cod from Boston, which will mean a much firmer market for these lines, but after that there is likely to be a new supply, and this, it is hoped, will relieve the situation. There are no boiled lobsters on the market. Some lines of pickled fish are off the market also.

TORONTO.

GREEN FRUITS—There has been a healthier tone to the market this week due to the milder weather. Demand is opening up again satisfactorily and should soon recover its normal character. Oranges have been a shade more active. Prices are not materially changed. Floridas are getting low. Bitter oranges have been quite strong in demand for marmalade purposes. A slightly easier feeling is found in lemons. Grape fruit remains high. Cranberries are quiet, stocks being contracted. Apples are much firmer and are recovering from their demoralization. Bananas are dull and unchanged.

VEGETABLES—As predicted last week, the potato market has taken an easy turn. Prices have declined 5 cents and a further slump is practically assured. More favorable weather conditions have opened up supplies. Turnips are reported scarce. Parsnips are more plentiful. Many lines of fancy imported stuff are on the market, but are decidedly slow. Some extra fine lots of cucumbers, carrots, strawberries and lettuce are in evidence. Some changes in prices are noticeable.

FISH—Business is slowly recovering its normal proportions. The effects of the recent snowstorms are still felt in outside points, country roads being in many cases impassable. With the approach of Lent, however, a firmer feeling is noticeable in the market. Prices have not advanced any but the sharp demand that is assured in a short time will likely stiffen prices. Supplies are satisfactory at present, but there are fears of a marked shortage in finnan haddie, cod and a few other lines.

A new high-class grocery store has been opened at 390 Logan Ave., Winnipeg, by J. Brown and Arthur Bertrand. Mr. Brown is a recent arrival in Winnipeg from Glasgow, Scotland, where he had a long experience in the grocery and provision business. Mr. Bertrand was formerly with the Hudson's Bay Co., in their grocery department, and later with F. E. Weldon Co., Winnipeg. His experience with these two firms taught him the wisdom of handling high-class goods. The new firm states that it intends to specialize in goods of western manufacture.

WAREHOUSE ON WHARVES?

Montreal Dealers Surprised—Say Such a Building is Unnecessary.

Members of the Montreal Produce Association were greatly surprised when shown an extract from the report of the Dairy and Cold Storage Commission, just brought down in parliament, recommending the erection of a large storage warehouse on the wharves at Montreal. It was an entirely new point to all of them, and several declared without reservation that it was needless for there was already sufficient excellent cold storage accommodation in Montreal, and that the carrying out of this recommendation would be like carrying coals to Newcastle. They were at a loss to know whence the agitation had come. A. A. Ayer, president of the association, further declared that a large warehouse was an impracticability; that no railway could carry to it, delivering to the different consignees of whom there might be four or five for each carload, some hundred or hundred and fifty carloads a day. This amount was not excessive for a flush day and it had to be handled box by box. Warehouses in different centres were necessary. There were now six cold storage establishments in the city, three semi-private, and three public, and none of these were full last year. Four would not be taxed to their capacity. "I don't believe that one case of butter or cheese was damaged last year when being transferred from the warehouse to the vessel, or from the railway to the warehouse," he said. "When cheese or butter is properly cooled it is several hours before it is affected by the heat."

NEW FRUIT JAR FACTORY.

Large American Firm Will Manufacture An Improved Jar Here.

The Schram Automatic Sealer Co., of St. Louis, Mo., whose fruit jars have made such an impression upon the dealers and housekeepers of the United States, has opened up business in Canada. A new company under Canadian charter, with associated Canadian capitalists, was formed last week and will be known as the Schram Automatic Sealer Co., of Canada, Limited. A. L. Schram, vice-president, Leo. A. D. Drey, manager, and D. Sommers, president of the Canadian company, have been in Canada for some time past, looking for a suitable site for the manufacture of the sealer caps, and Waterloo, Ont., was selected. The officials of the company have also been looking around for suitable sites for the location of a glass plant and as several desirable ones were inspected, it is expected that the selection will shortly be announced.

It is welcome news to learn that another United States industry has decided to open up a branch manufactory in Canada. The Schram Co.'s success across the border has been simply phenomenal, the first year's sales amounting to over 400 cars. The introduction into the Canadian market promises equally good results as the first call upon the trade brought in orders for 76 carloads. "The U.S. plant at Hillsboro, Ill., employing 250 hands, is the only fruit jar plant in operation in the United States," said Mr. Drey, "and unlike other plants, we carried over no stock. As the glass manufacture is limited to the cold seasons, we are forced to operate day and night to our utmost capacity. We cannot manufacture during the hot weather. The capacity of our Hillsboro plant is 114 jars a minute, and 120 caps, which means 14,400,000 jars in the 10 months we operate the plant. During July and August we shut down for repairs and on account of the heat. After our Canadian plant is in full operation the Canadian company intends exploiting the English, German and French markets."

The Schram Automatic Sealer Co., of Canada, Limited, claim advantages over other fruit jars and these are clearly set out in their advertisement in another part of this issue. That the jar will be a welcome one to Canadian housekeepers and consequently a profitable line for the dealer to handle, should be borne out by its popularity in the United States.

NEW BRUNSWICK TRADE NEWS

Receipts of Fruit Unusually Large—General Outlook of Fish Trade—Navigation Interrupted—St. John Notes.

(Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer.)

St. John, N.B., Feb. 17, 1908.

Business was very quiet in the local markets last week. Owing to the improved condition of the roads, produce has been coming in rather more freely. Eggs as a consequence are lower, case eggs selling now for from twenty to twenty-two cents a dozen, while for the hennery variety twenty-four to twenty-six cents a dozen is asked. Good butter is still scarce and prices are reported firmer than they were, although there is no change in the quotations. Flour and sugar remained unchanged. Large shipments of fruit are being received by local dealers almost daily. There have been more oranges handled this season than ever before. Floridas are very plentiful and are selling at from twenty cents upwards. California navels and valencias are also in good demand.

T. W. Crocker, of Newcastle, one of the largest fish dealers in the province, was in the city last week.

Mr. Crocker said that smelt fishing in the upper part of the province was good but as the season would close on the 15th of this month, it was not to be expected that there would be any great stock on hand and buyers had not asked the government for an extension.

Owing to the condition of the ice north shore fishermen had been able to do but little fishing in the early part of the season, in fact operations were not properly begun until well on in January, and consequently the season would amount to only about half what it would have been under more favorable weather conditions.

Relative to prices, Mr. Crocker said that during the soft weather smelt had sold as low as a cent and a half a pound on the ice, but were now commanding from 2½ to 3 cents, as compared with from 4 to 5 cents this time last season.

Mr. Crocker is decidedly optimistic as to the fishing trade in Canada. The Montreal market, he declares, is to-day taking five times as much fish as it did five years ago. The railways are offering splendid facilities for handling fish, which the dealers are now enabled by the use of refrigerator cars to ship in large quantities into the markets of Quebec and Ontario.

The local fish market has been almost bare of everything, with the exception of cod, haddock and smoked fish. One dealer remarked that seldom in his experience has he seen the general supply so scant, and he pointed out that existing conditions were due in a large measure to unfavorable weather. J. P. Quinn, a prominent north end fish dealer, points out that the scarcity of bait, particularly at Grand Manan, has also had its influence on the supply at St. John, and suggests that the establishment of a bait centre here, as at Halifax, would be of valuable assistance to fishermen, and therefore to the trade.

The death occurred on Feb. 7 of James H. Maguire, for many years a prosperous baker in the north end. Mr. Maguire was in his 64th year and is survived by his aged mother, two brothers and one sister.

Navigation between P. E. I. and the mainland was interrupted for a couple of days last week as both steamers on the route were stuck fast in the ice. It was the first time this winter that the steamers were held up in this way, the season being a record-breaking one.

The office and shipping staffs of the George E. Barbour Company had a jolly time on Saturday, Feb. 8, when they enjoyed a sleigh ride to Public Landing on the St. John River. They left the city in a mammoth sleigh at 2.30 o'clock, and returned about 10.30. The route was via Milledgeville and across the ice. At Belyea's Hotel a sumptuous supper was served. Toasts to the king, the firm of Geo. E. Barbour & Co., and others too numerous to mention, were honored. The outing was voted a huge success by all who attended. The committee in charge were: Fred Barbour, Percy W. Webb, and Willard Brittoin.

On the same evening a bunch of shoe clerks trimmed an aggregation of hockeyists from the wholesale grocery houses by a score of 3 to 0. The game was fast and furious and many really astonishing plays were recorded.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS

Produce Markets Are Active—Butter Advanced, Eggs Plentiful, Poultry Brought in From Ontario—Large Ship ments of Fish and Lobsters.

(By The Canadian Grocer's Special Correspondent.

Halifax, Feb. 17.—The feature of the local markets during the past week was the advance in the price of butter, creamery now being quoted at 31 cents, which is a record price in this locality. Stocks of butter have been gradually growing less, while the receipts of fresh made butter are falling off very greatly since February came in. Dealers say that the scarcity is general all around, as inquiries have been received here from Montreal jobbers, asking how much stock is held in this city and for quotations. The jobbers here declined to quote prices or sell.

Eggs have been in better supply during the past week than for some time. The demand, however, is light. In the green market they sold for thirty cents per dozen, and at retail good fresh stock could be purchased from 28 to 30 cents. A drop in the price of eggs at this season of the year is most unusual. Outside of some small shipments to the West Indies, very few eggs are being exported. There is very little doing in regard to case eggs, though fresh laid stock at the reduced price, bring sufficient to supply all the local demand.

Both the sugar and molasses markets are very quiet just now, this being the dull season in both of these lines. Sugar quotations here as as follows: Cut loaf, in barrels, $5; Extra Standard Granulated, $4.50; Austrian Granulated, $4.10; Bright Yellow, $4.30; No. 1 Yellow, $4.

The prices for molasses are. Fancy Trinidad, 36c; extra choice Porto Rico, 33c; choice Trinidad, 30c; fancy Barbados, 30c.

The West India crop this year is said to be several weeks later than usual.

The fish markets are fairly active, but business is not as brisk as other seasons at the approach of Lent. The stocks of salt mackerel are being rapidly cleaned up, most of the fish being shipped to the American market. The exports of lobsters also continue fairly heavy, most of the fish being sent alive to Boston. Large dry cod is quoted at $7.50, medium at $7 to $7.25, and large bank at $5.25. Labrador is worth $4.75. The best herring are worth from $3.75 to $4, and No. 1 mackerel are quoted at $14.

The annual meeting of the new Dominion Dairying Company, was held at Charlottetown last week. The secretary's report showed last season's work to be very satisfactory. From July to October 281,876 pounds of milk were received and 26,066 pounds of cheese manufactured. The gross value of the cheese was $3,075.78. The average price of milk per 100 pounds was $86.44. The board of directors for the ensuing year consists of F. A. Stewart, president; Silas McNeil, vice-president; Hugh McPhee, John MacLean, Daniel McPhee, A. A. McNeill, Hector MacLean, George Wilson is secretary-treasurer.

All the available poultry in the Province having been bought up the jobbers are now importing stock from Ontario. The birds which arrived this week were in excellent condition, and found a ready sale. Speaking to The Grocer the other day a Halifax dealer said: "It is a matter of general regret that the farmers of Nova Scotia cannot raise sufficient poultry to meet the demands of the local markets. This Province is conceded to be a good poultry raising country, high prices are obtained for all stock, and still the cry of scarcity continues.

"Ontario," he said, "must be a wonderful country, as the farmers there raise sufficient stock to meet all requirements, and still have hundreds of tons to export, a large proportion of which finds its way into the British markets. It is time, I think, that more attention should be given to poultry raising in Nova Scotia."

Allison Coupon Books

HERE IS HOW THEY WORK:

If a man wants credit for $10.00 and you think he is good for it, give him a $10.00 Allison Coupon Book, and have him sign the receipt or note form in front of book, which you tear out and keep. Charge him with $10.00, no trouble. When he buys a dime's worth, tear off a ten-cent coupon, and so on, until the book is used up. Then he pays the $10.00 and gets another book. No pass-books, no charging, no lost time, no errors, no disputes.

Binder Mechanism

for simplicity, ease of operation and strength is without a peer.

The frame is of cold rolled steel. The screws in the nickel-plated brass working posts are turned by bevel gears, the gear-wheels of which are of hardened steel and operated by the rod over which the key fits. The two smaller posts strengthen the binder and keep sheets in proper alignment.

No spring or rachets are used. Direct pressure after the principle of a vise, securely binds the leaves at points 1-500 of an inch apart. When locked the only way to get a leaf out of a Crain ledger is to tear it out.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH IN CAKES

& SUN PASTE STOVE POLISH IN TINS

The daily papers report that a JUDGMENT OF THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS was recently secured against———who supplied an inflammable, explosive stove polish that blew up and killed Mrs. Henry W———of Ansonia, Conn., who was using it on her stove as claimed according to directions.

Can you afford to take chances of suits which may be brought against you on account of accidents from use of inferior, inflammable stove polishes, if you sell them? We think you will say—No. But remember that Rising Sun and Sun Paste are safe in the hands of the user. They give the greatest possible satisfaction. You are on the right track when you push them.

BRADSTREET'S

Capital and Surplus, $1,500,000. Offices Throughout the Civilized World
Executive Offices: Nos. 346 and 348 Broadway, New York City, U.S.A.

THE BRADSTREET COMPANY gathers information that reflects the financial condition and the controlling circumstances of every seeker of mercantile credit. Its business may be defined as of the merchants, by the merchants for the merchants. In procuring, verifying and promulgating information no effort is spared, and no reasonable expense considered too great, that the results may justify its claims as an authority on all matters affecting commercial affairs and mercantile credit. Its offices and connections have been steadily extended, and it furnishes information concerning mercantile persons throughout the civilized world.

Subscriptions are based on the service furnished, and are available only by reputable wholesale, jobbing and manufacturing concerns, and by responsible and worthy financial, fiduciary and business corporations. Specific terms may be obtained by addressing the Company at any of its offices. Correspondence invited.

YOU KNOW WHAT IT MEANS

To Keep a Large Stable of Horses, and Work for Only One of Them. The Rest Soon Eat their Heads Off.

The grocer who handles Bulk Teas is in the same position as the owner of the large stable. He carries far more tea in stock than his trade demands. He is selling some, to be sure, but his interest and insurance account, and the deterioration which sets in with age in all kinds of tea, just about eats up the profit he makes. Is it not a very much more sensible idea to carry a well assorted stock of for which there is an active and ever increasing demand. You are then in the position of the man who has a pair of horses and plenty of profitable work for them.

This is the position you are in if you handle "SALADA" and "SALADA" only.

1 CENT A WORD

"Great Oaks from little Acorns grow"

The investment of a very small sum of money very frequently produces big financial returns. A good deal, however, depends upon the method of investment. If you have any store equipments, such as a scale, show case, counter, shelving or mirrors to sell, or are looking around to buy any of these; or if you want to engage a clerk, buy a store, a business or sell your own stock, a small want ad. in The Canadian Grocer like this:

WANTED—Responsible salesman selling to retail grocers to handle sideline paying an A1 commission; no sample to carry; circulars only. Address Box 178 CANADIAN GROCER, Toronto.

will cost you only 25 cents, or 1c per word for as many extra words as are required.

This ad. will inside of five days be in the hands of 10,000 readers, among whom may be found a buyer, seller, etc.

Try the idea.

Profitable Goods

Are the goods that are a little better than the others : goods that will make sales where the others won't. Ozo Brand Pickles are good pickles, and show their quality. We have special facilities for turning out the best pickles, and we have made the most of them. For instance, we provide the seed from which the vegetables are grown and so get the best from the start ; the cucumbers go straight from the vine to the factory, so that none of the fresh crispness is lost. We make our own vinegar and it cannot be beaten for pickling purposes. It will certainly pay you to specify that you want our goods when ordering pickles.

INSOLVENT NOTICE

In re Ed. Legare & Frere, Roxton Falls, Quebec, Insolvents.

The undersigned duly authorized by a Judgment of the Superior Court for the District of Bedford, will sell or cause to be sold by Public Auction at the Catholic Parochial Church door, in the Village of Roxton Falls, Tuesday the 3rd day of March, 1908, at the hour of one o'clock in the afternoon, the immovable properties hereunder described :

1. A lot of land of irregular form situate at Roxton Falls, known and designated under official number three hundred and fifty-seven (357) of the Cadastre for the Village of Roxton Falls, bounded to the north-east by a street known as "rue de la Riviere, to the south-west by lot No. 358, to the north-west by Notre Dame Street, and to the south-east by a river called "Riviere Noire," with a store and dependencies thereon erected.

2. A piece of ground situate at Roxton Falls, with a blacksmith shop and dependencies thereon erected, and composed : (A) of the lot known and designated under the official number three hundred and fifty-three (353) of the Cadastre for the said Village of Roxton Falls, from which must be taken off, however, a strip of eighteen feet wide in the eastern part of said lot, to start from the street called "rue de la Riviere," extending to the depth of said lot and to be parallel, the said strip to the division line between the lot No. 352 and the lot No. 353. (B) of a part of lot known and designated under official number three hundred and fifty-four (354) of the Cadastre for the said Village of Roxton Falls, bounded to the south-east by lot No. 353, to the south-west by a street called "rue de la Riviere," to the north-west by the other part of lot No. 354 belonging to Philibert Rochefort or any subsequent purchaser, and to the north-east by the railroad line.

3. A piece of ground situate in the Village of Roxton Falls, and composed : (A) of a lot of land known and designated under official number three hundred and fifty-two (352) of the Cadastre for the said Village of Roxton Falls and bounded to the front by the street known as "rue de la Riviere," with a house thereon erected ; (B) at the eastern part of lot No. 355, comprising eighteen feet wide, to start from said street extending to the depth of said lot No. 353 and parallel to the division line between lot No. 352 and lot No. 353, without any building.

4. A lot of land situate at Roxton Falls, known and designated under official number three hundred and thirty-five of the Cadastre for the said Village of Roxton Falls, having sixty-six feet frontage on Market Street by a depth of one hundred and sixty five feet, more or less, without any guarantee as to measurement, without any building.

Effective Grocery Advertising

Hints and Criticism by W. F. Ralph—The Kind of Ads. to Bring Results—Wanamaker's Emphasis of Persistency Some First-class Examples.

When a retailer advertises to the public he naturally condemns the advertising as ineffective if it does not produce direct, traceable results. Such a position is, to a large extent, very correct. Although publicity is a very valuable thing, direct results in increased sales of advertised articles are what one should strive after.

Advertising for publicity is not to be despised, and the manufacturing class depend largely upon it. It cannot be denied that the kind of advertising that makes a name synonymous with great excellence in a certain line is very effective advertising indeed. But to make his advertising fully effective, a retailer should strive after increased sales, traceable to his advertising.

That being the case, it is obvious that the "card" form of advertising, such as "John Jones, Family Grocer, 16 Main Street," is about as obsolete for retail commercial purposes as the quill pen.

Cards such as this undoubtedly have a certain publicity value, and if placed in a buyers' directory column, may even be responsible for a certain amount of direct returns. But such cards are not to be compared to the live, interesting, money-extracting ads. which are the distinguishing characteristics of the most successful retail establishments.

To get direct results, it is necessary to make direct offers. The policy followed by nearly all successful retailers is to use their newspaper space to offer some particular inducements. These merchants never let an issue of their advertising medium or mediums go by without specially emphasizing some particular items. And these successful merchants are decidedly the best examples to follow.

To specify distinct articles with every issue of your advertising medium does not mean that you must be always offering "bargains." But, as far as that goes, you will observe that all distinctly successful advertisers convey the impression that every article offered is really a "bargain"—and do it, too, without "knocking" the other fellow. You can convey the impression to your public through your advertising copy that every item you advertise is a bargain, without calling it a bargain at all. That's part of the knack of writing good copy.

The proper thing to do is to make the very most of the customary "seasons" to push "seasonable" goods. Any grocer that takes the trouble to regard his advertising expenditure as a real business getter can find "seasonable" things to specify in his advertising space from the 1st of January to the 31st of December every year.

Many retail advertisers lose faith in advertising through lack of patience. It cannot be expected that every ad. you place shall result in a mad rush of the public to your counters. But few advertisers whose business is sound and capital fairly adequate, and who back up every advertised announcement with a square deal, have ever given up advertising.

Here's what John Wanamaker, the great retail merchant, recently said about advertising:

"If there is one enterprise on earth that a 'quitter' should leave entirely alone, it is advertising. To make a success of advertising one must be prepared to stick like a barnacle on a boat's bottom. He should learn before he begins it that he must spend money—lots of it. Somebody must tell him also that he cannot hope to reap results commensurate with his expenditure early in the game. Advertising doesn't jerk; it pulls. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It increases day by day and year by year, until it exerts an irresistible power."

"Advertising doesn't jerk; it pulls." That's the point, it pulls. If you advertise right, and in the right place, and keep on doing so, you'll get there sure.

"Hornor's Busy Corner," Brandon, Man., has sent in a couple of circular advertisements for criticism. These ads. are printed on sheets about 12 by 15 inches, and appeal to the buyer chiefly on account of price. For this form of advertising these two ads. are very good. Necessarily, they have little of typographical elegance, and are printed on ordinary newspaper stock. Providing these circulars are read, they should dispose of a lot of goods—which is, after all, their main purpose, and if they do this they are good ads.

We can offer no improvement to these circulars except, perhaps, with regard to their typographical appearance. This is not such as would appeal to the more refined class of people. This class—as regards groceries—is pretty nearly as susceptible to the appeal of low price as any other class of people, but might be repulsed by the coarse appearance of these circulars. But we should judge that the nature of the special sale which these circulars advertise might not justify the increased expense of a nicer typographical job, although if the circulars were neater in appearance with a trifle more of "quality" argument as well as the price array, they would probably appeal

The "limerick" form of advertising seems to be growing more popular every day. We have received a few samples of advertising written by Miss Nora Laugher, for the grocery of Dixi H. Ross & Co., Victoria, B.C., among which are a couple of "limericks." They are quite amusing and quite liable to impress the point on the minds of readers. All the samples sent in appear to be distinctly original. Of their selling power we are not so sure. The "Oysterology" ad., might be improved by leaving out a few of the items, and the space occupied by some argument, tersely given, with the idea of inducing the reader to decide which brand to buy. Quite frequently the listing of a lot of similar articles in the same space under different branded names, at different prices, confuses the buyer, instead of assisting him to a decision.

The "Del Monte" limerick ad. is a better sample of selling advertising because it not only amuses, but creates no confusion through a multiplicity of similar articles under different branded names at different prices. It emphasizes the goodness of "Del Monte" brand, mentioning the different varieties and their prices.

A good, straightforward ad. is that of J. S. Gibson. Short and to the point, eloquent with price, clean and simple in set-up, this ad. is very convincing.

A BREEZY NOTE FROM FLORIDA.

Canadian Traveler Tells of Business and Climate in the Sunny South.

The Grocer this week received a rose-laden epistle from Frank Menzie, sales superintendent of the F. F. Dalley Co., Hamilton and Buffalo. Frank has been so long on the road in Canada, particularly on the north shore, that his many friends and old customers and "the boys" will be glad to hear from him. Frank, when writing from Jacksonville, Fla., under date of February 21st, says:

"I can assure you that when we read the papers from the north and hear of the blizzards and snow storms the travelers are having up on the north shore, we pat ourselves on the back and say, 'lucky beggars.'

"I have with me here W. H. Thompson, better known as 'Billy,' who traveled a great many years on the north shore, and many hours we spend sitting out on the verandahs talking over old times, and imagining the boys plowing through the snow up north, while we are down here picking roses and eating strawberries. Billy came down here with a fur-lined overcoat, and he was quite a curiosity on the streets. He has had to discard that, and now he has taken off his light overcoat, and if it were polite he would be sitting in his shirt sleeves now. The weather has simply been delightful, and what else to make it still more pleasant is the fact that we have a fine business. Of course, you know we are selling 2 in 1 Shoe Polish, and yet leads all others in the south.

"I am making arrangements with several different points to ship it south in carload lots, and then distribute it.

"When you come to think that we have done almost half a million dollars' worth of business last year in the United States, it makes one wonder what the sale will be in a few years hence, as it is only in its infancy now.

"The south is very nice for two or three months each year, but we all would prefer living up north, and in all my traveling experience, which has been for the number of years I have been on the road, no place do you meet the genial good fellows that travel north. F. D. Menzie, my son, is here, and W. H. Thompson is from Hamilton, Canada. We have a number of men covering the Southern States, and in a very short time will put on twenty more. I leave myself to-night for one of the extreme southern points of Florida—Tampa.

"In meeting any of the boys, give them my regards, and hoping this will find you enjoying your usual good health.

"Yours truly,
"FRANK MENZIE."

BENEFITS OF FRENCH TREATY.

The new Franco-Canadian treaty, whose conditions were given in detail in these pages some weeks ago, has been discussed at considerable length in the House of Comons during the last couple of weeks. While some points seem to afford possibility of disadvantage to Canadian trade, a careful study of the discussion and the schedules of the treaty seems to show that, taken as a whole, the treaty will be decidedly beneficial to Canadian interests. All in all, Messrs. Fielding and Brodeur are to be complimented on the success of their negotiations.

Mr. Zimmerman, of Hamilton, brought out a couple of striking instances of benefit last Friday when he mentioned that as a result of the new treaty the International Harvester Company had practically decided to manufacture the whole of the machinery for their export trade, now amounting to over $2,000,000 annually, in Canada, and again, when he told of being assured by a prominent pork packer that the new treaty would probably result in restoring the large canned meat trade which Canada enjoyed with France some years ago.

The treaty seems to offer rather a material discouragement to Canadian wine growers, as has been strongly represented by the trade, and it seems that it might be advisable in this connection to advocate a bounty for the production of Canadian wines of certain standards. This matter is one which might well be considered.

THE GROCER'S WIFE.

"She's the greatest asset in my business," said a successful grocer the other day. "She smiles in more customers than all the advertising and specials I can offer."

This man looked at the matter in a very practical way, and yet to some extent he was right. Just how far a grocer should expect his wife to help him in the practical side of his business is a matter which will bear a good deal of consideration. If a man is just starting in business and can't well afford an extra clerk to help him on Saturday nights and on rush days, it seems only right that his wife should turn in and help him to the best of her ability.

The wife's place primarily, however, is to make and keep a home, and if she does this well it will take practically all her time. No matter how much he needs it, it must hurt a man somewhat to see his wife behind the counter sharing in his work, and this should, as much as possible, be avoided.

There are numberless other ways, however, in which a grocer's wife may be materially helpful to him. For instance, she can "smile in" the customers, as did the wife of the man mentioned above. Some time spent this way and in good-natured gossip with the store's patrons should not be beneath her dignity. We take it for granted, of course, that every grocer gets a wife who can smile attractively. Then, with the average grocer there are usually some supposedly-empty butter crocks down cellar, from which a good many cents could be realized if they were carefully scraped out. This is something the wife could do better than anyone else. Again, there is butter to be worked over which can readily be done in the house. Or, when there are half a dozen baskets of peaches left which are on the point of spoiling, the wife could prevent loss on these by preserving them. As a "home-made" line such goods would find a ready sale.

If the grocer has a small trade in cooked meats his wife might save a good many dollars and build up this trade by doing the cooking in her own kitchen, or, if she has had a business training, she can turn in and give him a hand with his books or make out his statements. One grocer we know even sends his wife to collect his accounts, and she appears to be highly successful. This, however, seems to be carrying a good thing too far.

These suggestions, of course, are for the average grocer, who must take advantage of every opportunity to make business go.

There are other grocers whose wives never see the store from one week end to the other, and who are able to give pink teas and drive around behind a coachman. This is all right, too, in its place, but it is incumbent on a wfe of the class to make home a mighty comforting place for the bread winner who spends his time behind the counter or more probably in the office.

Here's another idea from a grocer, who's wife, while she does not spend any time in the store, takes an active interest in the business. She furnishes him with tested recipes which he hands out at opportune moments to customers —young brides and the like—who he finds are looking for that sort of thing. And he says it works exceedingly well. For instance:

"Have you made your marmalade yet this year, Mrs. Simmons? No? I can give you something a little special in oranges this week. And here's a recipe my wife tried the other day. It's a daisy, too. Would you like to try it? Certainly, take the sheet with you." Ten to one Mrs. Simmons is tickled and buys the supplies for the marmalade. Numerous other possibilities for a development of this idea will present themselves.

Whatever be her station, the grocer's wife can be either a mighty big help or a most discouraging hindrance. From observation we believe the former kind is greatly in the majority. And may they be blessed for it.

A LESSON IN SUBSTITUTION.

A group of wholesale grocers were the other day discussing how far a merchant could go in offering another line of goods to a customer than that which had been asked for.

"It is a dangerous thing," said one of them. "I learned a lesson to this effect a good many years ago. I was in a drug store waiting for my turn to be served. A customer came up and asked for Blank's pills. The kind he asked for were being cut a great deal in price by the department stores, and while the druggist was in the act of wrapping up the pills asked for, he suddenly though of a kind which had been put up for his own store and on which he made a better profit. He told his customer that he had another kind in stock which he thought were even better and could be obtained at a better price. "Haven't you any of Blank's pills?" quietly asked the customer. "I have," said the druggist. "Then give me Blank's pills," replied the customer, in a frigid tone. That druggist told me years afterwards that he had never forgotten it and was always now very careful when he offered to substitute a line of goods for that which had been asked for. "And," concluded the wholesale grocer, "I have never forgotten it either."

"After all," remarked another of the wholesalers, "a great deal depends upon the tact of the salesman when an effort is being made to offer a customer a line of goods other than that asked for."

THE SITUATION IN THE WEST

Bill Amending Charter of Grain and Produce Exchange Passed and is Affecting Business—The General Business Outlook—Active Preparations for Building.

The Western Viewpoint by our Special Winnipeg Correspondent.

The bill amending the charter of the Winnipeg Grain and Produce Exchange has passed the House and now the members of the Exchange are trying to find out where they are at. As soon as the bill is assented to it becomes law and all private rights of the members in the trading room and the quotations posted therein cease. The Exchange has made no official statement in the matter as yet, one general meeting has been held for the purpose of obtaining the views of the members but nothing has been given out for the public.

The effect on business is very apparent already. New York brokers with big connections in the West are anxious to close out open trades fearing they know not what as rumors have been strong in New York that the price of the seats has dropped from $2500 to $1,000. As a matter of fact a seat that was bought at $2,500 was sold last week for $1,600, though this is the only one that has been traced so far. It is worthy of note that the Hon. R. P. Roblin, before bringing forward this confiscatory legislation took the precaution to sell his seat. The price received it is understood was $2,700. The business of one house from the south; namely, Chicago, New York and Minneapolis, which has been heavy for months, running from 500,000 to 1,000,000 bushels a week has dropped off to less than 10,000 bushels in two days. There is every indication that until something more definite is known of the effect of the bill that business in wheat will be seriously affected.

It is quite among the possibilities that the Exchange not being able to control the quotations may cease to post them and close the trading room. Judging from the talk of members in the trading room and round the pit this method is favored, as it would at once reduce the heavy expenditure which is almost valueless if it is to be the property of Tom, Dick and Harry. About all the farmers have accomplished is to eliminate the small commission men who certainly increased competition and to throw business more than ever into the hands of the big elevator concerns. For a time at least it looks as if there would be chaos in the grain trade, without any resulting benefits whatever.

The annual Bonspiel has drawn to a close and has been well attended. Retail merchants report that the Bonspiel trade has been excellent several of the larger houses declaring that it has been fully up to last year. As an indication of trade one of the large department stores, The Robinson Co., who make a practice of holding an opening for spring suits during the last week of the Bonspiel, report that they did a larger and better trade than they have ever done before, selling in one day 75 suits, ranging in value from $35 to $125, beside many spring coats.

This is a far cry from wheat but all these things tend to show the actual condition of trade.

Implement men are considering the outlook for spring. Collections have been pressed this year much more rigorously than ever before and large amounts of money have been gotten in, though there is still a large amount outstanding. Purchases were lighter than usual last spring in these lines, and while none of the implement houses seem keen on incurring heavy lines of credit, there is no doubt they are very keen on short date business and will go after it with a rush, once spring is opened.

Real estate business continues to show signs of revival though the inquiry is confined almost exclusively to inside properties with the exception of building lots near the new transcontinental railway yards in St. Boniface where practically a new town is springing up.

Preparations for new buildings are becoming quite active and among the number that will certainly be erected this season is a new elevator and linseed mill for The Manitoba Linseed Oil Mills Company, which will also be located in St. Boniface near the east end of the C.P.R. bridge over the Red River. The machinery has already arrived and the plant complete is expected to cost $75,000 and to be ready for the crop of 1908.

Returns from various bureaus for the purchase of seed grain for the Dominion Government show that it will be impossible to get all the seed oats required, even by importing them, indeed the bulk of oat seed wil have to be imported this year. There will not be much difficulty in getting sufficient wheat, though the price will be high, and the efforts of W. D. Matthews, of Toronto, have materially assisted in the matter of a supply of really good seed barley.

During the week the Seed Grain Fair under the auspices of the agricultural societies of Manitoba, was held at the Agricultural College. For the purposes of this fair the province was divided into three districts, the northwestern, southwestern and eastern. The number of entries was very large and while not a few of the samples could not be scored owing to the presence of wild oats, there was an excellent display of very fine wheat. No man can compete who has not at least 50 bushels of the same kind of wheat which he can offer for sale. Many of the exhibitors had from 100 to 500 bushels for sale. It was worthy of note that the first prize and grain championship for Manitoba went to Thomas Thomson, of Roden, near Harding, in the northwestern part of the province, a section, by the way, that 20 years ago was supposed to be too frosty to raise wheat. Mr. Thomson is one of the men who went into the Dominion Association of farmers who raise registered seed, he has been working away for eight years and the sample offered for competition was one of the most perfect ever seen in this land of good wheat, being uniform in size and color and very plump and hard. Mr. Thomson was able to offer 300 bushels of this wheat for seed and the price was $2.50 per bushel and was eagerly sought for at that figure.

A great deal has been said from time to time about this growing of registered seed being a fad, but this looks like a very profitable fad. If country merchants were as enterprising as they ought to be they would never let such an opportunity go past their doors. What a splendid chance to advertise, "We keep the Thomson registered seed wheat" and handle it exclusively. Busy men like Mr. Thomson who have many other interests would no doubt be willing to sell in bulk to a merchant who was willing to take all the trouble off his hands. In this way the merchants would advertise their own business, he would encourage the purchase of good seed and in this way improve the crops of his district and indirectly the purchasing power of all the farmers who came to him for seed.

One of the interesting things in connection with the convention of representatives of agricultural societies, held at the same time as the seed fair, was the number of country merchants who were working hand-in-hand with the farmers to improve the local agricultural exhibition.

Their interest was largely in getting out better stock exhibits and making the dairy exhibits larger and having them more carefully arranged. The writer has attended a number of these conventions in the past but has never seen the spirit of fellowship between farm and town so marked before and it certainly augurs well for the future of the country fairs.—H.

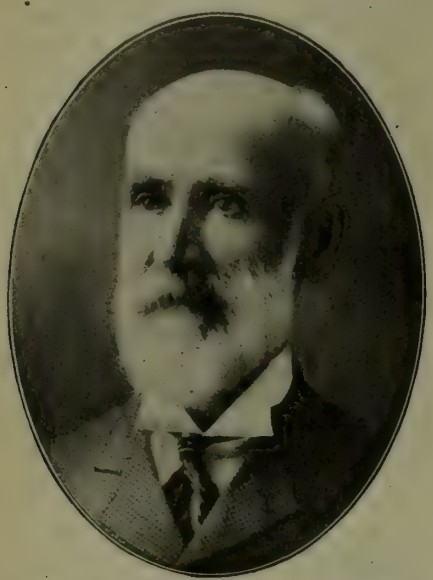
THE LATE JOHN CAMERON

An Appreciation of a Faithful and Old Employe of the MacLean Publishing Company.

(By W. L. Edmonds, General Manager.)

John Cameron, who for twenty years was on the advertising and subscription staffs of the MacLean Publishing Company, died at his home, Durham, Ont.,



THE LATE JOHN CAMERON.

on Monday, February 24. He was 76 years of age.

Mr. Cameron was well-known by the business men of Canada, and particularly by those in Ontario, to which province his territory had been chiefly confined during the last few years. During the twenty years of his service he not only several times covered Canada from ocean to ocean soliciting subscriptions for the MacLean trade newspapers, but he visited Great Britain and the West Indies with the same end in view. His trip to the West Indies was taken three years ago. His health was failing at the time and the company insisted that he make the journey. He would only go, however, on condition he was permitted to solicit subscriptions. He not only visited the principal islands, but spent some time in British Guiana, on the mainland. How thorough his work was may be gathered from the fact that before he was away a month he sent a rush order for more subscription blanks. The supply he had taken with him was exhausted.

The Late John Cameron in His West India Garb.

This was typical of the man. He could not rest. His heart was in his work up to the very last. Work was as breath to his body. Last winter the company wished to send him to Florida for a rest. "What is the use of my going there," he remarked to the writer when the subject was broached. "I'm afraid I won't be able to get many subscriptions there." And because he did not think Florida was a good subscription field he would not go there for his health. He simply could not be induced to take a rest for purely rest's sake. Five years ago the company proposed to retire him on full pay, but he scorned the idea.

Mr. Cameron was a persistent as well as a hard worker. He had faith in the MacLean's trade papers and firmly believed it was in the best interests of the retailers that they should read them and that manufacturers and wholesalers should advertise in their columns. He was nothing short of an enthusiast in this respect. In his quiet, pleasant and unostentatious way he would never let up when he thought a man should either be an advertiser or a subscriber until he had obtained his signature to an order. Some years ago there was a business man in a certain town whom he had all day been unable to see. He had to leave by early train next morning and so after ten o'clock at night he located the merchant's private house. The place was in darkness. Nothing daunted he vigorously rang the bell. The merchant stuck his head out of the window and enquired who was there. "It's the representative of The Canadian Grocer," replied Mr. Cameron, "and I want your subscription." And he got it.

Mr. Cameron was one of the most likeable of men. He was as true as steel. No one can remember him saying an unkind word of anyone. He was always looking at the best side of people, not at their worst. Those who knew him loved him. He did not blow hot one day and cold the next. He was always the same. The MacLean Publishing Company will miss him, not only as a valued and trusted employe, but what is more valuable still, also as a trusted and tried friend.

The Late John Cameron When in Scotland in the Interest of the MacLean Trade Papers.

Deceased was unwell the greater part of last year. He spent the summer in Muskoka, but in September he insisted on again taking the road in quest of advertising, but was only out a few days when he had to give up and return to his home in Durham. A few weeks ago he was stricken with paralysis from which he never rallied. His remains were interred in Durham on February 27.

F. M. Lee, general merchant, of Ponoka, Alta., has been succeeded by Kennedy & Sinal.

Warren & Moon, grocers, of Port Dover, Ont., have dissolved partnership, E. Moon continuing the business.

BRANTFORD.

The annual reception and at-home of the Grocers' and Butchers' Association of Brantford, which was held at the quarters of the Brantford Conservatory of Music, on Tuesday evening, Feb. 18, was a success in every detail. In the past the annual assembly of the organization had taken the form of a banquet. A departure was made this year in order to have the presence of the ladies at the function. In addition to the members of the association and their wives, there were numerous invited guests. These came by invitation which the members extended them. The tickets in this connection were 25 cents each, and a member of the association who issued them to friends was responsible for payment. Many of the members honored some of their faithful customers with tickets, thus showing their appreciation of their steady patronage. The first part of the evening was passed in progressive games and social intercourse. A dainty supper was then served, after which a choice program was given. Fred Corey presided. There were instrumental and vocal selections and recitations. Joseph Bowes, of this city, a former grocer and butcher, gave a brief address of a reminiscent character.

Joseph Ruddy, manager of the Brantford Starch Company, has been unanimously elected secretary of the Brantford Board of Trade in succession to George Hately, who resigned. Mr. Hately is not only well known to local grocers, but to the trade in general throughout the western part of the province by reason of the fact that he was formerly secretary of the Western Dairymen's Association of Ontario. The new secretary, Mr. Ruddy, is an alert business man who for some years has been connected with the Starch Company, which, under his management, has made marked growth.

Reg. Welsh, of this city, has acquired the grocery business formerly carried on in West Brantford by the late George Wright. The new owner is a young man of ability and enterprise and has a good field for the future.

The Bank of Nova Scotia will establish a branch in this city in the course of the next couple of months. The premises lately occupied by Mr. Serles, the grocer, and formerly by W. F. Cockshutt's grocery, have been secured by the bank and will be converted into banking quarters. They are admirably situated on Colborne St., opposite the market.

Robert L. Foulds, the fruiterer, has vacated his premises on Colborne St., and has removed to quarters on Market St., where he wil continue his business.

CHATHAM.

Chatham is just now enjoying the best sleighing—in fact, pretty nearly the only sleighing—in several years. While the heavy snowfall means a tying-up of everything for the first day or two, after that while the cold weather lasts there is brisk business.

Another result of the cold weather is a good ice crop. C. E. Lister, of the Maple City Creamery, harvested 500 tons for that concern during the last cold spell, and other private users have pretty well provided for their needs. Both Fleming & Tillson and J. M. Terry have done a great deal toward filling their houses, and if the cold weather continues there can be no doubt of an adequate supply. All of which will help to boom the trade in perishables next summer.

Since the middle of last fall, butter and egg prices have continued steady, butter ranging between 28c. and 30c. per pound, and eggs fetching like prices per dozen. There never was anything like it in Chatham before, and householders mourn the days when eggs sold for 10c. On Saturday, potatoes, which hitherto have brought $1 per bag, advanced to $1.25.

Wilfrid McCorvie, of John McCorvie & Son, was in London last week, attending the reunion of Scottish Rite Masons. He reports a first-class time.

Taylor & Williamson, who recently leased their premises to the new 5 and 10c. store, are advertising a sale of goods at cost prices.

Geo. Stacey and sons Percy and Harvey, visited the old home in Port Hope last week.

W. H. Curran, at present traveling for O'Brien Bros., cigar manufacturers of this city, contemplates opening an up-to-date meat shop in the Alexandra Block.

Last week the Collinge Block, Wallaceburg, was visited by fire. The block was a one-storey frame, owned by Samuel Collinge, and the loss was $3,000, with $1,800 insurance. The confectionery store of Miss Addie Collinge was damaged to the extent of $1,500; insurance, $600.

The Wallaceburg Sugar Company has resumed operations on imported raw sugar. The company has offered to supply gratis all the sugar required for the Shacktown sufferers, in Toronto. Wm. McNairnie, of McNairnie Bros., Wallaceburg, contributed a barrel of flour to the same cause.

G. C. Crawford, of Merlin, last week purchased the grocery business of W. T. Martin, Highgate, and has assumed charge. Mr. Crawford is a practical baker and confectioner and will run these branches in connection with the grocery.

D. B. McDonald has severed his connection with R. P. Adams' butcher shop, Tilbury, and contemplates setting up for himself.

W. B. Shaw, Merlin, has installed a fine tobacco case in his place of business.

In order to prepare for a contemplated change of business, G. J. Watts, the Thamesville general storekeeper, advertises his entire stock for sale at bargain prices.

F. Gregory, of the Leamington Canning Co., has returned from attending the Canners' Association meeting at Hamilton. The company recently shipped two carloads of canned goods to Glasgow, Scotland.

From reports received it seems that burglars have been busy in various general stores in Essex county. The post office store at Cottam and 3 stores at Maidstone were among those visited, the burglars showing a weakness for plundering the Dominion by striking such places as looked after His Majesty's mails.

Oil Springs, Lambton County, is the latest location for a canning factory, a party having approached the Municipal Council on the subject. A flax mill is also contemplated.

GUELPH.

Harding Bros., wine merchants, are shortly to vacate their present store, and will run their liquor store on McDonell St., and Jackson & Son, grocers, will in all probability extend their present store so as to take in this store their present quarters being too cramped. Both stores would make an up-to-date commodious store. In fact it was all one store under the old firm of Jackson & Hallett, until the grocery stores were prohibited from selling liquor and the partition was then put up.

G. H. Knox & Company are about to start up one of their 5, 10 and 15 cent stores in Guelph.

Jas. Shields, the Waterloo Ave. grocer, has installed an up-to-date, new 30 lb. Toledo scale, and also a cheese cutter, and both make real nice fixtures. It will be up to "Jim" to tell us now whether a cheese cutter pays or not.

There was a reaction on the Guelph market on Saturday and the farmers who have been storm stayed took advantage of the beautiful morning and improved roads and came in large numbers. The result was a big market, the largest for many weeks, and prices took a slump, butter going as low as 23c. a pound, and eggs 25c. a dozen. Potatoes were 90c. a bag, while apples sold at from 75c. to $1. The stores are again well supplied, and the outlook is that eggs and butter will drop considerably before this week is out.

D. Jackson, oof Jackson & Son, had an unpleasant experience this week. He received a telegram from New York that his son William was dead, and shortly after got a telegram from his son saying that he was not dead and was working that day, and that there must be some mistake. This was certainly welcome news to the family, as Mrs. Jackson, Sr., is at present lying sick at the General Hospital here.

The morning up train, No. 91, leaving Guelph at 10 a.m., and the down train, No. 94, leaving Goderich at 4.50 and Guelph at 7.20, are to be taken off immediately, by order of Supt. Osborne, of the Guelph & Goderich Railroad. This will indeed be disappointing to travelers as there are so many small places on this line that it would not pay a traveler to spend a day in. The general opinion is that to reduce expenses in that way will be more inclined to send the traveler around by the G.T.R.

The busiest man in town this week was Fred Tobias, traveler for Todhunter & Mitchell, Toronto, who came in and tried to call on all the grocery stores here in one day. The firm will have to provide him with an automobile. When last heard from he was still going.

The Guelph Co-operative Grocers' and Bakers' Association held its annual banquet on Thursday night last. There is one feature above others that makes this annual function unique. Everything placed on the festive board was the product of the co-operative establishment, and the people were practically eating their own supplies, put before them at a nominal charge, a charge that would scarcely seem to pay for an ordinary banquet. S. Carter, who is called the father of co-operation in Guelph, occupied the chair, and during his speech said a cure for hard times, tight money etc., was co-operation here as it is carried out in England. He showed where this Guelph association would have $3,000 on hand after paying the present year's dividends. The last week's business had totalled $840. This year they paid two per cent. less dividends than last year, but accounted for that fact by loss from fire and starting a new butcher shop.

In talking to some of the smaller stockholders about the organization, there seemed to be considerable grumbling to your correspondent, but others seemed well satisfied. The general opinions expressed by the grocers in the other stores is that they will not be able to pay such dividends. How can they pay a man eight cents on every dollar's worth of groceries he buys from them. The profits in a grocery business to-day are not large enough to do it and the grocers will watch with considerable interest the outcome of this association. Some of the officers of the association think the other grocers and bakers are all against them and their way of doing business. But while most of the stores have lost a few customers there is room for us all as yet and if these people can show us how to make any more money out of the grocery business, why more power to them. The more the merrier. They say opposition is the life of trade and to give this association credit so far, there has been no cutting of prices.

If some of the larger tea houses have stopped selling a 25c. package, there are already others, in fact, several, new brands, right on the market after the 25c. tea trade, each one thinking that this is an elegant opportunity to get their teas introduced on the market. The question is will the retail grocers support the 30c. or 25c. price. The grocers ought to get together and decide, as an association. With the number of tea peddlers that Guelph is overrun with every day from door to door the grocers don't get their fair share of the tea trade. It is not all the tea peddlers who do price cutting, but just one or two persistent canvassers who insist on leaving tea, whether ordered or not, and at any price to suit the purchaser. One lady told me she had five caddies of tea stacked up in her house and she would not use one of them and could not get the peddlers to take them away. Such action as that ought to be stopped by a combined effort on the part of the grocers, it could be done. It is worth 5c. a pound also to have to introduce a new brand of package tea.

W. H. Fielding has quite an idea in the way of an order sheet for his customers who live at a distance from his store, with his name and address on it and stamped. All a customer has to do is to fill in the order and drop in the box in the morning and his groceries will be delivered that day.

It was quite a pleasure to see by your Saskatoon news last week that one Guelph boy is doing well there. Fred McKinnon, of the Hub Cigar Store in that town, hails from here.

KINGSTON.

A great many of our grocers have a hobby of one kind or another. Many have choice live poultry, fancy bred stock. Some belong to fraternal societies, some skate, others can be seen and heard curling, and not a few slide back to the office and worry and wear out their brains over the books, and so the days come and go till the bugle sounds and the weary grocer is laid to rest.

Alderman Jack Carson is introducing a by-law requiring that the head and feet of poultry be removed and the entrails be withdrawn. He felt that people should not be made to pay 12 to 18c. a lb. for what must be thrown away. A lot of crowing and cackling occurred and it was left as a nest egg till another meeting of the council. Butter may yet reach 40c. a lb. Merchants have had to advance to 35c. this week.

Chas. Saunders, after giving the much talked about cash business a trial since January 1, is well pleased and strange to say didn't lose a customer, although le looked for a falling off. I tell you and you all know it is a big contract keeping track of what people eat and drink. All kinds of systems are recommended to help the poor grocer on this vexed problem but none of them equals the cash system. In our frantic efforts to push ahead we sometimes find a year hence we are where we began and perhaps a step or two behind. If a percentage of the best grocers in each city would unitedly club together and go in for cash it could be accomplished. As it is, if Jones adopts cash, Brown opens his arms and gets Jones' customers as a rule.

Look at 5 and 10c. stores and departmentals. It is a pleasure to see them do business. We may not like their cutting but their systems are up-to-date.

No more 25c. package tea after the last issue is used up. Well, better quit than resort to old tea and cheap mixtures. Most people are satisfied to pay 30c. for a good article. You can't draw a good trade with bad goods. You may fool the people once in awhile but they will fool you in the end by steering clear of your store.

J. Gould, broom manufacturer, died last week after a few weeks' illness. He had a fall some months ago and never got over the bad results. He was full of life and energy, was a good salesman, and had built up a fine trade.

The grocers who took contracts a year ago to supply institutions, feel uncomfortable over their venture. They contract low and there has been such a steady advance that I don't blame them for feeling that way and hope it will be a warning in future. It's better to put down good prices and make some profit for there is a lot of labor and it interferes with regular trade.

Armstrong, of Warren Bros., is booking orders for future delivery of Japan teas. Armstrong has worked up a good trade here and it is no easy place to work as we have a lot of wholesale houses here.

Robertson Bros. are pushing the new Schram fruit jar. They claim it is a great improvement on the old style of screw top crown jars.

Jam, jellies and canned goods are moving freely now.

He who may choose to chew, let him chew. Following the advance on bread comes the terrible news that chewing tobaccos, Napoleon and Prince of Wales were put up 2c. a lb. If Macdonald's factory puts out 500 caddies of these two celebrities a day it means $200 a day in his purse and a pretty decent salary a year. Well it doesn't matter a great deal. Grocers generally sell it for cost price.

LONDON.

Wholesale trade has been rather quiet the past week, due to the bad condition of the roads. Prices are unchanged. The St. Lawrence Company reduced the price of their sugar ten points for a day or two and then restored it to the old figure. Good quality teas remain firm and lower grades are a little easier. Fine coffees are very firm, which may also be said of cereal goods of all kinds.

In retail lines there is little new to report. The fine weather of Saturday brought many farmers to market as a consequence store-keepers were kept busy. Dealers are all talking about the approaching banquet, for which all arrangements have been made. Guests are expected from Toronto and all the wholesale houses will be represented. When the London grocers undertake anything of this kind it is invariably a success, and there is every reason to believe next Thursday night's function will prove one of the most enjoyable affairs of the kind yet held in the Tecumseth.

Provincial Government lecturers on dairy matters have been in attendance at all the cheese factory meetings in this vicinity, instructing those interested on methods, which, when put into practice, are said to be of much value.

MONTREAL.

The partnership of Munro & Lloyd, grocers, St. Catherine & MacKay Sts., has been dissolved, Mr. Lloyd having severed his connection with the firm. The business is being carried on under the sole proprietorship of D. D. Munro.

Among the laboring classes it has been felt quite keenly, as several large plants have been either working on short time, or closed down entirely. Some of the railway shops are working on short time at present, thus making the situation rather dull for the grocer catering to this class of trade, customers only buying the absolutely necessary articles of foods, and being somewhat behind in payments. However, with spring approaching, and the subsequent increase of business in general, which accompanies it, an improvement in trade is naturally expected, and things will return to their former condition.

The G.T.R. shops at Point St. Charles are working on short time at present and are likely to continue so until the spring. This will affect the trade in the Point to quite an extent, as a great many of the customers there are Grand Trunk workmen.

One of the Canadian commercial agents located in Australia, in a recent report, gave considerable information regarding the Australian dried fruits industry. He stated that in 1907 250 tons of Australian dried fruits found a market in Canada, and special efforts are being made to largely increase the results achieved during the period of the initiation of the business. In speaking to some Montreal wholesalers of the prospects for these fruits during 1908, The Grocer was informed that the reason they found such a ready market in Canada last season was because of the scarcity of Valencia and other raisins and the consequent high prices. But as the Australians proved to posess good quality, and if the quotations for the coming season are in keeping with the others, there is no reason why they should not find a market in Canada. As yet, no quotations have been received here, and all depends upon the prices to decide whether these goods will be a factor on the Canadian market in 1908 or not.

Calling on some of the Westmount grocers, The Grocer found that a good amount of business was being done in that city but several dealers complained greatly of the difficulty in making collections. No doubt Westmount people have been greatly affected by the stringency of money. One grocer stated that another reason was the fact of several west-end concerns having either been closed up, or working short-time, but matters are assuming a rosier appearance and a better state of affairs is looked for in the near future.

The recent advance in the price of package teas has not as yet affected the trade, as mostly all retailers have a stock on hand, and are selling at the old price, but it is expected that when these stocks are run out, and the higher priced put in, it will tend to increase the sale of bulk tea. The 25-cent package has been a popular line for some years, but with the price advanced to 30 and 35 cents, people will be inclined to buy bulk tea in the opinion of many grocers.

There is a great scarcity of molasses on the local market at the present time, and the stocks are not likely to be replenished until the arrival of the new crop in June. Some retailers have been lucky in having a stock which will be sufficient to meet their requirements until June, but others who are not stocked are feeling the effect of the scarcity, as a large quantity of molasses is consumed each year in Montreal.

The grocery of J. Foster, Pine Ave., was broken into by burglars one night recently, but fortunately nothing was taken, as the intruders were disturbed in their work by the arrival of a constable.

William Stewart, head brewer for Wm. Dow & Co., Montreal, passed away last week. Mr. Stewart had been connected with the firm for twenty-nine years, and was well-known in business circles. W. Murray, Montreal manager of E. W. Gillett Co., of Toronto, is a son-in-law.

TORONTO.

Retailers report business appreciably brighter the last couple of weeks and those who are making any determined efforts at collecting are not finding a great deal of difficulty.

A good many are laying in supplies of fresh and dried fish for the opening of the Lenten season next week.

Rather a good story came to us the other day. A grocer in the downtown district does considerable trade with celestials. One of these, a new customer by the way, came in, and after gazing inquiringly around the store, said, in broken English:

"Chickenettes, chickenettes, two dozen." The grocer was naturally at a loss and inquired further as to his wants, but nothing more could be drawn out. The Chinaman persisted in asking for "one, two, doz chickenettes." The grocer was about to give up in despair when suddenly the strange customer's eye brightened, and stepping down beyond the counter he placed his hand suggestively on a box of new-laid eggs. The mystery was solved.

Little things count all right. A few days ago a gentleman walked into a very smart-looking grocery store and purchased a package of popular tobacco. On reaching his home and opening the package much to his disgust and annoyance, he found that his favorite tobacco, instead of having its usual moistness, was dry and crisp and, therefore, extremely unpleasant to him. The bad impression caused by this purchase did its work. Now, that customer avoids that particular store for his tobacco at least. Had that particular grocer kept his tobacco away from the heat and air of the room and preserved its quality in an air-tight case, as regular tobacconists do, the probability is that he would have retained that customer's business.

Just how many similar customers' trade that grocer lost is, of course, unknown, but it may be assumed to amount to a considerable sum each year. This is no isolated case. It is all too common among lots of grocers who are failing to keep close to the details of business. A word to the wise is sufficient.

J. Wylie & Co. have opened up a fine grocery on Bloor St., near Bathurst. The fittings are in weathered oak and entirely up to date in every particular. All modern grocery conveniences are to be found in the store. A special confectionery and candy department is a bright feature.

Hockey games have been in great vogue among wholesale grocers this season. Last Saturday the office staff of H. P. Eckardt & Co. met the warehouse staff. The result was all in favor of the office bunch who didn't do a thing to their warehouse friends. The game was made interesting by the "snappy" playing of Jim Forbes, who insisted on sitting on the puck whenever he came near it. The final score was 6—0, which indicates pretty accurately just how much the office did to the warehouse.

The line-up was as follows:

A meeting of the Grocers' Section of the Retail Merchants' Association was held in the association's board-room on Monday evening. A deputation was present from the master bakers and the troublesome matter of bread-weight was discussed at considerable length. As the matter stands now, the loaves may be inspected in the grocery stores, and in some cases, the grocers have been held responsible for infractions of the law. A resolution was brought forward and passed to the effect that the inspection of the bread should be made in the bakeries and not in the retail stores.

There was considerable discussion also over the proposed amendment to the Division Court Act, which will probably come before the local house this session. This amendment, if carried through, will provide a much easier method for the collection of small accounts and its machinery aims to make the court and not the retailer, responsible for the collection of the account after decision has been given.

The majority of local grocers had some stock of package teas on hand before last week's change in prices was announced and as yet have not had to tell the public of the advance. Most of them seem to regard the change as favorable to them from the fact that they will now be able to sell more bulk tea.

VANCOUVER.

Californian eggs have created a small feature in the local market. They have come in such good quality that the local stock, if they had not had to come down in price, have at least had no chance of going higher. Tne article from California is far better this year than last, and is selling retail at 40c. It is difficult to tell the difference between them and the local variety. Easterns are selling for whatever they will bring. They have been in stock for awhile and the wholesale price varies from 22c. to 30c. The outlook for them is not good.

With conditions in the south affecting the orange crop, prices have stiffened here, though increases have not yet been reported. Lemons are easier than usual and retail at 25c. per dozen for the best and 20c. for the smaller.

Hams and bacons are also lower, or at least the price is not so firm, and ham quotations are even 16c. and 17c. for good quality.

A number of cars of Wenatchee apples have been imported from Eastern Washington during the past week, but as good varieties that will keep are not plentiful, prices have been well maintained.

Lamb and mutton, local grown, is still short on demand and little will be offering for some time yet. On the steamer Aorangi, which arrived from Australia, were 3,207 carcasses of mutton, and 70 cases of canned meats. The cargo of this boat had other lines that are worthy of note by the supply houses of this country. Among the many items were 343 cases of milk, 10 cases of preserved soup, 11 cases of arrowroot and 700 cases of butter.

Advices from Dawson are that the merchants are doing a steady business, and are looking to a revival of trade, when some of the big companies begin spring operations. Several large concerns, such as the Ogilvie Dredge Company and others of similar character, are counted among the new customers this year. Butter and eggs are becoming more self-assertive each day. Some of the quotations may not be uninteresting, especially to eastern readers, who may not be familiar with conditions in the Yukon. Retail prices: Eggs, storage, 75c. dozen; butter, two pounds for $1.25; cheese, three for $1; sugar, 10 lbs. for $1; tobacoo, westover, 75c. per plug; T. & B., 3 plugs, $1.25; rolled oats, 7 lb. sack, 75c,; corn meal, 10 lbs. 75c.; Cream of Wheat, package, 50c., 3 for $1; corn starch, 5 packages for $1; Van Houten's cocoa, $1.50 lb.; maple syrup, Log Cabin, $1.25 per half gallon; canned fruits, Canadian, all sizes, 3 for $1; bacon, 40c. and 50c.; canned peas, corn, or tomatoes, 25c. can; ham, 37½c.

Business on the whole, in the coast cities, is encouraging. The proprietor of the largest departmental store in Vancouver states that notwithstanding the depression his business for January was ahead of the same month last year, and is ahead also for this month. This is in every department, individually and collectively, except that of jewelry. In no one month has there been a decrease.

The troubles of the retail grocer, in so far as they relate to the wholesaler selling direct to the consumer, and so cutting in on trade, are again coming to the front. One of the local newspapers publishes a story that matters have gone so far that at a meeting of retailers this week it was decided to put it up to the wholesalers to either stop the practice or goods would be be bought in the east. The complaint is that hotels, restaurants, logging camps and other large consumers of groceries were supplied direct, and good business thus lost to the retailer. There are cases, say such as the Vancouver Hotel, where objection might not be entered. This is a C.P.R. institution, and if the wholesalers can or will not supply them they can easily purchase in the east, since they would be patronizing their own line of freight, and keeping all the expense interchanged in the family. Still, if the wholesaler sells, he is able to quote a better figure than he could to the retailer.

The Empress of India, which departed for the Orient this week, took 159 tons of Canadian flour, but none for Hong Kong. Word is to the effect that the market at this latter point is overstocked. The Empress carried three carloads of general merchandise, and a quantity of canned salmon.

News from Ladysmith, near Nanaimo, on Vancouver Island, is that business is increasing, although logging camps are not as active as formerly, and there has been a temporary sispension of operations at the smelter and the mines. During the last five months, five new businesses have opened out, and building is going ahead.

From the eastern portion of the province reports are almost optimistic. Small fruit holdings are being taken up on the Kootenay and Arrow Lakes. Land is held mostly by settlers, and the fact that many are going in will mean good business. It will furnish a producing population, which in turn will be a large consumer, and will entrench

Nelson more firmly than ever in its position as a centre of distribution.

The Chilliwack Creamery Company, Ltd., held a special meeting of its shareholders recently to consider the advisability of enlarging its present plant and building, or to rebuild in a more desirable place. This expansion shows the growth which is going on in the Chilliwack district, which is perhaps the most profitable dairying section of the province. When the ptesent building was erected five or six years ago, it was thought it would be large enough for twenty years. A cold storage plant is proposed in connection with the improvements, whatever is decided upon ultimately.

WOODSTOCK.

The Guelph correspondent tells of a grocer who lends orange slicers to his customers. There are dealers in this city who make a practice of keeping a supply of raisin seeders on hand, and they always consider it money well spent in procuring the articles. There are a good many people who always prefer to buy their raisins with the seeds in, and to them it is a great convenience sometimes to be able to borrow a seeder from the grocer. More and more though people are coming to see the advantage of buying raisins already seeded, for the slight extra expense is amply repaid by the absence of the bother of seeding them.

A local butcher with a stall in the market building has for some time been regularly missing pails of lard and pieces of meat. He had a good idea as to the identity of the thief, but was unable to satisfy himself positively until the other day one of hic clerks with a fondness for amateur detective work got his brains at work. The result was a very ingenious scheme, whereby the thief was discovered. The clerk got a lard pail empty, and filled it with sawdust. He poured some lard over the contents, and set it outside to freeze. Then he put some lard over the top and put the cover on. Previously through a hole in the bottom of the pail, he had fastened a long cord. He passed the end through a hole in the counter and fastened it to a cluster of bottles which he placed up on a shelf. During a busy hour on Saturday, the expected happened. Suddenly the bottles were heard to fall to the floor. Of course, this drew the attention of everybody in the vicinity to the stall, and there, a few feet from the stall, at the end of the string was the most embarrassed woman ever seen with the pail of supposed lard snugly tucked away in her market basket. She had been suddenly brought to a stop when the bottles caught against the counter, and while her cheeks flamed she hastily replaced the pail on the counter and decamped without a word. The woman was an old customer of the butcher, and was in good circumstances, so that there was no excuse for her action.

A LENTEN GROCERY WINDOW

A Timely and Attractive Display for the Approaching Season in Which the Grocery Should Reap a Profitable Harvest.

Next week ushers in the Lenten season and with it come possibilities in the matter of business that should be taken advantage of by the grocer.

The feature of the Lenten business is, of course, the fish trade. With a view to helping in the development of this line of business, The Grocer presents herewith a sketch and suggertion for a Lenten fish window, the idea for which was borrowed from our contemporary, the Grocery World.

The window is one which might be very easily arranged from goods carried in any grocery which makes any pretence at all of carrying canned, dried, or fresh fish.

As may be seen, the background is made up of four large pyramids of cans, the goods being something similar to those suggested in the key below. The row in front of this contains packages of dried fish and smaller cans, and in front of this again, it is suggested that several platters of fresh and dried fish in their natural form, be shown.

The numbers in the following table correspond with those in the sketch :

1. Large cans cove oysters.
2. Cans of soused mackerel.
3. Smaller cans of oysters.
4. Cans of salmon.
5. Packages of shredded codfish.
6. Tins of sardines.
7. Cans of lobsters.
8. Cans of kippered herring
9. Codfish in one-pound packages.
10. Bloaters.
11. Bulk codfish.
12. Mackerel or dried herring.

An attractively written card, with Lenten suggestions, as shown, hung at the back of the window, would add to the general effect and help bring in the customers.

NEW PARTNERS IN MONTREAL FIRM.

Announcement is made that W. H. Halford and T. Kusanobu have been taken into partnership by Shaw T. Nishimura, Montreal, and the firm will in future be known as S. T. Nishimura & Co.

Many friends of both Mr. Halford and Mr. Kusanobu will be pleased to learn of their success. Mr. Halford is widely known over Eastern Canada as a tea man, an expert in fact, and his fame has penetrated to many sections of the west. He was for some years with S. H. Ewing & Sons, Montreal.

Mr. Kusanobu is one of the best inside men in the Japan tea business in Montreal. He will look after the correspondence of the firm as in the past, while Mr. Nishimura will attend to the Japan end of the business. Just recently he returned from a two-year trip to his native land, and he expects to go back again shortly.

Markets and Market Notes

Conditions in Canadian Centres of Trade This Week—With Changes in Various Lines of Goods—Notes From the World's Markets.

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—
Butter—Up 1c.
Sugar—Firm.
Peppers—Firm.
Teas—Firm.
Cheese—Steady.
Eggs—Receipts light.

Montreal, Feb. 27, 1908.

The feature of the market this week is the sharp advance in butter. Dealers are quoting as high as 33c lb. for fresh creamery, and say that in the course of a few days the price is likely to advance as high as 35c per lb. As a matter of fact, one merchant, when seen, stated that he would not part with his stock to-day at less than 35c. The markets in the United States and England are bare also. Sugar has taken a firm stand once more, and both refiners are quoting the old prices. It will be remembered that one of them dropped the price 10c last week. The New York markets have been advanced, and it is thought by some of the local dealers that this will be reflected here. The tea business has picked up considerably during the past week, and it is thought by those in a position to know that there will be an advance on blacks. Tapioca is easier this week and local prices are down a little. Good orders are being received by fish dealers, as Lent is almost here, and grocers are buying freely. The scarcity of haddock and cod has resulted in very firm prices for these two lines. Other lines of fish are quoted at figures which have been quite steady for the past while. Other lines in demand during the Lenten season have also shown more or less renewed activity of late. Canned goods might be mentioned for one. Quite nice orders have been received for assorted lots by many jobbers.

Collections are reported satisfactory, and day by day things seem to be resuming their normal aspect.

SUGAR—There is a firm tone in sugar this week. Both refiners are quoting the old prices and the demand is good. The American markets have been advanced, and it is thought by some here that this will be reflected on the local market.

RICE AND TAPIOCA—The market for rice is unchanged this week. Demand is slow and prices firm. Tapioca is easier, as will be noticed in the quotations below. Regarding the rice crop in Burma an American consular agent reports: The third Burmese Government forecast of the rice crop for a territory containing about 9.8 per cent. of the total area under rice in British India gives as the area under cultivation 7,295,964 acres, an increase of 322,271 acres. Prospects are good, the surplus available for export being estimated at 2,514,000 tons of cargo rice, equivalent to 42,670,169 hundred-weights of cleaned rice."

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL—There has been a slight improvement in canned goods business this week despite the present high prices and dealers are anticipating a good business during Lent.

TORONTO—Canned goods are moving rather freely this week. Some demand is also evident for fish for the Lenten season. Prices of canned salmon are very firm and indications seem to point to an advance shortly. The salmon situation all through is very firm.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—
Sugar—Very firm.
Chocolate—Declined.
Beans—Stiffer.
Collections—Fair.

Toronto, Feb. 27, 1908.

Wholesalers report business as improving gradually and the majority of them express themselves as well satisfied. Collections are only fair, some firms finding rather more difficulty as March approaches.

SUGAR—The market has assumed a very firm basis and a general advance seems to be expected shortly, possibly within a day or two. The fact that several jobbers have bought quite heavily this week seems to point to the fact that they expect a change. Cables from London on Tuesday noted an advance in beet of 1½d, and this, coupled with the facts that there is little coming from Cuba, that raws are exceedingly strong and the speculation by American companies, all point to a stronger market. The decline made on the 18th in St. Lawrence granulated and yellow evidently served its purpose in cleaning out surplus stock for these lines were advanced again a few days later. Acadia also advanced 5c during the week, the reason given being a desire to get it on a more equitable basis. Prices ruling at the time of writing were :

Paris lumps, in 50-lb. boxes	5 45
" in 100-lb. "	5 35
St. Lawrence granulated, barrels	4 50
Redpath's granulated	4 50
Acadia granulated	4 40

No. 3 yellow	4 30
No. 2 "	4 20
No. 1 "	4 10

Granulated and yellow, 100-lb. bags 5c. less than bbls.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES—Only a staple business is being done at steady prices.

TEAS—Prices in British markets appear to be on a slightly lower basis, as the following from the report of Thompson's circular, dated London, Feb. 13th, will show : "It is difficult to find explanation for the all-round lowering of price which has taken place during the past fortnight, seeing that the statistical position appears stronger than it was at this time last year, when an active and advancing market was experienced. The average price of tea has now fallen to nearly ½d per lb. below that realized on the corresponding date in 1907."

COFFEE—A brisk business is being done locally at comparatively steady prices.

DRIED FRUITS—Business is quiet, with steadiness in staple lines. Prices are unchanged.

RICE AND TAPIOCA—Shipments of both rice and tapioca were received on the Toronto market this week. The receipts of tapioca have eased the situation somewhat, as local stocks were pretty well cleaned out.

SPICES—Peppers are firmer, but otherwise no change is apparent. Business is steady.

CHOCOLATE—An enormous increase in production and a falling off in consumption, due largely to the financial stringency in the United States, has caused a slump in cocoa beans and local manufacturers will announce material declines in several lines of chocolate on March 1st. The situation is now on the same basis as about eight months ago. In the United States some lines are off 50 per cent.

BEANS—The market is stiffer this week, with prices about 5c above last quotations. Prices now ruling are covered as follows :

Beans, hand picked, per bush	1 80	1 95
" prime No. 1, "	1 80	1 85
" Lima, per lb		0 07½

EVAPORATED APPLES—Only a fair amount of business is being done on a basis of 8½c.

DEATH OF ROBERT CARRIE.

Passing of One of Toronto's Old and Esteemed Business Men.

Robert Carrie one of Toronto's oldest business men, passed away at the home of his son-in-law at 126 St. George St. on Saturday afternoon, at the age of eighty years.

Mr. Carrie was a native of Carnoustie, Scotland, and came to Canada when a young man, settling first in St. Thomas. He came to Toronto more than forty years ago, and for a time was a member of the dry goods firm of Dobbie & Carrie. Later he went into the warehousing business, which he carried on until his death. For a time he had a large warehouse on Front St. west but about ten years ago obtained possession of the building at the corner of Church and Front Sts. He was particularly well acquainted with members of the grocery trade and importers and was highly regarded. He was one of the managers of St. James' Square Presbyterian Church, was a member of St. Andrew's Society, a Freemason, and a Liberal in politics. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. John Paton, and one son, Mr. Thomas Carrie, both of this city. The funeral took place at 2.30 o'clock on Monday afternoon.

KINNEAR'S WIN THE CUP.

Deciding Game in Wholesalers' Hockey League Last Friday Night.

The members of the T. Kinnear Co., from the head of the firm down to the stenographers, are wearing smiles this week, and deservedly too, for the Tilson trophy cup, emblematic of the championship of the Toronto Wholesalers Hockey League is in the firm's possession for a year at least, as a result of last Friday night's game, when their hockey team defeated the Jas. umbers Co. team by a score of 6—0.

The Kinnear team deserve the championship. With a fast team which has worked well together, they have practiced consistently and worked hard for the honors.

Friday evening's game was not so lively as some of the others. Up to this game the contestants were on even standing and a battle royal was expected, but the Lumbers team, although some brilliancy was shown individually, did not quite line up to expectations. The game was at times lifeless, though at times a really good quality of hockey was shown.

The line-up was as follows:

Jas. Lumbers Co.	T. Kinnear Co.
"Wes." Lumbers	goal Robinson
Tom Ker	point Minett
Boyd	c. point Humphrey
Wylie	forwards C. Rennie
F. Lumbers	" Marks
McKenzie	" "Tom" Kinnear

A good deal of interest has been taken in the series this year by members of the Toronto wholesale houses and the friendly rivalry displayed has not been at all harmful.

The trophy, which, by the way, was presented by the Tilson Co., of Tilsonburg, for perpetual challenge, will be an object of interest in the Kinnear Co.'s sample room during the year.

OPENING CONDENSED MILK PLANT

New Company Celebrates and Holds Annual Meeting at Aylmer.

The formal opening of the Aylmer Condensed Milk Co.'s plant at Aylmer passed off most successfully on Wednesday, Feb. 19. The event was suitably marked by a general reception to which interested people flocked in goodly numbers from both the country and town. The different departments were opened to the public's investigation. Judging from the remarks heard, the impression created must have been most favorable. Lunch was served liberally and an orchestra added pleasantly to the function. Later in the evening an enjoyable dance was held, which served as a fitting close to the event.

The plant is thoroughly up-to-date and sanitary in every detail. No pains have been spared by the management to make it well appointed and scrupulously clean. Its capacity will be from 60,000 to 70,000 pounds of milk per day. Indications already point to the success of their brands, Canada First Condensed Milk and Canada First Evaporated Cream.

The first annual meeting of the company was held at Aylmer the same day, when the following officers were elected: President, D. Marshall, M.P.; Vice-president, Dr. J. M. Rogers; Sec.-treas., R. L. Innes; General Manager, H. W. Knight; Directors, Mr. Keefer, Ingersoll; Dr. Parke, Woodstock; Mr. White, manager Merchants' Bank, Ingersoll; and Frank Lawlor, M.P.P., Dunnville.

F. W. Hudson, of the Canada Brokerage Co., Toronto, has returned much improved in health, after a ten days' visit at Mount Clemens, Mich.

W. A. Mitchell, of Todhunter, Mitchell, Toronto, is down in Mexico enjoying a business and pleasure trip of about three weeks' duration.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 9 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 27, 1908.)

The February turnover has been considerably larger than was expected by the most optimistic. Country collections continue to show a steady improvement and the outlook is becoming more favorable every week. The only disturbing feature of the present situation is the cutting of prices on several lines by rural wholesale houses.

CANNED GOODS—As noted last week the advance in canned fruits and vegetables announced in Ontario a short time ago, does not affect the price in the three prairie provinces.

Business is still very quiet.

SUGAR—The sugar market last week was very erratic but the net result was a return to former prices. In Brandon a decline of 10 cents in B. C. and Redpath was announced, but this was quickly followed by a return to the old price. In Winnipeg St. Lawrence and B. C. sugars declined, but there was no change in Redpath. Other sugars held steady and St. Lawrence and B. C. sugars returned to the old basis. We quote :

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Reading notices under this heading will be accepted at 10 cents per agate line.

Laporte, Martin & Co., Montreal, will move on or about March 15, and in order to reduce their large stock, they have decided to quote special prices to prompt buyers. Many retailers did not buy sufficient canned goods last fall to last them through the season. Laporte, Martin & Co. are offering the trade particularly attractive assortments at good prices.—Advt.

The Miramichi Fish Co. has received letters of incorporation. The head office will be in Chatham, N.B.

TO GET AND HOLD TRADE

Sell your customers absolutely reliable goods. Don't run the risk of losing their good will by offering an article of doubtful quality, or one which may injure health.

When you sell Royal Baking Powder, you are sure of always pleasing your customers. Every housewife knows that Royal is absolutely pure and dependable. It is the only baking powder made from Royal Grape cream of tartar. You are warranted in guaranteeing it in every respect, the most reliable, effective and wholesome of all the baking powders. On the other hand you take chances when you sell cheap baking powders made from alum or phosphate of lime. They are unhealthful and fail to give satisfaction.

Royal never fails to give satisfaction and pays the grocer a greater profit, pound for pound than any other baking powder he sells.

To insure a steady sale and a satisfied trade, be sure to carry a full stock of Royal Baking Powder.

CANADIAN BUTTER IN JAPAN.

Good Opening for Our Produce if Quality is Satisfactory.

In the last report of the Department of Trade and Commerce, W. T. R. Preston, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Japan, gives some interesting facts and figures on the shipment of Canadian butter to the Land of the Rising Sun and incidentally throws a little more light on the alleged unsatisfactory exports which were referred to in these columns two weeks ago.

He gives the imports of butter from Canada as shown by the Japanese statistics for the past six years as:

Year	Kin.	Yen.
1900	8,712	6,216
1901	2,603	1,499
1902	5,675	3.664
1903	10,793	7,227
1904	15,668	10,524
1905	21,553	14,515
1906	24,605	22,957

When this is compared with the total imports, which in 1906 were 24,430 kin, 175,521 yen, it will be seen what an opportunity exists for Canadian exporters.

In regard to quality Mr. Preston says:

"In an official Japanese report on the question of the quality of butter imported into Japan, Denmark stands first on the list, followed closely by France. The amount imported from Canada has been quite immaterial, in comparison to the total amount reaching the country."

The report goes on to state that:

"Canada was just establishing an enviable reputation, when a large shipment from one of the western provinces turned out very unsatisfactory. And unfortunately it had been extensively distributed before the importers became aware of its character.

"I finally followed the matter up until, quite accidentally I got in touch with the importers, and secured abundant evidence of one of the most ill-advised shipments that could possibly have been made from Canada. The result of the transaction is that a serious obstacle has been created against a growing trade, the facts connected with the unfortunate episode having been circulated far and wide. I learned that these dealers had transferred their importations to the Australian product."

Continuing, Mr. Preston gives some comparative figures as to cost of transportation of butter from Canada and from the countries competing, as follows:

"Calgary.—Distance from Yokohama 640 miles by rail, and 4,300 miles by sea, totalling 4,950 miles, occupying about 14 days, at the rate of $36 per ton, without cold storage on the ocean.

"Australia.—Distance from Yokohama 6,700 miles, the journey occupying about six weeks. Butter is carried in refrigerated storage all the way at one penny per lb., or at the rate of $40 per ton.

"Denmark.—Distance from Yokohama 12,800 miles, occupying 50 days. $10 per ton, or, if in cold storage an increase of 25 per cent., making the charge $12.50 per ton."

CHANGES IN SHOP ACT.

Amendment May Be of Importance to Grocers.

The new shops act introduced into the Ontario Legislature last Friday by Hon. Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture, will cause much additional work for the nine provincial factory inspectors. The act provides that no children under twelve years of age may be employed in shops, and consequently these inspectors are now working under a new system. The entire province is now divided into districts, and each man is assigned to a district.

In this connection it is understood the Government are considering the advisability of another amendment to the shops act, making it unlawful for boys under sixteen years of age to be employed in delivering goods with vehicles.

This section, if passed, would probably mean that a good many small grocers would have to secure delivery boys of a more mature age.

Position in Butter Now Becoming Rather Critical—Cheese Continues Firm—Eggs Are Easier—Hog Markets Are More Encouraging.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

Cheese continues firm, but there is no quotable change in the ruling prices.

Advices from England say that the market there is still in good condition, good prices ruling for all first-class cheese offered. Old Country buyers, however, are not eager purchasers from Canadian houses. They are finding that they must come up to our prices before they can secure any lots worth speaking of, for stocks being small on this side, dealers are none of them anxious to clean house. It is well known also that England does not hold any quantity of cheese, while the New Zealand make, which has found a market in Great Britain, does not amount to as much as usual.

Holders are asking prices just a trifle too high for the taste of produce men in England. The majority are asking between 13c and 13½c. White is worth about 13c to 13¼c, while colored brings 13¼c to 13½c. Cheese which does not meet all the requirements of first quality is sold by some at 12¾c, but most hold out for higher. Quite a lot of Eastern cheese changed hands lately at about 13c.

This transaction has done considerable damage to stocks here, by bringing them down to a much lower level. At best they are not nearly so large as they should be at this time to take care of orders coming in between the present date and the opening of the new season.

Receipts of cheese last week amounted to 10 boxes, against 125 boxes previous week, and 130 boxes same week last year. Total receipts to date amount to 2,053,770 boxes, against 2,349,537 boxes a year ago.

That we are as near a butter famine as we could be without actually experiencing it is the opinion of many of the trade. Prices have jumped again, and some houses are almost out of supplies.

One concern stated that they would not sell under 35 cents, the price they are quoting to retailers. Another house is asking 33 cents, and will not ship anything to wholesalers unless in the case of a good customer, desirous of obtaining a twenty-five box lot. Those who have any stock, and who continue to transact business with wholesalers as usual are asking 32 cents.

It is expected, however, that this price will not rule for any time, higher being expected. Supplies held here are extremely light and demand is very brisk. The butter coming in does not amount to anything, so holders, anticipating a bare market are not soliciting business.

Advices from England show that the country is on the verge of a butter famine. When the price soars to 156s. butter must be very scarce. Arrivals of New Zealand have not been as large as desirable, while the American market has been pretty well cleaned up and thus two sources of supply are not to be depended upon to supply the market to any extent.

Nor is Canada in a position to ship any butter, so that the U.K. is in bad condition as far as supplies are concerned.

What small amount of butter is coming forward is being sold in the neighborhood of 31 cents. Almost any kind of butter will bring high prices to-day. Dairy is worth 28 cents for finest. Roll butter is being sold at 26½ cents and over.

The scarcity which has been noticeable in both butter and cheese this season is very hard on the poorer classes. Many of them are out of work owing to the financial stringency which has caused mills and shops to temporarily shut down or work on short time, and high prices being asked for butter, a staple line, and cheese which is almost a necessity, adds to their embarrassment. Cheese prices this year are about the same as they were a year ago, but butter is worth, for creamery, ten cents more, while dairy brings an equally advanced price.

Receipts last week amounted to 1,490 packages, against 1,076 packages for the previous week, and 1,031 packages same week a year ago. Receipts to date amount to 413,148 packages, against 607,779 packages same date a year ago.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

Business is slightly more brisk among Canadian packers this week, though it is yet considerably below normal.

The British market, too, is more favorable than it has been for some weeks but even yet is not in a very receptive condition for Canadian hog products. The extraordinarily large deliveries, both from Denmark and the United States, for two or three weeks previously, loaded British buyers pretty fully and kept the market depressed to about the same basis it has held for some time. For two weeks supplies from these sources have fallen off somewhat and a partial recovery is the result.

Last week's Danish "killings" were only about normal, and American shipments, also, were below the records of several weeks previous.

Deliveries to Canadian packing houses were considerably above those of any week recently. The improvement in the condition of the roads had a good deal to do with this, but the light receipts of several weeks almost assured larger deliveries when business opened again. "We got all the hogs we wanted to handle, at present market conditions," said one of the leading packers this week. These deliveries, too, were made at the rather unfavorable prices quotsd last week, which still rule, namely, f.o.b. $4.90, hogs off cars at factory, $5.25 to $5.30.

The American market was very unsteady last week, showing strength in some districts and weakness at other points. Receipts were generally pretty free, but peculiarly enough, this had no evident effect on prices.

PROVISION MARKETS

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—There is an easier feeling in provisions this week. A decline in compound lard is noticeable. Wholesalers say, some of them, that they are importing considerable American lard, which is being sold at prices about the same as the Canadian.

BUTTER—No noticeable changes are reported. The market is steady at present, but underneath the firmness there is a certain amount of uneasiness, due to the fact that people are unwilling to pay the high prices being asked. An easier feeling may be expected. Stocks of creamery are being reduced steadily. Dairy is plentiful.

EGGS—The expected break in new-laid has happened and prices have declined 3c and 4c. This is due to the fact that supplies have been heavy and prices were too high accordingly. There is little prospect for American eggs being imported. Many offers are being received by local dealers, but owing to the difference in value between American and Canadian eggs and the plentiful supply of new-laid eggs at present it is not likely that any American eggs will be brought to this market. COMMONS DISCUSS MEAT INSPECTION.

Information Asked Regarding System Used Here—Mr. Fisher's Answers.

The matter of the inspection of Canadian meats intended for export was discussed in an interesting manner in the House of Commons last week. Mr. Reid who had evidently been reading some of the unfavorable reports of English inspectors on American frozen meats, asked for information on several questions. The matter is reproduced from Hansard, substantially, as follows :

1. 'Has the attention of the Minister of Agriculture been drawn to an item in the 'Daily Mail,' of Manchester, Jan. 27, headed 'Frozen Boneless Meat ? Mr. John Burns advised to stop exports'; the article going on to speak of the boneless scrap meat now being admitted into the United Kingdom, mostly from the United States, with closing paragraphs : 'Mr. Burns is enabled by the Public Health Act to deal with the matter, and the report says that the trade is so small that to prohibit all such imports would cause little trouble To guard further against the danger of tuberculosis from pork coming from Holland, Denmark, and other countries, besides America, it is suggested that only carcases should be imported containing the parts enabling inspectors to detect disease, and portions less than carcases only when bearing an official mark approved by the board, such approval depending on the guarantee supplied by the exporting countries.' "

In answer to this, Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, said :

"The item substantially as quoted was published in the Canadian papers at the time of its appearance in England and was then read by the Minister of Agriculture."

2. "Has there been any correspondence between the Imperial and Canadian Governments with reference to frozen meats in boxes or barrels or packages?"

The answer was in the negative.

3. "Has the Government a system of inspection now in operation by which all frozen meats in boxes or other packages for export are duly inspected and properly stamped and certified before shipment ?"

Mr. Fisher replied that, "All meat food products prepared in establishments engaged in export or interprovincial trade are, under the provisions of the Meat and Canned Foods Act, subjected to thorough and careful inspection by officers specially trained for this duty. All such meat food products, as well as the boxes or other packages containing them, are duly marked before leaving the establishment in which they are prepared, and in case of products destined for export by sea, provision is made for the issue by the inspector in charge of the establishment of origin, of a certificate of inspection and approval which must be filed with the customs authorities before clearance can be granted to the vessel carrying such products."

Question No. 4—"If not, is it the intention of the Government to adopt such a system ?" was answered in No. 3.

5. "Would any action such as proposed in this article, that such meats be prohibited by the British Government, affect shipments of Canadian products

THE PORK AND BEANS SITUATION

Retailers throughout Canada know how hard it is to persuade their customers to accept any Pork and Beans other than Clark's.

They have tried them, and come back time and again for more. Retailers know the amount of time and talk it will take—and the sales which will be lost—in an effort to push other Brands. Jobbers can have any orders for Clark's Pork and Beans filled promptly and completely, so if you specify Clark's Pork and Beans you will get them. It is wise to insist.

NEW LINE OF CHOCOLATE.

Another line of high-clas Swiss milk chocolate is being placed on the Canadian market under the name of "Lucerna." Geo. E. Bearns, managing director of John Bearns Co., of London, Eng., who is interested in the Swiss factory, where these goods are produced, is superintending the Canadian business and has been in Toronto recently arranging the Ontario end of this. The Dominion Import and Trading Co., 25 Front St. east, Toronto, are pushing "Lucerna" chocolates in Ontario. A Limerick contest, which just closed this week and was entered by a large number of Toronto citizens, is one of the features of the methods used.

THE FLOUR AND CEREAL MARKETS

Interest Centered in Amendment to Grain Exchange Charter in Winnipeg—Local Business Fair But Export Small.

Interest is centred principally this week in the amendment to the Winnipeg Grain Exchange's charter which has passed the provincial legislature. Grain men generally seem to be wondering what will be the outcome of the move.

Two lines of opinion seem to be held among eastern dealers. One is that the matter is somewhat of a bluff and will not have any material effect.

The other opinion is that the amendment will probably result in the moving of the exchange to Fort William or that business will go on behind closed doors, with no auction market. Nobody seems to know as yet what the real result of the change will be, but definite information may be expected in a few days.

The markets are generally steady this week, with a firmer tone in flour, and some dullness evident in cereals. Local shipping business is very fair, but export trade is very quiet.

MONTREAL.

FLOUR—There is a firmer feeling in the market this week, and a raise in price is likely to take place shortly. Demand is very good for home trade, but there is very little export business being done at present.

WESTERN MERCHANTS' CONVENTION.

Fourth Annual Meeting of Retail Association at Winnipeg Last Week.

On Wednesday, Feb. 19, the fourth annual meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada was held in the association rooms in the Scott Block, Winnipeg. The attendance was not very large, but the members in attendance meant business and as the reports of the president and secretary showed gratifying progress, the members were very much encouraged. At no stage of its history has the association been distinguished for large gatherings, but this is readily explained when one remembers the vast territory included and the expenses of attending a meeting. The energetic and intelligent work of the executive has resulted in adding very largely to the membership, and if the annual meetings are small there have been very many successful local meetings in various parts of the country, at which the real work of the association has been done.

President McLaren was unavoidably absent from the meeting and the chair was taken by J. D. Baine of Boissevain. In the course of a short address, Mr. Baine reviewed the work of the association and paid a tribute to the thorough and effective work of Organizer Ledoux, to whose efforts was mainly due the big increase in country membership. He also referred to the unsuccessful efforts of the association to induce the Manitoba Legislature to pass a Small Debt Court Bill to facilitate the collection by merchants of small debts from 25 cents up to $50 through a special court where costs would be low. The association had not succeeded in this, but would continue its efforts. Pressure was also being brought to bear on the Saskatchewan Legislature to induce it to pass a similar measure.

He was glad to be able to report that the association now has a surplus of assets of $908.95, which is the best financial report yet submitted.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The report of the secretary was substantially as follows :

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen :

This is the sixth report for me as secretary of this association. I have seen it grow from nothing to what it is to-day, owing to the efforts of your worthy executive, who have not lost any chance of bettering the interests of the general merchant throughout the country.

I am pleased to be able to say that we can show a net profit for 1908, as the financial report will show. Our actual membership has increased to almost double its size of last year.

EDINBURGH

Our information department shows it has been used very extensively by the members.

Our credit reports (issued monthly) show over 2,000 names as a guide to members against bad credits.

In regard to mutual fire insurance, the association has got to the stage where we can issue policies, and it rests with the meeting to-day as to the by-laws to go on the back of the policies.

Regarding the small debt court, this matter was brought up at the present session of parliament, with the result that all we could secure was an amendment to the County Court Act, which does not cover any reasonable amount of our complaint. The attorney-general tells me it will be necessary for us to bring it up at next session. Our bill was turned down because it included unincorporated municipalities as well as towns and cities, and they say it would be impossible to bear the expense of holding a court in every little town and hamlet, and therefore they could not let us have it on that basis.

In regard to the city section I might state that we have a grocer, butcher, druggist, music dealer, flour and feed, wholesale liquor dealer and other sections, all working successfully.

E. B. Nixon, president of the Winnipeg City grocers' section, gave an interesting talk on the work of that section and strongly endorsed the association work. He referred particularly to the credit department and stated that it is constantly saving him money. The association dead beat list was of great value and he found that the secretary was always able to supply him with reliable information as to the standing of any prospective customer about whom he might be doubtful.

Officers Elected.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, E. B. Nixon, Winnipeg; 1st Vice-president, J. D. Baine, Boissevain; 2nd Vice-president, J. Hiebert, Altona; Secretary-treasurer, W. A. Coulson; Executive Committee, W. G. McLaren, Souris; J. F. Hunter, Boissevain; W. G. Paynter, Tantallon; J. E. DeCosse Somerset; R. F. Moore, Cartwright; H. O. May, Somerset, and the chairmen of the various city sections.

A. P. MURRAY,

Chairman Advisory Committee, Exhibition of Groceries, Montreal.

The report of President McLaren, of Souris, did not reach Winnipeg in time to be read at the opening of the convention. Speaking of the finances, however, it said: "To deal with the financial situation first, I would say that it is in a much healthier state than it was a year ago. Membership fees this year amounted to $4,227.35. The profits of pure food show were $486.65, and the balance on hand $11.35, making total receipts of $4,775.35, with a total expenditure of $4,765.25, leaving a balance on hand of $10.10. Our balance sheet shows liabilities of $512, with assets of $1,420.95, leaving a balance to credit of $908.95, which I consider a remarkably good showing. Our expenditure was increased considerably by the hardware men going out of business as an association.

The action of our directors in engaging Mr. Ledoux to canvass the outside points for members has met with success. His salary was a large increase in expenditure, but it has proven to be a profitable one.

The insurance matter was taken up by your committee at a special meeting in July and I am pleased to state that matters are in shape, so that insurance can be placed by the Retail Association at twenty per cent. saving to the retailers of the three provinces who are members of the association.

The pure food show which was held in Winnipeg in June and July was a financial success to the association.

The business tax was another matter taken up by the association, and as a result retailers in the city were lightened considerably of their heavy burdens.

The garbage question was taken up by the association and settled to the satisfaction of the retailers. Your directors spent a great deal of time in connection with the small debt courts, but have not been able to have this law passed by the Legislature. However, we trust that it will be passed in a short time.

In conclusion, allow me to wish our annual meeting for 1908 a success, both as to business matters brought up and dealt with."

WAGSTAFFE'S DISPLAY.

One of the late arrivals at Carsley's Food Fair in Montreal, was Wagstaffe, of Hamilton. Their tardy arrival, however did not interfere with the attractiveness of the display they made. Their various lines were in charge of their agent, A. G. Snowden, who says sales are good in Montreal and district.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Better Business Reported in Green Fruits —Potatoes Continue Fairly Firm— Fish Business Stiffer With the Approach of Lent.

The fruit market has been more active lately and with the approach of spring things will brighten up considerably. Prices are pretty well sustained. Oranges have a firm feeling. Floridas are getting low. Marmalade oranges are in good demand. Apples have a better tone and are steady. Lemons are moving well. While prices are no higher, the market is extremely firm. Cranberries are strong but scarce.

Potatoes, though much easier at the beginning of the week, have picked up and are now fairly strong. The demand has been good. Supplies of Delawares are not plentiful. Frost has done some damage. Domestic onions are in short supply and have advanced to $1.50 per bag. Other lines of domestic stuff are unchanged. No improvement is noticeable in sales of fancy imported stuff which continues to be slow.

The fish market is in a healthy condition and with Lent so near at hand, business is bound to be much brisker. Already very good orders are being received although some buyers are holding back to see how the weather goes. Supplies of all lines are quite satisfactory at present, although fears are entertained of a shortage in haddock and cod during the early part of Lent.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—Business in green fruit is still quiet, but as March is approaching better trade is anticipated. Strawberries are very scarce and are selling as high as 75c. per box. Cranberries and pineapples also have taken a sharp advance. Other lines are unchanged.

GREEN FRUITS—The market is practically featureless. Prices are well sustained by a steady demand. Oranges are selling satisfactorily. A good business is being done in marmalade oranges. VEGETABLES—Potatoes continue to be the centre of attraction. Everything last week pointed to a break, but prices have been sustained by a steady demand. Shipments from New Brunswick are being held up and this is an important factor in the market. Onions are very scarce and have advanced to $1.50 per bag. Little business is being transacted in imported vegetables. Some choice carrots, tomatoes and celery are on the market. Prices remain unchanged.

MARKET FOR EVAPORATED APPLES.

Trade Commissioner Summarizes Conditions of Demand in England.

W. A. MacKinnon, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Bristol, Eng., in his last report speaks of a favorable market in England for evaporated apples. He summarizes conditions as follows:

"The demand for evaporated apples depends chiefly on crop conditions as reflected in the values of green fruit. The best trade is done just after Christmas.

"The favorite package appears to be the 25-pound box, put up in California style. The next in demand is a 50-pound box, and finally, the one-pound cardboard package meets a considerable demand for certain markets.

"Grading should be very carefully attended to, it being essential that the fruit should be uniform in quality throughout the package, and throughout all the packages in any given consignment, which bear the same grade mark. Good sized fruit is always in demand; the color should be pale, as nearly white as possible, the fruit being so treated as to retain its color after being exposed to the air.

"In certain districts price is a small consideration, high quality being essential when as much as 8d. per pound is asked, retail; but the general average price varies from 4d. to 6d. per pound, retail, the bulk of the trade being increased as the price is reduced. Rings are most in favor, though there is a considerable demand for whole cored if of good size and color.

"As has been before stated, the market draws most of its supplies from the United States. One firm states that in its experience Canadian fruit has been found considerably superior. In any case, I would repeat that this and other products will always find a sentimental preference in the British market which will be quite sufficient to turn the scale, if in quality and price the Canadian article can hold its own with foreign competitors."

VALENCIA ORANGE INDUSTRY.

Conditions in Spanish Fruit Growing Districts Are Very Serious.

Writing from Valencia under date of January 24, United States Consul Chas. S. Winans gives an interesting report of the present condition of the Spanish orange-growing industry, which should be of interest to Canadian fruit dealers.

Speaking of the depression which has been ruling in that country for some time, he says :

"Agricultural depression, especially in fruit growing, continues to increase in this district. The crisis first developed in the wine trade, in which it reached such an acute stage recently that some important wine growers, unable to obtain even the very low price of 6 cents a gallon for their product, rolled their wine casks on the public highways that passers-by might drink gratuitously.

"Now orange growers and exporters have been overtaken by disaster so crushing and complete that foreign markets on which they depend almost exclusively for the consumption of the Valencia crop, have all collapsed. Production has outgrown the requirements of available markets abroad, while home markets, in the interior and northwest coast of Spain, are at present inaccessible to Valencia fruit growers, owing to deficient transportation facilities and high freight rates both by sea and land. In the first two months of the present season—November and December—1,600,000 cases of oranges were exported, or about 240,000,000 pounds, and three-fourths of the crop still remains on the trees.

"Farmers have been forced to sell their oranges to packers as low as 10 cents an arroba of 25 pounds, and exporters have been receiving average prices of $1.25 per case of 150 pounds of fruit, which, after deducting packing expenses, freight, and sale charges, leaves practically nothing for the oranges.

"Among the causes assigned for the threatened ruin of the Valencia orange trade, with exports valued at $12,000,000, appear to be lack of intelligent organization of growers and packers for the distribution of exports in proportion to the consuming capacity of markets, excessive production, and deterioration of quality of fruit, and dependence of farmers and merchants on foreign capital.

"British fruit brokers and merchants finance the greater part of the Valencia fruit trade, advancing one-half to two-thirds the prospective value of consignments, their commission profits being increased by excessive shipments. Oranges this season colored eight days earlier than usual, the shipments in the first two weeks of November exceeding by 260,000 cases the totals exported up to the same date last season. At that early date British and German markets still well supplied with apples, Almeria grapes, and other autumn fruits, were not prepared for such heavy imports of oranges, and have not yet recovered from the collapse at the very opening of the season.

"Moreover, Valencia orange growers, in their anxiety in recent years to increase production by intensive cultivation and high fertilization have succeeded to some extent, at the expense of quality, flavor, and keeping condition of the fruit, which has acquired a coarser skin and texture and more acidity, while Jamaica and Jaffa oranges, now competing with Valencias on British markets, have steadily gained in favor. A box of Jaffa oranges containing 144 to 152 oranges, or about one-third the number in a Valencia case, realizes at present on British markets one shilling (24 cents) more than the latter."

A TRIP THROUGH THE FACTORY.

The Grocer Representative Visits the Home of St. George's Baking Powder and Sovereign Lime Juice.

The Grocer took a hurry-trip through the N. D. & C. Co.'s Toronto manufactory this week, on invitation of Frank C. Simson, manager Sovereign Mills, Beverley street and learned a lot. He was shown how the baking powder was made from the cream tartar crystal to the finished and labeled and boxed tin. He was initiated also into the mysteries of the refining of Sovereign lime juice, after wandering around through a basement filled with casks of the raw lime juice. Mr. Simson's knowledge of his subject impressed The Grocer very strongly, and his enthusiasm in his work is a guide to the success he has made of his lines. An old Haligonian, known throughout Canada and the principal centres of the United States, as an enthusiastic grocery and drug specialty man, Mr. Simson's translation to the management of the Toronto factory must augur well for the success of the trade. His guidance through the plant, and explanations to The Grocer were important and interesting. Many improvements have been made in the plant and with modern machinery installed, under capable workmen, with clean, bright rooms for the help, St. George's baking powder, Sovereign lime juice and the other grocery specialties, spices, etc., are being carefully and well prepared for the market. The journey through the plant, though a rapid one, was interesting, and Mr. Simson's optimism as to the success of St. George's baking powder and Sovereign lime juice left a pleasant impression.

NOVA SCOTIA GROCERY NEWS

Open Roads and Navigation in Local Parts Has Brightened Business—Large Apple Shipments to Britain—Eggs Plentiful—Some Grocer Hockeyists.

(Special Correspondence to The Canadian Grocer)

Halifax, N.S. Feb. 24.—Trade continues favorable throughout the province. The country roads are in fairly good condition and open navigation, at the coast ports helps business very materially. Collections are reported to be fully up to the average. Prices generally are steady and there is no immediate prospect of any change.

There is a considerable movement of apples at the present time and some heavy shipments are being made to the London market to catch the Easter trade.

As a result of the recent mild weather the receipts of fresh laid eggs have been very heavy and the market at the present time is practically over-stocked, something unusual at this season of the year. The price for fresh laid stock has dropped to 25 cents per dozen, and there is little or no sale for storage eggs. Many of the dealers have large stocks of limed eggs on hand, and if the mild weather continues they stand to lose heavily. Some of the dealers are shipping the fresh laid eggs to the Montreal market where they command a good price at the present time, and they are holding back the storage stock for better prices. Open navigation between the mainland and Prince Edward Island has also helped to keep prices down, as stock can be shipped from the Island with little or no interruption.

The price of fresh hogs has been advanced. They are now quoted at 8½ cents. At the present time the dealers have good stocks on hand, but it is expected that the receipts will soon show a falling off.

The annual meeting of the Stanley Bridge Dairying Company, of Prince Edward Island, was held last week. The business of the cheese season amounted to $16,771.33. The patrons got $13,500 for milk, an average of $100 each. The butter factory, which is operated by the same company, made about 110,000 pounds of milk into butter during November, December and January. The directors elected were: Walter Simpson, W. H. Hogan, J. H. Simpson, W. Taylor, Murray Robertson, Alexander Buntain and Miller Tyfe. Walter Simpson was elected president.

C. W. Anderson's grocery business is being transferred from George St. to Barrington St., at the corner of Prince St. The firm's new location is on the main business thoroughfare of the city.

The Dartmouth grocers have taken to hockey and last week they battled with the employes of the hardware firm of J. Simmons & Co. and the grocers won out by a score of three to two.

WILL MANAGE TEA DEPARTMENT

D. L. Grant Succeeds W. H. Halford With S. H. Ewing & Sons, Montreal.

D. L. Grant has been appointed manager of the tea department of S. H. Ewing & Sons, Montreal, succeeding W. H. Halford.

Mr. Grant is widely known in Montreal grocery circles, and also among tea brokers in London and Edinburgh. Altogether, he has spent twenty-three years of his life in the business, and S. H. Ewing & Sons feel that in picking him to look after their tea business they have secured one of the best men obtainable. He has already begun his duties, having called upon the Montreal trade during the past week.

You can go from here to Timbuctoo and you'll not discover a brand of pipe tobacco which can beat it in flavor and purity. There is absolutely no "dope" in T. & B.—just pure leaf tobacco, properly cured and cut. It is handled only by clean people in a model factory. It is mild and fragrant and moderate in price; and you can handle it with an assurance of good profits and continuous sales.

CANADIAN MACARONI FACTORY.

New Firm in Montreal Will Supply the Canadian Trade.

If present plans are carried out Montreal wil have a vermicelli and macaroni factory capable of supplying the wants of the entire Canadian trade. C. H. Catelli, who has for many years operated a factory on Barclay St., has purchased the building on William St., at the head of King, at present occupied by A. McCullough & Co., A. D. McGillis and other produce men. These tenants will be forced to move in May, when the building will be remodelled to suit the needs of a factory which will turn out 6,000,000 pounds of macaroni and vermicelli a year, which is the present consumption in Canada.

Mr. Catelli left recently on a trip for Italy where he will purchase all the necessary machinery, securing only the most modern patterns. It is expected that the factory will be ready to operate on June 1.

Speaking of the intended output, Mr. Catelli said that there was no reason why Canada should not be supplied by Canadian manufacturers. He said that most of our present outside competition was from Italy, France and the United States. Last year 60,000 tons of wheat had been exported to Italy and a great percentage of this had come back in the form of macaroni, vermicelli and other alimentary products.

H. Laporte, head of Laporte, Martin & Co., is one of the directors of the newly-incorporated firm, C. H. Catelli & Co., which is capitalized at $250,000.

BRIBED—NEED NOT PAY.

Rather a novel decision was that handed down recently by a court in New York City. In New York State there is a law making it a misdemeanor to bribe a purchasing agent, or other employe of a firm making purchases of goods from the person who offers the bribe. The penalty is a fine of $500 or a year in prison, or both.

It appears that one firm sold a large retail store a $1,555 bill of goods, paying the purchasing agent a 5 per cent. commission on the transaction. The agent's firm learned of this and refused to pay for the goods, and further refused to return them. The matter was brought into court with the result that the retail firm was upheld. The court decided that since the goods were placed with them in a criminal manner, the contract need not be carried out by the purchasers.

AN OLD TRAVELER'S DEATH.

A. H. Fuller Passes Away in Toronto Under Peculiar Circumstances.

On Sunday, Feb. 16, at noon, Alex. Henry Fuller, an ex-commercial traveler, was found dead in his bed with the gas turned on, at a hotel on Queen street east, Toronto. He had retired the night before, apparently in his usual spirits. At breakfast time he did not appear, and a few hours later one of the attendants smelt gas and summoned the proprietor. He found the door unlocked, but the deceased was dead in bed, life having been extinct for some hours.

The deceased had been on the road representing S. Davis & Co., tobacco manufacturers, Montreal. He lost his position when the company was taken over by the American tobacco trust, and since then had been unable to obtain any steady employment.

He was about fifty years of age, and lived in Woodstock before coming to Toronto. His wife and two sons live at Markham. Deceased had suffered a great deal of trouble, no less than four members of his family having died from lung diseases. He was a member of the Commercial Travelers' Benefit Society, the Order of United Workmen, and the Woodmen of the World.

PERSONAL.

Wm. Pratt, of the Acme Can Co., Montreal, was in Toronto this week.

O. Lefebvre, of the Ocean Mills, Montreal, was in Three Rivers last week.

Robt. Allan, of the Lakeside Canning Co., Wellington, was a caller at The Grocer office last week.

Alphonse Raymond, proprietor of J. A. Pennault & Co., Montreal, was in Ottawa last week on business.

H. E. Thomas, of Thomas & Lonsbury, Wyndham Centre, was in Toronto last week on a business trip and called on The Grocer.

J. Albert McLean, of the Canadian Cocoanut Co., has returned to Montreal after a two weeks' trip to New York, Philadelphia, and some other American centres.

Henri Jonas, Montreal, sails for Europe on La Provence March 12. While away for two or three months he will visit France, Italy, Austria and Switzerland, among other countries.

Provincial Politics Arousing Great Interest—Two Grocerymen Running in St. John—Winter Port Business Increased—Local Hockey Games.

(By The Canadian Grocer's Special Correspondent.

St. John, N.B., Feb. 24.—Business has been rather quiet of late. There have been no changes in quotations and nearly all lines are reported firm. People here seem to be more interested in provincial politics than anything else just at present, as the elections are to be held March 3. There are two grocerymen in the fight in St. John. Hon. D. J. Purdy on the Government ticket and W. Frank Hotheway on the opposition ticket.

amount of grain gone forward in these steamers is 3,218,871 bushels, which is within 500,000 bushels of the totel sent forward the previous season.

J. W. McAlary, Margaret McAlary, William J. McAlary and F. P. Elkin, of St. John, and H. Ashley Estabrooks, of Upper Georgetown, have applied for incorporation under the name of McAlary & Company, to carry on a general mercantile business. They are capitalized at $20,000.

Several very interesting hockey games have been played here lately by teams composed of clerks in the various mercantile establishments. The septette from T. H. Estabrook's tea house, known as the Red Rose team, have been playing several games and as victory has always perched on their banner, they are commencing to look upon themselves as invincible. About a fortnight ago they administered a crushing defeat to the National Drug Co. septette and on Thursday, Feb. 20, they downed the doughty "shoe shippers" from J. M. Humphrey & Co. by a score of 2 to 1.

PRESENTATION TO H. T. WILSON.

Who Has Severed His Connection With the Canada Brokerage Co., Toronto.

H. T. Wilson ("Tom" Wilson as he is better known to the trade) has severed his connection with the Canada Brokerage Co., Toronto. Mr. Wilson, who is the son of the late Col. A. N. Wilson, of the Rifle Brigade, has been closely connected with the wholesale grocery trade of Toronto ever since 1885, when as a boy in knickerbockers he started in with Williamson & Lambe, grocery brokers and commission merchants. From this firm he went to Watt & Scott with whom he spent several years and then went to take the management of the Trading Agency. While with this concern he in 1900 visited the principal foreign countries growing, producing and shipping grocery and food stuffs; namely, Spain, France, Greece, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Sicily, Italy and Holland. This trip put him into close touch with the trade in those countries and gave him exceptional advantages with the Canadian buyers. In 1903 he associated himself with W. F. Morley and F. W. Hudson in the formation of the Canada Brokerage Co., holding the position of secretary-treasurer. His knowledge of both foreign and domestic trade conditions was of the greatest value to his company and assisted materially toward making the concern a factor in trade circles.

Besides being a good, clear-headed business man, Mr. Wilson possesses a genial disposition and is a good companion. As a salesmen he needs no words of praise. He has sold enough goods to stand as a record. Socially, he is popular and as a curler he is an enthusiast. This popularity with his fellow-directors, travelers and other employes was manifest in a very striking manner by the presentations made last Saturday. W. F. Morley, vice-president of the Canada Brokerage Co., on behalf of the directors, presented Mr. Wilson with a very handsome and valuable gold watch and chain. In well-chosen words he expressed his personal regrets at Mr. Wilson's severance from the firm, and officially presented an illuminated address in book form,worded as follows:

Toronto, Feb. 22nd, 1908.

Dear Mr. Wilson:—The directors and staff sincerely regret the occasion has arisen for the presentation we are now making, caused by your resignation as director and secretary-treasurer of the Canada Brokerage Co., Limited, and we feel that we cannot let this opportunity pass without asking you to accept a slight token of the respect and esteem in which you are held.

During the years you have been connected with us, your high character and unfailing courtesy have endeared you to all with whom you have been associated, and while we regret the separation we feel sure that in your new sphere you will meet with that success which your ability and integrity so richly deserve.

Yours very truly,
Canada BrokerageCo.,Limited,
W. F. Morley, vice-pres.

The warehouse staff presented, through J. Dinwoody, head warehouseman, a handsome traveling bag. Mr. Wilson was much affected by the kind words of regret and appreciation so aptly expressed and thanked Mr. Morley, the directors and staff for their generous opinion and cordial good-bye treatment and hoped that the many good wishes for success in his new field would be realized.

H. T. WILSON.

CONTEMPORARY ADDS DEPARTMENTS.

The New England Grocer, one of our esteemed American contemporaries, which is published at Boston, has metamorphosed itself into a more general form, and now, under the name "New England Grocer and Tradesman," will include departments treating hardware, paints and oils, boots and shoes and dry goods as well as groceries. The idea, as expressed in a comment regarding the new features, is to keep pace with the tendency of the old-time grocery to become departmental in character so that the paper may find a place in every store in New England.

It takes skill to distinguish between real and make believe economy. Of all mistakes the most unfortunate one is that of the man who would rather save a few dollars than install the

Allison Coupon System

Every penny invested in these books means dollars saved, time economized, kicking stopped and everybody made happy. Stop the leaks.

HERE IS HOW THEY WORK:

If a man wants credit for $10.00 and you think he is good for it, give him a $10.00 Allison Coupon Book, and have him sign the receipt or note form in front of book, which you tear out and keep. Charge him with $10.00. No trouble. When he buys a dime's worth, tear off a ten-cent coupon, and so on, until the book is used up. Then he pays the $10.00 and gets another book. No pass-books, no charging, no lost time, no errors, no disputes.

than we sold in 1906, notwithstanding the 1907 business depression. You know what that means. It means that THIS YEAR we will sell a great deal more Stove Polish than ever. If our business increased under adverse conditions of 1907, what will it do in 1908? You want to push the Stove Polish that is selling. You make no mistake when you push RISING SUN and SUN PASTE.

Any Boy who has One Cent can Turn it Into Ten Dollars

One cent invested in a post card to us will bring you information about how we start you in business, so that you can earn money for yourself. You can make plenty of pocket money all the time—money you will enjoy more because you made it in business for yourself. Hundreds of boys are doing this. SO CAN YOU.

No money required. We furnish capital.

We also give prizes. There is a prize for every boy, whether he lives in a large city or a little village. Very fine prizes have gone to fellows in small places. Don't delay a minute. Write us to-day. A post card will do.

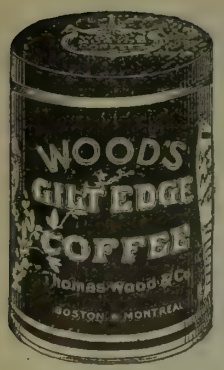
Looking to the Sunlight



ESTABLISHED 1879

The keen-eyed lookouts and pilots on the financial ship report that the business atmosphere is clear ahead, and that the glow of the morning is brightening into sunlight.

Be guided by their reports.

Remember that the Spring trade is at hand, that preparation is half the battle, and that will brighten it up amazingly.

One Aim In Life

The Packers of the "Tyne" Brand of Fish aim only to produce the best there is in Canned Scotch Fish.

¶ The Shiels Ice and Cold Storage Company have no other ambition than to excel in their one particular line as canners of "Tyne" Brand—Kippered Herring, Herring in Tomato Sauce, Bloaters, Fresh Herring. They are specialists—all effort is concentrated on doing one thing best. The canning of Fish is not a side line—but pack nothing else.

Fish and only Fish

from one year's end to another. Every tin they use is seamless—the contents are absolutely free from outside influence from the moment the can is sealed. No deterioration is possible from the original clean, high-grade, carefully packed product. The "Tyne" brand is superior from every point of view.

Capital and Surplus, $1,500,000. Offices Throughout the Civilized World
Executive Offices: Nos. 346 and 348 Broadway, New York City, U.S.A.

THE BRADSTREET COMPANY gathers information that reflects the financial condition and the controlling circumstances of every seeker of mercantile credit. Its business may be defined as of the merchants, by the merchants, for the merchants. In procuring, verifying and promulgating information no effort is spared, and no reasonable expense considered too great, that the results may justify its claims as an authority on all matters affecting commercial affairs and mercantile credit. Its offices and connections have been steadily extended, and it furnishes information concerning mercantile persons throughout the civilized world.

Subscriptions are based on the service furnished, and are available only by reputable wholesale, jobbing and manufacturing concerns, and by responsible and worthy financial, fiduciary and business corporations. Specific terms may be obtained by addressing the Company at any of its offices. Correspondence Invited.

DON'T MISS THIS

Not at all "Mussed up"—but all Clean and Sound!

WHEN YOU SELL YOUR CUSTOMERS

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

Canned Fruits and Vegetables

your customers are delighted with the purchase as soon as the top is off the can. The contents smell so sweet and good, and look so clean and appetizing that they fairly make your customers' mouth water. And when those contents repose in a dish on the dainty housewife's table, the husband of the dainty housewife starts right out to shower praises on the grocer who supplied Old Homestead Brand. That's the kind of thing which

CREATES FOR YOU THE COME-BACK-FOR-MORE-OLD-HOMESTEAD-AND-OTHER-THINGS-CUSTOMERS

Your jobber can supply Old Homestead. Ask him to send some.

The Old Homestead Canning Co.

Essex Tomatoes

are favored with unusual soil and climate, and are all vine-ripened. We offer a ready market to any grower whose product comes up to the high standard we have established. The result is the exceptional quality of our canned Tomatoes and Tomato Catsup. We tap the heart of Ontario's famous farming district and the best that grows comes to us logically and naturally.

The first can of any Essex product must recommend the second. Ask for special quotations.

CAUSES OF WONDERFUL GROWTH IN FAVOR:

Superior Flavor

Superior Stimulating Powers

Your customer could afford to buy of you a Ceylon Tea of twice as high a grade as any other; the cost per cup would be no more because Ceylon will make two to any other's one. Besides, shrewd merchants have observed that Ceylon boosts all their trade; consumers take its excellence as an earnest of all their goods.

Profitable Goods

Are the goods that are a little better than the others: goods that will make sales where the others won't. Ozo Brand Pickles are good pickles, and show their quality. We have special facilities for turning out the best pickles, and we have made the most of them. For instance, we provide the seed from which the vegetables are grown and so get the best from the start; the cucumbers go straight from the vine to the factory, so that none of the fresh crispness is lost. We make our own vinegar and it cannot be beaten for pickling purposes. It will certainly pay you to specify that you want our goods when ordering pickles.

Things don't "just happen" in this world—there's a reason for everything, and there's a splendid reason why Windsor Salt has reached that much sought for pinnacle that entitles the makers to justly claim it "best."

¶ To-day it is the Standard Salt from which comparisons are made when some one is trying to sell an inferior product—something "just as good." The purity, whiteness, dryness, and free-running qualities of Windsor Salt are almost proverbial. "It's the Standard"—isn't that enough?

Established 1840

Old enough to have the benefit of the experience of a lifetime. Strictly up-to-date in every particular. With this issue we show our sewing department where are sewn. Up to this point machinery does not figure very largely in the manufacture of brooms, but the selling qualities of a broom depend very largely on the care and the skill used in sewing and the best work can only be done on up-to-date machines.

The making of "PANSY" Brooms

20 years ago we introduced the first steam power broom sewing machine into this country.

To-day our factory is equipped with the most up-to-date machines each with its expert operator turning out brooms at the rate of a four string broom every minute.

SEWING ROOM

Twenty years ago we purchased the Canadian patents on what was then the latest thing in sewing machines, since that time we have kept our sewing machine equipment up to the last minute. We have not hesitated to relegate to the scrap heap machines in perfect condition when something better has come along. We have discarded better machines than most factories are equipped with.

We manufacture all kinds of Brooms and Whisks.

We Are All Creatures of Habit

are living to-day much in the same way as we spent yesterday, until some unusual event turns up—makes us do a little readjusting like the housewife at Spring cleaning. This unusual happening has come about in the tea trade. Planters have been growing too much tea since about 1895 so that merchants have been giving their customers some good values at very low prices—wonderful when one remembers that a tea bush on the average only produces about 2½ ounces of made tea per year (say six bushes yield a pound). As a result of low prices planters in Ceylon have been interplanting their tea with rubber and in the next two or three years it is estimated that the land under tea cultivation will be decreased by 50,000 acres, all in the low grade districts. In addition tea consumption has increased; foreign markets alone, which in 1900 took only fifty-five millions from India and Ceylon, in 1907 took one hundred and twenty million pounds. The present high prices for tea are the result, and with a decreased acreage and increased consumption a return to the low range of prices of the past ten years seems improbable. The merchant who keeps these two facts before him and abandons the pushing of the sale of his lower priced teas, and commences now to put his selling energy behind the better grades, is sure to win out in the long run. Recommend your customers to buy 40c. tea, there has been no advance in price of this grade, and the better quality will soon bring you repeat orders.

The London Grocers' Banquet

Wisdom, Wit and Humor From the First Annual Function of the Local Retailers' Association—A Most Successful Affair Arranged by a Prosperous Organization.

What an enthusiastic lot of grocers they have up there in London. There's one town in Canada where they are not missing the best things in either business or social life and this was strongly evidenced at the annual banquet—the first, by the way—of the Retail Grocers' Association in the Tecumseh House, London, on Thursday evening last, Feb. 27. The function showed, too, in a most striking way, the benefits of organization.

The London Association is, without any doubt, one of the largest and most progressive in Canada. Witness the fact that a hundred and fifty grocers, with a few guests, a mighty good representation of the trade in the city, sat down that evening to a dinner that was well worthy of the association.

And what a lot of good fellows they were. The association has certainly done a good deal in the promotion of good feeling among the knights of the scales and scoop in London. One would never imagine that those jolly chaps sitting there like old-time friends, would be bucking against one another good and hard next day along business lines.

What the dinner proper was may be readily judged from the menu reproduced herewith. The wholesale trade of the city was pretty well and humorously represented in the captions given to the various courses.

The Toast List.

After everybody was comfortable and the "weeds" were going well President Harry Ranahan, who presided gracefully as toast master during most of the evening, set the ball rolling by welcoming the guests and speaking of the aims of the association. A toast to the King was drunk, and then the president, after proposing "Canada, Our Home," called on Col. A. M. Smith to respond.

Col. Smith, in an appropriate address, avoided referring to Canada's glorious and much-talked-of resources in favor of emphasizing a need for a policy of defence for this heritage of ours. He declared that we should be in a position to adequately defend all our possessions and advocated progress along the lines of preparation by additional military equipment and instruction. "Canada will never lie down to be kicked by a bully," said Col. Smith. "While preserving our loyalty to the Empire, we must gain further control over our own affairs and stand responsible for them."

"To-night is the anniversary of Paardeburg," said Col. Smith in closing. "Our London boys served there, and I would like to ask for three cheers in celebration of that great victory." The cheers came in mighty volume, and the appropriate reference was deeply appreciated.

The Wholesalers Talk.

After a song by E. J. Ryan, treasurer of the association, President Ranahan proposed the toast "The Wholesale and Mercantile Interests of London," and called on three of the leading wholesalers of the city to respond.

Moses Masuret, of M. Masuret & Co., was in particularly happy mood and gave a characteristically humorous address. Referring to the days when he entered the grocery business fifty years ago and when, as he said, "Golly, I grew like Topsy," he told of the old way of doing business. He chose the grocery business, he said, "because it seemed so easy to be good in," and becoming half serious for a moment, spoke of the association as a means of improving questionable old-time conditions. "Morals can't be bought on margin," he said. "They must be cash down."

"In the old times there were none of these jolly travelers," said Mr. Masuret, becoming humorous again, "who come in and get their own customers. I went out of business ten years ago," he said, "because I had no customers. The travelers had them all."

In closing, Mr. Masuret suggested several ways in which the association could be useful to the members of the trade and propounded rather a novel epigram when he likened the grocery business to Scotland, because there are no Jews in either.

John Garvey expressed himself as believing that the very evident success of the Retail Grocers' Association augured well for the business interests of London. "There are no two interests in the trade," he said. "The interests of wholesaler and retailer are one and they should work together."

Mr. Garvey thought retailers, generally, were not making the profits they should and advocated a standing together by means of the association for satisfactory prices.

John M. Dillon, of A. M. Smith & Co., said the prosperous looks on the grocers' faces were an evidence of a good year of business. He thought London grocers did get pretty fair prices and were more harmonious and kept the trade on a higher level than in the majority of Canadian towns.

After a song by "Tom" Ranahan, Mayor Stevely was called to respond to the toast "The Corporation of the City of London."

Mayor Advocates Union Picnic.

The Mayor, who by the way, was given a rousing reception, referred to the local grocers as a fine body of business men, who, he said, were indeed a credit to the city. Enlarging on some of the attractions of the city, he spoke appreciatively of the Wednesday half-holiday picnics the grocers held last summer and sugested the idea mentioned in these columns a couple of weeks ago, that a monster picnic of Western Ontario grocers be held in London during the coming summer. The idea was received with a good deal of enthusiasm.

"Our Manufacturers."

"Our Manufacturers," was replied to by Mr. Knight, of Lever Bros., Toronto, and R. C. Eckert, of Gorman, Eckert, London.

Mr. Knight said he was glad to meet those who distributed "Sunlight" for his firm, and regretted that he had not the opportunities of the travelers for getting among the retailers. He felt that he was studying his own interests when he was considering those of the retailer, and suggested that comment and criticism of goods from the retailer were always welcomed by the manufacturer.

Mr. Eckert went back to his old days behind the counter, in a humorous way, and then referred appreciatively to the trade of to-day in London. "It is on a good basis," he said, "and I am proud of it."

The City Travelers.

The nice points of the London grocers were brought out again in reply to the toast, "Our City Travelers."

"There is no town in Canada with a more admirable lot of tradesmen," said William Turnbull, of Edward Adams & Co., who is the oldest traveler in the city. "It is only a pleasure to call on them. They treat us courteously and do not waste our time, and," continued Mr. Turnbull, "the outside travelers tell us the same thing." Continuing, Mr. Turnbull spoke of the grocer as a philanthropist and said that no other class of business men give so much for charity or are of so much help in times of financial stress. "There is no trade," said Mr. Turnbull, enthusiastically. "to which we as grocers need to take off our hats."

Speaking of some of the incidents of the business, Mr. Turnbull characterized price-cutting and swearing as a weakness, and said that no good grocer would do it. He made a plea for higher business ideals, saying that character was worth immeasurably more than money and should be sought for.

Clem. Garvey, the youngest city traveler, said that the success of the banquet was an evidence of the good results of the organization of the association. In a humorous way he referred to the city travelers as most conscientious gentlemen who always worked for the general welfare of the trade.

Mr. Cleghorn also spoke briefly, outlining some of the troubles the travelers met with in their journeys, and referring to the courteous treatment accorded them in London, where they were always glad to come.

Here Vice-President Shaw took charge of the toast list and after a couple of songs by Alf. Johnson; one an adaption of some local hits to a popular air, called on E. J. Moore, Toronto, editor of The Canadian Grocer, to respond to the toast, "Our Trade Journal."

The Grocer Gets in a Word.

Mr. Moore congratulated the members of the association on the success and the good work done by the organization. Speaking of the good feeling evident among the members, he compared the association to a family of brothers and evoked some amusement by suggesting President Ranahan, one of the youngest members of the organization.

In advocating a wider work than the association was now doing, Mr. Moore asked the opinion of the London grocers as to the formation of a Provincial Retail Grocers' Association. He spoke of the success of similar organizations in the United States and in different trades in Canada and urged consideration of the project. The London association, being one of the largest and strongest in the province, could be a large factor in carrying forward the suggested movement. In conclusion he supported the suggestion for a union picnic of western Ontario grocers at London during the summer and proposed that some action might be taken in this important matter then.

The Association Itself.

One of the most popular toasts, naturally, was that to the "London Retail Grocers' Association." This was replied to by three of the leading members.

R. J. Donaghy, who was, by the way, chairman of the banquet committee, extended a hearty welcome to the guests and spoke of some of the helpful features of the association.

John Diprose emphasized the benefits of the association in practical business and made a plea for a larger membership and more enthusiasm.

Treasurer E. J. Ryan outlined the history of the or-organization of the association during its three years of life and quoted instances of its influence. He urged the grocers to patronize home industry and to seek to build up London and deplored the prevalency of the financial stringency idea, which, he said, could, with advantage, be combated by grocers generally.

The Last Scoopful.

That always necessary toast, "The Ladies," left almost to the last, as usual, was responded to in a most flattering manner by McKinley Millman, of Elliott, Marr & Co., and with several several more songs, a couple of humorous recitations and a toast to good fellowship by Walter Nicholl, the National Anthem was sung, the spigot was closed and the most enjoyable function was over.

The following gentlemen, besides those mentioned, and all grocers or grocery travelers, took part with song or story in the evening's entertainment :— M. McKeough, Edgar Webster, W. McEwen, W. Mullin, and Fred. Tobias, of Todhunter, Mitchell, Toronto.

The guests, beside representatives from all the local wholesale houses, included a number from Toronto.

The committee in charge of the banquet were : R. J. Donaghy, chairman; John Diprose, H. J. Glanville, H. S. Marshall, Norman McLeod, Jas. Haskett, Thos. B. McCormick, Alf. Johnson, F. Travers, F. G. Toon.

A Few "Specials."

What a bunch of musical talent the banquet brought out. Every London grocer seems to be able to sing. Wonder do they practise at the association meetings ?

That dinner was a daisy—from the juicy "Ranahan" points to the "Boyd and Todhunter" tea and coffee. And the menu card itself was quite worth while carrying off.

Alf. Johnson's topical song would have been really funny if one could have made out the words. Alf. enjoyed it quite well himself, though.

What a mutual admiration society it was anyway. The travelers told what fine fellows the London grocers were, and the grocers handed the same thing back. And everybody spoke as if they meant it.

"I went into the grocery business a long time ago," said M. Masuret. "When Moses was a boy," suggested Mayor Stevely from across the table.

The speeches were all refreshingly brief. If they had been long and windy goodness knows when President Ranahan would have gotten home.

E. J. RYAN,

Treasurer London Association.

ELECTED TO N.B. LEGISLATURE.

W. Frank Hatheway, a St. John Wholesale Grocer, Defeats Hon. D. J. Purdy.

The race between the two grocers, Hon. D. J. Purdy and W. Frank Hatheway, of St. John, in the New Brunswick elections resulted on Tuesday in favor of Mr. Hathewey with a majority of 638. Mr. Purdy was a member of the cabinet of the late Liberal Government and suffered in the Government turnover with several of his colleagues.

Mr. Hatheway is a wholesale grocer, tea and coffee merchant and has taken a prominent place in the St. John Board of Trade. He has considerable reputation as a litterateur and essayist and should be a useful member of the new legislature.

THE BENEFITS OF ORGANIZATION

The great amount of benefit which can be realized from a trade organization was evidenced most strongly at the banquet of the London Retail Grocers' Association in that city last week.

The association was re-organized with a new lease of life just three years ago. It now includes practically all the grocers of London, and these men, one hundred and twenty-five of them, sat around the tables that evening in the most friendly way possible, with good fellowship and good humor evident on every face.

And this is only as it should be. It's only when you get really well acquainted with your opposition that you find what a really first-class and companionable fellow he is and better acquaintance with the trade in your locality means a higher standard of business methods.

It is not only in the matter of good fellowship, however, that the London association has been useful. Several other matters which had been accomplished by means of the organization and the united interests it represented were mentioned at the dinner.

For instance, it has enabled the members to maintain a more satisfactory standard of prices and to shorten credits. It has placed the market by-law in a more satisfactory position and has had a good deal to do with the banishing of hucksters from almost every street in the city. Beside these very practical benefits, it has made possible a weekly half-holiday during the summer months and has organized several excursions and picnics which were remarkably successful.

The grocery trade in London is in a very satisfactory condition and considerable of the credit for this may be taken by the association.

With such evident benefits why should there not be such an organization in every town in Canada? Grocers, as a class, are perhaps better represented in any town than any other body of tradesmen, and even in the smaller towns enough members could be secured for an effective organization.

Why not get matters stirred up in your own town toward this end if such an organization does not already exist. Make a few friendly calls on some of the other grocers in your locality and see how readily they will fall in with the idea.

The Grocer will be very glad to do anything in its power at any time to aid in furthering the interests or organization of such a body.

FOR THE RAILWAY COMMISSION.

With the proposal for the reorganization and addition of members to the Board of Railway Commissioners, several suggestions have been made regarding the appointment of new commissioners. The Grocer has pleasure in submitting the name of Mr. Hugh Blain, of the Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, for consideration, and in drawing attention to the qualifications which would seem to merit his appointment.

When the board was formed some years ago, at the instigation of Hon. Mr. Blair, it was his idea that its personnel should include a lawyer, a railway man, and a business man, a seemingly ideal combination. The board, up to the present time, has been composed of a lawyer, an agriculturist and an educationist, and while there is no hesitancy in expressing praise for the excellent work it has done, it has been felt in some quarters that its work might be even more beneficial if thoroughly practical men were included in the personnel of its membership.

There is probably no other man in Ontario who has been for years so closely in touch with business matters in relation to the railways as Mr. Hugh Blain. During his presidency of the Toronto Board of Trade he secured material advantages for the city from the railways and for some years he has been considered the board's authority on freight and general railway matters. It was chiefly through Mr. Blain's influence that equalized freight rates were secured some years ago. His intimate knowledge of the situation also has been of material benefit in other matters of similar import. Mr. Blain possesses the practical knowledge of the business man in common with expert information and experience in many departments of railway business. He is, too, in personality and temperament, the type of man looked for to fill such an important position. It would seem that a mistake would be made if Mr. Blain were passed over when the vacant seat on the commission is being filled.

THE SALT BARREL DISAPPEARING

The salt industry, as well as the majority of other manufacturing interests in Canada, seems to feel the necessity for change in methods on account of the advance in cost of raw materials and the scarcity of wood. Judging from present conditions the days when salt will be packed in barrels are practically over.

Salt manufacturers claim that the prices of barrels are becoming almost prohibitive. They estimate that cooperage charges have increased eighty per cent. during the past twelve years. They have been forced to go as far east as New Brunswick for supplies, and even then the stock is mostly inferior to what it formerly was. Barrels are in use today, which would have been kicked to pieces a few years ago. The scarcity of hoop stocks is another feature which makes it difficult for manufacturers to produce a really satisfactory barrel, and to-day the two-hoop has practically displaced the old six-hoop barrel, a direct result of increased cooperage charges.

To escape the difficulty, salt manufacturers are making an increasing use of sacks in handling common salt. This change should in the end reflect to the benefit of the grocer. His profit in selling, say three sacks of 100 pounds each, will be greater than in disposing of a barrel of the same weight. Of course the question of greater amount of handling comes up and the old argument that a barrel can be so really handle really has some weight. The essential thing, however, would seem to be to have salt in a form convenient to handle, similar to the other package goods which are finding so great a place in the grocery store of to-day.

Salt in fifty and hundred-pound sacks will fill this requirement. They may be readily handled by one person, or could even be dropped in the back of a farmer's buggy, if necessary, points of advantage which a barrel certainly does not offer.

There seems to be good reason why the grocer should educate his customers and encourage the use of these smaller sized sacks for salt in preference to the barrel. It is a change which must come shortly, and the sooner the better.

THE SITUATION IN THE WEST

Preparations for Spring—Changes in Grain Exchange Taking Place—New Freight Rates Favoring Calgary and Edmonton—Satisfaction With Bank's Arrangement to Carry Winnipeg's Account.

The Western Viewpoint by our Special Winnipeg Correspondent.

The business situation in the west presents many features of interest this week. Spring is stirring, even though the ground still has its covering, albeit a thin one, of snow and ice. Some immigrants have already arrived, other arrivals are booked, farmers are filing inquiries for farm help, the collection and distribution of the seed grain is being pushed with the utmost vigor. Seed Commissioner Clarke, of Ottawa, having arrived to lend his assistance. There seems to be a feeling in the very air that spring will come early this year and everyone is preparing to take advantage of the very first break. Heavy immigration is expected, and the demand for farm help is exceptionally good, evidently the farmers are preparing to make the most of seed time this year and have everything in early.

With the closing of the market tomorrow will end the first week of the Grain Exchange under the new conditions. The act amending the charter was not formally assented to until Tuesday, but the Exchange took time by the forelock and passed a resolution on Saturday, the 22nd, doing away with the trading hours and establishing a purely curb market. This was done in order to prevent themselves from being penalized under the act, which required that all quotations should be posted, at least every half hour, in full view of the public, for whom a gallery should be provided. It is out of the question to provide a gallery in the present building. Another matter that has been provided for is the cutting out of the American quotations. These have cost the Exchange over $500 a month, and they do not propose to furnish them for the benefit of the general public. The market service as it was constituted before the passage of this act cost the Exchange over $10,000 yearly. By the passage of this act, if they continued to procure the service they would be spending $10,000 for the benefit of any Tom, Dick or Harry who may happen along.

The act provides for an unlimited membership, and in this way the whole value of the seats has been done away with. The act says they shall not be sold for more than $2,500, but at the present time one could not sell one for $500, in fact, could hardly give it away. It is a positive disadvantage to the trader, at the present time, to be a member of the Exchange, for it subjects him to restrictions and disabilities that otherwise he would not have. Curb trades are still being cleared through the clearing house that institution being a joint stock company, and some understanding having been arrived at. All members of Exchange have been counselled not to say anything for publication, but there are meetings from time to time and the council of the Exchange and the lawyers are evidently hard at work trying to find a way out of the tangle. In the meantime, though the actual local market has not been seriously affected, there is a spirit of unrest and distrust that is not helpful to business. The place where the trouble has been felt the most is in business from the south, which has dropped almost to zero point during the week. Houses that formerly handled 1,000,000 bushels a week in trades for southern customers, are not doing a thing, but are constantly pestered with inquiries as to whether all open trade had not better be closed out? What the value of the seats may be? and a dozen other things, showing that there is a lack of confidence in the outcome that is spreading as the days go by.

The fact that it has been possible to hustle this legislation through and the further fact that the Grain Growers' Associations are clamoring for Government-owned interior elevators is already diverting capital from the country. An Old Country house that had all plans drawn and preparations made for the erection of fifty elevators in the west this coming season, have summoned their representative home and he made no secret before he left that he would advise his house to have nothing to do with the matter until they had some assurance that haveing built the elevators they would not be confiscated or expropriated, or in some way wrested from them by the Government and the Grain Growers. The erection of fifty elevators of even 30,000 bushels, the minimum capacity, would represent an investment of $300,000 for buildings alone. The company who last year began the work of erecting elevators along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific are also resting from their labors, and it is more than probable they will not build any more houses this year.

A matter that is of special interest to the manufacturers of the east, is the announcement by F. W. Peters, of the C.P.R., that Calgary and Edmonton are to be put on an equality with Winnipeg in the matter of freights from the eat. This will certainly stimulate both these towns as wholesale distributing centres, and indirectly benefit the manufacturer, as it will tend to a great consumption of eastern goods. The reduction amounts to 5c per 100 pounds on 5th class matter, the class under which most of the western goods are shipped, and 8c per 100 pounds on implements. It had been intended to have this change come into effect on March 1st, but it was not possible to get the proper notifications out, and now it will come in force on March 15th, in time for a great deal of the western freight for spring trade, though, on the whole, a little late for agricultural implements, should the season be an early one. The new rate does not apply to the smaller towns, only to Calgary and Edmonton, and this, in itself, will emphasize them as distributing centres.

The announcement in the daily papers of Feb. 28th that the Bank of Montreal had agreed to carry the account of the city of Winnipeg, and to place $7,500,000 of Winnipeg securities on the London market, has been received with the utmost satisfaction by the great majority of the thinking citizens. The bank undertakes to place on the London market £1,500,000 of inscribed stock, which will enable the city to clear up completely all outstanding current liabilities, cover such new work as the paving of Main street and Higgins avenue, the great artery of the city running out to all the country east of Red river, and where all the big mills and most of the big lumber yards are situated and will further permit of the city putting $1,000,000 back into the sinking fund. The bank has also agreed to give the city an overdraft of $2,000,000 if necessary, on security of the current year's revenue. The securities will be placed on the market by the bank as soon as they are issued, which will be early in March.

It is felt by citizens generally that this is just the right thing and that it is eminently fitting that the city should be financed by Canada's wealthiest banking institution. The security is absolutely good and what more convincing to outsiders than that our own Canadian banks are willing to handle it. Mayor Ashdown laid the plans and put the machinery in motion towards securing this offer and the detail was worked out by Controller Evans and Alderman Riley, who went east to confer with the head offices of the bank and have just returned to the city.

A matter that is causing loud murmurs of discontent in the city, is the action of the Provincial Government in advancing the price of telephones to the doctors and nurses of the city. The increase is 25 per cent., whereas while the Government were stumping the country before the last election they were going to give much cheaper phones. When they bought out the Bell telephones at such an enormous figure it was thought that chances of reduction were slim, but even then no advance was anticipated. People are asking themselves, "If doctors and nurses, who will be next?"

While what was said about collections last week holds good a concrete example of how paper is being met may give a better idea of actual conditions. A representative of one of the large wholesale hardware houses stated the other day that on February first they had sent out $100,000 short date paper, the longest date being ten days, and that rather better than 65 per cent. of it had been paid. This is certainly a pretty good showing in what is supposed to be a hard year.—H.

What the Trade is Doing in the Various Towns and Cities of Canada—Bright Letters From Our Own Correspondents Tell of Improvement in Business Conditions.

CHATHAM.

Many grocers report that the month just closed has been a busy one for them. One merchant, who has always been a pretty busy man anyway, informed The Grocer man that his business for the past month was $200 better than for February, 1907. The signs are encouraging for the future also, and a good spring and summer are looked for.

An interesting relic was unearthed in Ald. Harry Andrew's grocery last week, when, on the removal of a marble slab from the top of one of the old counters, a sealed bottle containing an old coin and some interesting data of a quarter of a century ago was discovered in the pocket underneath. The bottle was sealed and contained a silver coin dated 1880, and documents containing the following information:

"Chatham, May 30, 1883.—Refrigerator commenced to build May 1, finished May 31, counter finished June 1. Built by Thomas Sutherland, assisted by Geo. Grigg and B. Sutherland. Painted and grained by Harper.

"Store—A. Heyward, Geo. Heyward, Charles Heyward, Jos. Barassin, Jas. Courtney, Jas. Marantette. Clancy majority over Cumming for Local House—427. Henry Smythe elected 1882 for Dominion. John Huxley, of Montreal, Jas. Butler, refreshment rooms, G.T.R. station.

Local sportsmen are making a big fight for the protection of fish and game. Last week a well attended meeting was held, when addresses were given by Oliver Adams and A. Kelly Evans, of Toronto, and W. Smith, of London, with respect to the fish and game situation. Petitions asking the government to enforce the game laws more rigidly, are being circulated and largely signed.

An attempt was made one night last week to break into A. J. Wilson's grocery at the corner of Grand and Vanallen avenues, North Chatham. The back door showed evidence of having been roughly used, but proved too strong a barrier for the would-be robbers.

Robert Keeley, who for some years has conducted a butcher shop on Park street, has sold out to Thos. Taylor and Wm. Steadman. The new men will both retail and wholesale.

Mrs. Hunter's general store at Charing Cross was broken into and robbed quite recently, the burglars removing a pane of glass from the door to effect an entrance.

Last week Jas. Purser's butcher shop at Wallaceburg was entered by a member of the light fingered fraternity, who carried off about 10 pounds of pork.

Messrs. Munro & Zavitz of Wallaceburg, have bought out the interests of H. A. and D. W. Stonehouse in the Stonehouse, Munroe & Zavitz Co., Limited, which has conducted a general mercantile business in that town. The present company name will, it is understood, be continued.

* * *

Jas. McHardy of Merlin is moving to Tilbury, and in partnership with D. B. McDonald, late of R. P. Adams' butcher shop, will open up a third shop in Dr. Boyd's old stand, which will be remodelled for the purpose.

One of Ald. Harry Andrew's delivery horses chanced to meet an electric car on Aberdeen bridge last Thursday. In the ensuing runaway the animal had one foot badly cut, requiring six stitches.

ANOTHER GOOD IDEA.

The following suggestion sent in by our Montreal correspondent should be of benefit to grocers generally.

"Do you know, I am selling more olives these days than I have for months," said a St. Catherine Street grocer the other day. "I struck upon a plan which seems to meet with the approval of our lady customers for they are buying more olives than they have been in the habit of doing. I am putting up olives in bottles, jam jars, which I am selling as pints and quarts. The prices are 20c. and 35c. and the jars are going like hot cakes. I bought in bulk and thought I would try this way of putting them out. The plan succeeds admirably. So much have I got in the way of returns that I am now putting up pickles in the same way. They are not slow sellers. It's not that people want either line any more than formerly, but this way of selling them caught their fancy, and they are buying."

GALT.

Slowly but steadily, is an appropriate description of the manner in which business in Galt is picking up. Several of the large industries have resumed the ten-hour day and money is becoming more plentiful, but at the same time the purchasing public have been thoroughly alarmed, and with the present unsettled condition of affairs are making only absolutely necessary purchases. A local grocer in conversation with your correspondent said that while the grocery trade was not seriously affected on the whole, yet large orders, such as were quite common six months ago, were now almost unknown. "The people," he said, "are buying in as small quantities as possible, and the sale of luxuries has diminished very perceptibly." Galt tradesmen, however, have every confidence in the situation, and expect that with the opening of spring trade will resume its normal conditions, with perhaps a small boom, as a result of the relaxation of many citizens from plain fare.

Deans & Walker have an attractively dressed window. Old Dutch Cleanser being the predominant feature.

It is currently reported, and evidently on reliable authority, that the firm of S. H. Knox & Company is about to open a branch in Galt. It would be welcomed by the public, but the desirability of 15-cent stores is a question at present provoking much argument.

* * *

The orange slump in Galt has disappeared. For a couple of weeks it was possible to buy oranges for almost a song—that is, half-ripe oranges. These have been disposed of and prices remain as before.

The Ingersoll correspondent wants to know when his town will get cheaper butter. It is the general opinion of Galt merchants that butter will remain stationary until the cows are turned out to pasture. The farmer knows when he has a short hold on the public, and he evidently means to retain it.

Mr. John Sloan, of Sloan Bros., grocers, delivered an address at a recent Board of Trade Meeting here.

GUELPH.

J. A. McCrea & Son had the crowd on Friday and Saturday in a great sale of china and crockery. Their store was packed both days and on Saturday night their China Palace was apparently pretty well cleared of the specials for that day. It was quite interesting to see such a crowd around a grocery store in Guelph and shows the people must have read their half-page advertisement in the local papers and from the appearance of the tables after they did not go away empty-handed.

H. E. Jackson, of Jackson & Son, and W. H. Fielding spent a couple of days last week in Toronto looking for bargains.

The farmers looking for clover seed on Saturday were surprised at the price, $14.50 to $15 a bushel, and likely to be higher. One farmer says they will be sticking each seed on a piece of cardboard and selling them at so much apiece next.

The fish season starts this week and the clerks will start dodging the customers who want them to stand out at the door in the cold and dip down their arms to the elbows to fish out of the brine a nice salmon trout or half dozen herring.

There is not likely to be so much cheap sugar sold now by some of the grocers since Redpath's bags have the seal on them, and it is surprising how soon the people start looking for the seal on the bags.

Thos. Hewer, the Nottingham Street grocer, has been confined to the General Hospital since New Year's with stomach trouble.

Canadian celery seems to be about all done and most stores are handling the California variety, and while a great many prefer our own, a prominent grocer told me that if the California celery is first put in hot water and then in cold and allow the top of the water to freeze it will make it just as brittle as Canadian celery and just as nice eating.

Considerable stocking of tobacco is reported this week in expectancy of a raise in price when the budget comes down next week.

INGERSOLL.

The hens have taken a cackling once more after a protracted relaxation and the presence in goodly quantities of new laid eggs on the grocers' counters is just about as cheerful a sign as the chirp of the first robin of spring. Throughout the winter fresh eggs have been unusually scarce in this district, and the highest price, 32 cents per dozen, has prevailed for some time. For the past week, however, new laid eggs have been increasing and a very liberal supply was marketed on Saturday. The result was that the price dropped immediately to 25 cents. "We have plenty of fresh eggs," said one grocer to your correspondent, "and we expect that the price wil be further reduced in the course of a few days." Eggs are always very much in demand during the winter season, and owing to the scarcity which commenced early last fall less than the usual quantities were packed, many people being of the opinion that the supply would be increased before the winter set in. Their expectations, however, were not realized, and as a result there has been a shortage all round. The high prices of meats have also had much to do with keeping up the demand for eggs, as many families believe that it is economy to use eggs in preference to many varieties of meats. From present indications it is believed that no further difficulty will be experienced in meeting the demand for fresh eggs and that the price will soon be down within the reach of all.

Would it not be better for merchants generally if a greater neighborly and reciprocal spirit was exhibited? Competition should be conducted aggressively and with all the firmness of genuine busines methods, but it should never be allowed to disrupt friendship or in any way mar the pleasant relations of every day mercantile life. He is, indeed, a fortunate merchant who is so well situated that occasions never arise when he is compelled to ask a favor of a rival. As a rule this reciprocal spirit prevails, in fact one only has to make the round of a few stores to learn the real extent that merchants are dependent upon each other. Despite the strictest attention to stocks there are times when certain lines will become short and the proprietor or a clerk go "next door" for the required article. Sometimes the remark may be heard "don't go to ——" and it leaks out that opposition has strained the pleasant relations which ought to exist. There is plenty of room on this mundane sphere for active competition and at no time is the opinion justified that anyone in particular has a monopoly on the buying public. One man has just as strong a claim and an equal privilege to engage in business as another and it is for the public to discriminate between them. It would surely be to the inestimable benefit to all if merchants showed a stronger desire to work for their common welfare so far as the little details of business life are concerned. The merchant who stands aloof from his competitors and is constantly criticizing them adversely is not displaying a commendable nor business-like spirit. Then there is a tendency to show the same spirit in the treatment he accords his customer and everyone knows that a smile is better than a frown any old time. Smiles help to get business for there is nothing more pleasing than a bright face behind the counter and a cheerful voice when the time comes eo inquire "what next" or 'is that all." Human nature likes a "good fellow" and the merchant who has the confidence and regard of his competitors will very likely keep his delivery wagon busy.

KINGSTON.

Saturday's market was a record breaker. The square was filled with big box sleighs from the adjacent islands and they were filled with the usual fine qualities of butter, eggs, chickens, meats, etc., for which the islanders are noted. Prices were good, butter 30c., eggs, 30c., chickens 15c. to 18c. a lb., pork 8c. to 9c., beef 8c. for hind and 7c. for fores. Some of the islanders drive 25 miles over the icy bosom of Lake Ontario.

Mr. Allen, formerly of Cobden, and who was in the grocery business here a year ago, has opened up again on the corner of Division and Earl Streets. The store is new and built of brick and looks neat and well kept.

Mr. Allen has a fine printing press and makes all his counter check books, billheads, dodgers, etc. He thinks it draws trade, sending out dodgers in the vicinity.

We have now about 139 grocery stores and our population is still under 20,000 but the future of Kingston looks bright and new industries are coming in and real estate is at a premium.

Mr. Lee, of Battersea, general merchant, has disposed of his business, store, dwelling and stock, and with Sam Kirk has bought out the goodwill, stock and general equipment of the Clarified Milk Co. They intend to leave the present premises having bought a valuable property on Princess St. from the estate of the late W. R. McRae & Co., wholesale grocers. They intend carrying on a milk and ice cream business and perhaps adding a grocery stock, but they will probably find enough to look after by leaving out the overdone grocery business.

Alderman Jack Carson intends handing his by-law re the cleaning of fowls to the council for their consideration, hoping they will be able to decide as to the advisability of having farmers' wives clean poultry inside and out before placing on sale on our market. Will some of our correspondents advise us on this question in their letters next week. They ought to know in Guelph, where they raise aristocratic wyandottes and leghorns.

Joseph Cullen, grocer, has been appointed local agent for the Rankin Milling Co., of Collinsby.

The license for selling fresh meats is only $2 a year and as a result a majority of the grocers handle these much used goods. Smoked meats are used extensively here and there is room for a curing establishment.

The new canning factory is a sure thing as good men are at the head of it. I hope they will use Sanitary cans. It is disgusting to open a can of corn, peas or tomatoes, and see a mottled look on the tin and some black specks on the vegetables. Careful people generally throw the contents out and the canned goods business is injured.

The bill being presented to the legislature to prevent boys under twelve being hired in stores, and under sixteen for drivers is a good law, but should be modified. Many boys work after school hours and on Saturdays. I tell you a boy on a bicycle delivering small parcels on a Saturday is handy to customers as well as to merchants, and often a boy is learning in a practical manner what he only gets in theory at school, and besides it is better for him than to be loitering around corners listening to idle talk.

The prospects for good clear ice are poor. It is thick enough but snowy instead of transparent.

The Guelph correspondent tells of a grocer lending orange slicers. I heard of one renting them out so much a day and I heard of another having his clerk slice them up in the store. Perhaps we will hear of some grocer cooking them for their customers.

Chas. Gurd & Co. are sending circulars telling the trade of a new mineral water they are putting up, Gurd's Caladonia Water. They have a name and you can depend on it being as good as their famous ginger ale.

Tenders are again asked for supplying the militia here. Jas. Redden & Co. have catered to their wants for the last two years. Tenders for penitentiaries are also called for and it is hoped from last year's experience some grocers will not lose their heads if they expect to keep their feet and tender so low that they are giving the government a large premium for the honor of carting foods to feed convicts.

LONDON.

The banquet of the Retail Grocers' Association at the Tecumseh, on Friday night, teaches at least one important lesson. No one who listened to the speeches on the occasion could fail to be struck with what has been achieved by united effort on the part of men, competitors in business, for the general well-being of the particular trade in which they are engaged. Here was a body of men, numbering one hundred and twenty-five or more, who were able to discuss business matters in a way that could leave no other impression than that each man had at least the interests of his neighbor, as much as his own, because what means the welfare of one means the welfare of all. Such is the proper, the businesslike way of looking at matters. The days of cut-throat competition, of undermining, have passed away, so far, at least, as London is concerned, and all owing to the splendid organization under whose auspices the banquet was held.

It was an intelligent gathering of men yet jolly withal. They demonstrated that, freed for a time from the cares of business, they can throw themselves into the enjoyment of such an occasion, for, like all men all the world over, the grocers of London dearly love a "time" once in a while. Not that there was anything approaching hilarity during the evening; on the contrary, the greatest decorum prevailed throughout, but somehow or other the London grocers possess the bon homme spirit as do no other class. More than that, there was manifested a feeling of good fellowship that was refreshing to one accustomed to the stiff-starched ways so common among other people. When by themselves the London grocers know not the word "Mr."; it is "Ed," and "Joe" and "Harry," and so on. Here, too, is seen a result of friendly intercourse once a month or so.

Wholesale trade is quiet, orders coming in less freely than expected. Wholesalers themselves are at present buying only to fill immediate wants, being a little dubious as to the future. Local retailers, however, report business equal at least to the same period last year.

Sugars are up 10 points. Fine teas continue very firm. Lower grades are slightly easier or lower for invoices when the liquor is poor.

The monthly meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association has been postponed till Wednesday night of next week, when President Ranahan intends bringing up the subject of holding a union picnic in this city next July. The matter was referred to at the banquet last Thursday night, and the local papers have taken it up and may be expected to boom it.

E. B. Thompson, Canadian representative of the Genesee Pure Food Company, who came here on Thursday last to attend the grocers' banquet, was taken suddenly ill in the evening and was placed in Victoria hospital. At last report he was doing nicely.

Alex. Tytler, the well-known local grocery broker, will on Thursday next celebrate the sixty-fourth anniversary of his entry into the grocery trade. He served his apprenticeship in Scotland, coming to this country fifty-three years ago, and has been engaged in one branch or other of the business ever since. Though well advanced in years, Mr. Tytler can still set a pace for many of his younger competitors in business. He is the oldest grocer in London, if not in western Ontario, and to all appearances has many years of activity still before him.

MONTREAL.

K. Harrison has bought out P. Campbell & Co., who conducted a store on Victroia St. Mr. Harrison is a smart young Englishman who is making good in Canada. For the past few years he has been manager of the store, and now that Mr. Campbell is retiring he is taking over the business, which has been increasing greatly during the past two years. Mr. Harrison will make quite a few changes in the store, in fact he has already made some.

"One of the things I am going to do just as quickly as possible," said Mr. Harrison, "is to start a flower and vegetable department. Can I sell flowers? I certainly can. Last year we had a very small department of this sort and you would be surprised if you knew the success we had. Ladies pay dearly for plant flowers they buy from florists, and seem to appreciate our efforts to give them what they want at a reasonable price. We can do this and make a good profit. Just watch this department grow. Vegetables, of course, are always in demand."

One uptown grocer has been doing some advertising in a large daily of late. He says he gets good returns by advertising special bargains once a week, which bring purchasers from all parts of the store. There are two or three other retailers who do business over all the city. These firms make their advertising pay well.

If this uptown grocer can made advertising pay in a city like Montreal, and under conditions such as exist in the metropolis, ought not the grocer in the smaller cities and towns, too, reap good results? If they would give advertising a trial they would be surprised at the returns they would obtain.

D. J. Stevenson has taken over the business on Fairmount avenue, Annex, formerly carried on by C. McFarland. He was six years with Walter Paul, and knows a thing or two about groceries.

"I noticed some talk in The Grocer recently about retailers loaning slicing machines to customers buying marmalade oranges," said a north end grocer. "Why do not those chaps get something for their money. I have been renting slicers for the past few years during the marmalade-making season. I have three, and they are all out at present. I rent them for ten cents a day and find no trouble in keeping them busy. They very quickly pay their cost in this way."

"We are selling quite a few oranges these days," said W. H. Paul, manager of Walter Paul's branch, on University street. "We put them out at 10c a dozen, and have given them considerable attention, devoting a good part of our window to display of them."

With butter selling at 40c a pound, and over, demand for that necessity is falling off. This price is much above what the average housekeeper can afford to pay, and rather than give the fancy figure she is buying jams, jellies, marmalades, honey and similar lines. Quite a few grocers are encouraging their customers to buy these goods. Many are making special displays.

J. B. Berthiaume, Park avenue, has a very attractive window of Cairns' jams, jellies and marmalades. It is very well dressed, being simple in the extreme, yet the kind of a window which sells goods.

Lyon Silverman, widely known among thr grocery trade of Montreal and Quebec Province, died suddenly in his office, 313 Notre Dame street east, Montreal, on Saturday afternoon, February 29. Mr. Silverman had been in apparent good health, and his death came as a shock to his many friends. He was the proprietof of the Canadian Extract of Beef Company, and was a manufacturer of extracts, perfumes and kindred lines. He was sixty-three years of age.

Markets and Market Notes

What is Doing in Groceries in the Leading Canadian Centres—Changes in Various Lines Noted and News From Primary Markets.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Sugar—Advanced and firm.

Chocolate—Declined.

Hides—Declined.

Collections—Better.

Toronto, March 5, 1908.

Both wholesalers and travelers have more encouraging reports to make this week and business seems to be picking up noticeably. The financial side, too, seems rather more satisfactory. Collections are slightly better and the amount of renewal paper seems to ibe gradually decreasing.

SUGAR—The advance spoken of as possible in this column last week materialized, and quotations are now 10c above the former basis in all lines. The market continues very firm and on a critical situation in raws another advance may be expected at any time. Prices quoted at time of writing were as follows :

Paris lumps, in 50-lb. boxes	5 45	5 55
" in 100-lb. "	5 35	5 45
St. Lawrence granulated, barrels	4 50	4 60
Redpath's granulated	4 50	4 60

No. 2 "	4 20	4 30
No. 1 "	4 10	4 20

Granulated and yellow, 100-lb. bags 5c. less than bbls.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES—Business generally is quiet. The demand for table syrups, however, is good and manufacturers note an increasing consumption. During the Lenten season consumers seem to turn to this kind of goods. The trade reports increasing demand for Crown Brand corn syrup and look for steady business in this line.

TEA—Late mail advices from London report a slight weakness in the medium and common grades of Indian and Ceylon, and in some cases a decline of ¼d is noted. While this denotes an easier tone temporarily, it is, of course, only a drop in the bucket when compared with recent advances on the same grades.

COFFEE—Local business is reported as being quite brisk.

DRIED FRUITS—A fair staple business is being done with excellent demand for prunes, which are moving out well. Prices are as follows :

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—
Butter—Firm.
Beans—Easier.
Sugar—Advanced.
Eggs—Firm.

Montreal, March 5, 1908.

The feature of the market this week is the advance in sugar, all lines being up, and another advance is apt to take place at any time. Butter is firm, but has not advanced any, as was expected last week, and is not likely to be any higher. Tea and coffee markets are unchanged, as also are spices. Fish dealers are busy these days looking after the Lenten business, which so far has eclipsed that of any previous season. It was thought some time ago that there would be a shortage of fresh fish, but it is now assured that there is sufficient stock on hand to handle the business for the first couple of weeks, when the new stock will begin to arrive and relieve the situation. A good increase in business is expected in cheese, eggs and canned goods during Lent, and already some nice orders are being received.

Collections are reported as being improved, and things are gradually resuming their normal aspect.

SUGAR—The sugar market is much firmer this week, as will be noticed in the quotations given below. Business in this line is fair and another advance is expected at any time.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 9 a.m. Thursday, Mar. 27, 1908.)

An advance of 10 cents in sugar occuring on Friday of last week after The Canadian Grocer was mailed is the chief item of interest in the grocery market. In other lines, there are few quotable changes. Business continues to show a marked revival and with improving collections the outlook is much brighter.

News From the Provision Markets of Canada—Changes in Several Staple Lines—Hogs Again Declined.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

Montreal, March 4, 1908.

No material improvement is noticeable in demand for Canadian cheese on the part of English houses. They appear to be waiting for a decline in prices, which at the moment is not in sight.

There have been some fairly nice transactions of late, but the lots moving did not amount to a large shipment in any case. This is chiefly because stocks here are not such as to warrant big business, considering prices ruling.

There are some who think that English buyers will succeed in getting prices down to a lower level if they wait sufficiently long, but the general opinion is that anybody desiring cheese will have to pay for it.

Stocks held in England cannot be heavy, while the consumption goes on as usual. Local houses expect a good deal more activity than there has been of late any day now, as stocks will be declared across the water now that February is closed.

Offerings made to Old Country houses last week on the basis of 13c. did not attract purchasers, but it is thought that they will take up lots on the market at that figure when they realize the smallness of stocks held.

For finest Ontario colored, dealers are asking, most of them, 13c to 13¼c, while finest Ontario white brings 13c to 13⅛c.

Some good business has been transacted recently with local retailers, demand for cheese having been stimulated by the high prices demanded for butter.

Receipts of cheese last week were very small, being but 70 boxes, against 10 boxes previous week and 32 boxes same week one year ago. Total receipts to date are 2,053,840 boxes, against 2,349,569 boxes same period a year ago.

Butter is not so wild this week, if the term may be used. The market is saner and more free of excitement than it has been for some days past.

Extremely high prices which were asked, as high as 35c wholesale in some cases, resulted in a falling off in consumption, which might have been expected. No poor man could afford to pay the price asked by some retailers, 40c a pound. They bought instead of this generally considered necessary article syrup, molasses, honey and products of this sort, which in a way took the place of the more expensive dairy line. Cheese sold better, too, because of the high price of butter.

Seeing that the people would not stand for very high prices, holders did not force the issue any more than was absolutely necessary, and to-day prices are no stiffer than they were a week ago, though many anticipated a market ruling anywhere between 35c and 38c.

First-class creamery is obtainable to-day for 33c, which is not unreasonable considering that stocks are extremely light and demand strong.

There is some creamery offering around 31c to 32c, but this is not the best on offer in the local market.

Dairy butter continues very scarce, with little likelihood of the market being replenished to any extent before the new make begins to arrive. Rolls are more scarce than ever. Solid is being quoted around 26½c to 27c in a wholesale way.

Nobody cares to hazard a guess as to what stocks held amount to this week, owing to the fact that many houses refuse to reveal the figures representing their holdings. Suffice to say, they are small. And supplies are dwindling a little every week.

Bare boards will be the rule when the new make begins to arrive and consequently high prices are expected for the opening of the season. Of course present figures cannot reasonably be expected to hold. Once the new stuff begins to come in by express, about the middle of next month, there will no doubt be a break.

Receipts last week amounted to 1,539 packages, against 1,490 packages previous week and 934 packages same week last year. Total receipts to date amount to 414,687 packages, against 608,713 packages same period one year ago.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

Another slump in the Canadian hog markets this week is an evidence of exceedingly unsatisfactory conditions among the packers.

With the British market in a continued unreceptive mood, a condition which has prevailed to a greater or less degree since the end of the year, and with their storehouses pretty well filled, the packers are not in a position to do very brisk business. As a matter of fact, the labor question seems to be the most serious one just now. They are not at all anxious to lay off their hands at the present time, but under present conditions they are having considerable difficulty in keeping them busy.

Conditions in the British market last week were simply a repetition of what has occurred about every alternate week recently. The Danes were particularly busy and poured in "killings" aggregating over 40,000. The Americans, too, under peculiar conditions at home, sent over enormously increased shipments. Under these enormous receipts the British market went even further off and at present does not show much encouragement for Canadian shipments.

Prices quoted this week are on a basis of 15c below a week ago. Hogs f.o.b. bring $4.75, fed and watered $5 to $5.05. and for hogs off cars at factory $5.15 to $5.20 is paid. Packers say they are getting quite all the hogs they want at these prices under present conditions.

American market conditions are summarized in the following paragraph from the New York Journal of Commerce :

"The past week witnessed more activity in future hog products on lighter receipts at Chicago, firming up prices in sympathy with grain, but at the advance packers were selling after encouraging the improvement early and filled up the short demand which came in after midweek in sympathy with the big advance in wheat. Outside points, however, had liberal receipts and the total West for the week was 145,000 ahead of last year. This prevented any improvement in cash demand, but where advances were asked they checked it. Exporters have taken no meats for the week here or west and only about 10 carloads of lard, though shipments from the west during the week were heavy of both, but said to be chiefly packers' consignments. Home trade has been of a hand-to-mouth character and though some dealers assert that consumption has not fallen off the volume of business is much lighter than usual at this season of the year, indicating either reduced consumption or lack of confidence in present prices preventing dealers carrying the usual stock. The general belief is that the receipts of hogs have been reduced by bad country roads tributary to Chicago this week, and next week's receipts are estimated to be as heavy as recently and there is no apprehension that there will be any marked falling off in the supply of hogs until the summer months. This prevents any bullish tendency in speculation or legitimate trade."

CORRESPONDENCE FROM ST. CATHARINES.

The bankrupt stock of John W. Timmons, grocer, was sold on Thursday and Friday last. The horses, wagons, sleighs, etc., were put up for sale on the market on Saturday but the horse was the only article sold as the day was too stormy and cold for the people to stand in the open.

Speaking of the open market grounds, an agitation was started early in December for a covering of the grounds and endeavors are being made to secure the end in view. Mayor Campbell, in his inaugural address to the council, hoped that the way can be made to have a covered market. The Fruit Growers' Association at their meeting in January passed a resolution favoring a covered market. This was followed by a resolution in the county council for a covered market and on Saturday a meeting of farmers, huxters, gardeners, fruit growers and others was held and a committee was appointed to confer with the city council and the board of trade and aslo to secure legal opinion if rural municipalities and the county council have power to grant funds to aid in erecting a covered market. Last Saturday was a good illustration for the needs of an enclosed market ground. The farmers and others are being gradually drawn away towards Welland and Niagara Falls on account of the exposed market grounds here.

The merchants are feeling the tight times as well as others. When the people have no money to purchase the goods must remain in the stores, or otherwise sold on credit. The wholesale and retail merchants are doing a fair, though not rushing business.

Bradley & Son, grocers, had the misfortune to have a large plate glass window broken recently. The contractors, Begg, Son & Company, in putting a new glass in its place, were unfortunate to break the fresh pane. The window was enclosed with abundant frames and glass until the arrival of another glass from the factory.

Archibald Wilson, one of St. Catharines' oldest business men, passed away at his home, 15 Ann street, on Sunday evening, Feb. 16th, aged 62 years.

Mr. Wilson was a native of County Armagh, Ireland, and came to Canada and to St. Catharines when a child. After his school days he entered the grocery business, in which he was actively engaged until about three years ago. At this time he retired owing to poor health, and the business has since been carried on along the same lines by his son, Frank A. Wilson.

Mr. Wilson was a veteran of the Fenian raid of 1866-70, and a corporal of the St. Catharines garrison battery. He leaves a widow, four daughters and two sons.

THE PORK AND BEANS SITUATION

Retailers throughout Canada know how hard it is to persuade their customers to accept any Pork and Beans other than Clark's.

They have tried them, and come back time and again for more. Retailers know the amount of time and talk it will take—and the sales which will be lost—in an effort to push other Brands. Jobbers can have any orders for Clark's Pork and Beans filled promptly and completely, so if you specify Clark's Pork and Beans you will get them. It is wise to insist.

THE FLOUR AND CEREAL MARKETS

Flour Easier in Montreal, Stiffer in Toronto—Cereal Business Quiet—Export Business Small.

The trade continues to talk a good deal about the changes on the Winnipeg grain exchange, which will result from the recent amendment passed by the Provincial Legislature. As the matter stands now, seats on the Exchange are practically valueless and this week a curb market is being operated, with a discontinuance of the American quotations. The Exchange is at work trying to evolve a way out of the apparent mix-up, but as yet nothing has been suggested.

Conditions are rather different in Quebec and Ontario this week. Flour declined 15c during the week in Montreal on an easier market, while in Ontario the feeling was stiffer, particularly owing to the scarcity of Manitoba wheat, and these grades advanced 20c.

The cereal business is quiet, with supplies rather light, as a result of the week's storms and bad roads. Very little export business is being done.

KINNEARS WIN AGAIN.

Protested Game in Wholesalers' Hockey League Played off on Saturday.

There was more fun in the Toronto wholesalers' Hockey League last week. Here's the reason of it. In the game before the final the Kinnear Co. secured permission to play Robinson of Davidson Hay. Robinson was used again in the final game a week ago last Friday, though this time without permission, and according to the rules governing the league, a protest was in order, which was entered by the Lumbers team and was sustained. Consequently the game was played over on Saturday afternoon before a fairly good crowd of hockey enthusiasts, among whom were noticed several prominent grocerymen. What must have delighted and encouraged the boys was the presence of a few ladies, who graced the occasion with their presence. The game was late in starting, but the time passed quickly enough. "Billy" May had his ferocious looking bull terrier with him which kept the frost from freezing the ardor of the hockeyites. "Charlie" Morrow, or "Quaker Oats," as the boys good-naturedly called him, afforded not a little fun when he and "Billy" May's pet had a warm bout on the ice.

The poor condition of the ice spoiled what would otherwise have been a fast game. As it was, things were warm enough at all stages. The slow ice made things more favorable for the Lumbers team and they were dangerous for the Kinnear bunch from the start to the finish. On good, keen ice the superior combination of Kinnear's would no doubt have piled up a much bigger score than Saturday's. Lumbers' played an individual game, but even at that they landed more than one hot shot on the Kinnear goal and "Roy" Marks saved the day more than once. Boyd, of the Lumbers' team, played a strong game at cover-point and stopped several dangerous Kinnear rushes. Kinnear's scored their two goals before Lumbers' got theirs, which came near the end of the game. Some smart playing was witnessed. This game settles any dispute as to the merits of the teams. The Tillson trophy will rest peacefully in the Kinnear sample room for a year at least.

The teams lined up as follows:

Lumbers—Goal, "Wes." Lumbers; point, Kerr; cover-point, Boyd; forwards, Frank Lumbers, Ford, McKenzie.

Kinnears—Goal, Marks; point, Minett;

BARRIE CORRESPONDENTS.

The Barrie Board of Trade met last Monday and elected their officers for 1908, as follows: Hon. pres., H. Lennox, M.P.; pres., H. B. Henwood; first vice president, W. A. Boys; 2nd vice-president, M. J. Frawley; sec.-treas., Geo. C. Brown; council, J. J. Brown, J. C. Irwin, Geo. Ball, H. J. Grasett, D. H. McLaren, S. Wessley and Thos. Beecroft. On taking the chair, President Henwood thanked the members for the honor done him and promised his utmost endeavors to promote the interests of the board and of the town and suggested that the present members get every live business man to take an interest in the board.

A car of oranges from Riverside County, California, arrived in Barrie on Monday last. It was just twelve days in transit, which is considered record time.

Barrie council has raised the peddlers' and hawkers' license from ten dollars to fifty a year. This will no doubt put a check on quite a number of foreigners who have in the last year invaded the town with push carts and wagons, peddling fruit from door to door.

Eggs and butter can be bought at something reasonable now, the prevailing price being twenty-five cents a dozen, all round, and an outlook for cheaper eggs this week. The roads around here are now in perfect condition and things are beginning to brighten up for the merchants, who have suffered considerably on account of the very bad roads.

DEATH OF CONFECTIONER.

Geo. Robertson, One of Toronto's Manufacturers, Passed Away on Monday.

Death has removed a prominent figure in the wholesale confectionery business of Canada in the person of Geo. Robertson, who passed away at his home in Toronto on Monday, the 2nd inst. Mr. Robertson's name has been before the confectionery trade for many years. He was one of the original members of Robertson Bros., the firm having been established about forty-four years ago. After three years' connection with the firm he began business for himself and, except for a few years when he was back with his brothers, he remained in that separate business ever since and has carried on a manufacturing establishment at the corner of Maitland and Yonge Sts.

Mr. Robertson was born in Selkirkshire, Scotland, on Christmas Day, 1841. At the age of fourteen he came with the rest of the family to Toronto, where he lived all the rest of his life. He is survived by his widow and six children. Mayor Oliver is a brother-in-law. Mr. Robertson belonged to the Central Presbyterian Church.

W. J. Rogers, president; S. F. Taylor, vice-president, and Frank Rogers, general manager, of the Borden Condensing Company, of New York, spent a few hours in town on Saturday on business in connection with the establishment of their factory in Tillsonburg. It is said that S. S. Chewning will be supervisor of the work, which may be started next month in connection with the factory. Mr. Chewning is a brother of the gentleman who was in Tillsonburg several weeks in the fall looking up the advantages the town had to offer for the new factory.—Tillsonburg Observer.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Improved Business in Green Fruits—Vegetable Market Remains Steady—Bright Outlook for Lenten Business in Fish.

The demand for green fruits is steadily improving and, with milder weather, should assume better proportions. Prices all round are steady. Oranges have a firmer feeling. Marmalade oranges are in good demand. Lemons are unchanged and are selling well at low prices. Alarming reports have been circulated as to a great shortage in the banana crop, but fruit dealers are inclined to discredit the fears. Apples are fairly steady. Cranberries are firmer and scarce.

Nothing very unusual has happened in the vegetable market. Potatoes are maintaining their high level, though supplies are quite satisfactory. Domestic vegetables are selling well at old prices. California celery is about off the market and is being replaced by shipments from Florida. Imported early lines are moving more freely.

The Lenten season has opened strong. Substantial orders for all lines of fish are being received. Dealers look forward to a busy time for the next six weeks. Fears as to the adequate supplies have been banished and no scarcity is anticipated. Prices have not changed materially.

MONTREAL.

WHAT TO DO IN MARCH

Take Full Advantage of Lenten Business—Some Hints on Selling Fish—Extend Your Canned Goods Trade and Prepare for Spring Seed Business.

This is a month of possibilities. March is first and foremost the Lenten season. It affords the grocer, the go-ahead grocer a mighty good chance to demonstrate his energy. The hardware merchant, the dry goods man, the stationer, have no particular opportunity to extend their trade during Lent. The grocer has. And the grocer who is alive to his opportunities and fully grasps the situation is the man worthy of his calling. The successful professional, financial and business man has achieved a great measure of his prosperity through seizing some golden chance, overlooked or ignored by others. Not a little of the success of the big grocerymen is due to their capacity to adapt themselves and their business to the needs of the hour. Just what these demands will be during March any grocer should know. Do they not point forcibly to Lenten goods? Are not some lines consumed more during Lent than at any other period of the year? "Certainly," answers the energetic grocer, "and I'm going to remind my customers and the buying public of the fact." That is the sort of a grocer whose business grows, while his sleepy opposition across the street or around the corner fails to grasp his opportunity and complacently continues in the rut.

Some Ideas for Lenten Goods.

Upon what goods should a grocer concentrate his attention during Lent? The first thing that arises in his mind is fish. Fish is the great Lenten victual. Its consumption is enormous. There is sure to be a good demand for the various lines. Remembering this essential fact, the grocer has to discover ways and means of getting, if not the lion's share, at least his part of the business. It's up to him to push fish just as far as his business will warrant. It doesn't matter whether it is canned salmon, sardines, herring, cod, halibut, mackerel, whitefish, trout or oysters, as long as it falls under the category of fish. The grocer ought to be able to sell fish and thereby utilize his opportunities. How is he to do it?

The two old reliable methods are always with the grocer, timely advertising and spicy window dressing. Originate something catchy and attractive for your window. Let the people know that you are right there with the goods, that you have complete assortments of food specialties suitable for Lent. Draw attention to their quality. Tell them all about the fine stock of smoked, frozen, salted or canned fish you are handling. And right here, if a digression is pardonable, a general thought is helpful. Be a salesman and know your goods. Get up your talking points like your A B C's and pump the public full of talk that means business. It's your game to impress upon your customers the excellence, the superiority of a specified article. Too many, unfortunately, are horribly ignorant of what they are selling. They may know that a particular kind of fish is sea salmon, but can say nothing more to make the indifferent customer buy that salmon. It is absolutely necessary to know your goods. When you advertise, give the public a talk on the merits of your goods. When you have dressed your window suitably and people are enquiring after the goods displayed, arm yourself with telling talking points. To be successful as a salesman it is obviously necessary to study your goods and thus make your position strong. This is a general rule, but it can be applied forcibly to your Lenten business.

In addition to fish, there are other good Lenten sellers, eggs, pancake flour, macaroni, vermicelli, dried fruits, etc., which deserve particular attention. Push these lines intelligently and energetically, either through bright, dressy windows, or judicious advertising, and you will surely catch a satisfactory share of the Lenten business.

Other Timely Lines.

During March there are other lines of appropriate goods to sell. Various lines of canned goods are in good demand. Many housekeepers find that their preserved fruits are getting low and consequently are forced to lay in supplies of canned tomatoes, corn, peaches, plums, jams and marmalade. This gives the grocer another chance to get busy and make things hum. Fix up a well arranged display. Point out to your customers the merits of canned goods in general, how much labor and drudgery is saved, how convenient they are in a pinch. While pushing your business in this way, you are unconsciously developing your selling ability and making yourself stronger every day.

Prepare for Spring Seed Trade.

Now's the time also to get ready for the annual seed trade. Every grocer, whether in the country, town or city, should carry a good, up-to-date line of seeds. There's a nice profit in it, more indeed than on many other lines carried. Make your preparations right away for a big spring seed trade. The garden-loving public will soon be on the look-out for seeds. The farmer, likewise, will be laying in his supplies of seed grain. It pays to get into touch with some of our big seed firms. Have some good reliable seed catalogues close at hand for ready reference. You will probably run across something special in them which you can put to good advantage in booking orders. It's a good plan also to study the different varieties of seeds, learn how best to plant them, what sort of soil is most useful, etc. In this way you win the confidence of your customers. Once this is secured half the battle is won. In conclusion, don't neglect to study the seed situation carefully and secure your stocks in time. How many will see to it that March's possibilities are closely watched?

LOWER GERMAN APPLE TARIFF.

Nova Scotia Farmers' Association Taking Steps to Open Market to Canada.

At a recent meeting of the Nova Scotia Farmers' Association a resolution was introduced by C. O. Allen, Kentville, petitioning the Canadian government to take steps to have the duty on Canadian apples going into Germany reduced.

A duty of $1.63 a barrel, the production of which would not cost more than $1, is considered an unreasonable tax, and there is probably no commodity obtained from the soil, or manufactured in Canada, that is subject to such excessive duty entering Germany. This duty is considered all the more injurious when it is remembered that apples from the United States go into Germany under a preferential tariff $1.11 less than Canadian. It has been said by some that the preference shown American apples in Germany does not affect the fruit industry of Canada so materially, for while the States are placing their apples on the German markets, those of the Canadian provinces are placed on the markets of Great Britain. But Mr. Allen, speaking in support of the resolution, said it had a more damaging effect, as there are times when the British markets can handle 25,000 or 30,000 barrels a week, but if, on the other hand, she gets double that quantity, the price is bound to drop unless relieved by other sources. One week last December 30,000 barrels of apples were shipped into London, and while Germany was short, she could not pay the 10 marks per 100 kilos. Consequently down went the prices apples valued at $3 scarcely realized $1 per barrel. This caused a loss to three counties in Nova Scotia of $200,000 to $300,000, of which the farmers had to bear the brunt. The discriminating duty of $1.11 per barrel on American apples was largely responsible for this.

The following is the resolution of the society:

"Whereas, in the year 1906, Germany imposed a duty on apples going into their country, amounting to 10 marks per 100 kilos, equivalent to $1.63½ per barrel of 150 pounds, on all apples from Canada, and 3 marks 20 phennings per 100 kilos, equal to 52½c. per barrel on apples from the United States thus enabling our competitive fruit growers across the border to get their apples into Germany at a preference of $1.11 less than our own country, which has practically shut out all Canadian apples from the German markets;

"And whereas, before the duty went into effect frequently large quantities of Canadian apples found ready market in being either shipped direct to Hamburg, or by German buyers purchasing in the London and Liverpool markets, both of which are now entirely lost, greatly to the detriment of the Canadian fruit industry;

"Therefore resolved that the fruit growers of Nova Scotia earnestly entreat the department of finance at Ottawa to secure trade relations with Germany which will admit Canadian apples in the German market under as favorable a tariff as is granted to our competitors from the United States;

"And further resolved, that copies of this resolution be forwarded to every Fruit Growers' Association in Canada, asking their hearty co-operation against the unreasonable discrimination against one of Canada's important industries, amounting to $1.11 per barrel, exceeding the first cost of production."

SHORTENING CREDIT IN WEST.

Widespread Introduction of Cash System in Retail Trade.

Without doubt the outstanding development in the retail trade of the west during the last few months has been the universal curtailment of credit and the widespread introduction of the cash system. Long before the financial stringency was dreamed of there was a steady movement on the part of retailers in all parts of the west towards the introduction of the cash system, or, at all events, the sharp curtailment of credit. The efforts in this direction of the shrewdest and wisest dealers were in many places rendered abortive by the tactics of competitors who were still wedded to the credit system, and who made it difficult or impossible for their business rivals to free themselves from the credit incubus without losing valued customers. The financial stringency and the accompanying touch of hard times are now regarded in many localities as having been a blessing in disguise for the unprogressive merchants who were hindering the introduction of the cash system have for the most part been compelled to make a virtue of necessity and the result is that greater progress has been made during the last six months towards putting the retail business of the west on a cash basis than was made during the six preceding years.

The cash system is being established in all parts of the west and business will henceforth be conducted on a sounder and more stable basis than ever before.

Provincial Elections Absorbing Attention—News From the Local Markets—Some Business Changes.

Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer.

St. John, N.B., Mar. 2, 1908.

Business has been rather quiet here during the past week. The provincial elections have occupied more attention than anything else, of late. Timothy has advanced another 10 cents; pork has declined from 75 cents to a dollar a barrel; beef has advanced 25 cents a barrel, and oatmeal has also taken a jump upwards of 25 cents. All grades of English pickles have advanced from 10 to 30 cents a dozen. Flour and sugar remain steady. The N. Y. sugar market has advanced but the local market has not been affected. Pure lard is half a cent easier and compound remains unchanged. The dealers look for pure lard to come up again. Collections are very fair.

W. C. Prime, who has been conducting general stores at Westfield and Hampstead, and also has a large store at the corner of Union and Brussels streets, where he carries a heavy stock of flour, hay, feed, etc., has converted his business into a joint stock company with a capital of $99,000. The new company is composed of W. C. and Mrs. Prime, L. B. and Mrs. Knight, and Fred R. Taylor. The style of the company will be W. C. Prime Co., Ltd.

The company have taken over the stores at Westfield and Hampstead, as well as the one at St. John, and have leased from the C.P.R. the building just opposite the post office on the west side. In front of this structure and facing on the street they will erect a new building measuring one hundred by fifty feet, and will conduct business as wholesale dealers in flour, feed, grain and hay, with a large staff of road representatives. This enterprise is the most important to be established in St. John west of late years, and developments are awaited with interest.

FAILURE OF NEW YORK SPICE FIRM.

News was received with regret by the trade last week of the failure of Stallman, Fulton & Co., of New York. This firm has been doing business in spices and drugs with Canadian houses for forty years and were highly esteemed. Dull business and difficulty in collections combined with the recent death of the company's president are given as reasons for the trouble.

Apple Business Brisk—Dairying Improving in Prince Edward Island—Want Board for Administration of Coast Fisheries.

(Special Correspondence to The Canadian Grocer)

Halifax, N.S., March 2, 1908.

The grocery markets were practically featureless last week. Business is about an average, and prices generally are steady. Eggs continue in good supply. Butter is still very scarce and the price continues firm. There is a good demand for fish from some quarters but not as heavy as expected, in view of the near approach of the Lenten season. There is quite a brisk movement in apples, the Furness line steamers Shenandoah and Halifax City taking 22,000 barrels from this port to the London market last week.

That the dairy industry of Prince Edward Island is now regaining its lost ground was shown bo the reports presented at the annual meeting of the Provincial Dairy Association, held at Charlottetown last week. The gross value of the cheese and butter produced during the past year was $364,715.08, an increase of $7,000 over the previous year. There was also a marked improvement in the quality of the output. In all there were forty-seven factories in operation. The object of this association is to increase the production of dairy products, and to raise the quality of the same to the highest possible level. The average price received for cheese during the past season was 11¾ cents.

The Nova Scotia delegation, consisting of S. T. Wilson, C. Jamieson and A. H. Whitman, who went to Ottawa to confer with the Minister of Marine and Fisheries re the appointment of a Fisheries Board for the administration of the Canadian Atlantic Fisheries, have returned and issued their report. The scheme outlined by the delegation was as follows: The appointment of an Advisory Fisheries Board for the Maritime Provinces under a chairman appointed by the government, such board to have equal representation from the fishermen and the merchant, and to work out a system of fishery laws and regulations acceptable to the various interests. This central board is to look after the more important matters such as the changing of laws, enforcement of regulations, investigating of foreign markets, etc., and to relegate to provincial boards matters of local interest. It also, if found necessary, is to appoint district boards so as to bring together the two elements, the fishermen and the merchants, which so far are more or less antagonistic without any real cause. With equal representation of the fishermen and merchants on the proposed boards surely something can be done to conserve and develop this great natural industry.

It was further explained that it is a mistake to think that the movers in regard to the better administration of the fisheries are determined to force the adoption of the Scotch Fishery Board. The matter stands this way, say the delegates: "We are advocating the appointment of a board along the lines of the Scotch Fisheries Boards, because we know of the tremendous development in Scotland and also that the system there has practically been adopted in its entirety by Norway and Iceland, which countries have made big advances in their fisheries. If, however, any other method or scheme can be brought forward better applicable to our Canadian conditions, it would have our hearty support."

The delegates are hopeful of good results as it was practically admitted that under the present conditions our fisheries are going behind.

WANT ENGLISH GROCERS ALSO.

Montreal Retailers' Association Will Welcome English-Speaking Merchants at Their Meetings.

Interest has been aroused in the matter of establishing an English Retail Grocers' Association in Montreal, and the matter is discussed freely by grocers throughout the city.

President Laniel, of the Retail Grocers' Association, thinks that the English-speaking grocers should attend the meetings of the present association, in which case they would be made welcome and every courtesy shown them. He says they are only too pleased to have the proceedings carried on in both languages when there are English grocers at the meetings.

In a letter embodying these statements, he says:

"I have noticed in the columns of the last two issues of The Canadian Grocer correspondence from some English speaking grocers of the city of Montreal, discussing the advisability of forming an English-speaking association of grocers, and as a matter of justice to the present association, I wish to state the fact that whenever some of our English confreres attend our meetings we are always very glad to read the minutes, and all the resolutions that are moved, in French and in English. Of course when there are no English-speaking members at all at the meeting we don't retard the discussion or the meeting by repeating in English what has been said in French. As president, I take this opportunity to invite our English-speaking members to attend our meetings, and I can assure you and them that I will always be only too glad to see that the proceedings take place also in English.

"In the past I have often made the remark that I was sorry to notice that the English-speaking grocers would not join in with us and work hand in hand to improve the conditions of the retail grocery trade. I feel that by uniting the two races forming the grocery population of Montreal, we would be in a better position to rectify the grievances that we have to contend with, and we would be in a stronger position to make our influence felt.

"It is useless for me to emphasize the fact that the French-speaking grocers have shown in the past that they were always willing to co-operate with their English confreres in any questions that would benefit the retail grocery trade in general. I hope that we may see a great number of English grocers at our future meetings.

Yours truly,

(Sgd.) H. LANIEL,
President."

"Editor Canadian Grocer, Montreal."

CEYLON IMPORTS INCREASING.

The astonishing increase in the importation into North America of Ceylon tea has been the marvel of contemporary trade—from 155,000 pounds in 1890 to something over 24,000,000 pounds in 1907!

The official figures show that there have been comparatively trifling variations in the imports of all teas in that period, except for the Spanish war year when they fell to about 25 per cent. below, and that in which the duty was taken off tea, when they rose to about 11 per cent. above the normal.

Ceylon has won, of course, upon its merits, but not wholly. The enterprising and enlightened methods employed by the planters in introducing their product in various countries, have had much to do with the winning of the tea drinkers' favor everywhere. For example, not content, as have been the growers of other teas, to let American consumers discover its merits for themselves, and still less to leave its middlemen to essay, unguided and unaided, the marketing of their comparatively unknown product, they early sent a commissioner to this country to watch over the strangers' fortunes, and to study the tastes and needs of the consumers in the different sections, that the handlers might proceed along the lines of least resistance, and not waste effort in the attempt to force upon a locale a variety or blend suited neither to its climate and water, nor to the habits (which are the result of environment) or palates of its people.

The merchant will naturally prefer to handle the goods that the producers do not seem to lose interest in when they have passed into his hands, and the tea drinker will buy with confidence a tea which he has been taught to believe is offered him as a result of exhaustive knowledge of both his needs and his tastes.

The efficient work of Mr. Walter Courtney, for the past two years the indefatigable commissioner to this country and the results of that highly successful work, as shown in the figures of increase in the American consumption of this tea, are in themselves a vindication of the Ceylon planters' business acumen, and of their judgment in the selection of lieutenants for the execution of their strategic plans of campaign. The commissioner has—so to speak—absolutely pervaded the trade in America while seeming to find plenty of time to devote to the education, by tongue and pen, of the consumer.

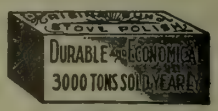
OUR INCREASED SALES

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH IN CAKES



& SUN PASTE STOVE POLISH IN TINS

Under adverse conditions of last year, go a long way toward proving our claim that nothing can excel the products of the RISING SUN Black Lead works, which appeal to the consumer as well as to the trade. The real proof is in sales—that is what you want. That is what you will have when you push RISING SUN in Cakes and SUN PASTE in Tins, no matter whether it is hard times or good times. They also give you a good margin of profit.

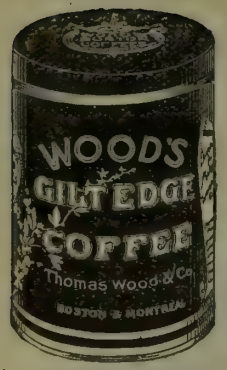
Looking to the Sunlight



ESTABLISHED 1879

The keen-eyed lookouts and pilots on the financial ship report that the business atmosphere is clear ahead, and that the glow of the morning is brightening into sunlight.

Be guided by their reports.

Remember that the Spring trade is at hand, that preparation is half the battle, and that will brighten it up amazingly. Go to the front with the lookouts and pilots.

WOOD'S COFFEES

Crescent BM&Co. TRADE MARK. Brand

SODA-CRYSTALS (WASHING SODA)

Foreign Soda Crystals—and some of English manufacture—are being extensively offered for sale in this country which are grossly adulterated with Glauber-Salts (Sulphate of Soda), a cheap product which is not only entirely useless for washing purposes, but is even likely to injure the fabrics with which it comes in contact. The Adulterated Soda-Crystals, although nominally lower in price than BRUNNER MOND'S PURE SODA CRYSTALS, are in reality much dearer owing to the large quantity of useless and injurious matter which they contain.

The "Thistle" Brand

Fish

Canada's "Pure Food Law" was welcomed by the packers of: "Thistle Brand" Haddies, Hake and other cheap fish were never palmed off on an unsuspecting public as by the Thistle Company. The freshly caught fish are cleaned with scrupulous care and packed in lined tins, now as always. There is the maximum of goodness in the "Thistle Brand."

Fish

The seamless tins used by the "Thistle" Company, in which their brands of fish are sold, prevent absolutely deterioration of the original high satisfying quality. Their brands of and Herring in Tomato sauce are as delicious in flavor as they are clean and wholesome in quality. Nothing better is sold in the Dominion than this dependable brand. It represents the acme of excellence.

Kippered Herring

Fish

The finest Salmon is no richer or more delicate of flavor than the "Thistle Brand" of Tunny Fish.

It is the

Tunny Fish

of known worth. Put up in one pound seamless oval tins which contain no waste whatsoever. A luxury at the actual cost of a necessity.

Messrs. Canadian Canners, Limited
Hamilton, Ont.

Dear Sirs :

I sold some of the Hygeian goods to a lady from London who was visiting here. It was the Beets in particular which induced her to order them. She said that she had not seen anything like it in London. I presume that this is a mistake, and that your goods are in London also.

We find here that we cannot sell anything in cans outside of the regular lines, unless we open a can and show the contents in a glass jar.

We thought it best to mention this as it seems a pity that the London people should not know how nice these goods are.

Yours truly,
H. MALCOLMSON,
Grocer.

Hygeian Beets are positively the finest ever put up either in tin or glass.

Packed in hygienic cans, under a new process, superior to glass, a most attractive package.

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

These facts are interesting to you, Mr. Grocer, for the simple reason that they have a direct bearing on your cash drawer. Old Homestead Brand is of that high quality which brings you more customers and better customers. Old Homestead appeals to the refined housewife because the contents of an old Homestead can are clean, whole and sweet-smelling. Old Homestead appeals to the man who likes good things to eat, because the contents of an Old Homestead can have the true, natural flavor absolutely undiminished. It is the "positive excellence" of Old Homestead Brand which makes it a fast and constant seller wherever it is introduced.

YOUR JOBBER CAN SUPPLY IT. ASK AND INSIST ON OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND.

TO SUCCEED IN BUSINESS

It is essential that one should attend strictly to his own affairs. The grocer who does this gives the consumer exactly what is asked for. Some make the great mistake of searching out some inferior line and introducing it to the public, because they can sell it at a lower price. What can they possibly gain by this?

REMEMBER

cost is forgotten by the consumer when tea is being drunk, and the grocer is either thought highly of for supplying good tea, or thought badly of for selling poor tea.

KEEP YOUR CUSTOMERS BY SELLING THEM THE BEST.

"WHY?"

Mainly because, of all Western peoples, the English best know tea.

For the Same Reason

England consumes about 6 lbs. and Canada 5 lbs., to the United States 1¼ lbs. of tea per capita. Every English Grocer knows tea; He has made it a study.

Profitable Goods

Are the goods that are a little better than the others: goods that will make sales where the others won't. Ozo Brand Pickles are good pickles, and show their quality. We have special facilities for turning out the best pickles, and we have made the most of them. For instance, we provide the seed from which the vegetables are grown and so get the best from the start; the cucumbers go straight from the vine to the factory, so that none of the fresh crispness is lost. We make our own vinegar and it cannot be beaten for pickling purposes. It will certainly pay you to specify that you want our goods when ordering pickles.

HOLBROOK'S Worcestershire SAUCE

A bare statement in an advertisement is not convincing unless it can be justified by experience in handling the article advertised. We could take up a good deal of your time in making true statements in praise of this Sauce, but instead we merely ask you to test it for yourself. Your decision will be that it is a Sauce which on first trial must secure permanent users. Its particular and pleasing flavor, free from excessive heat, suggests the blending of many choice ingredients and so tickles the palate that its use becomes essential. This has been the experience in the Old Country where its popularity is ever increasing. The next question which interests you is PROFIT, this will be found to be much better than that obtained on most advertised proprietary lines but an enquiry to

Words of Wisdom

for

Manufacturers and Jobbers

THAT YAWNING WASTE BASKET

If business men who use circulars extensively for the purpose of making sales of goods or manufactured articles would sit down and do a little hard thinking they would doubtless save themselves a lot of trouble and a considerable sum of money each year. But unfortunately they are too busy with other matters to devote much thought to the subject of advertising. So they hire somebody to look after the department and let it go at that.

There seems to be prevalent an idea that circulars are the cheapest and best mediums for reaching the public and that if they are well written and beautifully printed they will pull business out of a stone.

How many of those who cherish this fond delusion have definite facts to support it? Not one in a hundred. In some lines of business, especially in the retail trade, good results have been secured from an intelligent use of circulars, but experience has shown that in approaching manufacturers, wholesalers, jobbers and others who conduct large commercial enterprises they are almost worthless.

When the executive head of one of these establishments examines his mail in the morning he finds that from twenty-five to fifty per cent of the matter he has received consists of fancy cards, elaborate folders, artistically printed circulars, booklets and calendars.

The most of these are at once consigned to the waste basket after the first glance without reading. The busy man at the desk hasn't the time to examine them, other things demand his attention. The cost of the advertising matter thus thrown away unread in this one office will average at the lowest estimate from $5 to $10 a day. Multiply this by the thousands of other offices and some idea of the waste of expensive printed matter may be obtained.

How, then, can the advertiser get the attention of the men he desires to reach? Through the newspapers and the trade papers. If he will frame up his selling arguments in attractive form he can rest assured that they will be seen and read by the very men who refuse to examine his circulars. The trade papers are most valuable in reaching definite classes of people. They are selective. Only those buy them who are directly interested in the particular business they represent. Hence the advertiser knows when he puts his announcement in one of them, providing, of course, that it is a representative publication, that every copy of the paper reaches a possible customer.

There is no waste circulation. Every subscriber is a live, progressive business man who wants to be posted in the news of the trade.

Just as soon as the business men of the country wake up to the above facts the frightful waste of money and effort, as represented by circulars, etc., will be stopped and a deeper appreciation of the true value of news and trade paper advertising will prevail.—Editor and Publisher, New York.

The Canadian Grocer reaches every possible buyer—When he gets it he reads it from cover to cover—You can talk straight without fear of contradiction. If your talk is good and goods right, you'll sell.

Help Yourself by Helping the Farmer

A Suggestion for Building Up Canadian Retail Business—Greater Opportunities for Development in Agriculture Than in Any Other Industry—Prosperity of Farmers Means Directly More Business for the Retailers.

With a firm belief in the stability of the position in which Canada stands today as regards business, and with an encouraging outlook for Canadian trade and commerce generally, we believe the present year, 1908, will be one of the most prosperous and most successful in the history of the Dominion. There is one fact, however, on which this result is directly dependent. From the very nature of our country the material progress and prosperity of the greater part of Canada is admittedly dependent on the prosperity of the industry of agriculture. If Canadian farmers are well situated financially, all other business interests will necessarily be active and healthy.

With this fact in view it is very evident then that any movement or circumstance which conduces to the prosperity of the farmer, who is the basic wealth producer, must prove beneficial to all branches of commercial activity. This is a fact, which while we have heretofore admitted its truth in theory, has not influenced the great majority in their attitude toward the farmer and the farming industry. As a consequence, efforts to place it upon a better basis have not met with the general encouragement which would have been accorded it, were its importance, from a national standpoint, appreciated.

The farmer is the best customer the Canadian retailer has. He not only buys more goods, but on the whole, he buys a better class of goods and he pays his bills. In spite of this fact he has been neglected.

The Retailer's Opportunity.

Here is where the question touches the retailer. He should see that to encourage the farmer is to promote his own interests. If agriculture can be made a more profitable business, and the farmer becomes more prosperous, he will naturally spend more money for the goods the merchant has to sell.

The opportunities for development are greater—many times—in the farming industry, than in any other. Many who read this will not believe the statement. Indeed, many farmers—unfortunately the majority of them, either do not believe it or they do not realize it. It is a fact, nevertheless, and must be recognized.

Possibilities of Production.

Canadian farms are not beginning to bring out the wealth they are capable of producing. The last year for which statistics are available, the average yield of wheat per acre in Ontario was 24 bushels and a fraction. No one will say that this yield represents the best possible average results, but the majority of persons will be amazed to learn just what the possibilities in this one instance are. If the condition were ideal, if the seed were perfect—no weak, or worse still, dead grains—if the soil were properly cultivated and the grain properly covered after sowing; if the land were clear of weeds and if reasonably favorable weather conditions prevailed, instead of producing 24 bushels per acre the yield might be 250 bushels. That is, the number of grains of wheat in the bushel and a half necessary to sow an acre of land are capable of producing 250 bushels.

These are under ideal conditions, it is true, and possibly they will never be absolutely reached, and yet their accomplishment is quite within the range of human possibility. Think of the practically limitless opportunities. If Ontario's average grain yield were but increased five times instead of ten, as it might be, imagine the added wealth such an increase would represent.

Some Examples in Figures.

That the Canadian farms are not producing anything like the wealth they might, must be admitted. Here is more direct proof of it: The average yearly yield of milk of the cows of Ontario is not over 3,500 pounds, according to the statement of C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture. There is a herd of cows at the Guelph Agricultural College and the average yield of four of the best cows in that herd last year was 13,008 pounds, not quite ten times the average yield of the cows of the province. These four cows produced a profit over value of feed of $279.88, or an average of $69.97 as compared with a net average profit for the cows of the province of less than $7.75.

Were the dairy cattle of Ontario equal to the average of the Guelph herd—which is quite possible—instead of producing $17,000,000 worth of cheese last year, the province's cheese production would have been worth more than $160,000,000.

A Local Application.

Let us localize these figures. Oxford county last year produced cheese to the value of $1,200,000. With cows equal to the average of the four at Guelph, the farmers would have had more than $10,000,000 from their sale of cheese alone. Would the retailer of Oxford county have done more business had the farmers received $10,000,000 instead of $1,200,000? The answer is easy.

Of course, results such as are here suggested could not be secured in one year. The improvement in the value of the product of the agricultural industry can only be gradual and of an evolutionary nature.

To Make 1908 Prosperous.

There are some things, however, which may be done to make this year, the year 1908, the most prosperous and the best in the history of Canada, so far as the farming industry is concerned. To the accomplishment of this end the united energies of the farmers, as well as the merchants and business men in all branches, should be directed. Some of these things the farmer must do himself. He must plan for the biggest crops he ever harvested and he must work towards this goal. It is not too early to prepare for the season's crop. In the first place, he must get his seed, and he should exercise the greatest care to see that it is the very best possible. If this is to be the banner year the farmer must also see that the land is given the necessary cultivation in order that it may provide the most perfect facility for the multiplication of the seed.

The Problem of Help.

The question of help is one of the most serious problems the farmer has to solve. If, because he cannot secure the help necessary, he is able to work only fifty acres of his hundred-acre farm not only will his income be only half what it might be, but his spending ability will be only half what it would otherwise be.

The solution of the help problem lies, it would seem in this fact. Farmers must erect houses—not necessarily costly dwellings—on their farms and engage married men—men who are now in the cities, and who, if the accommodation were afforded, would gladly take their families to the country. This again works to the advantage of the merchant in the country district, because it not only increases the profit of the farmer, and makes it possible for him to spend more money, but it also practically doubles the population of the farming communities and likewise the number of prospective customers.

Profitable farming cannot be done with fewer men. If the tremendous possibilities of agriculture in Canada are to be reached, the farm population of the area at present under cultivation must be doubled. Farmers, themselves, should be made to realize this, for their own benefit, as well as for the sake of the general prosperity of the Dominion. Steps should be taken at once to build on every farm, where one has not already been built, a dwelling for the help.

Encourage the Farmer.

The practically unlimited possibilities along this line of effort, justify business men—merchants and manufacturers—giving every encouragement to the farmer; driving him, if necessary. Only a few farmers, a sprinkling here and there, have taken a wide enough view to realize what lies before them, and they may have to be convinced in spite of themselves that they are the mightiest factor in Canada's future industrial progress, since agriculture offers much more scope for development than any other industry.

In this proposition The Grocer sees the supreme opportunity for Canadian retailers. No movement yet undertaken promises a fraction of the direct personal benefit to them that this movement for the development of agriculture does. Every factor which results in the improvement of the financial position of the farmer benefits the retailer as soon as it does him, because his increased income is useless to him until he has spent it with a merchant in the procuring of some necessity or luxury.

This is an opportunity; in the first place, to inspire and encourage the farmers to make this year the most prosperous in their history, and to inaugurate the campaign for the speedy adoption of the newer and modern farming; the farming which will increase five or ten-fold, the earnings of the Canadian farms.

How the Work May Be Done.

It is worth retailers becoming enthusiastic over. Here are some of the things they might do: By personal contact with farmers get them to attempt what has been suggested in this article; enlist the support of the local press in bringing to the farmers a conception of their opportunities; call a meeting of local business men and discuss the question and endeavor to secure concerted action; then get a meeting of farmers themselves and talk it over with them. They do not know themselves yet, what a future they have in store; get some speaker to go and tell the farmers and your fellow-merchants what the enormous possibilities are. If there is no local man who has the enthusiasm or who is in possession of the knowledge write The Grocer and one will be sent.

No other commercial problem looms so large in Canada to-day. It is a matter, which, if taken in hand and carried forward, will give retail business a magnificent impetus. Will the readers of the Grocer grasp the opportunity?

The Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, recently issued some information for visitors which, in connection with the preceding article, will be found particularly interesting. The matter describes the work being done at that institution along the lines suggested in this article and will be found below.

WHAT OUR DIFFERENT DEPARTMENTS DO FOR FARMERS.

The Ontario Agricultural College was established in May, 1874. The first winter term opened January 1st, 1875, with 28 pupils in attendance, "all that could be crowded in." In January, 1908, the thirty-fourth winter term was begun with 837 students in attendance.

The following is an outline of the work done in the several departments:

Field Husbandry.

Improve by systematic selection and by cross fertilization old varieties of field crops; originate new ones of greater value and distribute same to farmers throughout the province. Instruct farmers' sons in the different systems of farming; different kinds of soil; application of manures; preparation of land; examination of farm seeds; methods of cleaning and selecting seed; study of cereals, roots, fodder crops, grasses, clovers, methods of sowing, harvesting and marketing.

Animal Husbandry.

Recent investigations have dealt with the relative value of short keep and long keep steers for feeding purposes; the relative merits of feeding steers in loose boxes and tied in stalls; the cost of raising pigs from birth to market; and a beginning has been made in the cross-breeding of swine. Students are given practice in judging horses, cattle, sheep and swine; lectures are delivered on breeding and pedigrees, feeding and management, and the history and characteristics of the principal breeds of live stock. As a result of the efficient manner in which this branch of the work has been carried on, the recent honor won at the International Live Stock show in Chicago is sufficient evidence.

Dairy Husbandry.

The herd—16 cows: Average yield of milk per cow. 9,585 lbs.; average amount of butter per cow, 399 lbs.

One cow in 365 days gave 20,778 lbs of milk, or 913 lbs. of butter. The average cow in Ontario gives less than 3,000 lbs. of milk per year. Hence the need for careful selection, proper feeding, and impartial weeding out. The cost of feed per cow varied from $25 to $45. The profit per cow, over cost of feed varied from $5 to $45 on butter, and from $37 to $140 on milk.

The improvement in the quality of butter at hotels and in the homes of the people in towns and cities may be directly traced to the traveling dairies that started from our dairy department and visited all parts of this Province.

Physics.

This department is prepared to send a representative to any farm in the Province of Ontario, to take the levels of the land, locate the drains, and give information generally on the subject of drainage; the only expense assumed by the farmer being the man's travelling expenses at the rate of one cent per mile each way, together with his keep.

To be able to conserve soil moisture is one of the most important problems confronting the farmer to-day. All plant food is available only when in solution, consequently when the land is hard and dry plant food will be scarce and crops must suffer. Experiments are being conducted in the physics department all the time along these lines.

Botany.

Treats with the subject of weeds and how to destroy them; the question of fungus growth, and when and how to spray to exterminate it; the importance of growing grasses and clovers; the identification and prevention of smut, rust, mildew, etc.

Entomology.

Comprises a study of the life history and habits of insects, in order that they may be promptly checked. Farmers' boys are taught all about insecticides, and bulletins are written and sent broadcast to the farmers of the Province.

Horticulture.

Instruction is provided in the growing of all kinds of fruit, vegetables and flowers, and experiments are conducted with the small fruits, and with cover crops for the orchard. Through the agency of the experimental union leading varieties of fruits, fruit trees, and flowers have been distributed throughout the Province. Thus each grower may select for himself and grow more extensively the varieties which give the best results on his own particular farm.

Bacteriology.

Nitrogen is one of the principal needs of a plant. It is worth, commercially, about 20 cents a pound. The air is 80 per cent. nitrogen, and yet plants cannot use it in the form in which it exists in the atmosphere. Certain bacteria, if introduced into the soil, will work on the roots of clover and other leguminous plants, take the nitrogen from the atmosphere, and convert it into plant food. Our bacteriologist propagates in his laboratory, and supplies in small bottles, millions of these nitrogen-forming bacteria, which may be spread upon the seed before it is sown, and thus introduce into the soil these nodule-forming bacteria. A crop of clover will leave in roots alone about fifty pounds of nitrogen per acre. Thus the plant food supplied to the soil by a crop of clover is $10 per acre in one year, and the farmer has the clover crop, tops, and leaves to the good. This, if practised on every farm, would mean millions each year to this Province.

Chemistry.

An analysis of water, feed stuffs, and fertilizers, such that will aid the farmer in arriving at a true idea of their value. With wheat and flour too, work is being done to determine the best milling varieties and to ascertain from the differences in composition whether some scientific basis could not be found which would make the blending of the home grown varieties of wheat more profitable.

Forestry.

By furnishing seeds, seedling trees, or cuttings free of charge, this department is endeavoring to assist farmers to improve their woodlots, plant shelter belts, and reforest waste portions of the farm.

Poultry.

Chickens used to sell on the market anywhere from 20 to 30 cents apiece. To-day they bring three times that amount, where they have been properly fed, killed and dressed. We have no trouble in disposing of our poultry here at from 12 to 15 cents a pound dressed, and our students are taught how to breed and feed so as to obtain these results. We have four different styles of poultry houses, to test the effects of heat and cold on the egg-laying proclivities; hence we find that the coldest, and therefore the cheapest house is the best, and that fresh air, not warm air, is essential to good egg production.

Macdonald Institute.

Three things are taught: Domestic Science, Manual Training and Nature Study. In domestic science there were 260 girls in attendance last year, each one being obliged to learn cooking, sewing and laundry work. In a Province where over 90 per cent. of the women do their own housework, what a blessing it would be if they were all properly trained for their daily duties. Manual training makes boys and girls handy in the use of simple tools, and nature study, which is really elementary agriculture, helps teachers to the extent that they may return and give to their pupils an education that will more nearly fit them for the earning of their daily bread.*

BUILDING UP BUSINESS.

The farmer, as a class, is the most generous spender in all Canada—the best customer of the manufacturer and merchant. The more money he makes the more he spends with the retailer. He is not making anything like what he should for the land he occupies and the labor he expends.

It was pointed out in these columns recently that in three items alone, beef, bacon and cheese, the revenue of the Ontario farmer alone increased $35,000,000 a year through the adoption of improved methods. This means $200 a year to each farmer in the province. Suppose each merchant has 100 farmers as customers, this means $20,000 a year increase in the money these people might spend with him. This is something worth while. It could be made double that easily by further improvements in farming methods and every merchant and manufacturer can help by encouraging the work of the agricultural colleges and departments of the Dominion and their own province, but particularly by encouraging the farmer to go in for methods that will make more money. Get him to attend the institutes and shows, read good papers, visit the colleges and experimental farms and send his sons and daughters to study there.

The college at Guelph recently issued some information for visitors about the work they are doing there, which our readers can gossip about with their farmer customers. In any province where they are not doing as well as in Guelph business men should draw the attention of their legislators to it. The article appears elsewhere under the head "What Our Different Departments Do for the Farmer."

POSSIBLY AMERICAN BUTTER.

Whether or not the butter market within the next three weeks will warrant the importation of American butter is a problem before produce merchants to-day. Recent high prices have curtailed consumption of the article, and if demand is below average for the next few weeks dealers will be tided over to the first packages of the new make arriving in about a month, which will obviate the necessity of importing supplies from the States. To bring butter into Montreal for sale at a profit a 35c market would be necessary, equal to a price of 38c or 40c chargeable to the consumer. To-day butter might be purchased in Chicago at 29c a pound, and brought on to Montreal on payment of a freight of ½c a pound and a duty of 4c a pound. It is the duty which makes it impossible to bring butter in right away to be sold at a profit. But for this protection there would be a great amount imported owing to the scarcity of the home trade article.

If butter is to be imported from the other side prices must advance to what they were recently, when 40c was obtainable from the consumer. This is possible, but not generally considered probable by dealers. But the past has been an abnormal season and improbabilities have occurred.

ASSOCIATION PROVIDES A REMEDY.

Reports from the coast tell of a struggle which has been going on for some time between retailers and wholesalers over an old and vexed question. The retailers claim that the wholesale houses are supplying hotels, restaurants, etc., with groceries at wholesale prices to the exclusion of the retail trade. Similar complaints have come in to us recently from various points in Ontario.

The matter is an old and troublesome one and yet one in which the retailer seems to be right in his complaint. He is the chief customer of the wholesale house and his interests should be considered. The question is one, however, which might be discussed interminably with no result, but a remedy is not far to seek if action will be taken.

If the grocers in any town or district in which this question was pertinent, were organized in a representative association the methods complained of need not exist long. The association could easily take such a strong stand against the wholesaler or manufacturer who seemed to be overstepping their privileges that the matter would be remedied at once.

An instance of this arose recently in an Ontario city where there is a strong grocers' organization. Complaints were made that certain outside firms were selling biscuits to hotels and cafes at wholesale prices. At a meeting of the association the matter was considered and the secretary was instructed to write the firms in question informing them that unless the procedure complained of were stopped the retailers would refuse to handle their goods. We have not as yet heard the issue but it is pretty certain to be favorable to the retailers.

This is only one of the many ways in which a grocers' association would be a practical benefit to the trade in your town. Why not proceed in the matter of organization?

TAKE TIME TO PLAN.

Too many merchants are to-day hurrying through one job and rushing into another without giving a moment's time to considering the best way to do the new task, or as to how the best results can be accomplished with the least labor. It is no uncommon thing to see a man rush into a task in this unprepared manner and after working on it for a day or so find out some method by which the same results could have been accomplished in half the time.

When business men are themselves doing these things day after day, what is to be expected of those who work for them and under their direction? Clerks are even more apt to waste their time in this manner, especially if they have taken up a regular routine of duties. Not because they want to put in their time without making anything for the employer, but because they fall easily into ruts. They will continue to carry out the daily programme week after week in the same way, without trying to simplify it in any manner.

Managers should so arrange business duties as to give themselves time to think of the best methods of doing not only the things they expect to do themselves, but also to simplify the work of the office force, the sales force, the shipping force, etc.; in fact, in whatever part of the business simplification is needed, and once the manager starts on this kind of work he finds that every part of the business needs it, and every employe, from the delivery boy up, can be made to produce more results in the same length of time by merely taking time to first figure out the most simple way to accomplish desired results.

UNSATISFACTORY EVAPORATED APPLES.

This has been rather a troublesome year for apple buyers in Canada in more ways than one. Now we are beginning to hear serious complaints as to the quality of the evaporated apples which have been turned out by some of the factories this year. Those in the trade say that owing to the high prices for apples prevailing early last season the farmers sold all their best stock to green apple buyers and turned mostly culls over to the evaporators. It is impossible to handle such fruit satisfactorily as it will not permit of being cut in the proper rings. As a consequence a large quantity of the stock now held by the factories is said to be small and chippy, which makes it almost impossible to dispose of on either home or foreign markets.

The matter is one that should be remedied. Evaporators must procure a better grade of fruit and refuse to handle the culls. Considerable business is being built up at the present time in foreign markets in Canadian evaporated apples but a continuance of the practice mentioned above will be very deleterious to this. The sooner the matter is remedied the better for all concerned.

REPORT SHORTAGES PROMPTLY.

A thorough inspection of goods at the moment of their delivery by the transportation authorities cannot be too strongly urged upon the retail merchant. The great, and in many cases, the only disturber of those harmonious relations which exist generally between the jobber and the dealer, is the annoying claim for shortage which is occasionally made upon the consignor by the consignee. The latter will be the first to admit that nothing could be more irritating to a firm than to be informed, some time after the receipt of the goods has been acknowledged, and the whole transacted relegated to the accountancy department, that such and such an order had been sent out incomplete. The enormous amount of time and labor wasted in looking into the matter, the extent of the correspondence involved, can be understood only by those who have an inside knowledge of the clerical work of a big wholesale house. Many transactions have, in all probability, passed through the books between the dispatching of the particular order in dispute and the notification of the shortage; the whole consignment has been forgotten by the busy packing department, and a satisfactory tracing of the matter is thus impossible.

In this question of claiming for shortage we do not hold a brief for the jobber by any means. If there is a just claim against the latter, the retailer would be utterly unbusinesslike not to make it. But the great point is that that claim should be made immediately upon the arrival of the goods, and not at such an interval afterwards that the consignor is placed at a disadvantage in investigating the fairness of the claim, and in apportioning blame, if blame is to be apportioned, to those responsible. The reasonableness of this contention cannot be denied, especially in view of the railroad pilfering that apparently goes on more or less successfully throughout Canada, and of which, in many cases, the wholesale house has to stand the brunt. We are informed that there has been quite an epidemic of this species of thieving lately, and especially in regard to goods consigned west. Pilfering, of course, has to be made good by the proper authorities if the merchant refuses to accept delivery. But, as an informant writes us, merchants often carelessly sign a clean receipt without giving that inspection to the consignment which would make clear at once that the cases had been tampered with. The result is that later on the jobber is requested to make good when he is in no wise responsible.

It is essential that merchants, or their employes, should exercise the greatest care in giving receipts. When the store is busy, it is of course a great temptation to sign with but a cursory checking of the number of cases, but the short time required to give that examination to the consignment which would detect any pilfering would be time well spent. Claims for shortage are irritating, not to say distracting, alike to consignor and consignee, and are not conducive to smooth business transactions, especially if the dispatcher may have reason to suspect railroad pilfering, but, of course, after the delay in notification, is not in a position to prove the fact. The merchant, in fairness to the jobber, should pay careful attention to the condition of his cases before signing for them. By refusing to give a clean receipt he will help in the detection of the culprits, and make the authorities more vigilant over the goods given in their care, besides saving the wholesaler an unjust claim for shortage.

ADVERTISE AS YOU TALK.

Retail advertising that does not possess some of the chief qualities of a good salesman fails in its purpose. It should address the public in much the same tone as you adopt in talking to customers over your counter—a tone of reasonableness that is calculated to convince. Some merchants have utterly failed to grasp this point. They are the sensational advertisers who use up valuable space to exclaim that their entire stocks will be "sacrificed regardless of price"; that goods will be sold at "ridiculous" rates; that the "cutting and slashing" of prices at their stores is unprecedented in the history of merchandising; that they practically give away "dollar bills for fifty cents"; that theirs are the "greatest price-cutting sales on earth," etc. Imagine any one of these merchants making use of such terms while endeavoring to actually sell goods to a client! He wouldn't think of doing so. Then how in the name of reason can he justify their employment in his advertising?

COACHING THE STAFF.

The wholesalers and manufacturers throughout the country are learning that the salesmen's convention is an important force in selling goods. By getting the salesmen together periodically and threshing over selling points and every other point affecting the business with them the efficiency of the force is greatly increased and the business grows as a result.

There is no reason why this plan cannot be worked in every retail store. The progressive merchant, anxious to bring his store staff to its highest selling efficiency, will find that by getting them together for talks about goods and store problems better results are sure to come.

It is easy for members of the staff of any business institution to get sore and discontented, to think that their prices are the highest, that their house is the least accommodating, and that there would be a better opportunity with some other house.

That they get into this state of mind is the fault of the proprietor. He should talk all of those points over with them, and the best place for it is the staff meeting held weekly or twice a month, as may be thought best.

THE SITUATION IN THE WEST

Conditions in the Grain Markets, Whea t Market Strong Under Active Demand, Oats Have Graded Low—Signifi cant Consolidation of Lumber Companies—Improve ment in Real Estate.

The Western Viewpoint by our Special Winnipeg Correspondent.

Inspection returns for the first six months of the crop of 1907-8 make interesting reading in the light of the prices that have been paid and the scare articles in American papers as to the western farmers starving because all the grain was frosted. During the period mentioned there have been inspected out of the crop of 1907, 39,804,000 bushels, and of this amount 19,301,730 bushels were of contract grade. During the same period last year there was inspected out of the crop of 1906, 37,659,510 bushels and of this 18,937,930 bushels were up to grade. The difference of course lies in the fact that while in 1906 the bulk of the contract wheat was No. 1 northern and no hard, the bulk of the 1907 contract was No. 2 and 3 northern. However, the much higher prices obtained this season, even allowing for the slump at the time of the bank stringency, have made the wheat sold much more valuable to the farmers than that of the previous year. Not only is this the case, but the low grade wheats, such as Nos. 5 and 6, have sold for very high prices from time to time, making the average of the whole season a very good one.

One feature of the report which cannot fail to cause regret is the fact that so large a portion of oats have graded rejected, in all 3,328 cars, as against 148 last year. This has been occasioned by the frosting of the oats, and though many of these samples have been extremely fine in appearance and of exceptional weight, as they cannot be used for either milling or seed, they had to be classed as rejected. This has made the task of securing seed oats an exceedingly difficult one and indeed it is expected that the acreage sown to oats this season will be considerably curtailed on this account. However, though the oats have not brought as high a figure as unfrosted oats would have done the price has been good, as the scarcity of feed in Ontario has made the demand good, and prices have ruled high accordingly. Taking into consideration that 1907 was most distinctly an off year, the returns of the past six months are very gratifying, not only as to quantity but also as to quality. It must be borne in mind, however, that while last year at this time interior elevators were full to repletion, owing to the car shortage, and farmers had still enormous quantities in first hands, this season cars have been abundant, the winter has been ideal for crop movement, and there is no doubt the bulk of the wheat is out. Interior elevators are carrying comparatively small stocks at present and it is questionable if now there is even four million in farmers' hands to come forward. The government seed purchasing depots have brought out the good wheat and much that has been inspected at Winnipeg in the past three weeks has been forwarded in consignment with a view to its being used for seed and if not suitable, to be sold.

This brings us to the condition of the wheat market, which has been one of great strength for the past few days. The demand from millers for contract wheat has been steady and persistent, while offerings have been very light and in consequence a good many purchases have been made at 1 to 1¼ premium for one and two northern. Demand for low grade wheats is very active, export trade has shown considerable revival, and during Friday a bid of 1¼ premium for No. 4 failed to bring out a single bushel to the man who was trying to fill a 20,000 bushel order.

"Some day soon we will see fireworks on this market," is the verdict of some of the most conservative men in the trade and that is also the opinion of your correspondent. No one knows just how small is the amount in farmers' hands, but everyone is pretty well assured that it is small and this means that any sudden increase in demand will send prices skyward. It may not come until navigation opens, but it will come without doubt and then those who have been consistent bulls all winter will have the extreme satisfaction of saying "I told you so."

One of the events of the week that is of supreme importance to the west, in that it so materially affects building, is the application for charter of the "Union Lumber Company," with a capital of $10,000,000 and controlling 3,000,000,000 feet of standing timber. This company consolidates no less than seven of the leading lumbering plants of the Canadian west, including the "Red Deer Lumber Company," Barrows, Sask., with a new and up-to-date mill, second to none in Canada; the Elk Lumber Company, with splendid mills at Fernie, B.C., built of concrete; the Sunset Timber and Lumber Company, the Yale-Columbia Lumber Co., and other smaller concerns, with mills at Nelson, Cascade, Revelstoke and Westley, B.C. Other large mills will be erected this spring. The new company are also interested in coal lands. The object of combination is to reduce cost of production and the new company claim they will be able to handle the entire output for one-third the cost of the separate plants. This will be good news to the west. One of the raciest things said at the recent agricultural meetings was a remark of A. P. Stevenson of Nelson, Man. Someone asked him what he thought of the cost of lumber and he replied: "I bought 1,000 feet the other day and it is piled in my yard. Every time I pass it I feel like taking off my hat as only paying due deference to so small a thing which cost so much money."

The real estate situation continues to show improvement in the number of inquiries, if not in the actual number of sales. All the larger firms report an increase of inquiry from Great Britain especially with regard to sites suitable for factories or for industries already established.

Retail trade is good and one of the noticeable features of the wholesale fur trade is that stocks are better cleaned up than they have been for years, the Pacquets, the Redmonds and that ilk are well sold out. Inquiries among the fur and departmental stores, where furs are sold exclusively for cash, elicited the information that it was only the extreme fag ends which are being carried over. The winter has been the mildest for 30 years, furs were somewhat reduced in price because dealers were afraid of their stocks and it shows that furs this winter have largely been bought as a personal investment, because it was an advantageous season to buy, which does not look like very hard times.

Probably in no city of the worlds are furs worn so extensively by all classes as they are in Winnipeg. It is safe betting that any day in Winnipeg, cold enough to wear furs, one sees an investment of $1,500,000 on the streets in fur garments alone. This is a very conservative allowance. These are minor facts, perhaps, but they have their significance to the man in trade.—H.

INDEPENDENT CANNERS MEET.

Organization of Association is Being Completed—Members Entertained by Local Firm.

The Independent Canners' Association of Ontario held their second meeting on Thursday and Friday of last week in the King Edward hotel, Toronto. A large number of the members were present, and the work of completing the organization was proceeded with.

On Thursday evening the members were entertained by Rolph & Clark, lithographers, to a most sumptuous banquet and theatre party. The supper was held in room G, and it was a veritable treat. About forty sat down, the head table being occupied by President E. D. Smith, Winona, and S. Edgar Mastin, seated respectively on either side of Mr. Rolph. R. W. Ball started the ball rolling, and happy speeches were given by President E. D. Smith, Mr. Mastin, Mr. Rolph, Mr. Clark, Mr. Grew, and Mr. Lowe, St. Catharines.

The thanks of the canners were expressed to their hosts in a motion by Mr. Mastin, and seconded by Mr. Lowe, after which the party adjourned to the Royal Alexandra theatre. The Grocer's thanks are also due Rolph & Clark for a very pleasant and friendly evening.

Another meeting for further business will be held on Saturday, 14th, also in Toronto.

HOLD ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual general meeting of the shareholders of White & Co., Toronto, was held at the company's offices, on Monday, 24th ult. The statement presented showed a very satisfactory state of affairs. James Langskill was re-elected president, and W. H. Despard elected vice-president and general manager.

D. J. Jamieson & Sons, general merchants, of Vankleek Hill, Ont., have dissolved partnership, D. F. Jamieson continuing the business.

A ST. PATRICK'S DAY WINDOW

An Attractive Display for the Irish Saint's Holiday—How the Window is Dressed and Built Up.

There's nothing like timeliness in window display, and the more a grocer's windows conform to the season, provided the other necessary features of this department, cleanliness and good judgment are observed, the greater factors should they be in bringing in business.

Two weeks ago we illustrated a Lenten window. This week we show one which would be particularly appropriate for next week, in which the holiday of the good old Irish patron saint, St. Patrick, comes on Wednesday. The idea and sketch are borrowed from our contemporary, the Modern Grocer, of Chicago.

The prevailing idea is to commemorate the day by making the shamrock, its symbol, very evident. To follow this design closely a wall or background is needed at the rear of the window. This may be readily provided for by covering a light framework with cotton or paper.

In this display a large shamrock is made of green cloth and is tacked in position on the background. Upon each leaf a harp is painted in white paint.

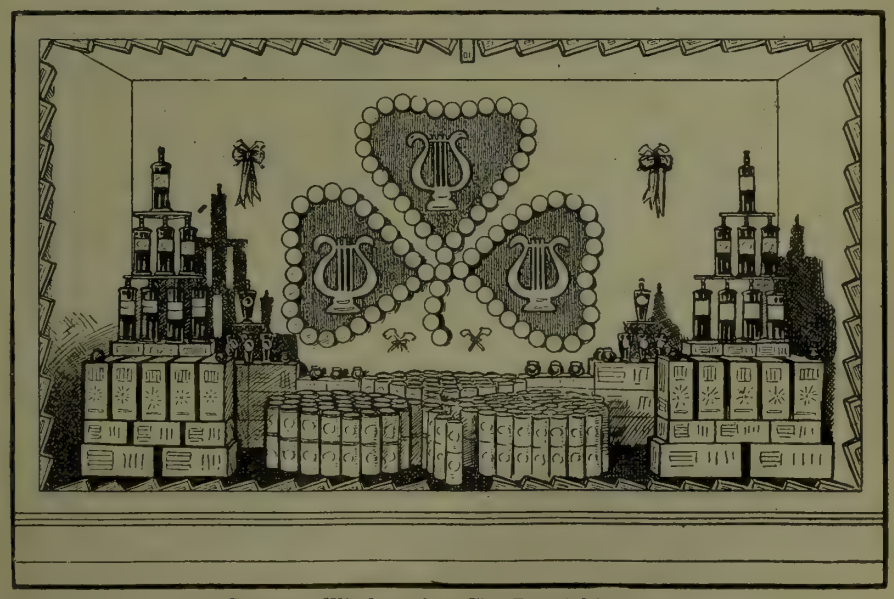
Around the edges of the shamrock runs a border of flat cans, such as contain stove polish. These cans are held in position by twisting wires around each one, that is, having two wires, and after passing them about a can twist them together and pass on to the next can, driving a tack in between to hold the wire in place. The stem of the shamrock is also made of cans.

In the floor design another shamrock is formed by stacking canned goods of almost any description into that shape.

Cartons stacked at each side and across the rear with bottled goods displayed to advantage on top complete the floor design.

Against the window pane cartons may be placed so that just a corner of each extends beyond the frame. Irish pipes tied with large green ribbons tacked against the rear half are brightly suggestive of St. Patrick's Day.

This window, which may be inexpensively built with very little trouble, is bound to cause a good deal of interest in your town, and that is what you are after. Get the people talking about your store, convince them that you handle satisfactory goods and additional business is bound to come.



A Grocery Window for St. Patrick's Day.

WINDOW DRESSING AS ADVERTISING.

In speaking of window dressing, in an address before the Ad Club, of Cleveland, recently, George J. Cowan gave out some excellent ideas. The following paragraphs are reproduced from his address:

"Every store should make some sort of appropriation for its show windows as well as for its other advertising. In a window the goods sell themselves, the customer can see the color, texture and style. Don't you think that fifty dollars spent for an attractive window will bring results far in excess of the amount expended?

"That the window trim is an advertisement of undisputed effectiveness is especially evident where the window trimmer and advertising man work in close sympathy with each other. This is not always done as harmoniously as it should be for every newspaper advertisement of particular import should present its graphic duplicate in graphic window display. Thus the merchant gets every possible ounce of effect out of his newspaper effort. The passer-by who may have noticed the advertisement carelessly is attracted to the window trim and receives the second impression that so often makes the sale. The window trim is a high-class advertisement. The most successful merchants in the country put their finest goods in their windows.

"Some stores talk price and others quality. Around the first must be marshalled the argument of price, but around the other must be summoned the charm of beauty and art. Style, price, variety, magnificence, attractiveness—you can use al these different arguments in your windows to induce people to stop and buy.

"Coincident with this great and growing interest of the retailer in better window trims you will note that the advertising methods of the most progressive manufacturers include systematic work with retail window trimmers. I believe the time is coming when every well-planned campaign will supplement its magazine, newspaper and trade paper advertising with a well defined series of window advertisements. This is already done by the most enterprising in their respective lines, and the results justify decided increase in the effort. If you are a manufacturer and show the retail trade that you appreciate his local condition sufficiently to furnish him with ideas and suggestions for window back grounds and displays, emphasizing the importance of your branded lines, you will find that he is anxious and willing to co-operate with you to the fullest extent possible."

FACTS ON FOOD ADULTERATION.

Some Statistics Handed Out As Result Of Inquiry in the Commons.

Some interesting information in regard to the adulteration of food was handed out during the regular sitting of the Dominion House on Thursday, March 5th. E. D. Smith, M.P., asked how many firms had been fined for manufacturing and selling adulterated food in 1906 and 1907, how much was the average fine and the average cost to each person fined.

Hon. Wm. Templeman, Minister of Inland Revenue, replied that seventy-nine persons, or firms, paid the cost of collecting and analyzing samples at an average cost to each person, or firm, of $10.18. Eight persons, or firms, were fined through the courts. The average fine was $10, and the average cost to each person, or firm, fined, was, so far as the department could determine, about $18.

Grocery News from Coast to Coast

Letters From Our Special Correspondents in the Principal Cities and Towns in Canada—Happenings of the Trade for the Week.

BRANTFORD.

The recent weather has been most unfavorable in this vicinity for the grocery trade. The condition of the roads leading from the country to the city is very bad. As a result the markets have been smaller and there has been an appreciable falling off in the spring business. The fact that there are many men out of work in Brantford also has its effect on the merchants, particularly on the grocers and butchers. In excess of six hundred men, who are out of work, have made applications at the office of the City Engineer for employment on the streets, shovelling snow or assisting with the sewers. These applications were all by different men. In addition there are no doubt many others who have had factory work and who found themselves laid off who did not make a demand for street labor as they considered that their former positions would soon be available to them. In all it is estimated that more than eight hundred men are out of work at the present time in this city. Some of the factories are closed. Others are running on short time and with limited hands. In still other cases a cut has been necessary in the wages in order to continue operations. It will be readily seen that under these circumstances the grocery trade will be none too brisk until conditions are bettered. Many of the men who are out of employment are single, having been laid off first while married men have been favored. This, however, does not help the situation from the standpoint of the grocer, for the great majority of these single men are in boarding-houses, whose keepers are tiding them over their difficulty, and in order to do so have to ask credit of the grocers. From the married men, with families, who are out of work, there are also daily demands for credit. In Brantford there are 4,500 of the population of 20 000 employed in local factories. It will thus be seen that the situation entailed by this industrial depression is a most serious one and probably hits the grocer financially more than any other line of business in the community. If the conditions improve in the West, to which a large part of the local manufactured goods go, it is likely that there will be renewed industrial activity in the spring with the result that operations will be resumed and trade will again be put on a good basis.

*Contributions are invited from grocers or clerks in small places or where there is not a regular correspondent of this paper.

Local ice dealers have not as yet harvested a sufficient supply for the demands of the summer season. This will have an effect on grocers and butchers to a great extent. The weather of late has been very unfavorable for cutting. Earlier in the season the dealers, in anticipation of a thaw, took in considerable ice that was not of the best quality.

The Matthews' Pork Packing Company, situated beyond the western limits of the city, have written the city council, asking that a fire alarm box be placed in their factory. The firm is making a contribution annually now for fire protection.

Considerable diseased meat is being offered on the local market these days for sale. On Saturday Dr. Cutcliffe, the market inspector, seized a pig which was infected with tuberculosis. The authorities are making an effort to rigidly enforce the regulations in this regard.

* * *

Dr. Cutcliffe has been appointed market inspector in succession to Dr. Porter, who recently resigned and went to Toronto.

George S. Matthews, of the Brantford Pork Packing Company, known to the grocery trade throughout the province, has been nominated by Mayor Bowlby and elected by the city council to a seat on the Parks' Commission. He will make an excellent member as he has travelled extensively and has progressive ideas in matters of civic improvement.

* * *

A business change is reported in Eagle Place, a thriving section of this city. Lewis Brothers, who have been with the Wright grocery which has been purchased in West Brantford by Reg. Welsh, have acquired the business of Mr. J. C. Henry, grocer, Superior St.

A very considerable quantity of tea and other lines were recently damaged by water at the grocery of A. L. Vanstone, George St., the other night. His store was partially flooded by water leaking from the floor above, where it is supposed a tap was left running. The extent of the damage may be some hundreds of dollars but as yet it is impossible to tell.

WHAT ONE GROCER THINKS

The following paragraph which was culled from our London correspondent's letter this week, shows how a leading retailer in that city regards The Grocer. This is typical of letters we are continually receiving:

"At Wednesday night's meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association, Treasurer E. J. Ryan, in the course of an address, incidentally referred to the Canadian Grocer, which, he said, he found of inestimable value in his business. 'Apart from the excellent reading matter furnished by our trade Journal,' said he, 'I find it of value for the advertisements it contains. Recently I effected a saving of one and a half cents a pound in tapioca as a result of seeing one of these ads., which more than paid for a year's subscription.' Mr. Ryan believes no grocer can afford to be without the trade newspaper, and there are many others here who hold the same belief."

GEORGETOWN, P.E.I.

The wretched condition of the roads for the past two months has made business very dull on Prince Edward Island. March, however, came in with a good fall of snow, which is helping to make business hum. The spring trade, too, will be in full swing in the course of a very few weeks and the prospects for a good summer's turn-over have never been brighter. The bountiful harvest of last year and the splendid prices which prevail for everything have placed the farmers on a firm financial footing, while the prices promised for lobsters this coming season are much in advance of any previous year.

For the first time in the history of our Island Province, we are shipping large quantities of seed oats to the Far West. The firm of Joseph Reid & Co., Summerside, have an order for $75,000 bushels. Taking it all together, the winter steamers are taxed to their utmost to handle the exports, and it was necessary to make round trips Sunday, March 1st. The price paid for oats is 50 cents per bushel on the street.

William Hobbs has opened a meat store on Water Street, and has already secured a large share of the business in his line. Mr. Hobbs is a young man with a thorough knowledge of the meat trade, and the up-to-date methods which he has adopted promise a large measure of success.

It is high time the fruit inspectors in the adjoining Provinces became busy. A large percentage of the apples imported here, graded, say, No. 1's, are of that standard on top, but after two or three dozen are removed, almost any size may be found. It is time this sort of business came to an end, otherwise the trade here will make its objection felt.

* * *

At the annual meeting of the Southern King's Board of Trade W. W. Jenkins, of the firm of W. W. Jenkins, Son & Co., was re-elected president.

Considerable discussion has been indulged in regarding meat inspection, but as cattle and hog diseases are unknown on the Island, the law will be a dead letter here. Hogs of the right sort command a higher price here than if exported.

Butter and eggs remain high. The former is worth 28 to 30 cents per pound. Eggs stand 20 to 22 for selects.

* * *

The demand for fruit and confectionery has been exceptionally good, and grocers in general are paying more attention to this department of their business.

The annual pie social epidemic has struck here, and, as a result, large quantities of fancy cooking groceries are moving.

* * *

J. C. Marvel, one of our progressive grocers and lobster packers, sang with much acceptance at the annual concert given by St. James' Church recently.

The grocers here are making the usual preparations for the Lenten season. An up-to-date cold storage plant is what is required here.

Lobsters command such a high figure that very few grocers handle them at all. Even those engaged in the packing industry find it much more profitable to sell their entire pack than to retail any.

* * *

As usual the grocery clerks have been after the hockey puck and a number of friendly games have been played.

INGERSOLL.

In these days of imitations and deception in innumerable forms there is nothing more pleasing to the buying public than the knowledge that they are receiving standard quality, weight or measure, as the case may be. Retailers have to be alert to guard against being victims of fraud, not only on account of personal interests, but to protect their customers. It is to be hoped that the time has gone forever when a few potatoes or apples at the top will sell a bagful of inferior quality, and it is interesting to note that throughout the country the law in this respect is being pretty well observed. Just a few days ago Chief of Police Wright made a tour of the grocery and other stores where butter is offered for sale, for the purpose of weighing all the small prints. While so far as is known there had been no reason for belief to the contrary, the announcement that none of the prints were under weight was received with much satisfaction.

In this connection the question suggests itself, would it not be well if greater attention was paid to inspections of this kind? Are not prints of butter invariably accepted as being of a certain weight? But few of them are probably actually placed on the scales in the ordinary course of events. Creamery butter appears to have supplanted the dairy article to a very great extent, and the demand is principally for the one-pound prints. It may be that the majority of merchants weigh their consignments as they are received, but if this is not done, it would seem that it would be worth the trouble to keep tab on the weight of the prints as they go out and if there was ever any cause for complaint they would know exactly where to place the responsibility.

The advisability of handling fish seems to be a very debatable subject with many grocers. There are of course some disadvantages to be reckoned, for instance the prevention of tainting other articles, but with proper precaution this can be obviated, and if conditions are at all favorable a good trade can be established. The advent of the Lenten season is sufficient to prove the possibilities that lie in a good fish trade. Two of Ingersoll's merchants only, handle fish extensively. Both of them had a large supply in readiness for the present season, and by keeping the fish separated from their other stock, they experience no difficulty, and while there is extra work, not of the most agreeable nature, the profits are surely worth the trouble.

* * *

S. M. Fleet, who was unfortunate in having his grocery stock destroyed by fire and water during the Christmas season, reopened his store on Saturday. Since his disastrous fire, Mr. Fleet has conducted his business in his meat shop across the street from his old stand. His old premises have been thoroughly remodelled, being bright and inviting, as well as modern in every respect. Mr. Fleet enjoys a very large patronage and it was pleasing to his customers and friends in general to know that he would continue to do business at the old stand and on a larger scale than ever before.

When everything is as represented, originality and persistency might be termed the hand-in-hand features of successful advertising. Few merchants will dispute the fact that systematic advertising is a necessary adjunct to a successful business. The advertisements that have character and individuality, and are "catchy" in their general appearance, are the ones that fatten the contents of the till. It is not everyone who is adapted to successful ad. writing but merchants generally know a good advertisement when they see it, and many will probably be interested in the following excerpts from Mr. Fleet's opening announcement, which stood out boldly so far as originality is concerned. "Risen from the flames. On Saturday morning, March 7, S. M. Fleet will again open his store at the old stand. New store, new fixtures, new goods. Everything new and fresh but the man, and he is the same old Fleet. Make this March 7 a record day for Fleet. Come in and see the finest grocery store in Western Ontario and don't forget to bring a dollar or two in cash and buy something. I now need money. Consider Saturday and all next week a Home Mission Week and give Fleet all the cash you can." Throughout, Mr. Fleet's ad. sparkled with originality, while he never lost an opportunity to emphasize the fact that his stock was new and fresh and the prices reasonable.

The supply of eggs continues to increase and the price has now dropped to 23 cents per doz. Poultry, however, is not plentiful, and the prices show only a slight decline.

* * *

According to many farmers of the surrounding districts, it is doubtful if the coming season will be a favorable one for syrup making. There is said to be very little frost in the ground, which is not looked upon as a favorable indication. However, should there be a real cold spell before the snow has disappeared conditions may be materially improved.

KINGSTON.

Lent is here and the fish displays at the grocery stores are numerous.

Alderman Jack Carson's by-law for making farmers' wives clean poultry inside and out before bringing to market was defeated at the council meeting the other day.

James and George Crawford, after running a large grocery business on Princess street for the past twenty-five years, have dissolved partnership. George looked after the books and office work, and I tell you it is a tiresome like to keep track of all the routine and what people eat. George is going to take it easy for a time. He feels like a captive bird from cage set free.

Alfred Simmonds, a retired grocer, displayed recently an egg layed by one of his Plymouth Rock fowls. Its length was 3½ inches, and diameter 2¾ inches. On breaking it he found besides the usual white and yolk, a perfectly formed egg.

Ephraim Robbs has opened up a fine meat shop on Barrie street. He took a trip to Cobalt, but came back and he thinks Kingston is good enough for him. He prefers civilization.

The ice men, fearing a break-up, worked hard all day Sunday packing ice, feeling it was a necessity.

I was pleased on turning over the pages of The Grocer to see one of our leading firm's advertisement, Fenwick, Hendry & Co. The plums mentioned are delicious and all that they claim for them.

"Well, McDonald, you haven't Mr. Black, the genial representative of Heinz & Co., with you this trip," remarked Jin, the grocer. "How is he?" McDonald gave a sad look and said: "Poor Black is dead, and few feel his loss more keenly than I do. He was large hearted and good-natured and spread sunshine around wherever he went."

Some travelers predict higher prices for salmon next fall. If they go any higher people will resort to some other fish and their sales, like lobsters, will be somewhat limited.

Richard James, clerk for J. Gilbert, grocer, was removed to the hospital last week suffering from la grippe. He came out from Liverpool, leaving a good position with MacSymmons & Co. He is a fine window dresser and should command good money in a larger city.

A great deal has been said about advertising by some of the correspondents. My experience is that it is a good thing if you do it right. Some believe in a regular space, and changing it occasionally. I generally use locals here and there. I do a little puffing now and then and give the people a genuine snap. Last week I offered 300 7-lb. pails raspberry and strawberry jam at 35c a pail. Customers came from all parts of the city, and most of them bought something else. Some would remark, "What a nice store, and I never was in it before," and so on. So it brought good results. Friend Stetson, of Pointe St. Charles, sent me a circular he sends out monthly, full of bargains, and he tells me it brings lots of trade.

I don't think much of the gift system. It makes people suspicious of the quality of the goods you give them.

* * *

Weather conditions here are bad. Mountains of snow are beginning to dissolve, making walking and driving almost impossible. The poor delivery drivers have to wear long rubber boots.

The butter market is firm, but people are beginning to think it a luxury, and some are using jam and peanut butter, and the little boy with bread and 'lasses predominates once more.

LONDON.

Another advance of 10c in the price of sugar—the second within two weeks—naturally pleases neither the dealer nor the consumer, and the latter is beginning to inquire, when is this sort of thing going to end?

The regular monthly meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association on Wednesday night last was well attended, and while a couple of matters of considerable moment were discussed, no action was taken on either. In the first place there was the proposal to hold a big union picnic in London during the coming summer. On this nearly every member present expressed his views. The chief difficulty seems to be that if such a picnic is held about the time the grocers usually hold their outings—the latter end of July—it would be too close to the old boys' reunion, to be held here the first week in August. The question was ultimately held over until next meeting, which will be the annual meeting. The matter of forming an inter-provincial grocers' association was also taken up. The suggestion is to bring grocers here from all over the Dominion, and form an association, one of the chief objects of which would be to take concerted action when legislation affecting the trade is before the Dominion Parliament or the Provincial Legislatures. There is much unanimity on this subject, the feeling being that such an organization is necessary. This will also come up at next meeting. Complaint was made that outside biscuit manufacturers are selling to local restaurants and cafes direct, and the secretary was instructed to write the offenders informing them that if they continue in this course they must look to the cafe and restaurant owners alone for business, so far as London is concerned.

J. H. Wilkie, the east end grocer, attended the grocers' banquet on the 28th February. He is a Paardeberg hero and as it was Paardeberg day, nothing could have been more appropriate than a speech from him. By an inadventure his name was omitted from the programme, a fact which no one regrets more than the committee of arrangements.

A leading Minneapolis flour milling company is after Canadian trade and has offered bakers here flour at a price considerably below that charged by local millers.

There is said to be good prospect of the Horlicks Malted Milk Company establishing a Canadian branch factory in this city. The company's factory at Racine, Wis., is one of the largest plants of its kind in America. Their business has been rapidly growing of late, and they have for some time been considering the establishment of a Canadian branch. With this end in view their agents have been in the Dominion for some time looking for a location, and they have informed Mayor Stevely that they regard London with much favor. The mayor is keeping in close touch with the promoters of the enterprise, which, if established here, would need a factory to accommodate from 150 to 300 men, and of a most desirable class.

With pork selling at $5 per cwt., and with feed so high, farmers declare there is no money in hog raising, and many of them declare they will quit the business.

For over a week there have been rumors concerning the financial standing of Lind, Kerrigan & Co., consequently when it was announced this morning that the firm had made an assignment to the Canada Trust Co., there was little surprise. The firm has been in business for five or six years, and did a very large trade. Recently they engaged to purchase the large premises on Clarence street, vacated by Gorman, Eckart & Co. The firm was enterprising and vigorous and looked upon as a strong one. Assets and liabilities have not been made known, but the latter are said to be very heavy.

GUELPH.

We regret to have to announce the retirement of D. A. Scroggie, of Scroggie Bros., who for the past 28 years has not only been a good, keen grocer, but a beautiful example for any young grocer to follow, first as a clerk for his father, who is at present City Treasurer, and then as partner with his father and senior member of the firm of Scroggie Bros. He is at present superintendent of Norfolk Street Methodist Church Sunday School, and also a good church worker. Mr. Scroggie, although just in the prime of life, has not decided what he will do at present, but we wish him all kinds of success in his next venture. The business will be carried on by A. G. Groom, who for the past 10 years has been head clerk for Scroggie Bros., and while regretting Mr. Scroggie's present retirement, we congratulate Archie on his removal from the ranks of the Clerks' Association, of which he has been a valuable member. If good, square, honest dealing will make the business go, Archie will make it go. We heartily wish him success.

If nothing else will convince you that The Grocer is being read and commented on by all the leading grocers, just notice the interest taken in the orange slicers. That north end grocer in Montreal who rents his at 10c. a day is not to my mind making the best use of his machine. Some of the stores here have from one to three slicers. The idea is not to allow any person to have one for a whole day, but to keep the slicers busy in as many different houses in a day as possible, and also at nights. We find that at nights the machines are the busiest when the men are at home. More marmalade oranges were sold in Guelph this year than last, and last year, in May, Seville oranges were still with us, while now it is only March, and there are no more to be had. Get a good enough profit on your oranges and keep your slicers going all the time, and 10c. a day will not be in it. Then again your customers' appreciation of the fact that your slicers are free to them is worth more than 10c. a day to any grocer. Your Kingston correspondent may well say that we will be cooking the oranges for our customers next, and right here let me state that if we can find a scheme just as profitable as the slicers to cook them we will be right at it.

Dressed hogs took a considerable drop in price here last week, 6¾c being the ruling price. The local dealers have also dropped the price considerably, so that there is a good profit at present in a grocer handling bacon, cooked ham, ham, pork chops and sausages.

W. C. Benson, of Benson Bros., paid a short visit to his old home at Drayton last week.

The Clerks' and Salesman's Association held their annual meeting on Tuesday night and already we see that Thursday half-holiday coming. Keep it going, boys.

Time is too limited this week to say anything about those aristocratic Wyandottes and White Leghorns, but we won't forget to oblige your Kingston correspondent.

SASKATOON.

Last week our telephone system was put out of kilter by a small fire which took place at the telephone building. Although the fire itself was not of much consequence considerable damage was done by water and for a few days merchants and others had to do without this convenience. The automatic system is used here, which is described as being "cussless, girlless and waitless." It is to be feared, however, that last week there was some cussing as well as waiting.

J. F. Cairns has gone east on a business trip.

Mrs. Burbeck, of the Codville Co., Winnipeg, is giving a two week's demonstration of Gold Standard goods at the Cairns' store.

A. Creighton visited Asquith this week, where he has taken over a flour and feed business. Mr. Creighton will still conduct his grocery business here.

This week there are some changes to be noted on the local market. Dairy butter is 25c to 30c per lb., and creamery 30c to 35c. Eggs are 30c to 35c per dozen. Potatoes are 65c to 75c per bushel. Onions are 5c per lb.

Wheat continues to come in, but only in small quantities, owing to the unfavorable state of the country roads. At the mills No. 3 northern is in most demand.

Some of our merchants are displaying quantities of stock and cattle foods, worm, cold and distemper powders, colic remedy, liniment and poultry foods.

Stricklands' Limited, a joint stock organization, has just been formed here for the purpose of taking over the liquor department of the Saskatoon Storage and Forwarding Co. C. E. Strickland will be general manager, and liquors and cigars will be handled by the concern.

It is probable that the Government will establish a cleaning station here for thoroughly cleaning all seed grain before it is distributed to the farmers.

STRATFORD.

The first two months of the new year —January and February—have passed off without any great disturbance. Last month was a rather hard one for the business men, grocers included. The very disagreeable weather conditions wrought havoc in more ways than one. Not only were the railway lines tied up on several occasions, but the country roads were in an untrafficable condition, and the tillers of the soil found it impossible to get into the city, by rail or road. The roads were blocked for days and when they were excavated out again they became so full of pitchholes that traveling was rendered dangerous. However, last week's thaw and following frost put the roads in good condition again, and on Friday and Saturday of last week the grocers did a tremendously big business. Previous to that trade was none too brisk or too good. Business on the whole has reached a pretty fair average for these two winter months and it looks as though the season was going to turn out even better than some of the "wise ones" predicted. Grocers are beginning to think that the trade from now on will improve. Payments are fairly good, but the hard times has hit Stratford good and hard this winter. Many men have been out of work for weeks now, and others have been working spasmodically—just whenever there was work to do. The laying off of several hundred men at the Grand Trunk shops did not help matters. Most of these were chiefly emigrants, but they were in many cases the bread winners, and their usual weekly or monthly pay envelope has not been very bulky lately. It did not burn a hole in the pocket, so to speak. A great many people are using the prevailing excuse for asking leniency with regard to their obligations. This to a certain extent has been a losing proposition to a number of merchants, but with an early spring, much is expected to be accomplished in restoring business to normal conditions and putting on their feet again those who have fallen.

There was a good market Saturday morning, there being a good attendance of both farmers (the sellers) and citizens (the buyers). The good condition of the roads, which were frozen over tight during the night previous, brought the farmers out in quota, and as a consequence the produce of the dairy and the farm was plentiful. There was an abundance of dairy produce. Butter sold at 26c. to 27c. and eggs, which were very numerous by the dozen, sold at 25c., a drop of two cents. Apples per bag sold at 85c. and $1, a slight advance. Potatoes remained at 90c. and $1 per bag. Small garden produce was plentiful, selling at the customary prices. Beef dropped to 6c. and 7c. per front and hind quarters, while pork dropped to 6½c. There was no change in the grain market, and the price of hogs also remained the same.

"There is only one cause of grocery depression," remarked a business man the other day. "The merchants do not advertise. They cannot hold the trade. The corner grocer is nearer to the people and they get a large share of the business." When one thinks this over does it not strike one as about the right and correct solution of the problem? It is simply another case of "It pays to advertise." There is not a question of a doubt but that the corner grocery does not carry a very full line of goods and naturally they would be continually without. Probably without the very article that some housewife chiefly desires. The only way to get that housewife's trade is to advertise that you have such and such an article for sale, that it is fresh, etc., and wind up by adding "Have our delivery rigs call at your door with the desired article within the half hour." Many a woman will walk to the corner grocery for an article, but not down town, and many a woman, if she knew that the article she wanted could be delivered to her at her front door within one hour, would be only too glad to leave her order at your store. Try it—a little bit of ink.

Another thought. How many of our grocers have their delivery men or their clerks call every morning at houses on a certain route or routes, and canvass for orders. This is done by a merchant in this city, who has discovered that the plan pays, and that he has gained many a new customer by calling at the rear door and obligingly inquiring if "Madam wanted anything in his store delivered at her house before noon hour." Try it—a little bit of push and enterprise.

This is the way one grocer in this city advertises: "Heard the news? We've got the greatest line of goods on earth. Don't fail to see the —— blend. It satisfies the palate every time."

Another: "Pardon our pride in the new samples. We can't help it and they deserve it."

VANCOUVER.

One of Mooney's special carloads of biscuits arrived yesterday from Stratford, Ontario. The ordinary biscuits from Ontario have the second field out here in comparison with the article made in Vancouver and Victoria. The Ramsay soda and that manufactured by Smith of Victoria, are thoroughly first-class, and being made right at hand are not only a little cheaper but fresher. There are some who would not forego the old reliable Christie's for anything, but with a difference of five cents in the box, and a little bigger box, the trade is inclined locally. That a carload of Mooney's should arrive is an indication that the local agent is getting busy.

The California vegetables which arrived this week are about the best yet, and are up to the mark in every way. They are a trifle dearer, but this is hardly noticeable in the retail price.

Lemons are 25c a case cheaper, but there is nothing to note in other lines.

Eastern eggs may be had at your own price. The figure is away down in the twenties, and if a bargain is wanted one has not to look far for it. California eggs are coming in freely, and as before pointed out, the quality is better than in former years.

Advices from Dawson are that never was there a better supply of general commodities at this time of the year. No shortage exists in any lines, and there is a promise that there will be none of the usual pinches before navigation opens. The possibility of some of the big enterprises starting and drawing heavily on the market always exists, but nothing of such magnitude otherwise than what has been provided for in advance, it seems, is now in sight. Last year at this time several lines were short. Onions were 15c a pound, and very scarce. The same thing took place the year before. This season they are plentiful. Cream which was expected to be a shortage before spring, is long, and speculators in some instances are trying to push their goods into the market. Eggs, butter and finnan haddies are being taken in over the ice.

At Fairbanks, even more remote than Dawson, the market is reported steady, with no shortage except in a few lines of perishables, and then only to a slight degree. Eggs are listed at $16 and $18 a case, or 75c retail; cream, $7.50 a case; hay and oats, 7c a pound; potatoes, wholesale, 8½c; apples, $8.50; oranges, $20; lemons, $17; flour, $7 to $8.

With the building of the market in the city which after years of talk, is now assuming definite shape, the buildings being under way, proposals are being made for running a direct line of communication between this city and the district on the south side of the Fraser. This district, between Chilliwack and points comparatively close to New Westminster, can raise any amount of farm products, but the great difficulty has always been to get them into a market at a cheap rate. The only market heretofore has been at New Westminster, but now with one at Vancouver the scheme is to bring what is raised direct to this city and place it before the consumer. It is not so very long ago, that a resident on the south side of the Fraser, thirty miles above New Westminster, had a young beef to dispose of, and he was offered three cents by city buyers, while beef was retailing at from 15c to 20c. He was so disgusted that he killed it himself, and sold it around at 5c and 6c, and considered that he did pretty well. Consumers in Vancouver would hardly expect to get it less than 10c, but in winter the whole quarters could be taken. In summer, the question of keeping comes in. However, the experiment of the market is awaited with a great deal of interest, and there are different ideas as to whether it will be a success or not.

The cheapness of hams in the local market is very marked in comparison with the high prices which have prevailed for a long time past. A dealer remarked that it looked as if the big houses had taken advantage of the general good conditions prevailing last year to keep prices as high and as firm as possible, for although the quotations were at least 25 per cent. above those at present there was no scarcity of the article. Now they are sold as low as 16c, while before they went as high as 22c. The same depreciation is not noticed with bacon. The best grades show no reduction, though the others are a little cheaper.

Oranges show a slight increase, and the best stock is being quoted at 25c per case more.

It is expected that the last of the butter from New Zealand has arrived. The seasons fit in well, for the New Zealand would soon have to give way to the article from California, which will be here soon. This being closer to hand does not lose so much of the needed freshness in storage during carriage. The Alberta butter will be on the market sooner this year, too.

With the prospect of the breaking up of the ice trail between White Horse and Dawson, the spring stocks are being rushed in. From the time the ice weakens until navigation sets in there is an interregnum of isolation for which stocks have to be piled up. Oranges, lemons and eggs will cut a big figure during the next month or so in the shipments from White Horse, and the first boats following the going out of the ice will carry the best of the year, for it will be the freshest after the winter stuff has gone.

The supply of potatoes has held out well this season, and prices have continued reasonable. It does not look as if there will be a shortage, nor will there be any unloading to do. The case is not unusual for those who have good stocks to hold on to them in the hope of a good demand in the spring. There is talk of the new potato coming soon from California, following the green vegetables, which are already here. The first arrivals, though, are luxuries, but even at high prices are eagerly snapped up, for they are a dainty bit.

Fruit canning is beginning to be a feature in British Columbia, and in the next year or two great activity will be noticed along this line. The orchards planted two and three years ago are now getting near their time to bear, and there will be plenty of fruit available for packing. A joint stock company is being organized at Penticton by farmers and business men with the idea of starting a cannery, and it is likely that the plant of the Farmers' Exchange there will be taken over and additions made. With the equipment contemplated, it would be possible to turn out 4,000 cans daily. The same proposition is being considered at Chilliwack. It is almost a necessity at this place, as, shut off from the means of rapid transportation by the Fraser river, large quantities of good fruit cannot be shipped out in time. The product of this valley is second to none, and with a canning and evaporating plant it is expected that the industry may be carried on with profit.

People in the Okanagan complain of one drawback. At the last meeting of the Okanagan Board of Trade held at Vernon, one of the matters that came up for discussion was that of rates. The secretary of the Board of Trade at Penticton asked co-operation in the effort to secure a reduction in rates from the C.P.R., between the Okanagan and the coast, it being contended that there was discrimination against shippers from this district in favor of those in the east. This, it is claimed, made it difficult to ship canned goods here. Specific information is being asked for, when the matter will be taken up again.

Cannerymen, that is, those who put up salmon, are turning their attention to the north this year. During the "off" years, the traps controlled by the Americans take the small fish before they ever reach the Fraser river, it being one of the peculiarities of the salmon to take a route through American waters first before reaching the Canadian river. As individual results are small for this reason, it is estimated that not more than ten canneries will be operated this year, and that attention will be directed to the plants in the north.

At the same time, word comes that the Northwestern Fisheries, of Seattle, plans to operate its eight canneries in southern Alaska, with an increased force, and already another ship has been added to the fleet of four vessels. About 400 white men and as many Chinese and Japanese will be employed.

CHATHAM.

With the coming of Lent, which opened on March 4, fish—fresh, salt, and canned—are occupying a prominent place in grocery windows. The fresh fish in the groceries, and even in the Saturday fish market, are practically all imported. Catfish, carp and pickerel are the main fish products of the Thames.

Harry A. Andrew has installed a new Sterling meat cutter in his store. This is the first in operation in Chatham, though John McCorvie & Sons are rapidly following suit. The meat cutter is a great convenience.

Considerable counterfeit money is reported to be in circulation here. The counterfeit is mostly an imitation of American silver currency, quarters and fifty cent pieces. The bad money can be detected in some cases only by being brought to a hard surface, when it refuses to ring. In weight and appearance it can scarcely be distinguished from good money.

Ridgetown is to have a new general store. W. G. Cameron, of Hamilton, has rented the Snively & Sauvey stand and will open up on March 28 with an entirely new stock.

Michael Tony has opened a new fruit, tobacco and confectionery store in Leamington, on Erie Street south.

At the annual meeting of the Tilbury Canning Co., Limited, last week, the following directors were re-elected: President, W. J. Moffat; first vice-president, H. H. Shaver; second vice-president, J. S. Richardson; third vice-president, J. A. Tremblay; secretary-treasurer, W. C. Crawford. Despite the small yield of fruits and vegetables, last year was a very successful one, and the directors look forward to a good business for 1908. President Moffat was in Leamington last week closing for the purchase of 200,000 tomato plants for the coming season. H. H. Shaver is representing the company at the meeting of the Independent Canners' Association in Toronto.

J. F. Cairns, a prominent general merchant, of Saskatoon, Sask., visited old friends in Chatham last week.

E. Omstead of Wheatley has moved his grocery department to the west side of his store.

A. M. McCormick & Son, of Pelee Island, are getting out timber for the erection of a large new store in the spring, to replace the premises burned down last fall.

A confirmation of general fears expressed as to the passing of the small grist mill is apparently found in the final winding up of the Tupperville Milling & Elevator Company, Limited, which took place at Tupperville last week. The concern has been running for some years, but latterly has not been sufficiently profitable to justify continuing. After paying 100 cents on the dollar there was still a cash balance of $195.05.

Down on the lake shore about a year ago, everybody and his boys were figuring on how many acres of tobacco they would grow in 1907. Things are reported very different this year. It is stated that a majority of last year's growers intend to skip the crop this season, on account of unsatisfactory prices. Spring has come and there are still few buyers in the field. Some growers have sold at 3c. or 4c. per pound, but all who can do so are holding on. Regular crops will be grown this year, and quite a few will grow tomatoes for a change. The experience is no unusual one in tobacco in Kent and Essex, one year small crops and high prices, the next year large crops and low prices.

A noteworthy selling campaign was concluded on Feb. 29 at W. C. Crawford's big store in Tilbury, when ten substantial prizes were given away to purchasers. Each purchaser of $1 worth of goods received a coupon. From a box of duplicate coupons, ten were drawn, those holding the numbers receiving the prizes. Three gentlemen were picked by the Saturday night crowd for this ceremony. Three extra coupons were drawn in the event of winners not being heard from in three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCorvie contemplate a trip to Scotland this year. They intend to sail July 1, remaining in the Old Country two months.

The break has at last come. On Saturday's market eggs dropped to 25c., while butter could readily be procured at 28c. per pound. On the contrary, potatoes and apples have taken the inevitable advance, $1.25 per bag being asked.

"No cash, no meat" is understood to be the watchword of a movement just inaugurated among Maple City butchers. Bad credit accounts have been the bane of a good many of them in times past, and the movement now on foot aims to put the business on a strictly cash basis. The scheme originated in North Chatham, from all accounts, but it does not seem to have been taken up by the entire trade. It is understood the original movers are willing to make a concession in favor of granting a limited amount of credit to tried and true customers. The success of the move is as yet problematical.

MONTREAL.

Montreal grocers are happy. The City Council has very substantially given their support to the movement inaugurated by the grocers to have the peddlers' license increased from $50 to $200. The question has been brought before the Council several times, and this week they got to work in earnest in the matter, and on a vote it was decided that the support of the body should be given to the project.

* * *

It now remains for the Quebec Legislature to pass a law raising the license to the desired figure. The Montreal Retail Grocers' Association, which has had the matter in hand, does not expect to have much trouble in securing the legislation they have been working for so long.

A meeting of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association took place Thursday, March 5. It was the usual monthly gathering to dispose of the business of the association. The discussion of the liquor license as it exists at present was the chief topic of the evening, aside from the matter of the peddler's license.

A committee composed of A. Laniel, J. A. Dore, A. Sarrazin, J. D. Boileau, H. Laniel and J. A. Beaudry were appointed to look thoroughly into the question of liquor licenses and the peddler's license. Last year, just a few days before the Quebec Legislature prorogued, a law was passed raising the liquor license from $200 to $300, and from $400 to $450. Afterwards, at the earnest solicitation of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association, Premier Gouin granted, for the one year, a reduction of 50 per cent. on the increase, which made the licenses $250 and $425. This is considered a satisfactory arrangement. But it is not the law. A delegation will likely be appointed shortly to journey to Quebec to put before the Government reasons why legislation should be passed making the licenses $250 and $425. The same delegation will have a couple of other matters to try to arrange with the Government.

Both questions were discussed at the last meeting of the Grocers' Association. One is the peddler's license question, already referred to, and the other deals with the license of brewers. At present brewers are allowed to sell liquor to any party buying at least a dozen bottles. The Retail Grocers' Association thinks this is unfair to those who pay big money for a license to sell liquors, and they will endeavor to have a law passed making it illegal for brewers to sell to any person, or persons, not having a regular license.

LIEUT.-COL. A. E. LABELLE.

Montreal Manager Ogilvie Flour Mills Company, Appointed Commander of Bisley Team for 1908.

President Laniel thinks the Government will recognize the justice of their claims. As for the liquor license being made $250 and $425, he thinks there will be no trouble at all. He said that even at this reduced increase the Government would be annually $20,000 the richer.

Lieut.-Col. A. E. Labelle, local manager of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Company, has been appointed commander of the Canadian Bisley team, which will uphold the honor of Canada at the next competition of marksmen, which will be held in England this summer. Lieut.-Col. Labelle is widely known in grocery circles, in Eastern Canada particularly, while as a military man he is known in most parts of Canada where interest is taken in soldiery. He is commander of the 65th Battalion, Mount Royal Rifles, a post he has filled since 1897.

W. F. Leonard, of Leonard Bros., St. John, was in Montreal last week.

AURORA.

James Whimster has taken into partnership with him J. D. Wilcox, the firm name to be in future known as Whimster & Co. Mr. Wilcox has been in Mr. Whimster's employ for the past twenty-four years and has reached his present position through hard work and an attentive manner.

Underhill Bros. have secured the services of Mr. Saddeleir, of Wiarton, to manage their business. Mr. Saddelier has a long experience in general business and should be an able manager for the firm.

* * *

W. C. Towns and Mrs. Towns have just returned from a week's visit to their daughter in St. Mary's. Mr. Towns has some thrilling adventures to tell of snow blockades and narrow escapes but he does not look as though he had lost many meals in the snowbanks.

Archie Murray, the new east-end grocer, reports business on the increase every month.

"Ray" Bond, son of John Bond, has been ill with rheumatism for the past week. Last reports are quite favorable to a speedy recovery.

INSERT IN LOCAL PAPERS.

Ask your local editor to give space to the following bit of poetry. He'll print it if you ask him and show him how it will help him as well as you.

A farmer out in Kansas,
  About five years ago,
Went into town one day to spend
  Some of his hard earned "dough."
"And in a merry jest," and just
  To show his printing skill,
He printed his initials on
  A brand new d-o-l-l-a-r b-i-l-l.

He spent that dollar that same day
  Down at the village store.
He thought 'twas gone for ever then,
  And he'd see it no more.
But long before that year rolled by
  One day he went to fill
A neighbor's order, and received
  That same one d-o-l-l-a-r b-i-l-l.

Once more he spent that dollar bill
  In his own neighborhood,
Where it would do himself and friends
  The most amount of good.
Four times in two years it came back,
  As some bad pennies will,
And each time he'd go out and spend
  This marked one d-o-l-l-a-r b-i-l-l.

Had he been wise that dollar might
  Be in his town to-day.
But just about two years ago
  He sent it far away.
The people who received it then
  I know have got it still,
For 'twas to a mail order house
  He sent his d-o-l-l-a-r b-i-l-l.

No more will that marked dollar come
  Into the farmer's hands,
And nevermore will it help pay
  The taxes on his land.
He put it where it never can
  Its work in life fulfill.
He brought about the living death
  Of that one d-o-l-l-a-r b-i-l-l.

NEW OFFICES AND WAREHOUSE

Laporte, Martin & Co., Montreal, Move Into New Premises.

The reproduction given herewith is from a photograph of Laporte, Martin & Co.'s new offices and warehouse, which are situated at 562 to 568 St. Paul street, a few doors west of McGill street, Montreal. The building has a frontage of 70 feet, and a depth of 100 feet. It is constructed of soild stone and brick, and is seven storeys high. The framework is of steel, and each floor is tested to stand a weight of 400 pounds to the spare foot. Three powerful elevators, operated by electricity, and a special freight hoist, connect with each of the seven floors.

The building is effectually protected against fire by a water curtain system, and is so situated that access can easily be had from the four sides. The interior, with its columns and beams of steel and its complete system of sprinklers connected with a water tank, the capacity of which is 20,000 gallons, is a splendid example of modern fire-proof construction.

All the different departments of the firm have been broadened and modernized. The offices, sample rooms and shipping rooms, are commodious, attractive and up-to-date in every respect.

Many large windows ensure excellent light. The building is fitted for electric and gas lighting.

A modern ventilating system has been installed and also a perfect telephone system, connecting each department with the main offices, thus facilitating the quick handling of business. A system of low pressure steam heating ensures a regular and even temperature in each of the different flats, according to the requirements of the class of goods they contain.

The cellar, various flats and bond warehouses are ample in size, and designed primarily to increase the facilities of quick and systematic handling of orders.

The firm of Laporte, Martin & Co. was established in 1870 by Hormisdas Laporte, who is still at the head of the business, which from a modest beginning has gradually grown to its present proportions. Mr. Laporte occupies an enviable position in the commercial world. President of one of Canada's large banking institutions, he is also a director of many important companies, and for two years was mayor of Montreal, after having served the city as alderman for a long time as chairman of the finance committee of the council.

Mr. Laporte has with him as co-directors three business men who have made their mark in the business world; Joseph Ethier, Adhemar Delorme, and Hormisdas Delorme. The first directs the buying and sales department, while A. and H. Delorme are at the head of the finance and accounting departments.

E. D. MARCEAU ASSIGNS.

E. D. Marceau Company, Montreal, voluntarily assigned last week. In a circular to the trade the company states that they will be pleased to receive orders for the various lines they produce, and lines carried by them, as they feel confident that they will be able to reorganize the company and continue operations on a broader scale than before.

J. S. Carmer, manager of the Sanitary Can Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont., was a caller at the office of The Grocer last Thursday.

Markets and Market Notes

Grocery Staples and Specials in the Canadian Centres of Trade—Notes From the Primary Markets.

QUEBEC MARKETS

Montreal, March 12, 1908.

POINTERS—
Sugar—Advanced 10c.
Butter—Easier.
Eggs—Easier.
Molasses—Scarce.
Beans—Declined 5c.

The feature of the market this week is the advance in sugar. It will be remembered that an advance of 10c occurred just recently. The last advance is largely a reflection of the firmness in the American markets. Beans are a little easier this week, quotations from the west being lower. New laid eggs are being received more freely now, and prices have declined slightly. Pickled eggs are becoming scarce and the prices have advanced. There has been a good increase in the canned goods business since Lent set in, and all lines are selling well, especially canned fruits, and canned fish. There is a brisk business being done in fish for Lent, and larger orders were received this week owing to there being three fish days. Fresh fish are more plentiful at present, and prices for several lines have declined slightly.

The coffee market is firm, Maracaibos and Santos are very scarce. The French macaroni prices are very strong, and there is every possibility of their being still firmer. This is owing to the high price of wheat, and the scarcity of Russian wheat, which is required for the best class of macaroni made in France.

SUGAR—The steady advance in the New York markets has been reflected in another advance on the local market, sugar having gone up 10c last Friday. The local market is very firm at the advanced price, and is likely to remain so for some time. Demand is good.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES — There has been a good increase in demand for syrups since Lent began, and all lines are selling well. The demand for molasses is good, but the article is very scarce, refiners having bought it in large quantities. Prices are the same as last week.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL—There is a good increase in demand for canned goods, this week, especially for fish and fruits. Other lines are selling well also owing to the Lenten season.

TORONTO—Wholesalers report canned goods as moving well, particularly fruits and fish. The Lenten business has stimulated demand for canned fish as well as for the other lines.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Sugar—Advanced.

Canned Goods—Moving well.

Evaporated Apples—Easier.

Beans—Easier.

Collections—Fair.

Toronto, March 12, 1908.

Business is assuming a very encouraging volume. Wholesalers generally are thoroughly optimistic in their reports and look forward to a record year in Canadian business. So far from any depression being felt several of the wholesalers affirmed that their business for February, and for that matter, for the part of the year already past was greater than that done in the same period during last year. The quietness felt at the holiday season in wholesale circles has disappeared, and a cheerful briskness is rapidly taking its place.

Financial matters do not seem to be altogether satisfactory as yet. Collections are a little slow and renewals are requested to some extent greater than usual, but this condition is gradually becoming less troublesome and will remedy itself in time.

The feature of the week has been the advance and the exceedingly strong position in the sugar markets. Evaporated apples are easier and the market seems to be in somewhat of a critical position. Dried fruits are selling freely, and cocoa shows more firmness, but otherwise there is little to report.

SUGAR—Another advance of 10c on all lines occurred on Friday, 6th, bringing the market to a high basis. The advance is the result of the strong statistical position of the raw and refined markets and was not unexpected. Local wholesalers have been buying heavily the last couple of weeks and there are now larger stocks of sugar held locally than for some time. Willett & Gray say of the situation in raws :

"During the early part of the week under review the market hesitated, but at the close resumed its strength and upward tendency. The pause in the advance at 2½c c. & f., enabled buyers to secure a considerable quantity of Cuba centrifugals in a quiet way which they might not have obtained otherwise. The quantity wanted at 2½c c. & f. for March shipment proved greater than the supply and quotations at the close show an improvement of 1-32c per lb. for March and 1-16c advance paid for April shipment, say 2 9-16c c. & f. 96 degrees test.

Spot quotations declined from 3.885c to 3.86c, recovering to 3.89c at the close for 96 degrees test Cuban centrifugals, on sales of 9,000 bags nearby parcels to the Federal refinery at 2 17-32c c. & f.

It is reported that 2⅝c c. & f., equal to 3.98c landed 96 degrees test, has been bid and refused for second half April shipment.

Europe again leads in the advance, beet sugar rising from 10s 0¾d to 10s 3d for the week. Unfavorable weather for field work is reported by Mr. Licht. Beet futures are quoted at 10s 5d for May and 10s 7d for August.

Beets now are .27c per pound above centrifugals at New York, The closing of this difference is likely to come sooner than usual this season. Cuba has now sold so much of the crop and at so much more profit than last season, that the planter is much more independent of the buyer than heretofore.

Brazil is no longer a source of supply for our market. The crop, now largely centrifugals, goes to supply the deficiencies south, and as high as 5c per lb. c. & f. has been paid, regardless of test.

The next season's crop of Brazil promises to be larger tnan the present. The Brazil sugar planter is reaching a very prosperous condition from such prices, and in instances is a loaner of money instead of a borrower.

The Cuba crop receipts declined 4,000 tons for the week, which may or may not be a crop indication of less outturn.

Two years ago receipts fell off and afterwards increased again.

Porto Rico now indicates a smaller crop than estimated. Java has contributed some ten cargoes of June-July and July-August shipment for our later supplies. The price for these is at or near 10s 6d to 11s 1½d per cwt. c. & f., equal to 4.02c to 4.16c duty paid, New York, Boston and Philadelphia each taking part of these.

Further purchases of Javas are out of reach of our refiners at the moment by the advance on the London market, and 11s 6d c. & f. is now asked for June shipment to United States, equal to 4.24c here, but will come into available supplies later on if beet sugar continues to hold above the parity of our market for centrifugals.

TEA—Considerable speculative business has been done locally recently though stocks held here are light.

Slight declines in the common grades have been noted on the London market though the general position still remains as strong as ever. Thompson Bros.' weekly circular, dated London, Feb. 27, says of the conditions then ruling :

"The figures for the distribution of tea from all India during the nine months ending 31st December are remarkable for the expansion in the shipments to Ceylon—nearly all of which took place during the last three months of the year—which show an increase of no less than four million lbs. Presumably a large proportion of this ultimately found its way to Russia, which may account for the falling off in direct shipments, so that if we add these figures to those for Russia and China there is an excess in the former country's takings of six millions over the previous period, in addition to the larger quantity sent via Turkey—also destined chiefly for the same market.

"Although some of the commoner grades have shown a further easier tendency, on the whole a better feeling has pervaded the Room and more inclination to buy has been noticeable. The good value now obtainable in some of the medium sorts should before long force attention on buyers, and already there seems to be more disposition to deal in the grades just above common."

COFFEE—Business locally continues very good.

Willett & Gray sav of the general situation in their weekly review :

"The decrease in the world's visible supply for 1st of March is about 300,000 bags, compared with an increase of 70,000 bags a year ago. Different cables have been received here regarding receipts, predicting for the month of March 300,000 bags, and at the same time stating that the coffee was coming forward as quickly as possible and that the amount left in the interior after the 1st of April, in Santos, would scarcely exceed 400,000 bags. Another cable received stated that the receipts for March would be 250,000 bags, April 200,000 and May 150,000 bags."

"It has also been reported that the crop is late and that the new crop receipts in July were not likely to exceed 300,000 bags, owing to the fact that the flowering this year has been exceedingly late and that the weather has not favored the development of the crop. It is further stated that the storms and rainy weather have injured the early fruit and might decrease the outturn. However, all of these predictions are too uncertain and the general estimates continue to be about 8,000,000 bags of Santos Coffee for the next crop.

"Trading has been light, for the reason that the fear of the government stocks has constantly been repeated to the dealers all over the country, notwithstanding the government adheres to its policy that it will only commence to sell when consumption claims the coffee, and if the government persists in adhering to its policy, the fact that consumers need supplies should dispel absolutely any fear of a decline when the merchandise is sold, for the reason that it is urgently wanted for immediate trade.

"March options, week ending March 5 : Highest, 5.90 to 5.95; lowest, 5.80 to 5.85; closing, 5.80 to 5.85, against last year closing 6.45 to 6.50."

DRIED FRUITS—Prunes continue to sell freely and some specials are offered at as low as 6 cents on 90-100's. Generally, however, they remain firm. Peels too, are in good demand, and dates are having some call. Several cases of apricots were offered during the week at 33c but that figure is almost completely forbidding.

BROKE HIS KNEE.

W F. Sexton, of Toronto, the Victim of An Unfortunate Accident.

Wm. F. Sexton, of Sexton & Co., Toronto, manufacturers of store fittings, etc., met with a painful accident last Sunday, the 8th inst. While coming down the steps of his factory he slipped and fell, breaking his knee and badly cutting his face and chin.

Mr, Sexton had been down at his factory, at 58 Terauley street, to see if the heating arrangements were in good order. It was while coming out that the accident happened. He was removed to his home, where it was found that his knee was broken. The cuts on his face and chin are not serious. He will be confined to his home for some time. His many friends regret the unfortunate accident.

BLACK PAINT BREAKS GLASS.

The hazard of black paint on plate glass is, it appears from the insurance press, by no means inconsiderable.

Signs painted on plate glass done in solid black paint are in point of fact extra hazardous, as plate glass insurance companies have discovered to their cost. The practice of painting signs of this kind seems innocent enough, but the experience of conservative casualty companies fully justifies them in refusing to write such windows.

The explanation of the hazard under consideration is to be looked for in the property of a black surface to absorb the sun's rays, by means of which an unequal expansion is produced throughout the plate and under the influence of a sudden gust of cold air or any other sudden change of temperature, a strain is developed which shatters the plate glass bearing the black paint. All black painted signs on plate glass, no matter with what exposure. must be considered as hazardous risks.

TO SUCCEED PARMELEE.

W. G. Parmelee, Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, has applied for superannuation. An order-in-council will likely be passed this week releasing him from his duties. He will be succeeded by F. T. C. O'Hara, superintendent of commercial agencies.

TRADE NOTES.

James Marr, Red Deer, Alta., has taken over the grocery business of M. Patterson.

S. C. Mulhall & Co., grocers, of Middleton, N.S., have sold their business to N. W. Baker.

W. B. Woodhul, general merchant, of Lambeth, Ont., has sold his business to Geo. G. Earley. The new proprietor for ten years was shipper for the McCormick Manufacturing Co., of London, Ont., and has been also with Messrs. C. R. Somerville, gum manufacturers, for nearly two years.

The man who has two mothers-in-law may take heart of hope, for he might have had three or four or half a dozen.

NEW FIRM OF BRACEBRIDGE GROCERS

Peter Hutchison Retiring After Eighteen Years of Profitable Business—Something About the New Partners.

On the first of April Peter Hutchison, one of Bracebridge's oldest and most successful grocers, will hand over the business in which he has spent eighteen years, to D. T. Hodgson and J. W. Reid, two of his present employes, and will retire. The store in which the business is being conducted, the retiring proprietor, and the new partners, are shown in the photographs reproduced herewith.

Hutchison Bros.' Store, Bracebridge.

It is eighteen years since the business was established under the present management. Previous to that time it was owned by R. J. Watson, now of Burk's Falls, with whom Mr. Hutchison worked for a while. He had formerly been for a short time with the Meinardus Co. in Gravenhurst. Fourteen years ago the business was transferred to its present stand, which has been improved from time to time, until it now takes rank as one of the finest stores in Bracebridge.

PETER HUTCHISON.
The Proprietor, who is Retiring April 1

Since Peter Hutchison took the business over it has increased by several times the original value and is now one of the most successful in the Muskoka district. In all his dealing Mr. Hutchison has been noted for his straight businesslike methods and he can be assured that in retiring from his trade connections he carries with him the respect and esteem of all who have been customers of the store as well as the wholesale men.

Both the members of the new firm are familiarly known in Bracebridge and vicinity. It is fourteen years since D. T. Hodgson came to town, during which time he has been in the employ of Hutchison Bros. Having always followed the grocery and provision business since boyhood, "Dave" is thoroughly conversant with it.

His partner, J. W. Reid, has spent seven years in the grocery business and for the last two years has been in charge of the books for the firm. Both have a thorough knowledge of the wants of the people of Muskoka and, possessing marked business ability, may be expected to keep up the good reputation the store enjoys. The Grocer extends its best wishes for the success of the new firm.

A COLD STORAGE CONGRESS.

Of International Character Will Be Held in Paris in July.

In a consular report of recent date Frank H. Mason, the American Consul-General at Paris, announced the holding of an international congress on cold storage early next July in Paris. In his report Mr. Mason says in part:

"The purpose of the congress is to bring together leading experts and representatives of the principal industries and enterprises of all countries in which refrigeration is used as an agent for facilitating the preservation and transportation of food materials by land or sea.

"The work of the congress has been laid out in six sections, each of which is under the control of a special committee, headed by a president, chosen from the most eminent specialists of France. Great Britain, Germany and Russia will take an active part in the proceedings and will be represented by full commissions made up of eminent specialists and government officials.

"America is recognized as the pioneer in the application of cold storage on a large scale to food preservation and transportation, and as the work of the congress will be along lines in which a vast number of American citizens—growers of fruits, vegetables and meat producing animals, packers and shippers of a wide range of food products, railway and steamship managers and the owners of cold storage plants throughout our country—are more or less directly interested, it is to be hoped that the American delegation and its work during the congress will be representative and worthy of the importance of the occasion.

"America is the natural source of supply of many food materials for densely populated Europe, and the influence of the coming congress, if rightly directed, will be to break down technical barriers and smooth the way for mutual understanding and for an enlarged trade. The Compagnie Transatlantique offers to delegates a discount of forty per cent. in the cost of passage between New York and Havre."—New York Herald.

LIFE STORY OF A SUCCESSFUL GROCER

Some Interesting Facts in the Career of Fred. T. Smye, of Balfour, Smye & Co., Wholesale Grocers, Hamilton—Principles Which Brought Success.

Hamilton, Ont. is deservedly acknowledged one of Canada's leading manufacturing and commercial centres. Its suitability for manufacturing purposes over other places has secured to itself some of the largest iron, steel and industrial works of this country. Aside and above, and before all these advantages were properly recognized, 'way back as far as the "50's," Hamilton was a grocery and food distributing centre. Its wholesale grocers were famed and its business men princes in their line. Many names, however, not only in their own city but throughout the Province of Ontario and beyond, might be mentioned by The Grocer, names that would recall to the older grocers of Canada the days of hogshead sugar, molasses puncheons, codfish in quintals, block matches and United States sugars, days when the little valley city of Dundas was looked upon as a lively competitor and when the now weed-grown Desjardines Canal was a busy thoroughfare. It is not, however, of the glorious names of the nineteenth century, nor of the trade builders of the "50's" to "70's" that we wish to write. Our efforts are directed towards a brief sketch of the commercial career of one of Hamilton's leading wholesale grocers of to-day, Fred T. Smye, of Balfour, Smye & Co.

Mr. Smye is a young man, and though born in Hamilton on July 4, 1868, is a loyal Canadian subject. Young Smye was educated in the public schools and collegiate institute of his native city. After leaving school at the age of 14, he entered an insurance and real estate office, where he served three years. His first experience in groceries was with Alexander Harvey & Co. and he entered the employ of this company when the writer was perched on a high stool making out invoices, so anything that is written here about Mr. Smye is incontrovertibly so.

After a sample room training, Fred Smye in 1866 tried city traveling and his pluck, energy, push and business perception made him popular and successful. When A. Harvey & Co. amalgamated with John Stuart, Son & Co., under the title of Stuart, Harvey & Co., Mr. Smye went with them. On Balfour & Co. buying out Stuart, Harvey & Co. in 1893, Mr. Smye was retained on the traveling staff and was counted one of the best men on the road, his territory comprising all the leading points around Hamilton, Guelph, Galt, St. Catharines, Oakville, Berlin, Preston, Fergus, etc. This territory was regularly and systematically worked until the formation of Canada Grocers, Ltd., when he, with Jas. Somerville, were appointed managers of the business. After dissolution of Canada Grocers, Ltd., he bought the business and formed a new partnership with St. Clair Balfour, son of the late head of Balfour & Co., and Chas. H. McIlroy, an old business associate of his. The present company has made great strides in business as the members are all young, hustling and active. The business work is systematically divided, Mr. Balfour looking after the northwest business and Mr. McIlroy the Niagara Peninsula. Mr. Smye has specialized certain lines and their brands are known throughout the land.

In speaking to The Grocer in answer to the question as to what facts in his career he attributed his success, Mr. Smye said, boiled down in a few words:

1. Hard work.
2. Common horse sense.
3. By always giving the trade I looked after my honest opinion in all things sometimes to my immediate loss and disadvantage.
4. By posting myself thoroughly on the goods I was selling.
5. By always treating every clerk of my customers with proper consideration. I think it is just as important as it is decent to treat the man behind the counter square. I can safely say that at least half of the men in business on my old ground were clerks when I started on the road; from nearly all of whom we get a large share of trade.

FRED T. SMYE.

These sentiments may well be copied and too often are neglected by those whose training and experience should lead them to exercise these lines of business without prompting.

Mr. Smye is a hard worker and is active and energetic in all he does. Active as he is in his business, he still has time to devote many hours to rowing and yachting, and has taken an active interest in the affairs of the Canadian Travelers' Association, being a director for Hamilton ten years, and elected first vice-president for two years by acclamation. He is a presiding officer and director in several of Hamilton's important manufacturing concerns. In masonic circles, Mr. Smye is W.M. of Strict Observance Lodge 77. He is also president of the Hamilton Wholesale Grocers' Guild.

This is the story of a man who has worked his way up, who has made a success of the grocery business, and a success of life. His example is a worthy one for younger men in the trade to follow.

CANADIAN APPLES IN AUSTRALIA

Trade Commissioner Believes Market Could Be Developed.

In a review of Australian trade for the year 1907, recently published, J. S. Larke, Canadian trade commissioner, in Australia, gives an interesting review of the Canadian-Australian apple trade as follows :

"There were imported into Australia by the Canadian-Australian steamers 19,831 boxes of apples in three shipments, the receipts being for October, 6,772 boxes ; November, 8,163 boxes ; December, 4,896 boxes. There were, in addition, a few boxes that came by freight steamers from San Francisco, but the shipments on these slow steamers were a complete failure. Nearly all the apples arrived, apparently, in good condition. A quantity were carried on deck and where these were sound they had lost their flavor. Those carried in cool storage were prime on receipt. Some of the apples were first-class fruit, free entirely from disease and passing without difficulty. Others from California were affected with Codlin moth and had to be treated. It is stated that any future shipments affected in this way will be destroyed on arrival at this port. The apples suited to the market, especially those from one orchard in Oregon, brought high prices, varying from 15s to 20s per box. Those unsuited to the market brought from 10s to 12s per box. It is said that a few of these apples were of British Columbia origin, but of this I have no evidence and was unable to locate them. The fact that one United States shipper continues to send such large quantities of apples to this market supports the statement that I have made in previous years, that the Australian market is the most profitable market for the British Columbia grower open to him. A Canadian paper informs me that buyers were paying a very high price for shipping Ontario apples to the eastern United States. The prices there had been so high that western United States apples were also being sent there. Nevertheless, the finest grower in Oregon found it to be still more profitable to send his fruit to Australia. The price stated to me paid for first-class British Columbia fruit was from one dollar to one dollar and a quarter per case at Vancouver, which was certainly a dollar a case less than the fruit would have brought by shipping to this market under proper conditions. There is, however, this objection to the British Columbia apple, that the average of the best fruit is too large in size, giving too few to the box. Nearly 20,000 cases of apples were disposed of at different points at the prices I have named, and more than justifies my statement, that this market would take 15,000 cases when properly handled."

which will it be?

Now is the time to decide whether it will pay you best to push the sale of good tea at a very fair profit or rubbish at a very small profit.

The difference in price between really good tea and tea that can only properly be termed "rubbish" is so very little, that it seems almost a crime to even offer people the cheap trash.

Right now, when the price of tea is attracting some attention, is your opportunity to push the sale of good tea.

Let your competitor sell the rubbish you will soon get his customers.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

Montreal, March 11, 1908.

Just a shade firmer are cheese prices this week. White is offering from 13c to 13½c, while colored brings 13¼c to 13⅜c, when buyers are to be found. Last week ⅛c less was asked for colored.

Old Country houses are still backward in placing orders, though the general opinion is that they will have to come around pretty soon, as English holdings are dwindling week by week under a steady demand. Those who are n possession of any stocks worth while, on this side, while they are willin~ to make slight concessions in some instances, are not thinking of letting go at lower prices than now rule. Offers have been made to some English houses, of finest colored at 13c. This is the exception, however, not the rule, for it is a case of necessity for dealers to get what they ask in order to get out without a loss.

Everyone is looking forward with interest to the arrival of the first new cheese. This will enable merchants to fill orders without so much wear on their grey matter in endeavoring to judiciously distribute small stocks over a large area.

Receipts are very small. Last week but 65 boxes of cheese arrived; against 70 boxes previous week, and 136 boxes same week last year. Total receipts for the season are 2,053,905 boxes, against 2,349,705 boxes same period a year ago.

There has been a steady falling off in demand for butter, owing to the continued high prices asked by the trade. As a result, the quotations given out this week by produce dealers are lower than those quoted for butter for many days. Finest creamery is selling at 30c to 31c, sometimes 32c, according to the transacting parties, and the amount sold.

There has been some talk of the possibility of bringing butter in from the States. Whether this will come to pass or not is entirely problematical. It is possible that there may yet be some importations from the south. To-day creamery is selling at 29c in Chicago, which would mean 33½c laid down here, freight and duty 4c. This would necessitate a 35c market, which is hardly likely to rule agan before the new make, unless steady demand eats up the small supply on hand. There is hardly two week's supply of butter in the hands of dealers in Montreal to-day and should this be all consumed before the middle of April, when express creamery will begin to arrive in small lots, we shall have to get butter from somewhere, and Chicago is the logical market.

Stranger thngs have happened. The past has been an abnormal season. Anticipating increased consumption of butter, dealers bought more heavily than usual, many purchasing in New Zealand for shipment to Canada. Contrary to expectations, demand for butter was not such as to require larger supplies than in previous years, chiefly because of the financial crisis which threw many out of work and tied up money generally. The London and other English markets were short, however, and instead of having an embarrassing surplus on their hands dealers recognized the good thing there was for them across the water, and exported for a good profit. Much butter was sold while in transit from New Zealand to Canada. Some of this got as far as London where it was profitably disposed of, while some came as far as Portland, and was then sold in London, and taken back without ever having left the ship. When this last mentioned butter had been in London the market was not favorable to its sale then (it was an early shipment), but on its arrival at Portland the Old Country market had advanced sharply, and the English purchasers anticipated a ready market, at a high price, for the butter when it arrived once more in London. Unfortunately for them a slump occurred in the London market, and, to their sorrow, they lost money.

Dairy butter arriving is chiefly in roll form, few solids being made. For rolls 26c to 27c is obtainable.

Receipts of butter last week amounted to 796 packages, against 1,539 packages previous week and 542 packages same week last year. Total receipts for the season amount to 415,483 packages, against 609,255 packages same period 1906-07.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

Toronto, March 11, 1908.

Conditions are somewhat more encouraging in the Canadian hog markets this week, though matters yet are far from normal.

In spite of extraordinarily large shipments, both from Denmark and the United States, last week, the English market has recovered somewhat, and is this week in a slightly more receptive mood, standing one shilling above the Canadian market. This has provided some encouragement for Canadian packers, but with the large stocks held in storage, there is not as yet any hope for brisk business.

A cable to a Canadian packer this week states that the Danes last week set a new record in shipments of bacon to the English market. Danish "killings," too, continue to reach an enormously high aggregate, the figures for last week reaching 42,000. Denmark's supremacy in agricultural products is certainly made evident in the British market. American shipments last week were large also, aggregating 22,700.

Deliveries at Canadian points have been moderate during the week, but have been plenty heavy enough to satisfy the packers. Prices offered this week are on a basis of 15c better than a week ago, viz., f.o.b., $4.90 ; fed and watered, $5.-15 to $5.20, and off cars. $5.30 to $5.-35.

The continuance of the low prices offered for stock, together with the high price of feed during the winter, has been rather discouraging to Canadian hog raisers and many are talking seriously of going out of the business.

Conditions prevalent last week in the American markets are evidenced in the weekly review of the New York Journal of Commerce, as follows :

"The past week has witnessed a considerable increase in activity of future hog products at quite an advance in prices, owing to the manipulation by packers, which was started by Armour buying early in the week, followed by a reaction on Cudahy selling, after which there was a further advance on Cudahy buying of the whole list. There seems to be two parties working for control of these markets, the same as in wheat. This advance was in face of large receipts most of the week at all points, except for a day or two at Chicago ; and the buying of hogs has been sufficient to prevent much decline in the raw material, notwithstanding the big excess over last year's receipts, it being the greatest of any week on the crop. Shipments out of the country have been large for the week, but mostly on consignments by packers ; and these have been sufficient of late to keep the exporters out of our market. The home trade has not followed the advance in futures, though cash speculative articles have been held higher with futures, bringing business almost to a stop."

THE PORK AND BEANS SITUATION

Retailers throughout Canada know how hard it is to persuade their customers to accept any Pork and Beans other than Clark's.

They have tried them, and come back time and again for more. Retailers know the amount of time and talk it will take—and the sales which will be lost—in an effort to push other Brands. Jobbers can have any orders for Clark's Pork and Beans filled promptly and completely, so if you specify Clark's Pork and Beans you will get them. It is wise to insist.

SALT MEN DINE.

Annual Dinner of the Canadian Salt Co. at Windsor.

The Canadian Salt Co., held its annual dinner at Windsor, Ont., on Saturday, Feb. 29th. It is just a year ago since the company inaugurated the custom of giving an annual dinner to the office staff and heads of the various departments. By this means it was thought that everyone would benefit. That their best hopes have been realized was proved by the splendid success of this year's dinner.

During the evening speeches were delivered by various members of the firm. From these it was learned that the salt company, notwithstanding the general business depression, had completed the best year in its history. As an evidence of the popularity of their salt, it was authoritatively stated that in Toronto ninety per cent. of the salt used was Windsor salt.

E. G. Henderson, general manager, was chairman. Among prominent salt men present were Messrs. Sutherland and Wilson, of Montreal, and C. R. Cooper, of the Toronto Salt Works.

THE FLOUR AND CEREAL MARKETS

A Firmer Feeling is Noticeable in All Lines—Prices Remain Steady at Ontario Points—Changes in Montreal.

A firmer feeling seems to be evident in flour and cereal markets generally this week, though there is nothing particularly new to report.

In flour this is, perhaps, attributable to an active demand from the Eastern Provinces, where stocks are said to be exceedingly light. Wheat is coming in quite freely with the improved condition of the country roads and business generally seems to be on a more favorable basis.

Cereals also have shared in the general firmness, and supplies are coming in more satisfactorily.

FLOUR—There is a little firmer feeling in the flour market this week, although there has been no noticeable change in prices, except in the case of Glenora, which is up 10c. Local demand is very good.

HOW TEA LEAD IS MADE.

In a conversation the other day with a member of the Salada Tea Co., a representative of The Grocer got some interesting information in regard to the manufacture of lead. The lead is really tinned, since there is tin, both on the inside and outside of each sheet, and the process is as follows :

A plate of lead is cast about one inch thick, two feet long, and about one foot wide. Two similar sized sheets of tin are cast, but only about ⅛-inch thick. One sheet of tin is placed on each side of the block of lead, and as it is passed through rollers the tin adheres to the lead, and the sheet spreads out only in one direction, that is, it never gets any wider, but simply becomes longer. After it is passed through the set of rollers, it is doubled over, and passed through again, and then doubled again, and so on, until the requisite thickness is obtained. All this time the tin is thinned out in exactly the same proportion as the original blocks were to the lead, but has become an integral part of the lead, as in the doubling process tin always comes into contact with tin it does not adhere. When this folded sheet has become the desired thickness, it is brought to the guillotine, and cut into the desired sizes ready for the packets, and this, it is claimed, preserves the quality in tea to ten times the cost of the metal.

A VISIT TO EUROPEAN MARKETS

Representatives of Canadian Firm Visit Centres of Interest to Trade During Continental Tour—Grocers and Groceries in England, France, Spain and Portugal.

C. L. Marshall, Canadian manager of the MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co. and Mrs. Marshall have recently returned from an extended business and pleasure trip to England, France, Spain and several Mediterranean cities. In the course of a conversation with a representative of The Grocer this week Mr. Marshall told some interesting facts in connection with his trip. A good many of these are particularly interesting to grocers, since the tour's itinerary covered several of the primary markets from which products largely used in Canada originally come, and some of these are given here.

Lots of Cheese in London.

The retail stores in London, says Mr. Marshall, are not of the most attractive character, except in the highest class. One of the features which strikes one as peculiar is the large amount and variety of cheese displayed, both of foreign and domestic goods. The restaurants also offer a large variety of cheese. Some time was spent in London in the marmalade factory of a firm represented by the MacLaren Co., and this, strangely enough, was located on the site where the old Great Eastern was built. While in London Mr. Marshall called at the office of The Canadian Grocer and reports a hearty welcome.

From London the party, which by the way, included A. M. MacWillie, the company's American manager and Mrs. MacWillie, crossed to Paris. Here Mr. Marshall had the pleasure of meeting M. Menier, the French chocolate king, and several other large business men.

The Paris Groceries.

The retail stores of Paris, and indeed, all through the larger towns of France, present very, very attractive interiors, said Mr. Marshall, from the fact that they make a specialty of displaying preserved fruits, etc., in glass. The quality of these goods is well-known. Mr. Marshall spent some time in the factories where these goods are put up, and thinks that the secret of their quality lies in the care exercised in handling the fruit.

Cheese is also made a feature in these stores, several of the larger stores handling MacLaren's and quite a large business has been built up in this with the American residents. Cooked meats, fowl, etc., are also largely handled.

Another interesting feature about the stores is that the clerks, both in Paris and Marseilles are practically all women.

Wine and Fruits at Bordeaux.

In Bordeaux the greater part of the Maraschino cherries which we use are put up. These come from a valley some distance inland and are preserved with the greatest care. Bordeaux, which by the way, has about the same population as Toronto is noted also as a wine centre, and along the waterfront, says Mr. Marshall, everything, offices, warehouses, drays and traffic, are devoted exclusively to the wine industry.

Soap and Nuts at Marseilles.

Marseilles is noted for its production of olive oil and its products. Practically all the castile soap we use also comes from this city. It is also an important nut market. Grenoble walnuts and almonds are largely exported and it is also a large importer of peanuts from India, Africa and Java, these being utilized for oil.

The city contains several macaroni factories and Mr. Marshall secured the Canadian agency for one of the largest of these while in the city. An interesting feature evidenced here was the absence of credit in wholesale trade. These macaroni manufacturers sell from 10,000 to 15,000 pounds daily to the retail trade in the city. It is sold on an agreement that the retailer shall pay the driver who delivers the goods, or if not paid then, that he call at the factory the following morning with the cash. If he neglects to turn up his name is written off the books and the firm refuse to sell him further supplies. According to Mr. Marshall the system seems to work admirably and to the interests of all.

Gibraltar's Moorish Market.

Even at Gibraltar MacLaren's cheese is used a good deal, says Mr. Marshall, though there is not a decent grocery store in the city. One of the features of the place is its Moorish market, with its abundance of fowl.

A Visit to Malaga.

From Gibraltar Mr. and Mrs. Marshall crossed by ferry to Algeciras and thence by a round about inland trip on a remarkably slow train to Malaga. This, Mr. Marshall considers as one of the prettiest cities in Europe. Lying in a bay, surrounded by mountains covered by semi-tropical vegetation it presents a particularly pleasing picture.

Malaga is a large raisin centre, the valley adjacent to the city being very fertile. A large quantity of almonds are also exported and several factories were visited where the nuts were being shelled and polished.

From Malaga Mr. Marshall took a short holiday trip to Grenada, had a look at the famous Alhambra, and then went on to Seville.

In Seville and Madrid.

This city, with its clean, whitewashed buildings, made a favorable impression. Several olive manufactories were here visited. These are nothing more than a yard with a number of sheds for storage, all the work of curing and treating being done out of doors.

In Madrid the grocery stores are quite attractive and the better ones are very similar to the French stores. Cheese is also sold very largely here and Roquefort, Milan cheese and the Dutch product were all in evidence. The Canadian variety has also found a place and Mr. Marshall tells with a pleased look how it was first discovered in the military club in the city and its use has gradually spread.

From Spain Mr. and Mrs. Marshall returned to England and from thence to Toronto via New York. Mr. and Mrs. MacWillie, instead of visiting Spain, went north through Switzerland and Holland, calling on a number of the business men in various cities.

Several important agencies were established as a result of the trip, which no doubt the readers of The Grocer will have an opportunity of hearing about through the firm's advertising during the year, and as another result, Messrs. Marshall and MacWillie are particularly well informed as to a good many of the lines of goods they are selling.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Demand for Green Fruits More Active—Potatoes Have Taken an Easy Turn.—Lenten Fish Business Very Satisfactory.

Business in green fruits is steadily improving and with milder weather should soon become brisk again. Prices have been well maintained all round. Oranges are steady and firm. Navels are now arriving in excellent condition as the season advances. Lemons are very firm. California lemons are higher. Bananas are in a healthy condition and have an upward tendency on account of the reported shortage in supplies. Cranberries remain high.

The chief feature of the vegetable market is the decline in potatoes. Delawares and Canadians are off about 10c. Supplies are quite satisfactory. Other domestic lines are unchanged. California celery is practically done. Shipments of Florida celery are arriving and are of excellent quality. The demand for imported stuff has improved much. New onions and cabbage are on the market. Boston lettuce is slightly lower.

The Lenten season has begun very favorably. Business in all lines of fish is good. Pickled and fresh fish are moving well. Supplies are plentiful. Digby herrings are inclined to be scarce. Prices remain materially the same.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—A slight improvement is noticeable in green fruits this week, and all lines are selling well. Lemons, Florida oranges, and grape fruit, have slightly declined in price. Bananas remain quite firm, the market being strong through reports of a scarcity in the crop. Weather conditions in the largest producing countries have not been satisfactory, and it is feared that the crop will not be sufficient to take care of the demand for this ever popular fruit. Grocers are selling cranberries quite freely, though prices are pretty high. Almeria grapes continue in strong demand in some quarters, while apples are being sold in fair quantities. Trade with grocers in this line is confined to actual needs for consumption.

VEGETABLES—The vegetable market is somewhat easier this week, as will be noticed in several of the quotations given below, several lines having declined in price. Demand for both foreign and domestic fruits is better, and the outlook for improvement during the present month is bright. There are no green peas on the market at present. FISH—The fish orders received this week are larger, owing to the fact of there being three fast days. Haddock are being received more freely, and it has resulted in a decline in price. Several other lines of fresh fish are lower also. Salmon is in good demand and quite a few lots of smelts are being sold. Pickled lines are also moving freely, as are salted.

GREEN FRUITS—The market this week has a better tone. The mild weather has helped matters materially.

Prices all round are firm. Oranges are moving well. Navels are in good demand and of excellent quality. Valencias are higher. Lemons are firmer. Californias have advanced 50c. Bananas remain steady and an advance will probably take place before long. Apples are in fair demand. Almerias are moving fairly well. Cranberries are slow at the high prices.

VEGETABLES—All lines are in a healthy condition and moving satisfactorily. Potatoes have an easier feeling and have declined 10c. Supplies of both Delawares and Canadian are good. Other lines of domestic vegetables are being quoted at old prices. Business in imported varieties has noticeably improved. Boston lettuce and pineapples are lower. Onions are in strong demand. Green onions are on the market now. California celery is being displaced by Florida shipments of a very fine quality.

TRADE NEWS FROM NOVA SCOTIA

County Board of Trade Taking Action in Matter of Fruit Inspection — Grocery Lines Generally Steady.

(Special Correspondence to The Canadian Grocer)

Halifax, N.S., March 9.

That strong efforts will be resorted to to stamp out the fraudulent packing of fruit was made evident at the annual meeting of Kings County Board of Trade, held at Kentville last week. Representative men from all parts of the county were present and discussed at length the various matters that came before the meeting. The following resolution was adopted and a copy ordered to be sent to the Dominion Government:

"Whereas it is known that the steamship companies are making private arrangements with speculators, foreign apple receivers, or their agents at home or abroad, therefore, resolved, that the government be requested to compel steamship companies to advertise an equal rate for all under similar circumstances, and any steamship company departing from such advertised rate shall be deprived of their subsidy by the government."

It was also resolved that to aid in reducing the numerous complaints made regarding the inferior packing of apples the names of all parties fined under the Fruit Marks Act be published by Chief Inspector Vroom in the papers of the county where the offenders live; that the Minister of Agriculture be requested to give effect to this resolution and that copies be sent to J. W. Ruddick, Chief Dairy Commissioner, and to the members of the county interested.

The following officers were elected: President, W. H. Woodworth, Berwick; vice-president, M. G. De Wolf, Kentville; sec.-treas., W. B. Burgess; auditors, Geo. Calkin and J. H. Cox. The old council was re-elected.

Eggs continue on their downward tendency, and good fresh stock can be purchased for 22 cents per dozen wholesale. Cold storage and limed stock is worth 20 cents at retail, and some of the dealers would no doubt accept very low figures if they could clear up the stock on hand. Eggs continue to come along quite freely and from now on the price will no doubt keep on the decline.

Butter remains practically unchanged. During the week some small tubs of dairy butter were marketed and these found ready sale at thirty cents. Prints are worth from 30 to 32 cents. Nearly all the butter on hand is required for home consumption, and very little is being sent to the West Indies.

All lines of groceries are steady, and the trade passing is quite satisfactory. There is a good demand for canned goods, and the jobbers say that glass preserves are selling quite freely. Among other articles which sell rapidly are package cereals, the demand for this class of goods having increased here very greatly. There is a good supply of vegetables on hand and stocks are reported to be keeping well.

WELCOME CANADIAN GROCERS.

Convention of National Association of United States Retailers at Boston May 11 to 14.

The convention of the National Association of Retail Grocers' of the United States will be held at Boston on May 11th to 14th, and promises to be exceedingly profitable. A letter from the secretary, John A. Green, to this paper, inviting the attendance of Canadian merchants, says, in part: "We would welcome any or all Canadian business men who wish to attend our convention and listen to the topics discussed, which will be of general interest to all concerned."

Mr. Green advises all who buy tickets to the convention to secure a certificate at starting point, which, under arrangement with the Eastern Canadian Passenger Association, as well as the New England Passenger Association, will entitle them to fare and one-third rate.

FRASER RIVER SALMON.

The annual report of the deputy commissioner of fisheries, J. P. Babcock, calls attention to the great falling off in the Fraser river salmon pack during the last season and the warning of other years in regard to the danger of extinction which threatens the sockeye salmon of the Fraser, unless stringent efforts are made to permit of a larger number of the fish reaching the spawning beds. Mr. Babcock refers to the unprecedented number of humpback salmon which ascended the Fraser last year and to the excellent condition of the salmon fisheries of the Skeena and the north generally, and precautions are suggested to prevent the industry there sharing the same fate as that on the Fraser. Particular attention is drawn to the presence of black bass in Christina and Moyie lakes and to the danger to the trout and other indigenous fish through the presence of the voracious marauder. The fact that the fish were planted there by the Dominion department after a report by the Dominion commissioner, is alluded to. Great regret is expressed that through the action of the Dominion department two of the most valuable trout lakes in the province are destined to be depleted. Mr. Babcock expresses the opinion that the presence of black bass in these waters is a menace to the salmon, as they might readily be transported to waters habited by the salmon. The black bass are tremendous breeders and work great harm to food fish.

INTERESTING LEGAL CASE.

A case of great moment to the raw fur trade is the one which Revillon Bros., of Montreal, are now contesting with the Quebec authorities at Hull in connection with having in their possession 400 beaver skins, which it is contended, were illegally purchased. The Quebec laws are very stringent on the point, and do not allow of any trading in these skins. A new phase has, however, been given to the long drawn out fight between the traders and the Quebec authorities as to the exact powers of the law, by the line of defence adopted by Revillon Bros. They contend that the Indians, from whom the skins were purchased, had the right by an old treaty with the Dominion, to kill and dispose of beaver, and that, therefore, the Quebec law was ultra vires as applied to the Indians.

It is important that this point should be cleared up. Does an old treaty exist with the Dominion, and, if so, to what extent does the treaty nullify the rights of the Quebec Legislature? The whole question seems to be—if the Indians have a right to kill for a living, does this give them an equal right to dispose of the skins? The Quebec law says "no," and Revillon Bros. are now endeavoring to find out if the Province is within its rights in thus prohibiting sale.

D. Johnson, of the firm of Hiram Johnson, fur and skin importers, Montreal, interviewed on the question, said that a great deal of interest was being taken in the case. It was time that something was done to settle the bone of contention between the traders and the Indians on the one hand, and the Quebec Legislature on the other. No one could deny that the Indians had a right to trade for a living, and, why, therefore, should the authorities step in and take their rights away? In the case of muskrat, for instance, the authorities only allowed the animals to be caught in the month of April. But the Indians must catch them at other times of the year to live, and what were they to do with the skins? In the rights of equity the Indian should be allowed to dispose of the skins. It was a question whether the Provincial Government should be allowed to override the old rights granted to the Indians.

Max Goldberg, of the British-Canadian Fur Co., Montreal, said that it was high time that the matter was threshed out. If the Indians were allowed to kill the animals, they should be allowed to sell the fur, and it must not be forgotten that the Indians must kill to live. These people did not kill the game needlessly. They protected the hunting grounds as thoroughly as the farmer did his crops, for they recognized that they would be cutting their own throats to exterminate the animals. If the Indians were allowed to sell the skins openly, they would get more value for them, and would, consequently, hunt less.

The Montreal branch of the Hudson's Bay Company interrogated on the subject, thought that Revillon has a very good case. The Hudson's Bay Company, although it did not dispose of their right to trade with the Indians when the lands were purchased from them, had not found it possible to exercise that right. It had gone by in abeyance.

J. Riendeau, Inspector of Fisheries at Montreal, would express no opinion on the case. The reading of the law was plain enough, and that was all that there was to be said on the matter.

RICE CROP OF BURMA.

The third Burmese Government forecast of the rice crop for a territory containing about 9.8 per cent. of the total area under rice in British India gives as the area under cultivation 7,295,964 acres, an increase of 322,271 acres. Prospects are good, the surplus available for export being estimated at 2,514,000 tons of cargo rice, equivalent to 42,610,169 hundredweights of cleaned rice.

A. G. Austen, representing J. M. Douglas, Montreal, is in Toronto this week, calling on the trade in the interests of Lea & Perrin's sauce, Keeler's marmalade, etc.

NEW BRUNSWICK BUSINESS GOOD

Echoes From the Provincial Elections—Changes in Several Lines of Staple Goods—Suggestions Regarding Early Closing.

Special Correspondence to The Canadian Grocer.

St. John, N.B., March 9.

Now that the provincial elections are over, with the turmoil and excitement that generally goes with such an event, merchants have settled down again to business. The result of the appeal to the people was that Premier Robinson's government has been overthrown after twenty-five years of power, and J. D. Hozen, leader of the opposition forces, will be called upon to form a new government. In St. John the Opposition ticket made a clean sweep, taking the four seats. One of the successful ones on the ticket was W. F. Hatheway, a leading wholesale grocer and flour dealer. Mr. Hatheway made his appeal to the laboring men and he is generally looked upon as the labor candidate. He published a book a few years ago, entitled "The Cry of Labor."

Among the defeated ones was Hon. D. J. Purdy, retail grocer and shipowner, of the north end. Mr. Purdy was only taken into the cabinet a few weeks ago as a "forecastle" member, so he had not long to enjoy his honors.

Business had been very satisfactory during the past week. Canned goods are moving pretty well, now that stocks of homemade preserves are giving out. Lard has advanced half a cent and Austrian granulated sugar in bags is up 10 cents a hundred. There has been no change in the price of flour, though with wheat hovering round the dollar mark, dealers are looking for an advance in Ontario brands at any time now. Rolled oats have advanced 25 cents a barrel. This makes the wholesale price $6.75 a barrel, while the mill price is $6.70.

There is a strong probability that the St. John wholesale grocers will close their places of business at five o'clock in the afternoon during the coming summer season. Many of the large wholesalers are strongly in favor of the step. They feel that it would be a great benefit in many ways. It would mean that the staffs would have to get down earlier in the mornings and that just as much would be accomplished each day and the volume of business done would be just as great. The early closing movement would be of particular benefit to those that spend their summer in the country as it would give them an opportunity of catching the early suburban trains and give them an hour longer at their suburban homes during the most attractive part of the day.

A similar movement was inaugurated last year, but owing to the unwillingness of two or three of the larger firms the plan was not adopted. The scheme is being again mooted and, it is understood, is finding general favor. The wholesale grocers are also talking up a plan to have all their traveling salesmen take their vacations at the same time. This is for the mutual protection of their trade. It is often the case that a commercial man's regular customers will be approached while he is away on his vacation, by the representative of a rival concern, who secures the orders. It is felt that it will be mutually satisfactory to have all the knights of the grip take their outing at the same time. No particular period has been mentioned in this regard, but it is probable that the second and third weeks in August would be the period chosen.

James Stewart, for many years interested in the manufacture of soaps here, died at his home, Elliott Row, on Saturday, Feb. 28, aged eighty-one years. Pneumonia was the cause of his death. Up to a few years ago he was engaged with his brother, the late Alexander Stewart, in conducting a soap factory on Germain Street. He is survived by three sons and four daughters. The funeral was held on March 1 and was very largely attended.

An all-grocery aggregation of hockeyists played a thrilling game in the Glacier Rink here on Saturday evening, Feb. 28. The teams were chosen from the staffs of Baird & Peters and the Geo. E. DO IT WITHOUT ARGUMENT.

Argument and bickering and worrying over small things is one of the greatest evils in the working world. Procrastination merely is petty larceny of time as compared with argument.

How many workers there are, who, when told to do something, stop to debate or bicker over the manner in which that thing is to be done. How many there are who want to argue the point from every possible angle. And how many there are who, having been curtly "shut up" and told to do it, waste still more time worrying and fretting.

These workers forget that the object is to get a thing done—and that the way it is done is secondary. If it is not done right, of course, there is trouble, but that is not the point. The arguments chiefly are as to differences in method in accomplishing the same end.

Only a few days ago I watched a heating contractor and steamfitter engaged in putting a steam pipe through an 18-inch wall, says John M. Masterson. The contractor explained briefly and concisely how he wanted it done. The steamfitter stopped, put down the pipe, and argued. He declared that he never had done that kind of work in that way, that he had worked for some of the best heating contractors in the country, and that they did not do it that way. He started to get technical and the boss shut him up curtly.

After hours that evening the two rode home together. The steamfitter had been pouting and sulking all afternoon on account of the reprimand. This time he found the boss ready to argue, and they engaged in a long and technical debate. Finally the heating contractor remarked:

"Jack, this is your worst fault. You don't know how to obey orders. In the first place, when I tell you to do something you are likely to start without knowing exactly what I want. Never do that. Always find out, before attempting any work, exactly what is wanted.

"You don't know how to take orders. This is my job, and I am responsible. I tell you to do something. When I do that it is up to you to do that work and do it my way. It may not be as good as your way, but that is the way I want it, and, as I assume all responsibility, that is the way I'm going to have it.

"You knew just as well as I this morning how I wanted that pipe connection made. Instead of making it that way, you wanted to try it some other man's way. You wasted over five minutes of my time and your own, arguing about it.

"You'll never be a first-class steamfitter until you learn to do things the way the man you are working for wants them done and orders them done."

That was plain talk—but it settled Jack. He admitted frankly that he never had looked upon it that way.

That same day I watched two painters at work on a house. They were just starting. They set out barrels, brushes, buckets and ladders, and then spent 20 minutes debating whether to start with the roof or on the east side. The boss had just driven away after telling them to start on the roof. It was nearly an hour before they finally decided that he was right—and meantime they had soaked the house owner nearly $1 in time—or the boss, if they were working by the job.

AN IDEAL MONTREAL GROCERY

Silent Salesmen for Counter and Display, Up-to-Date Equipment and Various New Ideas Make a Store Which Ranks With the Best.

An ideal retail grocery store is that conducted by J. B. Berthiaume, Park avenue and Prince Arthur street, Montreal. Mr. Berthiaume, who has been in business over seven years, first had a stand on St. Lawrence street, but later removed to Park avenue, where he caters to a paying trade.

In the store, as the photograph shows, every modern convenience which will enable the proprietor to carry on business economically and expeditiously is used. Splendid silent salesmen stretch the entire length of the building, while there is one also in the centre. In these will be found, to the left on entering, cigars, tobaccos and accessories, confectionery, wines, liquors and bread. Next to the last silent salesman on the left may be seen a fine biscuit stand whereon the various products of Canadian and English manufacturers of biscuits are shown. The shelves on the left side are given over chiefly to wines and liquors, of which a full stock is carried. At the back of the store one will find the shipping department, which is conveniently located, as there is a side door giving exit to Prince Arthur street. The refrigerator is at the back also, where canned goods, cereals and other package goods are shelved ready to hand, for the clerks.

To the right as one enters will be noticed a fine, marble-topped silent salesman. In this show case fancy groceries are generally displayed, olives being given prominence in the picture reproduced here. On top will be seen on exhibit several cheese. A glass cover, through which it is easy to see the cheese, serves to keep dust and dirt from this eatable. One finds Rocquefort, Gruyere, Oka and other lines of cheese here.

A butcher's block is next, and on this an up-to-date meat-cutting machine is ready for use. Beyond will be seen another silent salesman, and then the glass-partitioned office.

The shelves to the right hold mostly imported lines of fancy goods, but also contain many staples.

In the foreground there is to be seen a small table and chairs. On the table there is a magazine or two, a city directory, and sometimes a jar of some fancy line which might interest waiting customers.

Back of the table a show case containing cereals affords those lines considerable publicity.

Finely finished throughout, and artistically arranged, the store strikes one upon entering as being a place of business run by a man who knows his trade.

READY FOR COMING SEASON.

Dr. S. E. Boulter, of the Niagara Falls Canning Co., paid a visit to The Grocer last week.

He reports that the new factory is practically completed and that everything will be in working order for the coming season's pack.

In conversation with The Grocer Dr. Boulter said that the company was entirely a Canadian organization, and the impression that was in some quarters that their company was connected with the Sanitary Co., Limited, was an erroneous one. The contiguity of the two factories, and the fact that the Niagara Falls Canning Co. intend to use the Sanitary cans in all their packing is no doubt accountable for this report.

The company consist of the following gentlemen: Geo. Boulter, president; S. E. Boulter, secretary; Frank Boulter, general manager; and W. F. Griffiths, W. P. Dixon, directors. The capitalization is $60,000, fully paid.

TRADE NOTES.

Wm. La Chappelle, general merchant, of McTaggart, Sask., has made an assignment.

The general store of J. H. Cannon, of Minitonas, Man., was destroyed by fire recently.

A letter from Port of Spain, Trinidad, B.W.I., received recently, notes the dissolution of the partnership of Watson, Boyd & Co., cocoa and general commission merchants, on Dec. 31. Mr. Watson, the senior member, has retired and the business will be carried on under the name, Boyd & Co.

Wm. Bowman, of the Standard Trading Co., Montreal, has suddenly disappeared from his residence, 108 Mansfield street, and nothing has been heard of him since he left the house of a friend whom he was visiting, over a week ago. The friends of Mr. Bowman are unable to advance any reason whatsoever for his disappearance.

CONFIDENCE!

When placing orders for any line of goods, the grocer must have absolute confidence in what he selects. No question of inferior quality or doubtful value must exist.

In directing attention to the articles put up and manufactured by Maconochie Bros., Ltd., Pickles, Jams, Marmalade, Canned Fish, etc., we have the assurance that quality is a first consideration.

The question of value next arouses interest, and the point is well taken that no similar goods are on the Canadian market to-day in which value is so prominent a feature.

Satisfaction to the retailer from the standpoint of profit—and a satisfied customer as well—constitute a climax that establish Maconochies' products in the front rank to-day.

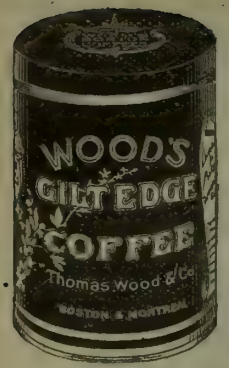
"He's Got the Goods"



ESTABLISHED 1879

This phrase is positive, terse and comprehensive.

The straight-out and straight-forward business man is not awed by competition, because the rock of his foundation is truth, and "he has the goods" to prove assertions.

Therefore when it is emphasized that are the purest, most deliciously blended, and pre-eminently the BEST the market affords, "we've got the goods" to back the statement up.

WOOD'S COFFEES

DWIGHT'S BAKING SODA

Package Soda

Since the introduction by us of

"Cow Brand" Baking Soda

to the housekeepers of Canada there has been a much larger sale of baking soda by grocers. The absolute purity, the convenience of the package and the uniformity in quality and strength of

"Cow Brand" Baking Soda

has made it one of the most profitable lines for the dealer—no waste, no loss of time in selling.

Order "Cow Brand" from your jobber.

ST. CATHARINES

GILLETT'S PERFUMED LYE

CAUTION.

Put a strong glass on the label and examine it closely every time. Always look for the name "Gillett's."

Like all good articles, which are extensively advertised, Gillett's Lye is frequently and very closely imitated. In some instances the imitators have actually copied directions and other printed matter from our label word for word. Be wise, and refuse to purchase imitation articles for they are never satisfactory.

Insist On Getting Gillett's Lye

and decline to accept anything that looks to be an imitation or that is represented to be "just as good" or "better," or "the same thing." In our experience of over fifty years in business we have never known of an imitation article that has been a success, for imitators are not reliable people. At the best the "just as good" kinds are only trashy imitations, so decline them with thanks every time.

Macaroni Vermicelli Spaghetti

The peculiarly desirable qualities of Taganrog (Russia) wheat impart to the Macaroni, Vermicelli, Spaghetti and fancy pastes made by Codou of France, a delicacy and flavor unlike any others—the quality is superb.

Added to that is the dependency of expert workmanship furthered by the aid of a model factory. With the definite purpose of securing the "BEST" insist upon having "Codou's."

Look for the Name "CODOU"

on the package—it assures and guarantees satisfaction. It is the stamp of reliability--the seal of goodness—the real and genuine. With it in your stock you are certain to avoid complaints. "Codou"—that is the name to think of.

Messrs. Canadian Canners, Limited
Hamilton, Ont.

Dear Sirs :

I sold some of the Hygeian goods to a lady from London who was visiting here. It was the Beets in particular which induced her to order them. She said that she had not seen anything like it in London. I presume that this is a mistake, and that your goods are in London also.

We find here that we cannot sell anything in cans outside of the regular lines, unless we open a can and show the contents in a glass jar.

We thought it best to mention this as it seems a pity that the London people should not know how nice these goods are.

Yours truly,
H. MALCOLMSON,
Grocer.

Hygeian Beets are positively the finest ever put up either in tin or glass.

Packed in hygienic cans, under a new process, superior to glass, a most attractive package.

Why Is It

more profitable for you to sell Old Homestead Brand than any other brand of canned goods on the market?

Because It Is a fact, that, in these days, people whose trade is worth going after, are mighty particular about what they eat.

Old Homestead Brand

satisfies the quality demand. It appeals to the customer who is particular on the points of purity, cleanliness and flavor. And it is a well known and easily demonstrable fact that no brand of canned goods on the market is the superior of Old Homestead on these points, while most brands fall far below it.

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

Is The Profitable Brand

because people want purity, and delicious flavor — and Old Homestead Brand supplies the want.

Ask Your Jobber for Old Homestead and see that you get it.

The Old Homestead Canning Co.

PICTON, - ONTARIO

THE DEALER WHO MAKES MONEY

is always he who deals in the best goods. Look around your own town for evidence of this fact. Suppose a customer orders a well known brand of Tomatoes or Salmon. What she wants is that particular brand. She does not want to be told of another brand "just as good at less money" but suppose you do induce her to try the cheaper one, look at the risk you are taking. If it proves inferior, or EVEN IF SHE THINKS IT IS you may lose a good customer. Anyway you are liable to offend her, and what can you possibly gain in any case? ABSOLUTELY NOTHING.

When a customer asks you for

"SALADA"

it will pay to hand it out for there is more REAL PROFIT in handling and PUSHING goods already well known for QUALITY and READY SALE than there is in selling any unknown goods with the attendant risks.

Profitable Goods

Are the goods that are a little better than the others: goods that will make sales where the others won't. Ozo Brand Pickles are good pickles, and show their quality. We have special facilities for turning out the best pickles, and we have made the most of them. For instance, we provide the seed from which the vegetables are grown and so get the best from the start; the cucumbers go straight from the vine to the factory, so that none of the fresh crispness is lost. We make our own vinegar and it cannot be beaten for pickling purposes. It will certainly pay you to specify that you want our goods when ordering pickles.

Things don't "just happen" in this world—there's a reason for everything, and there's a splendid reason why Windsor Salt has reached that much sought for pinnacle that entitles the makers to justly claim it "best."

¶ To-day it is the Standard Salt from which comparisons are made when some one is trying to sell an inferior product—something "just as good." The purity, whiteness, dryness, and free-running qualities of Windsor Salt are almost proverbial. "It's the Standard"—isn't that enough?

Business Man and Farmer in the West

A Description of the Successful Winter Fair Held in Brandon Last Week and Its Relation to the Business Interests of the Country—A Hint for Western Merchants.

The Western Viewpoint by our Special Winnipeg Correspondent.

Brandon, Manitoba, was the scene last week of the most successful Winter Fair that has ever been held in the Canadian west and that is saying a good deal. The holding of a winter fair was for many years considered impracticable, but five years ago the little town of Neepawa decided to try a winter fair, and it is worthy of note that the man who started the idea going, and was one of the hardest workers towards the successful issue, was a bank manager, who had formerly been in the city of Guelph and knew the value of winter shows. The Neepawa fair was a success, but Neepawa, being on a branch line, was not considered ideal as a place for a winter fair, owing to the transportation problem. For many years the Live Stock Association of Manitoba had held their annual meetings in the city of Winnipeg, generally during bonspiel time, when cheap rates were in order. It was felt by many of the breeders that Winnipeg was the place where the winter show should be held. The Provincial Government was approached in the matter, but practically refused to do anything to encourage a winter fair. Next an effort was made to get a number of the prominent men of Winnipeg to form a joint stock company, purchase land and erect a building that could be used for a winter fair and for cattle sales and at other times in the year for many other purposes. To men familiar with the successful shows at Guelph it was apparent that a building of the kind, if erected, and the winter fair properly pushed, would be a success financially. However, the business men of Winnipeg, following the example of the Provincial Government, turned the scheme down.

Brandon Inaugurated the Fair.

It remained for little Brandon to take the matter up. First, they invited the Live Stock Association to hold their annual meeting and a stallion show in such temporary quarters as they could provide. In 1907 to the annual meeting and the stallion show were added a seed grain fair and poultry show. The attendance was enormous, and the temporary quarters provided by Brandon wholly inadequate to accommodate the crowd and the breeders again expressed a wish to return to Winnipeg. At this juncture a number of Brandon men came forward and guaranteed that if the Live Stock Association would undertake to hold a winter fair in Brandon in 1908 they would erect and equip a suitable building for the purpose. On March 10, 1908, the winter fair was duly opened in this building, which probably has not its counterpart in the Dominion of Canada.

The New Building.

The main body of the building contains an amphitheatre with seats for 1,800 people, with a show ring 150 feet long, and a stage, the second largest in Canada. The north wing of the building contains stalls and pens for a hundred cattle, fifty hogs and fifty sheep. The south end is devoted to horses and has stabling for over one hundred head. The hall over the north wing has been arranged as a lecture room and a hall for seed grain fairs. The upper floor of the south wing is specially designed for poultry shows and was pronounced by Judge Butterfield the finest poultry hall in Canada, both for light, size and convenience of arrangement. The entire plant is heated throughout with steam, has city water laid on and is provided with commodious lavatories and toilet rooms at different points throughout the building. There are a number of small rooms suitable for committee work, and lunch rooms have also been provided for. The total cost has been pretty close upon $50,000, and of this amount the business men of Brandon have already subscribed and paid in the sum of $35,000. The farmers of the district of Brandon have subscribed about $3,000 more. The erection of such a building speaks volumes for the pluck and enterprise of the business men of the Wheat City. It is their hope that they will be able to use this building during the year for theatrical purposes, and an effort is being made to have it included in the Winnipeg theatrical circuit. The idea is to fill the floor of the show ring with chairs, and in this way it would be possible to seat 2,500 people.

A Gratifying Success.

Considering that the building was barely completed in time for the fair of 1908, and everything new and green about the business the success achieved is most gratifying. It is not possible to announce the prizes for cattle until very late, and consequently the exhibit of fat stock was smaller and not so well finished as it should have been, but it showed a marked improvement over previous years. Perhaps the greatest improvement was to be noted in bacon hogs, which conformed more truly to the ideal bacon type than at any previous show. The exhibit, too, was large and the hogs brought out in good show shape. The exhibit of sheep was small, but the class was high.

Horse Show a Strong Feature.

The strong point of the fair, however, was the horse show, and the strong point of the horse show was the exhibit of Clydesdales. Forty stallions of that breed being entered in the different classes. In aged Clydesdale stallions there were ten horses brought into the ring and not a really poor horse among them. The showing of Clyde mares was also very good. Perhaps the greatest surprise of the fair, however, was the display of Percherons, twelve horses being shown in the aged class. It was pronounced by men of experience the largest and finest group of the breed ever shown in Canada. There was a fair display also of light horses, hackneys, standard bred and thoroughbred. Some idea of the interest taken in the judging of horses may be gathered from the fact that fully 1,200 people sat solidly for four hours watching the various classes put through their paces and awarded the red, blue and white ribbons.

The Visitors Entertained.

The finest scene of all was on Thursday evening when the visiting breeders were the guests of the city of Brandon. An elaborate programme of vocal and instrumental music, interspersed with short speeches and selections by the band, had been provided, also a liberal number of cigars for lovers of the weed. The evening opened with the judging of hackney stallions. These horses showed to their best while the music played. Next came a parade of stallions, and there were thirty-five heavydraught horses in the ring at one time, and as they paraded they were cheered by fully 2,000 poeple.

The gate receipts of the fair for three days were very close to $1,000, and it must be remembered that with the breeders the payment of their annual membership fee to any one of the live stock associations entitles them to admission to the fair throughout the week.

A Fair Board Organized.

So much for the history of Manitoba's Winter Fair to date. The Winter Fair building will remain the property of the joint stock company that has erected it, but a Winter Fair Board has been organized comprising representatives from all the live stock associations, the Provincial Poultry Association and the board of directors of the building. This last formed association is to be known as the Manitoba Winter Fair and Fat Stock Show Association and will have entire charge of the winter fairs for the future. This year the slaughtering and judging of slaughtered carcasses of sheep, hogs and cattle was carried on to a limited extent and another year it is hoped to enlarge this department and add the killing and dressing of poultry with lectures on the same. The aim of the Manitoba Winter Fair will be to equal and ultimately surpass the Guelph show. There is abundance of material in the Canadian West to work on and the aim will be to make the great winter gathering at Brandon of a highly educational character. The show just closed has proved to a demonstration the classes in stock judging, with their accompanying lectures are as intensely interesting to the great hordes of young men, who attend, as is any vaudevile performance.

The Business Man's Interest.

It may be asked wherein are business men interested in fat stock shows. Of course in this particular instance the business men of Brandon have a large monetary stake in the success of the show. Apart from this, however, business men all over the country should be interested in it. It is manifest that the day of wheat farming is already passed in Manitoba. The day of mixed farming has come and come to stay, but mixed farming will be a doubtful good unless it is carried on intelligently and in the most up-to-date manner. In the three or four days of a winter fair it is quite possible for a farmer to acquire an enormous amount of useful information concerning the best methods of feeding and breeding sheep, hogs, cattle and horses. He can also learn much about the rotation of crops and the eradication of noxious weeds. In fact he has the privilege of attending a highly specialized school. If he is an exhibitor he comes in competition with men from all over the Canadian West, and if he fails he can learn at first hand why he did fail, and guard against the same conditions for the future. The men who attend these shows are bound to be better farmers and as their farming improves their spending power increases and this is the point where the business man is interested. Unlike the summer fairs the winter fair lends itself to prizes for all kinds of specialties. Another year it is hoped to offer prizes not merely for the best fed export steer, but for the best carload of export steers. This one particular department offers a great field for the local merchant. What could be better than for the merchants of any of the small towns in Manitoba to combine and offer a prize for the best carload of butchers or export steers fattened in the district adjacent to their town; or it might be for the best carload of sheep or the best dozen hogs. If this were done by a number of towns it would be comparatively easy for the Winter Fair Board to offer a really valuable prize for the champion car lot of the province. It might be remarked in passing that this present year J. D. Martin, President of the Winter Fair Building, offered $200 for the best fat steer or heifer bred in the Western Provinces and four years of age. This splendid prize was won by a handsome shorthorned grade which had been bred and fed on the Dominion Experimental Farm at Brandon and afterwards sold to Jos. Donaldson.

It seems to the writer that the Winter Fair offers an almost unlimited opportunity for the business man in country towns to identify his interests with those of the farmers of his locality, and in this way retain for himself trade, which is otherwise much too apt to be given to outside merchants.

THE GREEK CURRANT CROP.

Statistics and Market Conditions From U. S. Consul at Patras.

U. S. Vice-Consul Haworth J. Woodley, of Patras, has prepared the following review of the Greek currant crop and trade, which has just come to hand:

"The outstanding feature of the currant season of 1907 has been the large volume of business transacted during the latter half of August and practically throughout the entire months of September and October. That buyers were induced to respond to such an unusual extent may be attributed to the very moderate level of the opening quotations and a market showing almost daily increasing firmness owing to the reduced crop estimates during the critical period of cutting and gathering the currants.

"Heavy rains in most of the producing districts not only reduced the weight of the crop, but seriously deteriorated the quality of the various growths, provincial grades in particular suffering most damage.

"Fortunately most of the fruit so affected was ultimately secured in merchantable condition, but the standard of quality was necessarily lowered and has not been entirely satisfactory. The finer grades suffered somewhat less severely and Zante fruit escaped the ruin altogether, being of excellent quality and condition. Shippers have, however, done their utmost under the unfavorable circumstances, and, on the whole, few complaints have been pressed to the limit of arbitration.

Heavy Forward Buying.

"Owing to the small stocks carried over into the new season, a ready response was accorded to the opening quotations, which started on a level considerably lower than prices at which shipments could eventually be effected.

"The late harvest and consequent limited supplies of currants available at the commencement of the season, together with the unusually heavy requirements for September and October shipments, inflated spot prices, and deliveries generally were only effected at heavy losses to local shippers, who, nevertheless in most cases, fulfilled their engagements. As the damage to the crop became more generally known, prices continued their upward course until the market reached its highest point early in October, the quotations for provincial currants then being about $5 per hundredweight, cost and freight, New York.

"From this period prices receded somewhat, though the difference was mainly due to the reduced export tax, which, by arrangement, was made payable in cash at the fixed rate of 115 drachmas per 1,000 Venetian pounds ($20 per 1,050 pounds.) This was done, however, only after 66,000 tons had already been exported. Owing to the active demand and heavy shipments, this quantity was reached earlier than had originally been anticipated, while a rise in the rate of exchange also accentuated the reduction in forward quotations, so that these two factors practically accounted for the reduced quotations.

Available Supplies Insufficient.

"The crop is officially estimated at 141,000 tons, as against 132,000 tons last season, leaving about 118,000 tons available for export after the full retention duty in kind is deducted. In face of the increased consumption and the fact that a large proportion of the fruit remaining in Greece is of poor quality, for which reason its export is prohibited by the Greek Government; the available supplies of merchantable fruit are generally considered to be inadequate to meet the world demand.

"The increased exports this season have been general to all countries consuming currants, and the total shipments for 1907 are 766 tons in excess of those for the same period of 1906. For the season 1907-8 to December 31, the exports amounted to 113,466 tons gross, against 97,700 tons gross for the previous year.

"The favorable statistical position fully warrants the continued firmness of holders, and a comparison of the stock at present available in Greece with the quantity exported during the remainder of the season of the previous year reveals a shortage of about 8,000 tons to meet the estimated universal requirements. The officially estimated crop of 1907 is 141,000 net tons, of which there were exported to December 31, 1907, 98,000, and absorbed by retention duty 23,000, thus leaving stocks remaining in Greece at 20,000 net tons.

"A feature of this season has been the heavy shipments to the United States, the 15,194 gross tons going forward up to December 31 being 4,184 tons in excess of the previous season."

GIVE PREFERENCE TO CANADA.

Barbadoes Grants Twenty Per Cent. to Us and Asks Similar Favors.

The Barbadoes sub-committee of the West Indo-Canadian Conference, which has been considering matters of trade interest for some time, concluded its labors on Friday, the 7th inst. The subcommittee, so far as Barbadoes is concerned, has recommended to the Government that to Canada be granted a preference of twenty per cent. on all articles of consumption which she can supply—flour, fish, lumber, hay, oats, etc. In return for this the Canadian Government will be asked to give a preference of 11.5 cents per 100 pounds, additional to the existing preference, on sugars from Barbadoes.

The existing tariff will not be disturbed, but twenty per cent. additional duty will be levied on these articles of consumption coming to Barbadoes from countries other than Canada.

A. R. Baker, of the Old Homestead Canning Co., Picton, left last week on a business trip to Winnipeg and the coast. Mrs, Baker is accompanying him.

Letters From Our Special Correspondents in the Principal Cities and Towns in Canada—Happenings of the Trade for the Week.

CHATHAM.

Now that Lent is on, fish—and particularly, in view of the near approach of warm weather, canned fish—are shown in probably one out of every two windows.

A hint for a good background is given in Harry A. Andrew's window. Instead of using what may be called "foreign substance," for a background, he has stood red salmon cans, on end, tier upon tier. Though Ald. Andrew's window contains only three tiers, the process can be continued almost indefinitely, and a pretty high wall built up. The red labels make a very attractive background.

Another hint—and a valuable one—is contained in a show card several grocers are using. One is headed, "Lenten Specials," and contains a list of nearly two dozen varieties of canned fish. How many experienced housekeepers know that there are so many? Most of them are familiar with three or four kinds at best, and the knowledge of the new housekeeper is pretty well limited to salmon. And with the average new housekeeper, a bit timid as to her abilities in the cooking line, there are excellent possibilities of a market for canned fish. A neat card, with a complete list tastefully gotten up, will drive home a sense of variety to the very large class of housekeepers, who, when they think of canned fish, see nothing but kippered herring, sardines and salmon.

The Bradley store shows a pretty instructive soap window this week. The firm feature Empire soap in a big, 12½-cent bar, and the window is piled full of the big bars in their black and white wrappers. The foreground is occupied by a see-saw contrivance, with an Empire bar on one end, which is down, and five five-cent bars of other brands on the other end of the board, which is "way up." For direct suggestiveness the idea is hard to beat.

The ten o'clock market by-law is once more before the City Council. At the last Council meeting a petition with upwards of 100 signatures, was presented, asking for the repeal of the clause prohibiting retailers from purchasing on the market before ten o'clock. Ald. Baxter went so far as to give notice of a motion to amend the by-law accordingly, but this was withdrawn, the matter being referred to the Property Committee. The issue promises to be a live one with this year's Council.

> The following paragraph from our Ingersoll correspondent regarding the organization of a general delivery system will be read with general interest. On another page will be found an article telling of the methods used in a similar system in Michigan:
> "It is understood that the enterprise of local merchants will shortly assert itself again. From what can be learned it is the intention of the merchants to have a general delivery system, instead of the old, expensive and at times insufficient individual method. Plans are being laid for the organization of a system which will include all the deliveries for butchers, grocers, bakers, etc., at regular hours. This system, which is already in vogue in some places and has proved to be very satisfactory will be more efficient and economical and will no doubt be highly appreciated both by the merchants and their patrons."

H. G. Kogelschatz, a local ex-grocer, passed away last Saturday morning, after three days' illness. He was upward of 68 years of age. A native of Hanover, Germany, he came here at the time of the Franco-Prussian War, and entered into the tobacco business with his brother, the late F. W. Kogelschatz, who, by an odd coincidence, died only a few weeks ago. On the dissolution of this partnership, he entered into the grocery business in a small way, later took up market gardening, and for some years has lived retired. Of late years he has suffered from heart trouble, and last week sustained a severe paralytic stroke. He leaves three daughters and one son. He possessed marked musical and linguistic attainments, and, in a wide circle of friends, "Gus" Kogelschatz will be much missed.

A Board of Trade dinner, the first of its kind in Chatham, was held on Tuesday, the 10th, and proved a signal triumph, upwards of 175 being present. Incidentally, the way the retailers turned out was memorable, and, as usual, the grocers were pretty well to the front of things.

GUELPH.

I see that the by-law in Kingston to provide for farmers' wives bringing their fowl to the market drawn was defeated. The poultry men here think it is not wise to ask them to do this, as the fowl when drawn will not keep for any length of time, and would not do for shipping purposes. I am informed that a similar by-law is in force now at Owen Sound. The general opinion of both store-keepers and shippers is that the proper way is to insist on having the heads off and some think the feet also, but it is mighty hard to tell a young chicken from an old one when they are very fat and the feet are off. At the same time it is a real treat to see nice fat fowl brought into your store drawn and fixed up almost for the oven. I had the pleasure of seeing some this winter that were sold in a local store that were unsurpassed and did not require any salesmanship to sell. The people rushed right after them and

INGERSOLL.

Syrup-making operations will soon be in full swing. The sunshiny days and the frosty nights of the past week prompted a number of farmers to tap their lofty maples and the bushes will soon be illuminated by the huge fires under kettles and pans where lonely vigils are kept while the sap is being "boiled down." Syrup-making is not carried on extensively in this district, owing to the fact that the country for the most part has been cleared. Several farmers, however, spared many of their choice maple trees and when conditions are at all favorable reap good profits from them, as the demand is keen for unadulterated syrup and the price high compared with that of former years. While no new syrup has yet been marketed it is expected that the price will be about $1.35 per gallon on the market.

Following a year of almost unprecedented high prices for commodities in general, and coming at a time when there seemed some ground for hope that a reaction would soon set in, the announcement that the price of sugar was being periodically raised has perturbed householders and retailers not a little. Whatever the cause, the advancing of prices, first in one line and then another, seems to be a dominant factor of modern commercial life. Scarcity of supply, excessive freight charges and the increased cost of labor may all be facts with a tendency to raise prices to a certain extent, but there is surely a limit to all things and a microscopic examination in many cases would undoubtedly justify the opinion to which many consumers cling tenaciously that the monopolistic spirit is becoming more deeply rooted than ever.

Unless all signs fail this season will witness a return of the good old-fashioned Easter with an abundance of eggs at prices within the reach of all. The supply continues to increase at a rate which threatens to almost daily lower the price. At Saturday's market 20 cents per dozen was the ruling figure. The majority of the travelling buyers do not commence their rounds until spring is well advanced and in view of this fact there is a probability of the price ranging anywhere from 15 to 18 cents by Easter.

In regard to poultry, however, the conditions are exactly opposite. The supply is decidedly limited, and there is little hope of the desired change until the spring birds are placed on the market. On Saturday a fine pair of crate-fed chickens sold for $1.15.

The business staff of the Ingersoll Packing Co. have taken possession of the magnificent new office which has recently been erected on the north-west corner of Victoria and Wonham Sts. The new building is the embodiment of beauty and convenience. The exterior of the building is strikingly imposing, while the interior was constructed along lines affording the greatest convenience, combined with which there is much artistic workmanship and all modern facilities. In every respect the building is an ornament to the town and a monument to the enterprise of this widely-known firm. One storey in height, with a deep basement, the style of the building may be termed as modernized Grecian and Colonial in combination. The basement is constructed of cement floor and foundation walls, and rock-faced stone, while the upper portion is built of buff-pressed brick. The windows are unique in design, being of old English style. There are many small square panes, which admit an abundance of light, as does also a large sky-light in the roof. The building is steam heated, the supply being furnished from the boilers in the factory. The lighting fixtures are a combination of gas and electric light. Nearly $13,000 was spent in the erection of the building and its equipment. The various offices are elegantly furnished. A modern system of private telephone exchange for 20 'phones is being installed with an operator in charge giving direct connection with every department.

Do bad streets injure business? This is a timely question and some merchants are inclined to an affirmative opinion. It is generally conceded that when the sidewalks are hidden under slush that there is a falling off in business. It is also equally well known that women have a decided aversion to turning out on a shopping expedition when the walking is wretched. If the wretched conditions of sidewalks do have a tendency to injure business the matter is one worthy of discussion by the merchants in general. It is right along such lines as this that a well-organized and active retail grocers' association can find plenty of work to do which should prove mutually profitable.

Thirty-five cents per pound is the price best quality butter is retailing at in local grocery stores, and dealers declare there is little profit handling it, even at that figure. This is the highest price ever paid in London, at least, no one can be found who has recollection of a higher figure than thirty cents, and housekeepers are beginning to ask when the upward movement is going to end. Eggs are a little lower, the price ranging between twenty-five to thirty cents, but a little closer to the latter.

An idea of the outside trade of the London bread bakers may be gained from the fact that last year the express charges paid by them for carrying their product to other towns amounted to some $20,000. Every train leaving the city on week days carries tons of bread, buns and cakes, which are distributed in Windsor, Sarnia, Walkerville, St. Thomas and points east. Toronto bakers are said to be making a strong effort to cut into this trade, but the Londoners appear to be holding their own.

A committee of the Retail Grocers' Association is going after certain storekeepers in the outlying parts of the city all but one of whom are non-members, who have been cutting prices, chiefly on canned goods on which at the regular prices the profit is small enough. The committee is composed of the president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer of the association, who will endeavor to convince the offenders of the folly of their way of doing business. The trouble is that one dealer in order to draw trade, foolishly begins cutting prices, and his neighbor feels he has no option but to follow the example. An endeavor will be made to bring in the few grocers who remain outside the association.

"A Fish Question" is the sign which attracts attention to a special display of fish for the Lenten season in a Point St. Charles grocery. The display is in the centre of the store, and is very artistically arranged, showing all the different brands and varieties of package fish as well as displaying bulk. "I find it a good means of selling all lines," said the proprieter. "Customers who are in the habit of buying the same line every fish day are more inclined to try another for a change, and in this kind of display I find a good means of selling nearly equal quantities of each line."

"I have heard a good deal of complaint," said one grocer, "of the difculty experienced in collecting old accounts, probably if some of the other retailers would follow the plan which I have adopted, they would find a way out of the difficulty. I had several accounts which had been allowed to run in arrears for some time. I first called on my customers personally, and explained to them the plan which I was about to adopt in collecting. If a customer owes me an old account of, say, $30, I make out 6 notes for $5, each payable monthly, which the customer signs. These notes are handed them in addition to their current monthly accounts. In this way I have found no difficulty in collecting the old debts, with the result that to-day I have only two or three old balances on my books."

At a special meeting of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association, held Thursday, March 12, a resolution was passed asking the Senate to throw out, or amend, the co-operative bill which has been passed by the House of Commons. J. A. Beaudry, the secretary, in addressing the members on the matter, pointed out the hasty manner in which the bill had been pushed through by the Commons, having passed its first and second reading within the short space of ten minutes. In view of the great importance of the matter to the retail grocer it was thought that further consideration should be given.

It will be remembered that at the last session of the Quebec Legislature a law was passed raising the cost of liquor licenses, the minimum to be $300 and the maximum $450, but after the session Premier Gouin, having been petitioned by the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association granted a reduction of 50 per cent. on the increase, making the minimum $250 and the maximum $425.

No legislation was passed, however, the Premier merely giving his assurance that the matter would be all right. At the last meeting of the Association a committee was appointed to interview the Premier, and, if possible, have legislation passed on the matter as it presently stands, making it legal. The committee left for Quebec on Monday.

Fraser, Viger & Co. have been conducting a very successful orange sale. "We have sold hundreds of cases," said Manager Davidson. "Why did we decide to make a special sale? Well, things are usually pretty dull around this time. I found oranges could be purchased rather cheaply and bought twenty-five cases. Then I advertised a special drive on oranges. I was giving a 40c orange for 25c per dozen. The advertising created a little excitement, which was what we desired. People came to the store in great numbers, and our twenty-five cases soon were all sold. People had got the orange fever, evidently, for I found it almost impossible to supply them. I have so far bought over four hundred cases, within a couple of weeks, and still they are selling. On Saturday, March 7, we sold fifteen hundred dozen, while the day before we sold eleven hundred dozen. The people were lined up as if they were buying tickets for one of the big hockey games." One of the clerks here cut in, saying the money was coming in so fast on Saturday that he had twenty-five dollars within a few minutes, at one time, without being able to get to the cash desk. This tremendous sale of oranges naturaly increased the daily sales of Fraser, Viger & Co. Manager Davidson was wise enough to see and grasp the opportunity. Advertising, largely through a fine window display, resulted in the great sales.

VANCOUVER.

Eggs and butter are occupying attention in the local market. In the former, the inrush of California eggs has brought down the price of the high-class locals to what might be called the rock bottom figure, 35c. Hardly at any time does the price go below this, while it climbs during the winter season to as high as 70c. The result of the continued influx from California has been to catch many wholesalers with eastern eggs, which are being got rid of almost any old way. The easterns are at 26c, while Californias are 24c, while the latter are better in quality.

In butter, the price is still very firm at 45c, for the best. There are different qualities at 40c and 35c, and even these have to be used since the finest are scarce. During the past couple of months, there has been a brand on the market sold under the name of New Zealand butter, but now comes the statement that this is Australian, and that none has come from New Zealand this season. Still it was sold under that name.

The past week witnessed one of the heaviest shipments on record in the shipments of eggs from Seattle to Alaskan and Yukon points. Two of the principal dealers handled 1,400 cases, or an aggregate of 624,000 eggs. In this connection, news from Dawson states that the frequent arrival of eggs over the ice from the outside has produced a new factor in competition with the storage and ranch products, though there was little or no decline in price. The retail price of Dawson ranch eggs is $3 a dozen, or 25 cents apiece, rather a staggerer to people even here, who are not unaccustomed to them at 70c.

Sidney Owen Copas and George Thomas Young, of Calgary, under the firm name of Copas & Young, have bought out the pioneer grocery business of Fell's, Victoria. Mr. Copas was also a pioneer resident of Calgary, having lived there for nineteen years, being head of the firm of Copas & Emerson.

An interesting history attaches to "Fell's Grocery," which was established in 1862, by the late James Fell, and was known throughout the province, during the days, when Victoria and New Westminster were the only settlements on the British Columbia coast. During a portion of its career, the pioneer grocery business on the corner or Fort and Broad Sts. was conducted under the firm name of Fell & Finlayson, but on the death of Mr. Finlayson it reverted to the name of its founder, whose descendants continued to conduct it until very recently. Since 1874 until 1906, Henry Moss was identified with the business, first in the capacity of clerk and later as manager—a record which is a monument to his industry and to the esteem in which he was held by the employers.

It is the intention of the new owners to remodel and re-stock the store, and their aim will be to restore the concern to the proud position it once occupied.

THE SUGAR SITUATION.

The present high prices which prevail in the sugar market have been the cause of considerable comment among the trade. In connection therewith the grocer called on several wholesalers and the refiners in Montreal to ascertain their views on the cause of the advances. The general opinion is that the shortage of raw sugars in Cuba and the British West Indies, particularly the latter country, where Canada has the benefit of the rebate, and consequently where she buys most largely, has resulted in firmer markets in those cane-growing countries, resulting in stiffer markets here. S. J. Mathewson, of Mathewson's Sons, the wholesale grocers, in speaking of the situation said, that to his mind, the refiners had not stocked up sufficiently, and in consequence they at present find it necessary to pay the high prices which are asked for the raw sugar, and are obliged for their own protection to demand more of the trade. Before July retailers will be paying 5 cents per pound for sugar he said. Others are of the opinion that the heavy local demand and the scarcity of raw sugar are responsible for the advances. Asked if the sale of Scotch sugar, fair stocks of which are held here by some, would help to keep down the price, wholesalers say that it would not affect the prices for sugar refined here. There is always more or less of a market for Scotch sugars, and our importations are placed through these regular channels. In case prices remain high for a time there may be more Scotch sugars used, but as stated in the foregoing, these sales do not have much of an effect on the situation as far as locally manufactured sugar is concerned. The firmness of sugar markets the world over would indicate strong markets holding for some time ahead.

FRENCH COMMERCIAL AGENT FOR CANADA.

A reader in France sends a clipping from La Matin, telling of the decision of the French Government to appoint six commercial agents, and the reasons which led to this decision. Our correspondent asks whether, in view of the new treaty with Canada, one of these agents may not be stationed in the Dominion. The clipping, which appears in another column, will, no doubt, be read with much interest.

ROUNDABOUT SHIPMENTS.

New Zealand to Vancouver via Liverpool and Montreal, how's that for a roundabout trip, disregarding all thought of economy in time and distance? And yet this is just what is happening in the movement of New Zealand butter to the Vancouver market. The cause of this unusual circumstance is given by our Vancouver correspondent in writing of the imports of foreign butter.

"Why none of the New Zealand has been put on the market was learned by your correspondent through inquiry of the agents of the New Zealand Government in this city, and an interesting story of a shipment is told in connection with it. The only cold storage from the Antipodes is on the boats plying between Australia and Vancouver. These do not call at New Zealand ports. The boats that come direct from New Zealand, a line recently established, has no cold storage, though the agents are being strongly petitioned to put it in. The cold storage on the Australian line is controlled in Sydney and no New Zealand produce can get in. The result is that to get the New Zealand butter on this market, a shipment is being made via Liverpool and Montreal. It is the longest roundabout way, and it is doubtful if butter ever made as long a trip as that to any market. The shipment is now en route and is expected here in a week or two. It will comprise about a carload in all, and is in the nature of an experiment. If it arrives good, or even fairly good, it will stand well in competition with the best of table butter, for the cheaper brands are not in the first-class line."

PROTECTION OF TRADEMARKS.

There is perhaps no more valuable piece of industrial property than a good trademark. If it comes to be generally known as representing a certain reliable product, it is worth more to the manufacturer than can be calculated in mere dollars and cents. Indeed, there have been famous instances in which a million dollars was offered for a trademark, and refused—and this, too, on a tiny article which could be manufactured for a nickel. But the article had come to be in universal demand, and the public knew it through the trademark, so that the latter had assumed an arbitrary value to the manufacturer that placed it beyond price.

Although the importance of the trademark has been fully appreciated only within the last quarter of a century, its use has now spread to all classes of manufacture, and it is to-day one of the most influential elements in the world of commerce. For customers have come to know goods by their labels, and to ask for that particular brand, refusing to accept any substitute. Half a dozen instances will occur to the reader, in which his daily purchases are regulated by the above habit. To the mind of the public, a trademark, once established, is a guarantee of the integrity of a product, and it has been a most potent factor in keeping up the standard of this product; for manufacturers have learned that it is suicidal, from a commercial point of view, to place an article on the market that does not fulfil the claims made by the trademark.

But precisely because the trademark so effectually protects the goods it designates, it needs protection itself. Its success makes it a mark for unscrupulous imitation. Dishonest manufacturers copy a trademark as closely as they dare, often so closely as to deceive the casual glance—and so induce the public to buy spurious articles. There are already laws against such counterfeits, but they should be made more stringent and far-reaching. The legitimate trademark should be effectively protected.

J. N. Creed has been appointed manager of the Pittsburg branch of Tetley's teas. Writing to The Grocer, he speaks of remarkably increased business.

J. H. Magor, of Frank Magor & Co., Montreal, was in Toronto on a business trip for a couple of days last week and called at The Grocer office.

WANT DAIRY INSPECTOR.

Montreal Produce Merchants Advocate Appointment of Provincial Official.

An official dairy inspector for the Province of Quebec to inspect all cheese factories and creameries, is earnestly desired by the produce trade in Montreal, and a communication will be addressed to Premier Gouin, Quebec, by the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association, advocating the appointment of such an official. At a recent meeting of the Association the matter was discussed, and it was decided that the time had arrived to make a move. A. A. Ayer, the president, in speaking of the matter, said it would be beneficial to the trade if such an inspection were instituted. If factories were compelled to maintain a standard, and were subject to frequent inspection, it would result in an improvement in their make of cheese and butter, and would greatly enhance the value of Canada's produce exports.

Denmark has a splendid system of inspection, which is one of the reasons why that country's butter is such a strong factor in the markets of the world. Mr. Ayer stated that in his opinion a system of licensing factories would soon be in vogue. Since the Ontario Government began to take an active interest in the production of dairy lines in that province there had been a marked improvement in the make of butter and cheese there. The Ontario Government intends establishing a licensing system, having given dairymen notice to that effect.

In Quebec the make of butter and cheese has improved in quality and appearance, but progress has been slow, and there is room for still more improvement. A map was recently issued by the Department of Agriculture showing all the cheese factories and creameries in Eastern Canada. Showing the possibilities before the industry in Quebec, it is interesting to know that if one were to draw a line between Ottawa and Cornwall the greater number of cheese and butter establishments would be found to be located in that section of the country east of the line in Quebec Province, largely in the Eastern Townships. It is a widely known fact that the best quality cheese comes from the smaller number of factories established on the other side of this line, chiefly from Southwestern Ontario. In the Province of Quebec the most northerly factories are situated in the neighborhood of Lake St. John.

INTERESTING MONTREAL CASE.

Maurice B. Steine, Montreal, has filed his application for a writ of injunction against the Imperial Syrup Company, in the Superior Court. Last November Mr. Steine purchased the property in which the Imperial Syrup Company are at present located, 88 Grey Nun St., where they have been since 1905. When the Syrup Company found they would be obliged to move they advertised for sale the electric goods, elevator, boiler and heating apparatus, wiring, electric lights and partitions in the building, valued at $1,300. Mr. Steine desires to prevent these fixtures being sold, as he says he understood he was buying them when he purchased the building.

G. H. Ramsay, manager of the Imperial Syrup Company, speaking to The Grocer, said that it was his opinion, when the lease was signed in 1905, that he was renting only the building. He had himself put in all these fixtures, and thought he was justified in disposing of them as he saw fit, since he would have no use for them in the new factory on Vitre St.

The petition is being presented to the courts this week.

My Dear Sir,—We are very sorry to note in your late issue the death of our old and esteemed friend, Mr. Cameron. He was a gentleman, whom we were always pleased to meet, as, if we did not do business with him, we had at all events a very pleasant interview, and we well remember the time we made him extremely happy, when we gave him our ad. for The Grocer, for which he had been anxiously awaiting many a day. The pleasure we gave him, alone, on that occasion was worth the cost to us.

We have cut out your obituary notice and pasted it in our diary, so we shall often be reminded of him.

Yours truly,

HAMILTON GROCERS' AT-HOME.

An Unique Concert and Smoker Held in Board of Trade Rooms Last Week.

The Hamilton Retail Grocers' Association held one of their "At-Homes" in the Board of Trade rooms on Wednesday evening, March 11th, and, according to all accounts, it was a most unique and "going affair." These Hamilton grocers are rather noted for their ingenuity in planning functions of this kind and the latest function certainly added a good deal to their reputation along this line.

The uniqueness of the "At-Home" was nowhere more evident than in the printed program, which in the form of a huge four-page folder, showed on the front page the photo of the president, past president and secretary and inside gave an "Array of Talent," as it was called, which included fully twenty-four names, some of them leading entertainers in the city. How that program was ever waded through was a wonder, but it was done, nevertheless, with a good deal of fun and a host of local hits, which created an uproarious time.

There were really fine musical numbers, there were some not so classical in nature and some which were nothing more than burlesque. These were all sandwiched in a hocus pocus way which kept things moving all evening.

"Is This Bill Fare" was the heading of the supposed menu and the ten courses following were couched in just as characteristic verbiage. For instance, the course "cold dishes" included "Broken Ice, Snowballs, Stewed Iceberg, Baked Ice, Mashed Ice, Hot Ice." The other nine were just as funny. A number of humorous cuts and very applicable quotations scattered through the program added a good deal to the general effect.

The Hamilton grocers were out in full force and beside the local men a number of Brantford retailers, among whom were James Burns, Fred Harp, Geo. J. Harp, P. G. Truss, E. Church, Mr. Howard and others.

A great many of the wholesale men and travelers of Hamilton were also present and all reported a thoroughly glorious time.

HAMILTON CORRESPONDENCE.

The outlook here for a good spring trade is bright. Building operations have started, the factories are opening again after the winter shutdown, and the pessimist is just about out of business. The financial stringency struck us pretty hard and everybody was forced to tighten up a little and reduce expenses. The grocers, of course, have had a struggle to carry along a good many improvident families, who, no matter how good the times, never save anything for the proverbial "rainy day." The grocers are the greatest philantropists of the age and do more to keep the wolf of hunger from the homes than any other body of men in the country. It is to be hoped that their reward will be commensurate with their kindly deeds.

The Grocers' Association here is in a flourishing condition. John Forth, the newly-elected president, is a hustler, and promises to make this year a banner one for the members. M. R. Hill, otherwise known as "Bay," is the genial, all-round good fellow for secretary, and has enough energy to compress two days into one. At the last regular meeting one hundred dollars was donated by the association to the Sick Children's Hospital, and a resolution was passed to hold a "smoker" for the boys, which function took place on Wednesday evening, 11th inst., and proved to be one of the brightest and most successful events of the kind ever held in Hamilton.

How about a Provincial Association? I think it is something most desirable for the trade in these days of unions and guilds from the workingman to the banker. I think it a very judicious move on the part of the grocers to take this matter up and have no doubt if undertaken in a proper manner it could be carried to completion and would prove of far-reaching benefit to the trade.

Eggs—Easier.

Montreal, March 19, 1908.

With spring rapidly approaching there is noticeable a goodly increase in the volume of orders being received by wholesalers. Roads are in wretched condition in some sections of the Province, but travelers report a great improvement over conditions a month ago. Recent soft weather has taken away much of the snow. Collections are reported very satisfactory on the whole, though some small houses find it difficult to get in the money.

Prices on the whole are firm this week, with a few advances and declines in several lines. Canned goods are moving out satisfactorily, especially canned fish and canned fruits. Sugar is strong and an advance shortly would not surprise. Teas are in very good demand and nice transactions in Japan tea are reported. Blacks are firmer than ever. Syrups are selling in great quantity, owing largely to the Lenten season, and to the high prices ruling for butter. Molasses is becoming more and more scarce. The scarcity will not be relieved until the arrival of the new crop, which fact tends to keep prices firm. Some houses are quoting better prices for buyers on dried fruits, owing to the lack of demand for these lines. Maracaibo and Santos coffees are scarce and firm, though there has been no advance locally so far. Evaporated apples are slightly easier. Beans are unchanged.

SUGAR—The sugar market continues very firm, and refiners report another advance as likely to take place at any time, owing to the scarcity of raw sugar, and the high price of beets. There is a heavy demand at present.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES—The market for syrups remains steady, and there is a good amount of business being done, but no material change is expected in the near future. Molasses is in heavy demand, but stocks held locally are very light, the consequence being a very strong market, although there has been no advance in prices.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL—There continues to be good demand for canned goods. Canned fish and fruits, especially, are being largely called for. In fact, dealers report a good demand for all lines.

TORONTO—Lines of canned goods are moving well with particular demand for fish and fruit. The Lenten season seems to have stimulated this trade materially.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Sugar—Very firm.

Syrups—Moving well.

Eggs—Down 4c.

Beans—Easier.

Toronto, March 19, 1908.

Reports from the wholesalers continue to be encouraging this week. Even the more conservative firms are coming to admit that matters have taken a better turn and that the crisis is well passed. Business in all lines seems to be opening up well and the demand for staple goods particularly is active.

There are few changes to note this week in grocery markets. Syrups seem to be passing somewhat more freely, and several lines of dried fruits continue to be fairly active, but otherwise there is little new to report.

SUGAR—The market continues exceedingly firm, and owing to the speculation and the situation in raws, another advance at any moment would not be surprising. Buying has been very heavy during the past two weeks, and grocers who laid in heavy supplies before the advance have been congratulating themselves.

Regarding the situation in raws, Czarnikow, Macdougall, in their circular, dated March 13th, say, in part:

"The week opened with buyers at last week's prices of 2.62c. c.f. for Cubas, and 3.92c. c.i.f. for Porto Ricos, but the market quickly advanced to 2.75c. c.f. for the former and 4.03c. c.i.f. for the latter. These prices have since been maintained, except in the case of a small nearby parcel of Cubas, for which 2.69c. was accepted.

"The effect of the advance has been to bring out tolerably large offerings of Cubas for March-April shipment, a good many of which have still to be placed. A pause in the demand is not surprising in a week in which refiners' receipts are 20,000 tons in excess of their meltings, but it should soon give place to renewed activity, for refiners' stocks at the Atlantic ports are nearly 50,000 tons less than they were at this time last season, and refiners have no such outlook for plentiful cane supplies as they had a year ago.

"Cuba continues the centre of interest, for it is recognized that 100,000 tons more or less in its output may turn the scale in the world's markets by converting a bare sufficiency into a moderate scarcity before next European and domestic crops can come into the field in October-November.

"The Cuban production up to the end of February was 407,688 tons, against 658,956 tons in 1907, and 333,411 tons in 1906. It is argued that, as the production this season up to the end of February is 74,277 tons ahead of what it was to same date in 1906, and as the 1906 production after February was 845,000 tons, there is a probability that a production of 750,000 to 800,000 tons may be attained during the balance of this campaign, and that, consequently, the total output may reach 1,150,000 to 1,200,000 tons.

"This view overlooks the fact that in 1906 grinding was retarded by rains and by delay in starting work on many estates which had installed new machinery and could not get it ready in time to begin grinding early in the season. Hence, the maximum number of estates (180) did not get into operation till the end of March. This maximum was held till May 4th, cane being plentiful and weather favorable, and it was not till end of May that the number of centrals at work fell below 100.

"This season the maximum number of centrals grinding (168) was reached at end of February, or a month earlier than in 1906, and even should Cuba enjoy the favorable grinding weather it had up till the beginning of June in 1906, and in a less degree later, it has not the same material to work on, for in many sections of the Island the cane is deficient in quality and stunted in growth, owing to last year's drought, a condition which will begin to show itself during the present month, by a falling off in the centrals at work. It must also be remembered that during nearly the whole of February, 1906, the best price obtainable for Cuba's was 2c. c.f., whereas, this season planters had the incentive of February prices ranging from 2 5-16c. to 2 17-32c. c.f.

"European beet markets have had a further improvement, partly due to unofficial cables from Cuba predicting that the maximum crop that could be counted on was 900,000 tons."

TEAS—A hand to mouth business is being done locally on light stocks.

Thompson Bros.' weekly circular, dated London, March 5, says of the situation on that date:

"With due regard for the fact that there was one more working day in February as compared with 1907, last month's London figures mark a further improvement in the statistical position, inasmuch as the stocks in bond show a 3 million decrease against one of 2 millions on 31st January, while the imports of Indian and Ceylon were fully 3 millions less than last year."

COFFEE—A fair business is being done locally at firm prices.

DRIED FRUITS—There is an easier feeling in prunes though no change in price. Peels are moving well and raisins are in fair demand.

LOOKS FOR STEADY BUSINESS.

T. H. Estabrooks, of St. John, N.B., Gives Opinion on Trade Outlook.

T. H. Estabrooks, of St. John, N.B., was in Toronto this week looking after the Ontario and Western interests of Red Rose tea.

In speaking to The Grocer of present conditions in the Canadian tea trade, Mr. Estabrooks said: "Your paper has done a very worthy work the past few months in bringing before the retailers of Canada the actual conditions in the tea markets, and in advocating the use of higher grade teas. The Grocer has done nothing for years which will reflect more to the retailers' interests than this."

Asked regarding the present conditions of the tea markets, Mr. Estabrooks said: "The recent small declines in the lower grades are merely incidents of market fluctuation. The situation generally is just as strong as it has been at any time recently, and all indications point to a continuance of this."

Mr. Estabrooks says trade in the Maritime Provinces is, and has been, normal. "The only thing we knew about financial trouble down East," he said, humorously, "was what we read in the Toronto papers." He looks for steady though not unusual business during the year.

TORONTO BROKER MARRIED.

Members of the trade in Toronto will be interested in a recent happy event when Woodley Musson, of Geo. Musson & Co., brokers, was married to Miss Ida Green, also of Toronto.

The ceremony took place on Saturday, March 7th, at the home of the bride's brother-in-law, C. R. W. Postlethwaite, 108 Yorkville Ave. Afterward the happy couple left on a honeymoon trip which included visits to several United States cities. They returned on Monday and Mr. Musson is receiving hearty congratulations.

LARGE BUSINESS IN U.S.

A letter to The Grocer from a member of the F. F. Dalley Co., Hamilton, gives some interesting facts in connection with the business this firm has done since invading the field of the American polish manufacturers. In one day recently, five and a half cars of "2 in 1" shoe polish were shipped from their Buffalo factory to the following cities: Car each to New York, Boston, St. Louis, Chicago, Dallas, Texas, and half a car to Galveston.

PRINCIPAL NOT RESPONSIBLE.

From the judgment recently handed down by Judge Guerin in Montreal, it would seem that an agent cannot hold his principal legally responsible for the non-fulfilment of a contract taken by the former.

The case, which is an interesting one to the trade, is briefly this: C. J. Hill took action against H. J. Stevens et al, claiming to have purchased from the defendants two hundred cases of evaporated apples which were to have been delivered by a date set at the time the order was given. The defendants, it is alleged, did not fill the order and the plaintiff claimed damages to the extent of $399, stating this was the extent to which his business had suffered through the non-delivery of the evaporated apples. The defendants, in their defense, stated that they were merely the agents of one named Benson, a manufacturer, of Picton, and they supposed their principal should be held responsible for the non-delivery of the merchandise. The Judge thought, however, that it was a transaction between the plaintiff and the defendants and the principal of the defendants had nothing to do with it.

Mr. Stevens, who is one of the firm of Stevens & Miller, stated to The Grocer that he would appeal the case.

P. F. Millman, of Millman & Sons, grocery brokers, Toronto, left this week for a three weeks' business trip to Winnipeg and Port Arthur.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 9 a.m. Thursday, Mar. 19, 1908.)

Business continues to show considerable improvement. Collections are being made more readily than for some time past, and sales are showing a big increase from week to week. During the last month or six weeks there has been sufficient snow to enable contractors to push their work in the woods and wholesale houses have done a good trade in supplies for the camps.

HIGHER DUTY ON PORK.

Deputation Seek Increase to Guard Against American Competition.

An influential deputation from western Ontario waited on the Minister of Agriculture and Minister of Customs at Ottawa on Monday, March 16, relative to a higher duty on pork products in view of American competition.

At present the duty on fresh pork is 3c per pound, and on finished hog products 2c per pound. The deputation urged that considerable American pork is being brought in and sold on the Canadian market, especially in districts adjacent to the boundary. They asked for an increase in duty of 1c per pound on both fresh pork and pork products. The ministers, Hon. Wm. Paterson, and Hon. Sydney Fisher, promised to give the matter close and careful consideration.

The deputation consisted of Hon. John Dryden, John Tolmie, M.P.; V. Ratz, M.P.; H. H. Miller, M.P.; John Telford, M.P.; G. H. McIntyre, M.P.; E. D. Smith, M.P.; Mr. Koehler, M.L.A., Haldimand, and W. O. Sealey, of Hamilton.

CORRESPONDENCE

BELLEVILLE.

The first thing the travelers say now on arrival, and the last thing before they leave the city, is something about Belleville's Palace Hotel, which is as fine as the finest in Ontario, being only a little smaller, but quite as well furnished and more up-to-date than the King Edward in Toronto. Its sample rooms are greatly increased in number and convenience, and under the management of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Jenkins, will always command the patronage of those who want the best. Several of the travelers have stayed overtime a couple of days, sorry to leave such a pleasant hostlery. Frankie Fitzpatrick is the head clerk, who is as popular as ever among the travelers. Joe McDonald will be in his old position as night clerk, which will be good news to those with whom he has spent so many years, in catering to their comforts. There are 21 well-lighted sample rooms, and almost every room in the house has a telephone.

Trade, which was very brisk, has fallen off a little since Lent started, but, of course, that is always to be expected.

Mrs. H. M. McDermed, of the McLaren Imperial Cheese Co., was demonstrating Imperial cheese, jelly and peanut butter at Wallbridge & Clarke's last week.

A tall man, carrying a baby, walked off with a 25-pound sack of flour from the front of the feed store of C. Rathman recently.

The merchants report that the acute stage of the money stringency has been safely tided over, this city, without any serious difficulty, the banks handling their paper in a way that is to be highly commended.

* * *

A number of the leading merchants of the city have placed before the council a request that there be a free market on Tuesday of each week in this city, hoping to relieve the over-crowded market on Saturdays and give them a better chance to handle the business, which it is almost impossible to do under the present system. Some people advocate a free market altogether, as the revenue from that source is only about $1,500 per year. They say that if there is a benefit to be derived by one day in the week of open market, possibly a greater benefit would be derived from having it free altogether.

GALT.

Grocery affairs in Galt are exceptionally quiet. Trade, of course, is up to expectations, but otherwise business is dull. The grocerymen are anxiously awaiting the coming of spring, with the hope that the present quiet conditions will be dispelled.

After locking up on Saturday night one of the clerks in Dean's & Walker's Red Front had occasion to return to the store, and to his surprise found a gentleman ahead of him, who had evidently gained entrance through a cellar window. After dodging about the store for a few minutes with Mr. Gerbracht in hot pursuit the intruder made his escape through a rear door and up to the present his identity has not been discovered.

Grocers report an increased sale of mixed pickles in bulk. Therefore, when you see a man going home with a carton in his hand, do not gamble that it contains ice cream or oysters. It may be pickles.

Although rumors are heard regarding a shortage of the banana crop, local fruit merchants and grocers are not taking any stock in the reports, having received advices to the effect that the prices of this fruit will not be advanced.

* * *

Butter and eggs have "come" down, much to the relief of the families who depend largely on the latter to take the place of meat.

The Lenten season has resulted in a big increase in the sale of fish and the grocers are receiving shipments almost daily.

* * *

Several firms have resumed the ten-hour day and the industrial situation generally is rapidly picking up.

GEORGETOWN, P.E.I.

Business has been much better this week than at any time during this winter. The country is full of good marketable products and the farmers are taking advantage of the good roads to convert some of their goods into cash.

There is little prospects of a scarcity of tobacco on the Island this spring. No less than seven travelers have been hustling for a share of the trade.

Beer & Goff, Charlottetown, have been making a special run on orange marmalade with satisfactory results.

As a result of the scarcity of snow this winter the ice crop is in excellent condition. A good supply of ice is a necessity to the progressive grocer.

A new grocery store has been started in Charlottetown on the corner of Great George and Euston St. by McLeod & Johnson. They cordially invite the public to call and inspect their stock, which is all fresh and of the best quality.

* * *

A. A. Macdonald & Bros. have installed the "Best Light" in their store and are very well satisfied with the results. The pork market is steady at six to seven cents. Eggs are the same price and butter is a shade higher.

Sportsmen of the better class are endeavoring to have a law passed prohibiting the shooting of wild game in the spring. It is very much desired.

Two I.C.R. detectives have been in town for some time endeavoring to locate a quantity of liquor which was stolen from some freight cars here recently. We understand that they are now on the track of the thief.

* * *

A. Maclean & Co. have devoted their large west window entirely to fruit recently and report record sales as a result.

NEWCASTLE, N.B.

The local market has been as brisk as usual during the last month. Eggs dropped last week from 30 to 25 cents a dozen. Butter is holding its own at thirty cents. Creamery butter is in great demand, and every effort is being made by dealers to keep up with the demand.

On the Upper St. John River counties and in Kent County to the south of us, butter is only 22 cents a lb., and eggs the same.

This week the City of Moncton engaged the following on tender for its teams: No. 1 oats, 58½c a bushel; No. 2 oats, 55c; heavy feed, $1.75 a sack; B. & O. corn (cracked), $1.90; wheat bran, $1.35.

In dressed meats there is quite a demand for beef, but pork is flat and has no demand except for local trade.

Charles McCluskey, the first Mayor of Grand Falls is dead at the advanced age of 87 years. For the past 26 years he has been caretaker of the fish hatchery at Rapide de Femme.

Granulated sugar has advanced 10 cents per hundred pounds. This is the third advance since January, making a total of 30 cents a hundred in that time.

* * *

Dealers in commercial fertilizers say that up to the present they have sold quite as much potato phosphate as during the same period of last year.

The fishermen of the Richibucto River and its branches have formed a union, and propose to erect a cold storage plant. They claim that while smelts were selling for two cents per pound in this district, they were selling for four and five cents in Cocagne and Shediac.

HOW TO HANDLE SEEDS

Something About the Lines to Carry and the Things to Avoid in This Line of Spring Business—Hints From An Old Grocer's Experience.

The seed business is starting again, and as most grocers handle seeds, in either large or small quantities, a few remarks along that line might interest some of them, especially those who have not had much experience in this line. This year clover seed is very high, in fact, the highest I remember, and likely to go higher. At present the best clover seed is selling from $14.50 to $15 per bushel of 60 pounds, and the wise one's advise buying now as the best quality, or No. 1, tested, is reported as being very limited in quantity, and naturally enough those who have any are anxious to get it out now at the high price. The prospects are this year that after the best seed is all picked up, along will come a lot of inferior seed at a lower price, and some grocers, not knowing the difference, will encourage their customers to buy the cheaper seed, which is a mistake, as seed is one thing, where the old saying, "The best is none too good," comes in about right. Nothing kills a man's farm or a grocery business quicker among farmers than to have it circulated among them that So and So got his seed there and his farm is literally ruined by foreign weeds.

Do not take any chances on a cheap quality of seed, and do not at any time guarantee the quality of your seed. Get the best, and tell all you can as to the reliability of the firm you got it from. But allow no chance for them to come back at you for damages. The easiest way is to sell your seed on the other peoples' reputation.

There are a few different varieties of foreign weeds sometimes found in clover and timothy that are described below that may help you in the selection of your seed.

Wild mustard seed is a dark, round, rapelike seed; rag weed is an oval-shaped seed with a very rough skin; buckwheat is a three-cornered seed; wild buckwheat, a small three-cornered black seed, buckhorn, brown seed, long cut in centre; wild flax, small red seed, nearly round; wild oats, blue and furry, with long horns.

These are what are considered the worst weeds we meet with and by placing your samples of seed under a small seed glass they can be very easily detected. Timothy seed is this year reported as a good sample to sell at from $3.25 to $3.50 a bushel of 48 pounds, which is about the ordinary figure for No. 1 quality, and when the clover is so high, naturally enough, timothy will be a good seller, as a majority of farmers will refuse to buy as much clover as usual at the higher price. As regards turnips and rape seeds there are so many different varieties that it is better to confine yourself to, say, about five different varieties, such as Hall's Westbury, Hentley's Bronze Top, East Lothian, Skirving's, Sharp's, and Greystone, or any other which you find is called for in your district. Dwarf Essex rape is a good standby.

Some grocers have put up a mixture of some good varieties, under their own name, and when you have a mixture that way in turnip seed you are quite safe, as some are bound to be good. I have known seedmen to roast old rape seed so that it would not grow, and then brighten it up by using castor oil, and then nixing it with the turnip seed and get 20c a pound for it, as there is always so much thinned out, anyway.

Mangel and sugar beets are sold quite extensively in grocery stores, also, and two varieties are enough, say, the Yellow Globe and Mammoth Long Red. The latter variety is often sold under the names of Saw Log, Gate Post and Giant Red.

In sugar beets the Giant, White Feeding and Royal Giant are good varieties for a grocer to handle. Then we get down to feed corn, and as the mills and seed stores get this by the carload it is just as well not to handle any; but for a table corn about two varieties are enough for a grocer, such as Corby's, for an early variety, and Stowell's evergreen, for a late variety.

Beans and peas should be sold in bulk and about five varieties of each are enough. Then for the remainder of the small seeds it is just as well to sell some good reliable firm's garden seeds in packages, but be sure each season to get your old seeds exchanged and not be selling old seed, as these firms exchange them. My experience has been that it does not pay to buy garden seeds outright, but to sell them on commission and have fresh seeds each year.

One man I have in mind made a very attractive and cheap display stand for seeds out of old boxes, and used three-pound lard pails, repainted and lettered with an ordinary stamping machine.

There is a good profit to be made by a grocer in handling seeds and at this time of the year there is time to prepare for a great spring trade by having something out of the ordinary to attract the attention of the garden-loving people. It is a good idea also to have one or two good reliable seed catalogues for reference at all times in the store and take orders for anything special in them, and also to be able to tell all about the planting of the different varieties of seed and the best time to plant them, and how far apart and what kind of soil they do best in. It is quite an interesting study for a grocer, and quite profitable, and it may surprise you to find how near to the hearts of your customers you get when you can talk to them about their favorite flowers and tell them how to plant and raise them, which you can do if you study reliable firms' catalogues.

FRENCH COMMERCIAL AGENTS.

M. Cruppi Explains What Will be Their Duties.

The following clipping from a recent issue of La Matin, the Paris journal, regarding the appointment of a number of new French commercial agents, has been sent in by a reader of this paper and will, no doubt, be read with interest by Canadian business men generally:

"Yesterday at a cabinet meeting MM. Cruppi, Minister of Commerce, and Pichon, Minister of Foreign Affairs, secured approval for the passing of a law which would bring about the appointment of six foreign commercial agents. This measure, while it bears a modest appearance, is of great importance, not only on account of the excellent results which will follow, if it is adopted, but also on account of the interest the Government thus shows in commercial affairs.

"We have just interviewed M. Cruppi asking him to state for the benefit of the readers of 'La Matin' the object which the Government had in view in adopting this measure. He said: 'For a long time now great nations like Germany, England, and the United States have appointed among their ambassadors, attaches whose interests should be chiefly devoted to commerce. For some time we have tried a similar scheme, but our attaches could only be supported under the charges of the Department of Foreign Affairs, and now there are only two such attaches, one in the United States and one in England. We have now come to the conclusion that more commercial agents should be appointed. We are, therefore, going to ask Parliament to provide funds for this purpose. MM. Deschanel and Gervais in the Commons in their speeches, and M. Charles Dupuy in the Senate, have impressed the necessity for appointing these agents.'

" 'What will be the duties of these commercial agents?'

" 'They will not only be instructed to furnish reports on the commerce and industry of countries to which they are sent, but they will bring into direct touch the merchants of both countries, those of France which they represent, and those of the country where they are stationed. They will be special agents for the up-building of French commerce. Our agent at London, for instance, will be able to show us what is the best course to pursue towards developing trade with England."

" 'Who will appoint them, and from what class will they be selected?'

" 'They will be chosen from the staff of the Department of Foreign Affairs by the Minister of Foreign Affairs, after consultation with the Minister of Commerce. By this means will be maintained the unity which should exist between these agents and our ambassadors, at a time when foreign affairs and commercial affairs of a nation are so closely connected.'

" 'Can you state where the six commercial agents which you are going to ask Parliament to provide for will be stationed?'

" 'The scheme is somewhat vague and depends on the amount which Parliament will vote. The Government should be liberal in considering the situation. At the present time we think it specially necessary to place agents as follows:

" 'The first in England, the second in the United States, the third to have charge of China, Japan and India; the fourth in South America; the fifth in Levant, (Persia, Turkey, Ethopia and Egypt); the sixth to have a general oversight of European countries.

" 'Such is the plan, subject to such changes as circumstances may warrant. We are taking steps which have been impressed on us for a long time by everybody who takes an interest in the development of our foreign commerce. We export a value of eleven millards of francs. The Minister of Commerce perhaps ought not to boast, but ought to work to increase as much as possible our foreign trade. We will have a very active and useful organization for this purpose. I am sure that Parliament will give us every assistance in this eminently patriotic work."

JAPANESE SARDINES FOR CANADA.

Firms in the East Desirous of Introducing Goods to Trade Here.

A recent letter from Alexander MacLean, Canadian trade commissioner in Japan, throws some little light on the Japanese sardine industry, and incidentally shows an opening for what would seem to be a profitable business for Canadian importers. He says in part :

"The Japan Canning Company, with head offices at Nagoya, inform this office that they are desirous to procure for their sardines in tin a trial in the Canadian market. A sample received at the same time proved to be of excellent quality, but small in size. Upon this exception being reported to them they rejoin that the criticism as to size is quite correct, but that they trust the circumstances will be only temporary as it is unusual. 'From the start to the close of the fishing season the sardine continued unusually small.' But this is 'such an unusual circumstance, unknown for many years,' that the season now approaching will enable them 'to pack with standard size, and to compete in quality and price with the European fisheries.'

"It may be advisable to remark here, what I often have to say in correspondence, that the Japanese manufacturer is not usually an exporter. The great volume of trade, export and import, passes through the hands of the well-versed export and import merchants, Japanese and foreign, at the shipping ports. There is a well marked and understood line of cleavage between the industrial and the commercial fields of operation in the Far East. One is greatly dependent upon the other. With the perplexities of credit and exchange, with all the other incidents of foreign trade, the exporting and importing merchant is quite familiar, while the manufacturer likely knows nothing about them. Trade with the Far East necessarily had its beginning upon this plan, and naturally continued so until it grew into a confirmed system.

"It is, of course, becoming quite noticeable that certain industries are passing from the local and scattered tradesmen, and becoming the subject of capital investment and large-scale operation. In this case even, the efficiency with which the merchant at the ports carries on his business commands the export and import trade, and will for an indefinite future continue to do so because of the convenience and reason and strength of a system under which for a consideration he stands between the producers and customers in the Far East and the producers and consumers of the wide world elsewhere, and bears the responsibility.

"It is true there is a noticeable restiveness. The Japanese 'captain of industry,' as he grows in production, grows also in money and in commendable self-importance. The time comes to him when he naturally regards the merchant at the ports as something of a parasite, that lives and it may be thrives upon him, the cost of which he over-estimates, and the value received from which he makes light of. And this tendency is a growing one ; yet it must be said that it is its prospective rather than its present importance that affords the groundwork of much discussion of a nervous and apprehensive sort.

"Since the foregoing was written, I clip from the current press, for the information of some inquirers in Canada, and the trade generally, the following reference to Japanese sardines on the foreign market :

" 'The canned sardines of the Nagoya Canning Factory are said to be finding favor abroad. During the late fishing season over 700,000 tins were exported. The factory is now doing a good business, over Y80,000 worth of fish having been exported this year through the Nagoya branch of the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha. This is in addition to the supplies furnished to old customers.' "

The assignment is announced of R. H. Brown, general merchant, of Latchford, Ont.

J. P. Landry, general merchant, of St. Anastasie, Que., has made an assignment.

Wm. Schroeder, of Vancouver, B.C., has purchased the grocery business of Wall & Powell.

General Tone Strong With Butter Firm and Cheese Advanced Slightly—More Encouraging Conditions in Hog Market.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

Montreal, March 18, 1908.

With cheese becoming more scarce every week, and the new season not yet near enough for its approach to influence feeling in the market, prices, as the days go by, are becoming just a little bit firmer every forty-eight hours. Last week we noted a difference of ⅛c upwards in comparing quotations with those which ruled the previous week. To-day one house, at least, is asking as much as ¼c more than the highest price which ruled at the time of our last report. This concern is in the market to sell colored only when 13½c is the ruling quotation. Others are still asking, for the same cheese, 13¼c. White is selling for 13c, sometimes a trifle more.

Many large houses interviewed declared that they were not in a position to give authoritative information on the cheese situation, being entirely cleaned up, and consequently not quite so well posted as they would be had they even small holdings.

In Montreal the general impression is that stocks do not amount to more than a very few thousand boxes. Since no man knows what his neighbor has, however, it is rather difficult to give an estimate liable to be nearly correct.

For the past ten days or two weeks there has been practically no inquiry from Great Britain. Markets have been quiet and firm. Prices are likely to hold until the new season's first goods begin to arrive.

At least a dozen of the larger cheese and butter men are at present in the Old Country on their annual visits. This fact tends to keep things quiet locally.

Receipts of cheese last week amounted to 7 boxes, against 65 boxes previous week and 86 boxes same week last year. Total receipts to date amount to 2,053,912 boxes, against 2,349,791 boxes same date a year ago.

On Monday of this week butter appeared to be considerably easier, and some parties made sales at prices a shade lower than ruling market figures. The temporary weakness did not last long, and Tuesday prices were firmly maintained on about the same basis as the previous week. 30c to 31c. Some houses hold out for 31c for their best butter, but others will part with finest creamery on receipt of 30c.

There are some who believe the action of the market on Monday was brought about by a few dealers who were desirous of buying, and who, therefore, tried to bear the market to their own advantage. If such is the case they were unsuccessful. Butter is too scarce for an amount sufficient to decline prices to be thrown on the market for buyers.

During the early part of week sales made were chiefly to city grocers, Outside demand was not as good as that experienced the previous week. Consumption is slightly better, but the price to the consumer is still too high to warrant any material increase in sales to the general public. Retailers' average price is 38c. This gives them 7c to 8c a pound on present buying basis, but many of them have butter on hand for which they paid 33c and 34c, and they do not care to let this go on small margin. Most grocers desire at least 5c a pound profit on butter.

Dairy butter is arriving in fairly decent quantities for the season, but prices continue firm, being in the vicinity of 26c to 27c. One dealer is offering some particularly choice dairy at 28c.

Receipts of butter last week amounted to 370 packages, against 796 packages previous week, and 880 packages same week last year. Total receipts to date amount to 415,853 packages, against 610,135 packages same date a year ago.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

Toronto, March 19, 1908.

Reports from Canadian packers are of rather a more encouraging nature this week and the provision business seems to be tending toward a much more satisfactory basis.

The English market is steadier and in a more satisfactory condition than at any time since December. This week, on a 42s. basis it is in rather a more receptive mood than for some time past and this has had an immediate effect on conditions in Canada. The following extract from a recent report from P. B. Ball, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Birmingham gives a remarkably good idea of the conditions which have prevailed in the British market since the first of the year.

"The present condition of the bacon market causes both merchants and retailers considerable anxiety as to the future. In the beginning of the year the killings of hogs in all countries were enormous, and more bacon was consigned to the English market than it could readily assimilate. Prices were reduced to such a point that curers are involved in heavy losses, with the single exception of the American shipper, whose hogs have reached a phenomenally low price. The weekly killings in Denmark have ruled 46,000 to 48,000 hogs, in south of Ireland 10,000 to 12,000, whilst the aggregate killings in Chicago for the month of January attained the enormous figures of 1,113,978, at an average cost of about 4½ cents per pound. Various theories are given as to the cause of these heavy marketings of hogs, one is that financial trouble in the respective countries has caused farmers to liquidate their stock. Another is, that dear feeding stuffs have made the raising of hogs unprofitable and farmers are clearing stocks as rapidly as they can, thereby surfeiting the market. If this latter theory is correct, there will be a return to higher prices during the next few months. Canadian bacon has been somewhat in the background while this plethora of Danish has been flooding the market, and sales must have disappointed the Canadian curers. At the time of writing the market is tending up and the prospects are brighter, for the selling price is coming somewhat nearer the cost of production."

For some weeks packing concerns here have been running only about half time. The improvement of conditions during the past two weeks will tend to remedy this.

Prices, too, have been on such a low basis that deliveries have been exceedingly small, and farmers have been considering going out of hog raising. The improvement in general conditions should have some effect on these.

Danish deliveries continue to be very heavy and the United States shipments last week were also up to the usual aggregate.

Prices ruling in Canadian markets this week are 25c better than a week ago, viz., f.o.b. $5.15, and off cars at factory $5.50.

A paragraph from the New York Journal of Commerce summarizes the conditions in the United States markets last week as follows:

"The past week has witnessed fair activity in future hog products, in face of heavy receipts throughout the West, Chicago alone being less than expected, while the whole West was 185,000 over a year ago, which was the biggest excess over last year of any week of the season. This was in the face of the late predictions of the packers of lighter receipts so soon as the farmers began their spring's work. This, too, in spite of bad roads in many sections of the corn and hog belt, owing to the recent wet weather. For these reasons it is supposed that packers withdrew their support the latter half of the week and the market sagged off, the chief demand being from shorts, who took their moderate profits, fearing the packers might come in, as they did early in the week, and put up prices. Armour was an early buyer, but later the Cudahy's were the chief support, and it is difficult to say where any of the big packers really stand on the market. The Cudahys have been the biggest traders on this crop, but they have changed sides so often that nobody knows where they now stand, though they were last supposed to be bulling instead of bearing prices. Whether they believe in higher prices, or wanted to unload their previous purchases nobody seems to know. Spot trade, however, remains as stagnant as ever, and while dealers do not admit much falling off in consumption, they are only buying from hand to mouth. While our exports show an increase, it is due largely to heavy consignments by packers, since the shipments bought during and after our panic by Europe have gone forward."

MONTREAL.

The provision market remains firm. Lard is firmer and higher prices are being looked for shortly. As a matter of fact, one packer is to-day quoting 10c a pail more than others. Hams and bacon are in fair demand at the old prices. Hogs are firmer, being advanced 15c a hundred pounds. Other lines are in fair demand at unchanged prices.

EGGS—The egg market is easier this week. New laid are being received much more freely, and have gone down 1c. Pickled are also being received in greater quantity, and have gone down 2c. The demand is very heavy, being stimulated by the low prices ruling and the Lenten season. Stocks can be procured from American points at prices to compete with Canadian eggs. Receipts from Ontario points are steadily increasing.

CHANGES IN RED ROSE STAFF.

The Toronto office and selling staff of the Red Rose Tea Co. has seen several changes the past week.

E. E. Boyd, who has lately been covering the east end of the city has been lifted up a step, and is now looking after the sales as a member of the office staff. N. W. Williams, formerly an advertising solicitor with the World, is taking Mr. Boyd's place.

F. H. Leech, who has been covering the western section of the city for some time, goes back to do special work in the office. A. R. Whittemore, who takes over this work in the west end, leaves on Saturday for St. John, where he will spend a few days in getting acquainted with the staff in that city and with the company's business methods.

THE FLOUR AND CEREAL MARKETS

Firm Feeling Continues With Good Business in All Lines—Some Changes in Eastern Markets.

The firm feeling noted in these markets last week has continued and the tone at the time of writing was even somewhat stronger than at last reports. Business is reported as exceedingly good, particularly in cereals.

Ontario markets, while firmer in tone, show no price changes. In Montreal rolled oats have advanced 10c during the week.

Dealers report deliveries freer than for some time past, the country roads allowing of easier teaming.

There is considerable talk of a scarcity of wheat, but reports from millers do not justify this. Supplies of Manitoba wheat, it is true, are rather short, but winter wheat is in good supply.

MONTREAL.

FLOUR—The flour market remains very firm, with a good local demand. There is very little export business being done, and it is expected that the markets will continue firm.

TORONTO.

FLOUR—The market is firmer, with an encouraging amount of local business passing. Manitoba wheat is somewhat difficult to secure, but supplies of winter wheat are freer. The export market is on a basis at present which does not encourage that department of business.

HAMELIN BROS. STORES SOLD.

An important business deal has been practically completed whereby the big chain of stores in the West belonging to Hamelin Bros. will be transferred to M. J. McLeod, Moose Jaw, Sask. This deal has been under consideration for some time and it was announced the other day that it had been completed, the sum involved being about $350,000. Since that announcement was made the formal transfer has been delayed by proceedings taken by one of the shareholders to stop the sale. It is likely that this delay will be gotten over very soon.

The stores involved in the transfer are situated in Moose Jaw, Prince Albert, Staughton, Manor, Napinka, Melita, and Arcola. In the near future the business will be re-organized under the name of the MacLeod-Hamelin Co.

DEATH OF TORONTO GROCER.

W. H. Armitage, Carlton and Church Sts., Passed Away Last Thursday.

W. H. Armitage, grocer, Carlton and Church Sts., Toronto, passed away at his home on Thursday, March 12th after a short illness from appendicitis.

He was born in Mariposa fifty years ago. After engaging in business in Newmarket for some years, he removed to Toronto about twenty-three years ago, establishing himself at the corner of Shuter and Victoria Sts., where Massey Hall now stands. Twelve years ago he moved to the present premises at the corner of Church and Carlton Sts. He is survived by his wife, two sons and two daughters.

MANITOBA BUSINESS CHANGES.

Higgins & Webster, general merchants, of Roland, Man., have completed the purchase of the stock, property and goodwill of Laurie Bros., Morris, Man. They will henceforth run two stores, one in Roland and one in Morris, the latter being placed in charge of a member of the staff from Roland.

Mr. Laurie will remain in Morris as postmaster and local manager of the Manitoba Government telephones. He is one of the pioneers of Morris.

Higgins &Webster, of Roland, have also bought the general store of Bell & McColl, in Emerson.

Chisholm & McKenzie, of Morris, have bought the general store business of S. Hoffer in the same town and the two businesses will henceworth be merged in one.

FAVOR PROVINCIAL ASSOCIATION

Toronto Retail Grocers Will Concur Heartily in Plan for London Picnic and Convention.

The Toronto retail grocers, at the regular monthly meeting of the association in their rooms in the Temple Building on Monday evening, expressed themselves as heartily in favor of the formation of a provincial association and took steps to concur with the London association in arranging for a joint picnic and possibly a short convention in connection therewith at the latter city sometime during the summer.

The spirit of goodfellowship was just as evident at the gathering as usual and the meeting, too, was just as late as usual in being called to order. What a jolly lot of fellows those grocers are.

Several matters of detail and in connection with the winding up of the affairs of the recent successful At Home were discussed in the regular order of business.

At last meeting the suggestion was made that several wholesale grocers, manufacturers, etc., should be secured to address the meetings of the association on various topics of interest to the trade. Frank Johnson broached the matter again and made some suggestions as to gentlemen who could be secured.

The members were not altogether unanimous over the proposition. "Can these chaps tell us anything about sugar that'll be any use?" was asked, and "What do those fellows know about running a grocery store?" With these and other considerations the matter was left in abeyance.

Even this early the good time the grocers enjoyed on their last summer's excursion to Buffalo was recalled and plans made for next summer's outing. The Grocer's suggestion of a joint picnic of Ontario grocers in London was discussed. Vice-president Clark and one or to others thought that such an arrangement would interfere somewhat with the local association's annual outing and it seemed to be the almost unanimous view that this should be to Buffalo again, but after some discussion it was thought that both outings should be taken advantage of, that the London picnic could also be taken in and made a success and the secretary was instructed to correspond with the London Grocers' Association with a view to arranging the affair.

Under the order "Remarks for the good of the Association," Frank Johnson brought up his perennial question as to the advisability of a standard loaf of bread. Mr. Johnson advocates a three-pound loaf and is very emphatic in his belief of its advantages. Then followed rather an interesting discussion. President Fred Thorn thought a three-pounder would be rather too large a mass to handle readily and told of cases which occurred frequently when ladies asked for loaves even smaller than any he could sell them. Vice-president Clark thought it didn't make much difference so long as the grocer made a good percentage of profit and various other views were expressed. No action was taken, however.

Considerable discussion took place over the proposed formation of a provincial grocers' association. Mention was made of some of the good things that had been accomplished by active associations in other places and what might be done through such an organization for the benefit of the trade in general. The members were unanimous and enthusiastic in favor of the suggestion and will heartily concur in any action that may be taken in the matter.

In closing "Dick" Van Loan brought up the matter of Wednesday afternoon closing during the summer months and suggested that a number of mid-week outings for the grocers and their wives be arranged for the coming summer. The suggestion was hailed with some enthusiasm and will be further considered.

W. Savard, grocer and butcher, of Lorette, Que., has assigned.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Toronto Island Breakwater Extension," will be received at this office until Friday, April 24, 1908, inclusively, for the construction of an Extension to the Breakwater on the South Shore of Toronto Island, in the County of York, Province of Ontario, according to plan and specification to be seen at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq., Resident Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto; Charles Desjardins, Esq., Clerk of Works, Post Office Building, Montreal, and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for four thousand five hundred dollars ($4,500.00), must accompany each tender. The cheque will be forfeited if the person tendering decline the contract or fail to complete the work contracted for, and will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

The Fisheries of Canada

Facts, Figures and Comment on This Most Important National Industry—The History of Its Development in Nova Scotia—Movement to Establish Atlantic Fisheries Board.

The fisheries of Canada are the most extensive in the world, and among the provinces of Canada, Nova Scotia takes first rank. It is a crop that is never failing, and it is this fact that has made the name of the sea-girt province justly celebrated as a fishing resort since the discovery of the new world. The entire sea coast of the maritime provinces, from the Bay of Fundy to the Straits of Belle Isle, covers a distance of 5,600 miles, which is more than double that of Great Britain and Ireland. Over this immense area, Nova Scotia fishermen hold sway —a sway that has frequently been disputed, but never wrested from them.

History of the Industry.

The history of the fishing industry in Nova Scotia is filled with romance, with adventure, with heroism. In a calling so hazardous, it is natural that its history should be replete with stories as interesting as they are romantic. To attempt to review all the historical features of so important an industry would bring us near the boiling set of international troubles. For so valuable are the fisheries of the Nova Scotia coast and so inestimable the privilege of making her safe harbors for the purpose of shelter and bait that scarcely a treaty relating to North American coasts, either with France in the first place, or later with the United States of America, but had stipulations made in regard to the in shore fisheries.

Nova Scotians have jealousy guarded their coasts, and the fishing folk of other nations have as zealously sought to obtain a share of the "finny folk" that frequent the waters of the Nova Scotia coast. Even now the Gloucester and other New England fishermen have no treaty privileges, and their presence on the coast lines of the province is not permitted except under a modus vivendi which may be cut off at any time and is continued only to prevent international clashing.

There has always been a strong agitation in the province to do away with this modus vivendi. It was voluntarily entered into by Canada in the protocol of the Washington treaty of 1888, which was not ratified by the United States senate, and has been extended since the first few years, year by year, in the hope that some more satisfactory solution would be eventually found under it, American fishermen have the right to purchase bait, ice, seines, lines and all other supplies and outfits, the transshipment of fish and the shipping of crews. The contention that Nova Scotians make is that this modus vivendi was never intended to be continued indefinitely and that the United States never expected that it would. This reference to the present bone of contention is introduced in order to show how valuable the fisheries are regarded and how inestimable are the privileges to be secured on the coast.

Some Statistics.

The fisheries of Canada were worth to the Dominion of Canada during the year 1906—the statistics are taken from the last fisheries' report—$26,279,485. Nova Scotia claimed as her share $7,799,160—nearly one-third of the whole Canadian catch. To add thus materially to the wealth of the province requires a body of hardy, capable, stalwart men, and it is needless to say that these qualities are among the most prominent of the Bluenose fishermen.

In addition to manning their own vessels, Nova Scotians are found sailing under the flags and forming the shipping crews of other nations. Among the Gloucester ships will be found many Nova Scotian crews, so that in this, as in other industries, Nova Scotians are contributing to the wealth of other people as well as adding to their own to the extent of about $8,000,000 a year.

A glance at the variety of fish taken on the shores as reported in the blue books will give a fair idea as to how variously stocked the waters of the coast are. Not less than 20 varieties of fish are found there, the five leaders being cod, lobster, mackerel, haddock and herring, in the order named.

Large Export Trade.

For 50 years a most valuable export trade has been carried on in dried fish with the West Indies, and South American countries. Great Britain and France are taking an increased quantity every year, while other foreign countries, such as Italy, Germany, Portugal, Norway and Sweden are becoming good customers. The United States, of course, takes a very large proportion of the fish exported—in all, about two-fifths of the Canadian production—and of this a very large proportion is Nova Scotia fish.

The Lobster Industry.

The lobster plant alone is estimated at $673,012, comprising the equipment of 238 canneries. Besides the packing industry, the shipment of these crustaceans requires a large force of men. Three thousand six hundred and fifty-eight persons find employment in the putting of the 4,595,816 pounds on the market, valued at $1,148,954. Including the fresh lobsters, the whole output aggregated in 1906 a value, amounting to $1,933,807.

Anticipated Development.

At a recent meeting of the Maritime Board of Trade, C. S. Whitman, of Canso, who is largely interested in the development of fisheries, made this statement:

"It would be safe to say that the fish business of the future in the maritime provinces, is designed to be a much more important industry than it is to-day, giving employment to many thousands and a staple article of food to half a continent. The time is coming when the present methods of catching and marketing will be laughed at for their inefficiency; when docks and wharves and warehouses, such as we do not to-day dream of, will be devoted to the business; when hundreds, perhaps thousands of fleet steamers will have superseded the sailing craft now employed and railroads will wrestle with one another for the privilege of carrying the millions of tons of freight the business will be ready to furnish."

Though Nova Scotia reaps such a great harvest from the sea, the methods used have not been, as Mr. Whitman stated, of the most approved and modern type. In fact, it is only now that the province as a whole is beginning to appreciate the magnificent asset it has in its never-failing supply of fish.

New Fisheries Board.

A movement is now on foot for the establishment of the Canadian Atlantic fisheries board on the same lines as the Scotch fisheries board, which has control of the Scotch fishing industry. Such a board would be required to thoroughly investigate and advise the department of fisheries in regard to such matters as the depletion of lobster and oyster fisheries; the destruction of dog fish; the proper distribution of the output of the fish hatcheries; the supply of bait, etc. With improved methods of curing and catching, Nova Scotia could still further eclipse her present records in the catch and distribution of the fish products.

Much more could be done in the propagation of oysters, for instance, for some of the finest natural beds are to be found on the Nova Scotia coast. It is claimed that Nova Scotia has a greater cultivable area for oyster beds than even the State of Maryland, which produced in one year, 1880, 10,569,012 bushels. Nova Scotia's yield last year was only 1,732 barrels.

The truth is the fisheries of Nova Scotia are only partially occupied, and are an inviting field for the investment of capital in enterprising hands. With its unexcelled position, with its extensive coasts, with its excellent harbors, with a population of as hardy and courageous men as are to be found anywhere, there is no reason why Nova Scotia in its fisheries should not rank even higher in point of production than it does now. There is abundant room for the profitable employment of both capital and labor.—Modern Grocer.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Market for Green Fruits Firm and Active—No Material Changes in Vegetables—Fish Moving Freely With Prices Firm.

A better feeling is noticeable in practically all lines of green fruits. Prices have been maintained, while advances have been made in certain lines of oranges. The excellent quality of the navels arriving has stimulated the consumptive demand and made prices firm. Floridas are done. Some Mexicans are still on the market. California lemons are slightly higher. Bananas remain steady. In spite of the reports circulated as to a banana failure in Jamaica prices have not advanced. Apples are going fairly well. Stocks of cranberries and Almeria grapes are about done.

Nothing startling has occurred in the vegetable market during the week. Potatoes, though easy in the early part of the week, have remained firm at old prices. Beets are very scarce and are just about done. Turnips have advanced 10 cents, due to heavy American enquiries and a shortage in supplies. California celery is about gone. Florida shipments arriving regularly. Boston lettuce is slightly scarce. While the demand is always stronger for the staple domestic lines yet an improved feeling is noticeable in the demand for various lines of imported stuff.

Business is brisk in fish. An improvement over last week's orders is reported. It is likely that the volume of the season's business will reduce supplies of all lines very much. Shortages are anticipated in halibut, haddie and sea herring. The sale of frozen fish has fallen off slightly. Fresh and pickled lines are selling strong. Prices are firm, though no quotably higher.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—There is a better feeling this week, and all lines are selling well. Bitter oranges and strawberries have slightly declined in price, other lines are selling well at the old prices, especially lemons, Florida oranges and grape fruit.

VEGETABLES—The vegetable market continues easy. Potatoes are being received more freely, although there has been no reduction in price. Boston hothouse lettuce is becoming scarce and an advance in price is likely to occur shortly. New cabbage is selling well. Turnips are also in fair demand. Some dealers report that demand is pretty well confined to the staple lines of vegetables, as there is less meat being consumed and therefore there is not so much need of all kinds. California celery is higher this week by 50c.

FISH—There continues to be a goodly number of orders for all lines of fish sent in to dealers, and business is quite in keeping with that of last week. The sale of frozen fish has fallen off, while fresh and salted continue selling freely. TORONTO.

GREEN FRUITS—The market is in a healthy condition. A steady demand maintains prices all around and gives the market a very firm feeling. Oranges are especially strong and advances of 15c to 20c per box are recorded. Floridas are about off the market. Marmalade oranges are still moving satisfactorily. Lemons continue steady, with an upward tendency noticeable in Californias. Grape fruit is unchanged. Apples are moving fairly well. Bananas are no higher, in spite of the alarming reports as to crop failure in Jamaica. Cranberries and Almerias are firm, the stocks being slowly reduced.

VEGETABLES—The easy feeling in potatoes has disappeared, and prices rule firm for both Delawares and Canadians. Supplies are satisfactory. Beets are very scarce, some dealers being unable to fill orders. Onions are short also. Stocks of turnips are well reduced. A great many inquiries are arriving from American dealers and this has made the market quite firm and higher. California celery is done. The quality of Florida celery is good. Other lines of imported early vegetables are selling better. Prices remain the same. Cauliflower is done. Some excellent strawberries have been arriving.

FISH—Business has opened up fine during the week and fish dealers have been kept busy filling orders from all points. The Lenten season is now in full swing and, from present appearances, should be a record one. Prices have been maintained at the old level. Despite the sharp consumptive demand, no advances are noticeable. There are fears that before Good Friday supplies of lines such as halibut, sea herring and haddie will be exhausted. For the present, no shortage is reported.

A CO-OPERATIVE DELIVERY SYSTEM

How it Works in Adrian, Michigan—Reduces Cost to Two Cents for Meats and Three Cents for Groceries—A Remarkable Success.

The secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association of Adrian, Michigan, C. A. Wilson, has written an interesting letter to the Grocery World, describing a system of co-operative delivery in operation in that town. The matter will be interesting to grocers in Canada generally, as an attempt, apparently successful to find a cheap system of delivery. The letter is as follows:

"The co-operative method of delivering goods has been in use in Adrian, Mich., for some time. It has proved exceedingly popular to the merchants of the town and has been successful beyond all expectations. Since adopting the system of delivery the dealers have educated the people to order goods but once or twice each day instead of every half hour as heretofore. It seemed a hardship at first, but through concentrated effort the merchants have won out and now all is smooth sailing.

"The merchants formed a stock company and members buy shares at $100 each. They built a barn upon leased ground. This building is about 50x100 feet and is constructed of brick throughout, with cement floors suitable for horses and wagons. It is arranged so as to make it particularly adaptable to the purpose for which it was intended.

"When the system was first put into use the merchants had a hard time to adjust matters properly so far as deliveries, routes, etc., were concerned, but by careful study and a little patience this was finally adjusted to meet all requirements. They have twelve wagons, and all are kept busy during certain times of the year, while at other times they frequently cut off a few wagons, increasing each one of the routes sufficiently to take care of the territory from which the two or three wagons were taken. They have found the single horse wagon the most practical. Four trips over each route are made daily, the first wagons leaving the various stores at 7.15 a.m. All wagons then drive back to the barn, where they are unloaded and routed. Wagons return from their delivery routes so that they may again leave their various stores at 9.45 a.m. Two deliveries are made in the afternoon. Each customer is given a card explaining the delivery system and the time orders must reach the store in order that they be delivered upon a certain trip. Through a coupon system every merchant keeps track of the various jars, oil cans, etc., that leave his store, and these same coupons are used to check up the number of deliveries made from any one particular store. No order is delivered upon which the purchase amount does not allow sufficient profits to make the delivery.

"Deliveries to members have been costing 2 cents each for meats and 3 cents for groceries, while transient dealers or those holding no stock in the company, must pay the contract price of 2½ cents for meats and 3½ cents for groceries. Department stores pay 5 cents for each delivery.

"Merchants wishing to send orders c.o.d. can do so, as each driver is given a certain amount of change and authorized to make collections."

NEW MONTREAL CAN FACTORY.

American Can Company Will Probably Establish Business in Canada.

From what can be learned in Montreal it is pretty well an assured fact that the American Can Company will shortly erect in that city a factory which will enable them to turn out the many lines they are at present making in their American establishments. One of their representatives spent some time in Montreal recently looking over the field and casting about for a site. Nothing definite has been officially given out, but it is understood the new factory and equipment will represent an outlay of $200,000 to $300,000.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Reading notices under this heading will be accepted at 10 cents per agate line.

Ask for quotations from Laporte, Martin & Co., Montreal, on Japan and black teas. All qualities required by the trade. They pay freight on all lots, assorted or not, of 200 lbs. and over. Grocers should take advantage also of their prices on their stock of choice wines, imported from the best houses in the world. They pay the freight on all orders for original packages.—Advt.

About the end of this month the Laing Packing & Provision Company, Montreal, intend sending out to the trade their annual Easter price list. This is always most attractively prepared, and is full of useful information. Whether in the market or not it is wise for grocers and general store keepers to send in their name that they may receive one.—Advt.

D. F. Carter, representing Lipton's teas, has returned to Montreal, after a successful trip down the Gaspe coast.

Jas. L. Casey, for some time past with Fred Dean, of Parkdale, has purchased the grocery and provision business of Harry Mead, 470 Yonge St., Toronto.

supply the system with nitrogenous nutriment, sustaining health and vigor. Fish is essentially a nitrogenous food, and so far as cost is concerned, compares with the cheaper meats and the cereals as the least expensive source of protein. As to digestibility, fish and lean beef are of equal value. In each case about 95 per cent. of the solid matter, 97 per cent. of the protein, and over 90 per cent. of the fat are retained by the body.

Talk about this to people when they come into your store. They will be glad if you once persuade them to try a package of our Fish.

BUSINESS AHEAD OF LAST YEAR

Say New Brunswick Wholesalers—Changes in Local Markets—Interesting Hockey Matches—Grocers Appointed Assessors.

Special Correspondence to The Canadian Grocer.

St. John, N.B., Mar. 23.

Local wholesale grocers report that the volume of business this year up to the present time is ahead of the same period last year. At present collections are only fair, a good many drafts being returned unaccepted.

The flour market is firm and prices so far are unchanged. Sugar is about the brightest item on the catalogue just now. Stocks are fairly heavy and three advances of 10 cents have been made since January.

* * *

New Barbadoes molasses is beginning to arrive and the price is a little higher than for the old stock. Porto Rico molasses is now a thing of the past. Barbadoes has supplanted it entirely.

Bowman & Cole, wholesale grocers on Water St., are advertising their premises to let from May 1 next. Rumor has it that the firm is going out of business and that H. C. Cole will go on the road for a local grocery firm, while W. H. Bowman will enter the employ of a large dry goods house. The firm when asked about the matter gave an entirely different answer.

* * *

William W. Hogan, who has been representing G. J. Hamilton & Sons, biscuit and confectionery manufacturers in this city, has severed his connection with the firm and will take a position on the road for a local wholesale grocery house.

* * *

The hockeyists of Baird & Peters and the G. E. Barbour Co. met again in the Glacier Rink on Saturday, March 7, when the former won in a fast game by the score of 2 to 1. Both teams played better than in any previous game. Heavy checking by Sturdee and Leonard was a feature of the game. The line-up was:

Baird & Peters—

Coates, goal; Smythe, point; Sturdee, cover point; Wetmore, centre; T. Ledingham, rover; J. Ledingham, left wing; Logan, right wing.

G. E. Barbour Co.—

Seely, goal; Field, point; Leonard, cover point; McKendrick, centre; Howard, rover; Barbour, left wing; Stewart, right wing.

On the same evening Brock & Paterson's "milliners" defeated the Red Rose tea team by a score of 8 to 2.

At a meeting of the common council on Wednesday, March 11, Hartley Vanwart, grocer, Main St., and John Ross, a former grocer, were appointed as two of the five assessors for the City of St. John. There were twenty-one applicants for the positions.

A CORRECTION.

In last week's issue of The Grocer we stated, commenting on a circular sent out to the trade by the E. D. Marceau Company, that this company had voluntarily assigned. This was an error. The actual wording of the circular is: "Although our company is under voluntarily liquidation, our business goes on as usual." The E. D. Marceau Company feel confident of their ability to reorganize and to go on with their business to a larger extent than ever.

The Borden Condensing Co. are rapidly completing arrangements for their factory at Tillsonburg, Ont. Last week they closed negotiations for the purchase of a farm in that vicinity. Building operations are to commence in the near future.

MONTREAL EXHIBITION OF GROCERIES.

An Assured Success for April—Some of the Chief Exhibitors.

That the Exhibition of Groceries which takes place in Montreal in April will be a grand success is an assured fact. Space has been selling rapidly, and the beauty of the sales lies in the character of the firms who have purchased exhibition room. All those who have signed contracts are leaders in their line—business houses that are known in all parts of the Dominion, and, some of them, largely throughout the States and Europe.

J. A. Beaudry, treasurer of the Retail Merchants' Association, recently went west in connection with the exhibition, and the trip was attended with much success. Mr. Beaudry was accompanied by A. P. Murray, sales manager of the Edwardsburg Starch Co., who is chairman of what is known as the Exhibitors' Advisory Committee, composed of wholesalers, retailers and grocery brokers, who look after the interests of exhibitors.

It is interesting to note some of the firms who have already taken space: The Ogilvie Flour Mills Company, The Lake of the Woods Milling Company, Wm. Clark, E. D. Smith, Borden's Condensed Milk, Pure Gold Manufacturing Co., Cailler's Swiss Milk Chocolate, Cairns' Scotch Marmalade, Heinz Pickles, Quaker Oats, D. S. Perrin & Co., McCormick Mfg. Co., Lipton's Tea, Quaker Canned Goods, St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co., Christie, Brown & Co., Edwardsburg Starch Co. Besides these there are certain firms showing some specialties, such as Hudon, Hebert & Co., Mathewson's Sons and Laporte, Martin & Co.

At present writing there are only a few booths left and these are more or less under option.

NOVA SCOTIA GROCERY NEWS

Fish Business Brisk With Large Export Shipments—Losses in Apples in Shipping—High Price Butter.

(Special Correspondence to The Canadian Grocer)

Halifax, March 16.—The fish markets are at present the centre of activity as the Lenten season is now on. There is a good demand locally for fresh fish, but the supply is very limited, particularly fresh caught stock. There is quite a heavy demand from the American markets for Nova Scotia fish, such as pickled mackerel, pickled herring, smoked haddies, and live lobsters. Mackerel are now very scarce and command a high price. Several large shipments have been made to the Boston market recently and stocks in this province are pretty well cleaned up. There are no No. 1's, but the next choice is quoted at $15. A large amount of fish sent from here to Boston finds its way back again to Canada, in the Upper Province markets. Good codfish is worth about $6 to $6.50 per quintal and pickled herring $4.50 per barrel. Lobsters are selling in Boston at $35 per crate for large and $20 per crate for small. From Yarmouth this week 465 drums of salt fish valued at $5,000 were sent to Boston for re-shipment to the West Indies.

The egg situation this week is unchanged. The only thing that is saving a big slump in eggs is the good market in Montreal for fresh laid stock. This demand continues and it helps the local situation very much. Large quantities are being sent forward each week, and as a result the price here is kept up. Fresh laid stock is now quoted at 22 cents, and limed or storage eggs can be had for 18 cents, and in some cases still lower. This is an unusual condition for this season of the year, but it is all due to the mild weather.

Jamaica oranges are now very scarce, and there is little first-class stock on the market. There is a good demand for California seedless, which are now coming into great favor here. The price is high, the best fruit selling from 50 to 60 cents per dozen. It is expected that one of the West India line steamers will be along in the course of a few days with a lot of Jamaicas.

There is an abundance of cheap apples on the market, but first-class fruit is very scarce. There is general complaint among the trade of the scarcity of clean, sound fruit. No. 3 stock comprises the majority of the apples now offered for sale. Some of the shippers met with heavy losses during the past week. Their fruit was frozen in the cars from Valley Point to Halifax. The consignees at once communicated with the owners and the fruit will be sold at auction.

Butter is very firm all round. While there is lots of butter to meet the demand, there is a general complaint regarding the high prices, particularly for first-class stock. Very little dairy butter in small tubs is coming on the market, but creamery is in very good supply.

Allison Coupon System

Every penny invested in these books means dollars saved, time economized, kicking stopped and everybody made happy. Stop the leaks.

HERE IS HOW THEY WORK:

If a man wants credit for $10.00 and you think he is good for it, give him a $10.00 Allison Coupon Book, and have him sign the receipt or note form in front of book, which you tear out and keep. Charge him with $10.00. No trouble. When he buys a dime's worth, tear off a ten-cent coupon, and so on, until the book is used up. Then he pays the $10.00 and gets another book. No pass-books, no charging, no lost time, no errors, no disputes.

Allison Coupon Books are recognized everywhere as the best.

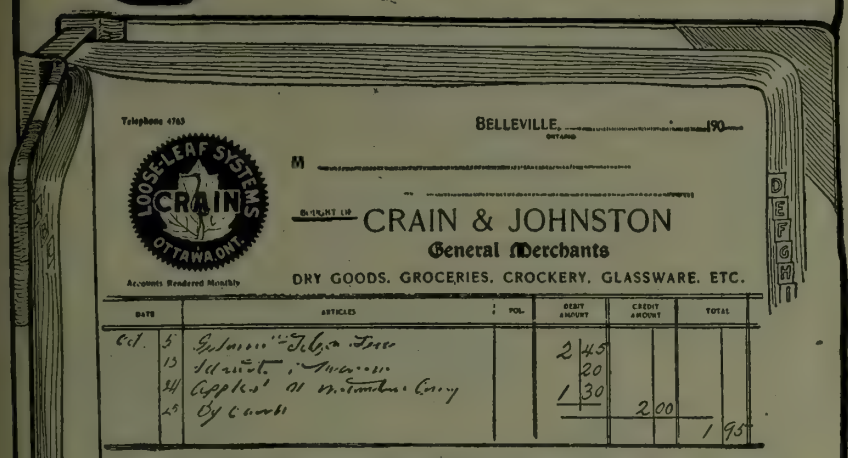
Crain



The Totals Only of the Accounts Are Posted in the Ledger

The old, slow and laborious method of posting every item of an account from the day book to the ledger is agreeably missing in the Crain Monthly Account System.

By the Crain method the accounts are written up in duplicate daily from the counter check books or blotter—always up to date.

At the end the month, or other regular periods of rendering, the originals are torn out and sent to the customers, the duplicates removed and filed on a separate binder, and the total monthly balance only posted in the ledger.

Just think of that for economy of time and labor. Glad to mail our folder, "The Retail Dealer's Friend," with complete information.

TESTIMONY

Toronto, February 25, 1908.

MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., Ltd.,
Agents, Star Egg Carrier & Tray Mfg. Co.,
Toronto, Ont.

Gentlemen:

Some few years ago while attending the convention of the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States held at Niagara Falls, N.Y., we had our attention called to the Star Egg Carrier, and were so impressed with it that we gave a trial order.

We have used Star Egg Carriers ever since, and consider them absolutely indispensable. They certainly solve the problem of the safe delivery of eggs with the least possible trouble and expense.

We unhesitatingly recommend Star Egg Carriers to anyone selling and delivering eggs.

Yours sincerely,

R. HIGGINS & SON.

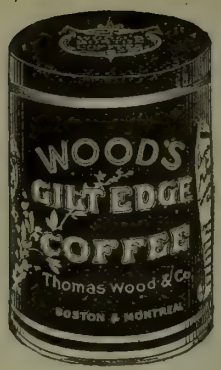
"He's Got the Goods"



ESTABLISHED 1879

This phrase is positive, terse and comprehensive.

The straight-out and straight-forward business man is not awed by competition, because the rock of his foundation is truth, and "he has the goods" to prove assertions.

Therefore when it is emphasized that are the purest, most deliciously blended, and pre-eminently the BEST the market affords, "we've got the goods" to back the statement up.

WOOD'S COFFEES

Another Store-keeper Sued for Damages

Dangerous stove polishes continue to get store-keepers into trouble. The daily papers of Detroit, early this month, report Mrs. A. D. ——— is seeking to recover in the courts $15,000 from Mr. C. G. ——— who sold her some inflammable, liquid stove polish that exploded and severely burned her face and arms.

Wise store-keepers will keep out of trouble by handling only the stove polishes which are safe in the hands of the user. RISING SUN Stove Polish and SUN PASTE Stove Polish are made by reliable processes and are absolutely free from dangers of fire or explosion. PUSH THEM.

Messrs. The Canadian Canners, Limited
Hamilton, Ont.

Dear Sirs:—

With regard to your letter from Mr. Malcolmson which appeared in the "Canadian Grocer" of March 13th, 1908, we may say that we have been selling Hygeian Canned Beets right along to our customers.

Hygeian Beets are the kind we have been trying to get for several years, and we have no hesitancy in pronouncing them the finest canned Beets we have ever sold. They are equally as nice as new beets at this season, and much more satisfactory.

Your Canned Peaches, Raspberries, Strawberries and Red Cherries, of this brand are the finest canned fruits we have ever sold either in glass or tins, and are equal in every respect to the choicest home made canned fruits.

We remain,

Yours respectfully,

Profitable Goods

Are the goods that are a little better than the others: goods that will make sales where the others won't. Ozo Brand Pickles are good pickles, and show their quality. We have special facilities for turning out the best pickles, and we have made the most of them. For instance, we provide the seed from which the vegetables are grown and so get the best from the start; the cucumbers go straight from the vine to the factory, so that none of the fresh crispness is lost. We make our own vinegar and it cannot be beaten for pickling purposes. It will certainly pay you to specify that you want our goods when ordering pickles.

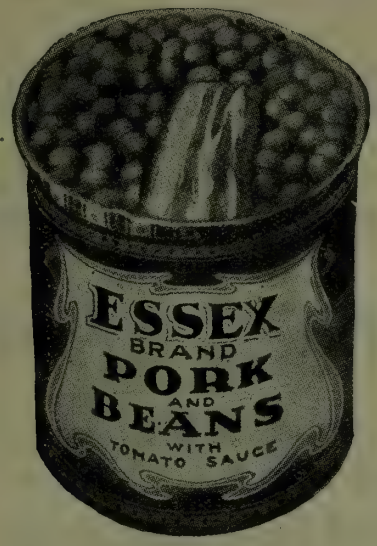
"ESSEX"
PORK AND BEANS



The growing demand for properly prepared Pork and Beans has encouraged The Essex Canning & Preserving Company to add this product to their already large variety of fruits and vegetables. The Essex factory, being located in the most favored agricultural section of Ontario and being new, is equipped with every modern facility for doing things right.

The "Essex" Pork and Beans are prepared by a special process that entirely eliminates that strong taste found in other brands. Every bean used is hand-picked from selected stock and is thoroughly washed and cleansed before being cooked.

On opening a can of "Essex" brand of Pork and Beans (the very perfection of the Essex process is shown in this) it will be found that every bean is entirely whole, thoroughly cooked, mellow, amber-colored and porous, pleasing to the eye and appetising, a distinct advance over anything attempted in Canada heretofore.

Moreover, when we added to the Pork and Beans our Special Brand of Tomato Sauce, made from fresh ripe tomatoes and purest of spices under a special process, we are confident that when you have once tried them you will, like Oliver Twist, "still ask for more."

Put up in neat packages with attractive labels, 1½s, 2s and 3s.

Effective Advertising for Grocers

Hints Regarding the Why and How of This Department of the Grocer's Business by W. F. Ralph—The Value of Price Quotations—Some Examples of Attractive Advertising.

One of the most amazing peculiarities of much of the grocery advertising appearing in country weekly newspapers is the lack of price information. The observer of grocery advertising can come to only two conclusions as to a cause, viz : ignorance or indifference.

That any merchant, in these hustling days of competition and close prices, should be wise enough to advertise, and at the same time ignorant enought to omit prices from his advertising is equally amazing.

Price Quotations Bring Business.

In staple groceries price is naturally about the greatest argument which can be used to produce business. More particularly so when it is remembered that women are, by long odds, the chief buyers of groceries. Some authorities even go so far as to contend that price, and the name of the article advertised, is all that is necessary in grocery advertising. The ad. sent in by Kingsley Harrison, of Montreal, is an example of this view, practically applied.

There is no doubt of the fact that grocery staples, if advertised to sell at a little under the prevailing prices, will find purchasers in abundance among a large class of people. But the question to be decided by the average grocer is whether it pays better to keep prices up to the prevailing mark, and rely on getting lots of purchasers at these prevailing prices by talking quality, service, etc., or to make a bid for big business by cutting under the prevailing price, and making the cut price the whole argument.

Depends on Class of Trade.

A practical grocer's answer to this conundrum was : "All according to the class of trade you are trying to cultivate."

It certainly is a fact that there is a large class of people who, owing to their financial position, will buy at the lowest price and take a chance on quality. On the other hand there is the great middle class of people, whose financial position compels them to pay close attention to prices, but who, at the same time, are influenced by quality and service.

This latter class perhaps, is the largest, and the problem which faces the average grocer is how to influence the middle class trade to deal at his store.

Quality in Advertising.

His advertising, first of all, must be insistent. He must hammer away week in and week out. His advertising "copy" should have a "tone" to it, which appeals to middle class people. Price should always be there, but not flamboyantly so. The talk should assume that the reader is looking for groceries of a high grade of excellence, and is willing to pay a fair price for goods at a store which guarantees quality and good service.

This being the case, the public should never be allowed to forget a grocery store's claims of quality of goods and excellence of service.

Kingsley Harrison's ad., which has been referred to, apparently makes no attempt to draw trade on any other appeal than price. But that that kind of appeal is the one best suited to Mr. Harrison's trade there is no doubt, inasmuch as he describes his place of business as the "People's Grocery, Provision and Fruit Store." And, after all, one of the main problems of any advertiser is to find the surest means of influencing the class of trade which is most likely to come his way.

Some Carleton Place Ads.

Four exceedingly bright, well-written ads. have been sent in by T. Stevens, of Carleton Place. These ads. occupied 10-inch space at the lower end right-hand column of the Carleton Place Herald, which goes to show that Mr. Stevens, besides being an excellent ad.-writer, knows how to dicker with the publisher for good position. All four of these ads. are good, but we have decided to give our main attention to the "Lenten Delicacies" ad., which is reproduced on this page.

This ad. is seasonable. And, moreover, Mr. Stevens must be an observer of human nature, for he appeals to a trait of character which is quite prominent among keepers of the Lenten "Fast." Many Lenten "Fasters" deny themselves meat—but make up for their denial in this direction by being fastidious in their selection of vegetable and fish dainties. Mr. Stevens gets after these people very successfully with such ads. as the "Lenten Delicacies." Note how the language lays more stress on the deliciousness of the articles than on the price asked. Such language, simple, direct, terse as it is, occupying but a moment of the reader's time, is just of the nature to tickle the appetite of the person who is on the lookout for delicacies that break the monotony of a "fast."

There is no long-windedness in any of the ads. sent in by Mr. Stevens. They all tell a bright message in brisk, cheerful tones—and the price is there, too, every time.

A Creditable Circular.

Some time ago a couple of circulars were submitted for The Grocer's opinion by Horner's Busy Corner, of Brandon, Man. Now we have received another circular from them which is about as neat and effective a grocery circular as we have ever seen. It does great credit both to the writer and the printer. It is in the form of a four-page leaflet, printed in deep blue ink upon a sheet of light blue linen fabric note paper. The front page—or cover—contains the name of the house in large Bradley text, which is an old-style ornamental text type, making an effective title. Beside a half-tone of the store are the words, "Something Doing—Phone 198." The lower half of the cover page is occupied by this neat little quality and service talk :

"Anything with our name on is an insurance policy on the goods. It guarantees quality, warrants full count, full measure and full value.

"Make shopping easy by having us call you up on the 'phone every day or three times a week to tell you of all the dainty eatables arriving fresh daily. Or, better still, let our traveler call on you."

Perhaps the first sentence of the first paragraph would have been plainer in meaning if expressed this way: "Our name on anything is an insurance policy on the goods."

The last three pages contain lists of dainties with prices attached, under these appropriate headings: "Appetite Creators," "Inexpensive Dainties for Dinner or Tea," "Canned Goods." Some of the items are particularly worth noting, because of their brightness and appropriateness. Here they are:

"CHEESE—The refined flavor is tempting. Per lb. 17c."

"BUTTER—If you wish the best, let us supply you weekly so that yours will be put aside when it comes in fresh."

"FRESH EGGS—Let us book your order the same as the butter. You can then depend on getting only the freshest from hens that won't lay bad ones."

"BISCUITS—More kinds than there are keys on a piano and each a symphony of good taste."

"Our Hams are a breakfast bite,
That sharpens up the appetite;
Small and tender, delicious, nice,
Please take notice—here's the price."

"FOR BABY—The fairest, sweetest thing on earth is the face of a little child. Its skin is exquisitely delicate. Use the best soap."

The only improvement we can suggest to the circular is the use of a clearer half-tone. The one used is extremely misty, and rather mars the excellence of the cover, but, as the Manx cat said of its tail, that is a minor detail in this case.

INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION AT MONTREAL.

Montreal has been agitated more or less during the past couple of years over the holding of an annual exposition. At one time it looked very much as though a yearly fair was assured, but sufficient support was not given to successfully carry through the project. During the last week or two, since the new city council has got down to business, the matter has been the subject of discussion among business men on several occasions.

At a recent meeting the Chambre de Commerce, which numbers among its members most of the leading French men of affairs of Montreal, seriously discussed the holding, not only of an annual exhibition, but also the advisability of setting on foot a movement to hold in Montreal in 1911 an International Exposition. The idea took most business men by surprise, but on giving the matter second thought there seems to be no reason why success should not attend such an undertaking. Montreal, as the metropolis of Canada, is prominently before the civilized world, and is of much easier access to European countries than some places where International fairs have successfully been held. A display of the world's products and manufactures in Montreal would draw people from all parts of Europe and other sections of the world, who, coming as far as Montreal, would many of them take this advantage of the opportunity to see more of Canada, and would result in greater knowledge of the Dominion being obtained, taken abroad and disseminated.

These facts would carry greater weight, too, coming from those who had personally seen the country, than they do when made public as they presently are through the medium of circulars, prospectuses and other advertising matter. Numbers of business men from Great Britain, France, Germany and other countries with whom we are anxious to increase our trade would be induced to visit the Dominion, which would give them an opportunity of studying the market at first hand and coming personally in touch with Canadian business men. Of course, many Europeans make it a point to visit Canada regularly, but it is those who are not acquainted with our country, our national resources, our unlimited possibilities in the way of trade development, our people, these men we desire to interest chiefly. There are hundreds, thousands of them who have lines worth placing in Canada, but they do not know the country and are indifferent to the market. For our part, we have many lines to exchange. But before there can be any large increase in trade the business men of both sides of the Atlantic must get together.

An International Exposition, such as is suggested, would draw them together. The movement warrants the support of every true Canadian. Holding the exposition in 1911 will give us plenty of time to prepare something worthy of Montreal and of Canada, and if an annual exhibition is held in Montreal in the meantime the experience so acquired will be applied with good results to the greater project.

OPPORTUNITY FOR CANADIAN HOUSE.

An English subscriber of The Grocer, who has been a reader for many years, is open to handle some Canadian product in his district. He manufactures a line that does not compete with any Canadian article. He writes:

"My travelers tell me they could easily sell another article during the very dull season; in my business usually from November 1st to May 1st they call frequently on grocers, fruiterers, oil and color men, and the small general provision shops in this city and the country towns and villages next, probably some 750 buyers in all. And as you are aware, I know most firms in our city outside my own customers. So if before next fall you hear of any firm on your side who wants to introduce a really good article on which I could make a decent profit after paying handling and selling expenses, will you kindly let me know? I could possibly buy direct and simply act as sole agent."

This seems a good opening for Canadian producers not now represented there, and the editor will be glad to put them in touch with this firm.

DESIRE DISTINCTIVE LABELS.

Wholesale Grocers Ask Government to Amend Act.

A strong deputation representing the Canadian Wholesale Grocers' Guild interviewed Hon. Sydney Fisher at Ottawa on Thursday, March 19th, asking that the Meat and Canned Foods Act, passed during last session, be amended so that wholesale grocers should be allowed to place their own labels on canned goods which they sell. According to the terms of the Act, the label must bear the name of the canner as well as that of the wholesale house. While it has not as yet been strictly enforced, the wholesalers claim that this provision is proving an injustice to them. They claim that the use of a distinctive label offers them several advantages, and that the firm's reputation stands behind the quality of the goods.

The canners and manufacturers, on the other hand, for their own interests, favor the provisions of the Act as it now stands.

No action was taken in the matter, though Hon. Mr. Fisher promised to give the request careful consideration.

CO-OPERATIVE STORE FOR CITY OF BRANTFORD.

Association Incorporated to Carry on Grocery and General Business.

Brantford is soon to have a co-operative store, which will be backed by local tradesmen and laborers. The Ontario Gazette, in a late issue, notes the incorporation of the Brantford Co-operative Association, Limited, "to carry on trade as a co-operative company in groceries and provisions, hardware, dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes, coal and wood, and other merchandise." The share capital is $40,000, divided into five-dollar shares. The incorporators are, Malcolm Carter and Peter Noble, machinists; Thomas Chamberlain, stove mounter; Thomas Menzies Chambers and George Keen, agents; John D. Murray, gentleman; Albert G. Sly and Geo. Wood, laborers, and John F. Van Lane, accountant, all of Brantford.

HAS ALL BUT THE SMELL.

Wing Hop, a Chinese gardener who owns a small truck farm near Fresno, has announced that he has out-Burbanked Luther Burbank and produced an odorless onion.

For years Hop, who formerly worked for Mr. Burbank, has been working on the production of an onion which would have all the taste and other qualities of the normal vegetable, but would be free of the disagreeable odor which offends so many persons. Now, he says, he has succeeded, and his contention is borne out by the statement of many of the white neighbors who have inspected the new onion.

PROMINENT N. B. GROCERS

Life Stories of a Sucessful Wholesaler and Retailer Who Have Taken Active Interest in Municipal and Provincial Affairs.

A ST. JOHN WHOLESALER.

W. Franklin Hatheway, who was elected on March 3 as a member of the New Brunswick Legislature, is one of the best known and most successful of St. John's wholesale grocers. He is a prominent member of the Board of Trade and is well versed in all matters pertaining to the welfare of his province. There are probably few men in St. John as well posted on all questions of current interest as Mr. Hatheway. He is a great reader, and as a writer occupies a foremost place among the residents of Canada's winterport. He has written several books on labor matters and is a frequent contributor to the daily papers of St. John.

STANLEY W. MILLER.

A Newcastle Retailer Who has Sat for Two Years in Mayor's Chair, and was Defeated in Recent Provincial Elections.

By dint of hard work Mr. Hatheway has risen from the position of clerk to head of a large mercantile establishment. He left school at the age of 14 years and entered the employ of Small & Hatheway, steamship agents, remaining there until 1868, when he entered the wholesale grocery house of Turnbull & Co., south wharf, as a junior clerk. In about five years from that time he became their bookkeeper and confidential clerk, with an interest in the business. He remained with this firm until 1877, when they were burned out in the big fire, with heavy losses. In the following year, though he was practically without capital and was in debt on account of the fire losses, Mr. Hatheway started in business in partnership with James S. Harding, under the firm name of Harding & Hatheway. The business continued under this name until 1888, when Mr. Hatheway purchased his partner's interest and conducted the business under his own name. In 1898 he took his head bookkeeper, W. L. Harding, in as partner, the firm being known then as W. F. Hatheway & Co. About 1902 the business was made into a joint stock company, Charles Robertson and three travelers being taken in, with Mr. Hatheway and Mr. Harding retaining the larger interest.

A distinctive feature of the business was the establishment, about 18 years ago, of a co-operative system, whereby all the employes of the firm have a share in the profits of the concern. This share is a certain percentage pro rata to the wages, which percentage is their profits for the year.

This amount is put to the credit of each employe at the end of the year, with the understanding that it can only be taken out on their leaving the employ, or if any serious accident happens to them whereby they need, or if they wish to make an investment in life insurance or real estate.

The wages paid to the average warehouseman are $9 a week and his profits. The teamsters receive $14 a week and their profits and they own their horse and outfit. The result of this system is that most of the employes have money to their credit ranging from $80 to $500 or $600..

For instance, one of the teamsters has to his credit about $500. If an accident should happen whereby he should lose a horse, he would be enabled to draw his reserve and purchase a new one immediately.

It has been found that this system makes the men more careful in their work. They have an interest in the goods from the time they come in the store until they are sent out and the retailer pays for them.

The business consists of flour, tea, sugar, molasses and general groceries. Fancy Barbadoes molasses is imported direct from the island ; teas are brought direct from India, Ceylon and China, and flour and sugar come in the same way from the miller and refiner. Certain brands of flour have been originated by the firm. Golden Eagle, the standard Ontario brand, has been on the market 25 years ; Golden Lion and Red Rose, standard Manitobas, were brought out ten years ago.

In their own factory the firm's Tiger teas are blended and packed. The work of making the boxes, printing the labels and packing the goods is all done by local people, as Mr. Hatheway is a firm

A NEWCASTLE RETAILER.

Stanley W, Miller was born in Newcastle, N.B., March 9, 1877. His father, W. J. Miller, conducted a general meat and grocery business in Newcastle from 1865 till his death in 1898, when two of his sons, Stanley W. and Harry S., took up the business between them under the firm name of Miller Bros. They do a large and increasing cash business, selling meat, provisions, hay, oats, feed, etc., in their store on Castle and Water streets.

S. W. Miller is a graduate of Harkins Academy, Newcastle, and of the Ontario Business College, Belleville.

He became a member of the Board of Trade in 1900, and has ever since been an enthusiastic advocate of every scheme calculated to increase the town's business and prosperity. He has been a member of the Board of Trade council since 1904.

Since 1903 he has been a member of the board of school trustees and never fails to take an active part in educational meetings. He has long been an ardent advocate of manual training in the schools and hopes soon to see that branch established here.

Mr. Miller ran for aldermanic honors in 1903, but was unsuccessful. In 1905 he was candidate for mayor, and was elected over Patrick Hennessy, another grocery man, whose photograph recently appeared in these columns, by ten votes. In 1906 the same candidates ran and Mr. Hennessy was successful by nine votes. In 1907 the contest was between Mr. Miller and Ald. Howard Williston. The former was victorious by 118 majority.

Mr. Miller was a candidate for the Provincial Assembly for this county on the Government side in the election held on March 3rd, but went down to defeat in the landslide that struck the Liberal party. He will, no doubt, be heard from again.

Besides attending to his ordinary business, Mr. Miller devotes much time to Freemasonry, being a Mystic Shriner. In church affairs he is an Episcopalian.

HULL GROCERS ORGANIZE.

Growing Association of Retailers Formed Recently With Strong Executive.

With the object of better protection and for the raising the status of the trade generally, a grocers' association has been formed in the City of Hull. Though the association is only a few days old, the membership is already 25. It will be the intention of the association to protect the food supply and to give better food to the poor at a fair price. It also will deal with anv important questions which may arise from time to time and make its power felt with the city council. The following is a list of the officers: Joseph Martel, president; P. Daoust 1st vice-president; A. Labelle, treasurer; V. Chalet, secretary.

James Joiner has purchased the dairy business of Alonzo McLean, Wallaceburg, the change going into effect on Monday.

Montreal Grocer Arranges Attractive and Profitable Display With Proprietary Goods—How the Window Was Built Up.

Wm. Currie, a St. Catherine street, Montreal, grocer, recently dressed a very attractive window, which illustrates the selling force of a simple arrangement of foodstuffs of merit in the window of the store. Nothing elaborate is attempted in the display, as the photograph shows.

Edwardsburg Starch Company's Crown Brand table syrups are to the fore, pyramids being built with 20-lb., 10-lb., 5-lb., and 2-lb. tins. Benson's prepared corn starch, Silver Gloss starch and Enamel starch are the package lines displayed. Two tall glass jars are prominent in the photograph. These contain starch and add to the neatness and balance of the display. There are also three tall glass jars containing syrup in the centre of the window between the two starch jars. These assist in carrying out the idea more perfectly. They are a good selling feature, as well, as one notes the transparency of the syrup. The display resulted in a material increase in sales.

GATHERING OF "100 POINT" SALESMEN.

Toronto Manager Tells of Unique Convention in Dayton, Ohio.

F. E. Mutton, district manager of the National Cash Register Co., with headquarters in Toronto, has just returned from a novel convention held at the company's works in Dayton, Ohio.

Speaking to The Grocer, Mr. Mutton gave several interesting facts in regard to this unique gathering of salesmen.

"The convention was composed of what is known as the '100-point Club,'" said Mr. Mutton. "which was organized some years ago by our selling force in the United States and Canada. To be a member a sales agent must have sold an average of 100 points, or $2,500 a month, or netted 1,200 points, $30,000 per year."

"Do the district managers all belong?" asked The Grocer.

"Not at all. To be included in the membership a manager must have as members from his district 40 per cent. of his selling force. Only two other district managers were eligible, and we were very proud that our Canadian sales force were able to command this average."

"One result of the convention," continued Mr. Mutton, "was a material reduction in price of the cheaper lines of registers, and this was felt at once in increased sales."

"What about your Toronto factory?" was asked. "Do you do any amount of business here?"

"Why yes," was the reply. "We consider that the National cash registers sold in Canada are practically the product of Canadian industry. Fully 80 per cent. of the machines sold in my district, which includes practically all of Canada, are turned out from the Toronto factory."

"Our spring business has opened with a rush," said Mr. Mutton, when questioned as to business outlook, "and there is every indication of a large increase in sales this year. My men are all very enthusiastic over the outlook."

BUSINESS GOES ON.

A meeting of the creditors in the case of the E. D. Marceau Company, Montreal, which recently voluntarily liquidated, was held on Tuesday afternoon in the offices of Kent & Turcotte. It was decided that the business should go on as usual for the time being, and W. H. Halford and A. Hendry were appointed by the creditors to keep in touch with the affairs of the company in their interests. Mr. Marceau himself is sanguine of reorganizing and getting things in first-class shape in a month.

Grocery News from Coast to Coast

What is Happening in the Principal Cities and Towns of Canada—Business Changes and New Ideas in the Trade—Letters From Our Special Correspondents.

BARRIE.

Trade here and in the vicinity has, in the last week, picked up wonderfully, with some staple articles on the jump and others taking a downward tendency. Sugar is perhaps one of the foremost of these that is causing no little gambling by various merchants as may be seen by the Grand Trunk Railway report of three cars of sugar from Montreal since March 5th and not only merchants, but townspeople and farmers, are buying heavy at the present price, fearing a much greater advance before long.

The local millers dropped their prices in the last two weeks 40 cents per barrel all round. Lent, also, seems to have boomed trade this year, where other years it has been poorer. The cold weather has allowed the merchants to handle and display a great many varieties of fresh frozen fish which will explain the better business for Lent. The good roads and weather, too, in the past two weeks, have, with the others, added also, increased trade.

* * *

The local Italian fruit men are talking of putting carts on the streets this summer and selling their fruits for the same prices as their brother dealers in Toronto and Montreal. This is caused by a spirit of retaliation as the by-law to increase the peddlers' cart and street vending wagons' license from $10 to $50 was proposed and carried by aldermen who in their places of business are grocers and fruiters.

Butter continues very high here, but eggs have taken a big tumble and the merchants are getting all they can handle now at 17 and 18c a dozen while butter is from 9c to 10c higher. Potatoes have also taken a drop of from $1 a bag to 75c and one load sold on Saturday at 75c for very good potatoes.

Thos. Ross, who left town last summer to go to Midland, is again back to town and is now with E. A. Sibbald. He says Midland is a good business town but it isn't in it compared with Barrie.

Steve Vair has returned home from Renfrew, where he has been playing hockey with Renfrew Pros. Steve is one of Ontario's best hockey players and our town is proud of him. He will, as usual, take a hold in his father's store till hockey claims him for another season.

Fred Grazley, of Lucas, Steele & Bristol, Hamilton, spent Sunday at his home here. The road seems to agree with Fred as he looks the very finest.

CHATHAM.

The annual egg deluge is upon us, and the price of the product of the domestic hen has fallen correspondingly. Last Saturday's market prices ranged from 20c to 17c. One grocer received 350 dozen of eggs ; and when it is considered that there are upwards of fifty grocers, small and great, in Chatham, the extent of the influx can readily be imagined. Were it not for the fact that most of these eggs are shipped, the prices would drop still lower.

A NOVEL CREDIT SYSTEM.

Here's a suggestion from a Montreal grocer who intends using the system for credit business. He will issue books containing one thousand stamps valued at 1 cent each. These he will sell to his customers for $10 a book or take their note. Each tine a customer comes in and makes a purchase, amounting to say 40c, the clerk will tear off 40 stamps from the book, or more as the purchase may warrant. In this way he will reduce labor of bookkeeping, and the worries of collecting his accounts. The idea may not be entirely new, but it seems that it might be more generally used to good advantage.

The Kent Produce Company, Limited, of Blenheim, an organization formed some time ago to buck the "bean combine," held an interesting meeting last week in Harwich town hall. The building was crowded to the doors. High bean prices, followed by a tremendous drop, were given as the moving causes which had put the company $4,000 behind for the season, though shortage of necessary capital and repairs to machinery had also contributed. The president and secretary explained that $8,000 was needed to carry on the business, and the shareholders were asked to subscribe this amount. The almost unanimous opinion was expressed that the company must be kept going. Before the meeting was closed, nearly $4,000 was subscribed, and it is expected that the balance will be procured without much difficulty. Besides helping to keep up the price of beans, the company handled articles needed by the farmers.

GALT.

The trade in Galt has picked up considerably during the past two weeks, and the grocers are beginning to wear a smile of contentment which has been lacking for the last few months. The country roads have been opened and as a result butter and eggs are more plentiful.

The attendance at the market was the largest on Saturday for some time, and as a result there was a drop in the price of both butter and eggs, the latter dropping from 28c to 25c per dozen, while the former dropped one cent, to 27c. A feature of the market was the scarcity of poultry, there being only about four pairs offered for sale and these commanded an almost prohibitive price. The farmers state that they are willing to sacrifice the hens when they are beginning to lay. A local dealer makes the prediction that eggs will be selling at 18c per dozen before Easter.

* * *

The industrial situation in Galt, while not nearly so serious as in other towns and cities, is not improving as rapidly as one could wish, but the general feeling is that the warm days will have the effect of brightening things up, at least so far as the unemployed are concerned, for then, if nothing better can be had, the corporation will provide work for a large number, many of whom are now

INGERSOLL.

Conditions which prevail in many busy grocery stores suggest the necessity of a parcel department. When one enters a crowded store and sees the counters literally covered with parcels, the clerks struggling to keep the delivery orders intact and systematize the routes, and at the same time wait on the impatient customers, he is inclined to the belief that a parcel department is practically indispensable. A department of this kind would obviate much of the confusion that is experienced by the clerks and they would have greater time at their disposal to attend to the wants of customers, while the store would present a much more orderly appearance. The responsibility of the clerk would cease as soon as the orders were "put up," the person in charge of the parcel department arranging and keeping a check on the deliveries as they go out. There are many stores where a system of this kind should work advantageously and it would doubtless be appreciated by many customers, especially those who are willing to take their purchases with them. It frequently happens that when one has purchased several articles with the intention of carrying them, they are placed on the counter as they are tied up, with many other parcels, and then both the clerk and the customer loses time. The clerk has to pick them out—one here and another there—just as he tied them up, whereas if all the parcels to be sent had been removed to the parcel department this waste of time and unnecessary confusion would have been avoided. It is characteristic of human nature to offer suggestions, but be this as it may, there are times when the opinion of a disinterested party contains practical advantages, and there are lots of merchants who, if they could only see their store conditions as do others, they would speedily recommend improvements.

And so the price of sugar is still soaring! Well, if it only gets up as high as it wants to go at the present time and is down within hailing distance by the time the fruit season opens, the average householder will probably cease complaining. But nevertheless these constant "jumps" in the price are not at all pleasing to the dealers or the consumers. However, the present prices ought to be a guarantee that the maple syrup is "direct from the tree." Those who are sceptical about purchasing the maple product for fear of sugar adulteration have not much cause for alarm under existing conditions.

The first new maple syrup was marketed last week and was readily disposed of at $1.25 per gallon. There have only been a few favorable days for syrup making and existing conditions would indicate that the season in this section will be a short one. The supply of syrup thus far has been very limited and it is questionable if enough will be made to meet the demand, as many producers keep the major portion of their supply for their own use. The quality of the syrup already marketed is said to be first-class.

The Railway Commissioners held a sitting here on Thursday last, when conditions in connection with the dangerous crossing of the G.T.R. over Thames street were fully investigated. The town's case was a very strong one and as a result a very favorable decision is expected. G. T. Blackstock acted for the town, and Geo. A. Ricker, of Buffalo, consulting engineer, gave expert evidence as to feasible switching arrangements which would lessen the danger at the crossing. Many witnesses testified, among them being several farmers, who stated that the crossing was particularly dangerous on account of the shunting that is done over it, by which the public is also greatly inconvenienced.

The ladies of Ingersoll turned out en masse last week to view the spring millinery and some of the grocers took advantage of the occasion to have their windows very attractive. An attractive window is always a good advertisement.

PERTH.

Seven cents in one week. This is the difference in the price of eggs to-dav compared with seven days ago. Present price is 18c a dozen with very fair supply. Butter is scarce. The price varies from 23 to 28c.

We read with interest your article headed "Help Yourself by Helping the Farmer." The farmers in this district have at present the advantages you in your article suggest, that retailers give them in the way of meetings, etc. We have in connection with the Perth Collegiate Institute the largest agricultural class of any High School in the Dominion. The teacher (who is a graduate of the Guelph College), as well as teaching his class at school has a downtown office and has brought about the organization of a "Farmers' Club" which holds regular meetings to discuss matters of interest to the tiller of the soil. The Canadian Club of Perth, saw fit to have as the speaker at its last meeting, G. C. Creelman, the president of the Guelph College. His address was full of instruction to farmers and those present must have derived much benefit. From this you will see that a move on the part of retailers in the direction of bringing about meetings for farmers is hardly necessary in Perth.

There is, it seems to me, one disadvantage in connection with a general delivery system, the question which has been brought up by the Ingersoll correspondent. Very few will deny that prompt, satisfactory delivery is good advertising. Taking this for granted, will it pay you, a merchant with a first-class delivery, to encourage a system that will put you on the same level with your competitor whose present system is far inferior to yours?

Samuel Rae has opened a grocery and flour and feed store on Gore St.

EDMONTON.

There has been a decided improvement in the grocery trade in the city in the past few weeks. The mild weather all winter has made conditions much better than was expected and the indications of an early spring has stimulated the trade considerably.

No move has been made by the retail grocers to organize an association, although it is generally conceded that such an organization would be beneficial. The spring is a good time to organize and it is hoped that some enterprising and energetic grocer in the city will start such a movement.

The firm of Gariepy & Lessard, grocers and general merchants, conducted a window-guessing competition recently which was productive of considerable interest and of good results. In one of the store windows was displayed a large number of cigars, and the public were invited to guess the number, the one coming nearest to receive a prize. There were 12,650 cigars in the window. Carl Johnson came first with 12,985, John McQuaid second with 13,000 and A. J. Foages third with 12,250. The winners were presented with a box of choice cigars each. About 125 guesses in all were received.

Arrangements have recently been completed whereby Edmonton and Calgary wholesalers and retailers have been given more favorable freight rates. This new arrangement, which came into effect on March 15th, amounted to 5c per 100 pounds on freight in class 5 and 8c per 100 pounds on machinery and agricultural implements. The greater proportion of freight shipped into Edmonton is in class 5 and there is also a considerable quantity of machinery and agricultural implements, so that the reduction of from 5 to 8c materially affects wholesalers.

The reduction of this freight rate places Calgary and Edmonton on the same basis as Winnipeg with regard to freight. Previous to this Winnipeg had a more favorable freight rate on goods from Eastern Canada. The new rate will also do much to make Calgary and Edmonton the leading wholesale and distributing centres of the West. The new rate does not apply to the smaller places in the West, and as a consequence the Edmonton and Calgary wholesalers will be able to bring their goods from the East much cheaper and can then ship them out to the smaller dealers in the surrounding towns and cities.

Great preparations are being made for the Dominion exhibition to be held in Calgary in July next. The Twin Cities of Edmonton and Strathcona have decided to make a joint exhibit which will be worthy of the excellent district which it represents.

KINGSTON.

At a special meeting of the retail merchants on March 19th in the cozy quarters of the Board of Trade rooms, a resolution was carried to the effect "That the trade lost by the action of the railroads in cutting out the single fare excursion rate every Thursday be regained if possible; that circulars be issued offering the inducement of a refund of half-fare to all people from the districts affected buying $10 worth or over, not necessarily at one store."

If they go to Jones, grocer, and purchase $5 worth it is put on the slip and the number of his or her ticket. Then Smith puts his sale of, say, $5 worth. Then the purchaser goes to the secretary and gets the half-fare or return fare, which is more.

To begin the work it would need thirty signatures of merchants pledging $15 each for expenses, advertising, etc.

The peddler trouble also came up and all agreed that the chief and his force of policemen were lax in not enforcing the laws regulating such people.

Our early-closing by-law is not properly looked after, in fact the only use for policemen seems to be to arrest helpless drunks.

D. Lawson, the well-known representative of Jones & Co., booked some large orders for import last week. His house carries a fine line of goods. I had simply forgotten about them, as I have not seen their ad. in The Grocer for some time and when an ad. is taken out I always feel that the house is going into liquidation or the senior member has died with water on the brain. Yes, it pays to advertise.

J. H. Galloway, the genial representative of the Imperial Syrup Co., is here pushing maple syrup. The maple trees, of which Kingston is full, looked on with reproach and said: "Our brother maples around Montreal must be early birds. Why we are not thinking about sap yet but in about two weeks we expect to be bored to death and that our heart's blood will be trickling down everybody's throat."

Morrison, of Cleveland and Royal Baking Powder fame, made his usual call this week and he is just the same genial traveler he was twenty years ago. Cheap baking powders have lost their grip here. They are flat and cannot rise. Purity leads like Longboat in the long run.

James Reddin & Co. have received the contract for supplying the permanent militia here.

I hope they will make on it, but from the way sugar and other commodities are going it looks bad for contractors.

Regarding government institutions, asking for tenders I think a week should be ample time for them to consider and accept. Since supplies for penitentiaries were tendered for, March 1, sugars have advanced three times, which means quite a margin to lose.

* * *

Delivery boxes is a small thing to talk about and yet it is surprising how many are lost in a week by careless drivers. One merchant said he lost so many he thought he would try a new scheme, so he bought two dozen fancy willow baskets, oblong shape, and it brought good results and they paid for themselves in two months. Another grocer bought the patent folding boxes with like results. The Salada tea boxes make excellent delivery boxes. They look clean and neat but get lost. The greatest loss is with ginger ale bottles. Here some drivers are instructed to collar every one they see.

LONDON.

Wholesale trade has shown an improvement during the past week, due to better roads and the fact that retailers' stocks are running low. The two additional jumps in the price of sugar were the events of the week. All staples including cereals, are firm. Teas, fine to medium, are very firm, while low grades are rather in buyers' favor. Retail trade is also livening up.

The housekeeper is congratulating herself that while that important commodity, sugar, has within a few weeks advanced fifty cents per hundredweight, having moved up twenty cents during the past week, she continues to get the same number of pounds for the dollar as she did before the upward movement began, and local retailers say she will continue to be so treated, as it is found practically impossible to raise the price to the consumer. Competition of ill-advised grocers, who continue to offer 20 or 21 pounds for the dollar, prevents the legitimate dealer from raising the price. True, these price-cutters are few in number and are all non-members of the association, but any advance by the retailer in keeping with the advanced price he pays would undoubtedly mean loss of trade to him. As one grocer remarked this morning; "Just leave these slaughterers alone long enough and they will cut their own throats for no man can afford to sell at a loss." Meanwhile the consumer is not troubling herself about the price of sugar.

At a meeting of the creditors of Lind, Kerrigan & Co., the Canada Trust Company was confirmed as assignee. J. Harley Brown, Redpath's representative; C. A. Ross, manager of the Dominion Bank, and George C. Gibbons, K.C., were appointed inspectors. The assets were estimated at $54,000, $30,000 of which is represented in stock, and the liabilities at over $70,000. The stock will be offered at auction on Thursday, April 2. At the meeting much sympathy was expressed for the members of the defunct firm, the creditors present expressing the deepest regret at the turn affairs had taken. It is recognized on all sides that the insolvency was not due to any lack of ability or energy, but to insufficient capital and the monetary stringency.

The regular monthly meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association will likely be postponed for a week, pending the procuring of a new place of meeting. It is not at all unlikely that the use of the Board of Trade rooms will be secured.

MONTREAL.

A St. Catherine St. grocer upon whom a call was made, in speaking of the Co-operative Bill which was passed recently in the Commons, decried the hasty manner in which it received both readings, saying it was a shame to note the manner in which it was dealt with in view of the great importance it has for the retail grocer. A man to-day starting a grocery business is required to furnish a certain capital and is responsible for the full value of the stock, whereas a co-operative concern in starting is merely required to furnish the nearest post office with a list of the shareholders, and a shareholder is not responsible for any more than the amount of his share. This is not fair to the retail grocer, and it is sincerely hoped that the Senate will either throw out the bill or amend it.

GUELPH.

The annual meeting of the Guelph Clerks and Salesmens' Association was held on Tuesday evening and the following officers were elected for 1908: President, W. G. Hood; vice-president, F. Best; secretary, R. Robinson; executive committee, C. M. Passmore, E. G. Hicks, J. McKenzie, J. Dingman and B. McDonald. As four of these are grocery clerks the business is well represented and now comes the contest. The merchants' association have decided that the regular Thursday half-holiday will not be granted this year, but the clerks' association think they should have it. The public are about evenly divided. There should not be any hard feelings between these two associations and such a small question can be easily decided by having a joint meeting and threshing it out in a friendly debate. Those gentle persuasive manners that the clerks have will likely be able to fix that half-holiday all O.K. without any hard feelings. It would be a good idea for these associations to have a joint meeting occasionally, anyhow, and would create a much better feeling.

The Kandy Kitchen had a splendid confectionery window display for St. Patrick's Day. It had the Shamrock in the centre and in the two back corners were two large Harps of Erin all tastefully set-off with green ribbons and the rest of the window consisted of green bon bon boxes with clay pipes tied on the top. It made a nice display and was greatly admired.

There were only a fair crowd of farmers in town Saturday and business was not so good. The past few fine days have changed the prices a little, eggs dropping as low as 20c a dozen and potatoes to 75c a bag, while real choice apples are scarce. The garden seeds have started to sell and from now on business ought to be good.

Prof. Harcourt, of the O.A.C. has left on an extended trip to England and Germany to prosecute inquiries relating to the methods adopted there in preventing, discovering, and generally dealing with the adulteration of food products. He will pay particular attention to what is known as the chemistry of foods.

VANCOUVER.

Butter from Oregon is on the market this week, having been brought in by a couple of local firms. It is not of particularly good quality and is going at 30c. It was a special shipment, and is now all in the hands of retailers. However, it is not any better than the eastern creamery, though at the present time a change in name will often bring a good sale. New California butter is expected on the market here next week.

In the Puget Sound country south of Vancouver, there is what might be called a butter war. To meet a cut in Portland, Seattle, jobbers dropped Washington creamery to 32c, after considerable consideration. Seattle was expecting the new California article in a week ago, and as there is good demand there, Vancouver and other British Columbia coast cities will have to wait a little longer.

As the result of the rise in California quotations, there is an increase of 40c a case in oranges, which are now going at about $2.65. Oranges are riper now than they have been this winter, and it is only lately that really good fruit has been available. With the ripeness comes more shrinkage, which dealers have to allow for.

* * *

The apples here just now are nearly all American, another large shipment arriving during the week. These are held at from $2.25 to $2.50 per box, with Ben Davis at $2. The special Okanagan fruit, which is always in demand, is not to be had in any quantity.

California vegetables, such as cucumbers, etc., are here, but at prices prohibitive except as luxuries.

Things are looking fine for British Columbia fruit. Martin Burrill, who went with R. M. Palmer, head of the provincial bureau of information, to England, with the exhibit from this province, is back again. Mr. Burrill delivered a course of lectures in the Old Country, and is greatly pleased with the interest that was shown and the attention which is being given to British Columbia as a fruit-growing country.

On top of this comes the news of the high prices being paid for British Columbia apples in the Old Country, the following being figures at Glasgow: New Pippins, $3.50 to $4.75; Kings, $4.30; Nonsuch, $3.10 to $4.10; Salome, $4.10; Spitz, $3.50 to $4.10; Spies $3.50.

A correspondent at Kaslo, which might be called one of the new districts, writes that trees there produced from ten to twelve boxes each, with trees planted at about 100 to the acre. The cost of production, including grower's wages and all other expenses, is approximately 50c per box. These figures give large results in the way of profits.

That no effort is to be spared by the Kootenay Fruit Growers' Association in putting the best on the market is shown by the engagement of R. C. Brock a noted expert of the Hood River Valley, Oregon, to act as secretary and to instruct the ranchers in the best methods of packing and planting.

That the best nursery stock is produced in the province is indicated by the large order for many different kinds received from Bellingham, Washington State, by M. J. Henry, of Vancouver. This, despite the fact that large nurseries are located in that State.

A movement is on foot just now to organize a co-operative society, and a committee is active with the preliminaries. It is found a little more difficult than ordinary owing to the fact that the recent hard times has put many a workingman in debt with his dealer. Although the success of similar organizations in the Old Country are pointed to as an example and as a reason for the success of a society in Vancouver, still people are deterred from joining by the threat of the store-keeper who will demand payment of back accounts, failing which there will be actions in court. The co-operative business would mean the removal of the trade of its members, who would establish their own businesses in various lines, and buying direct would sell at the profit of operation. A further meeting will be held next week, when it is expected officers will be appointed.

The cannery projects in Chilliwack and Penticton are going ahead, and the prospects are that with the fruit season these two establishments will be in operation. At Penticton a committee consisting of J. R. Mitchell, G. F. Guernsey, S. W. Hatch, S. J. Heales and J. W. Macfie has been appointed to complete organization. Every encouragment has been met with, and although money is close, it has been surprising how the people have responded to the call for funds.

THE NEXT CROP SEASON

Are we to have an early spring? Has the past winter been favorable for a good crop the coming summer? These are questions which are not only of general interest but which retailers may chat about with their farmer customers.

The authorities in the observatory at Toronto say that at present, conditions, particularly in Eastern Canada, are very springlike. While a large quantity of snow still remains in the country districts there is very little frost in the ground and conditions generally seem very favorable for the early opening of the spring activity.

In the west conditions are not quite so favorable. Considerable snow fell in Alberta and also in Northern Quebec about the 21st and this will delay the opening somewhat.

The outlook in the West, however, is much more favorable than at this time last year, the authorities say. A year ago heavy sleet and snow storms were prevalent and some of the branch railroads were blocked up for three weeks. Nothing similar to this is anticipated this year.

The question as to whether the past winter has been a favorable one for the crop outlook seems rather difficult to determine. The old idea that a heavy winter meant a good crop, while it has some foundation, is not altogether true, the agricultural authorities say, for the prevalence of other conditions may destroy the good results of a heavy snowfall.

For ideal winter conditions, from the standpoint of the agriculturist, the snow must come early, before the heavy frosts, and must remain all winter, though the fall must not be too heavy.

Snow is a good fertilizer. When falling, through chemical action, it brings down an appreciable amount of ammonia, which is held in solution in the air, and deposits this in the ground, and this chemical is effective in supplying nitrogen to the growing crop.

Crops need air, and water standing on a field of fall wheat drowns or "smothers" it out. In an open winter the same thing occurs, for the ground freezes solidly and causes this "smothering." Hence the benefit of an early snowfall, which allows an access of air to the crop. Again, alternate freezings and thawings tend to heave up the ground, which is in turn also very hard on the young plants.

While the snowfall of the past winter has been quite heavy, which condition would seem to be favorable to an optimistic outlook, the snow came late, and pre-existing conditions may not have been too favorable.

While no bulletins have yet been issued, the authorities tell us that the prospects for fall wheat in Ontario are fairly good and conditions may be better than can be foreseen at the present time.

SUGAR PRICES CLIMBING.

Interest in the grocery markets just now is centered in sugar, which has assumed a decidedly critical position. With the heavy advances of the past four weeks prices are on a basis which have not been approached since the memorable boom of 1905.

Strong as it is at present, the sugar market is not yet near the level it may be expected to reach before next summer. Indeed, those who gather market opinion, say that the present situation is assuming characteristics similar to those in 1905. In that year a loss of 10,000 tons in the European crops was the basis for ruling prices, when European beets were held at 16¾ cents, and American raws at 5.31 cents.

This season we face reports of a materially decreased output of the cane crops in Cuba, Porto Rico, Trinidad, St. Kitts. Antigua, Demerara and the West Indies. Java and Mauritius also report decreased estimates. This means that there will be an enormous demand on this continent for foreign beets, and it is said that Canadian refiners will also have to look there for supplies.

Another point, which may be counted on to give stability to this situation is the fact that a season of large business in sugar is just ahead. The heavy demand during the summer seems likely to sustain prices, not only as based at present, but which will in all probability climb many points higher before May.

FLUCTUATIONS IN COCOA.

The market for that interesting fruit, the cocoa bean, whose products are so delicious and are so widely used and sold by confectioners and grocers, has borne about as much manipulation as ever falls to the lot of foodstuffs, during the last few months.

It will be remembered that during 1907 by reason of reduced production the price of cocoa beans increased fully fifty per cent. till all lines of chocolates were affected. At the end of the year, through the effect of the financial stringency and reports of increased production in Trinidad, the market was again forced down sharply. At this time speculators, seeing some opportunities in the situation, sold the market short, and another advance, amounting to six cents a pound, was made.

Following this came a natural decline and in the past two months the price of Trinidad beans dropped from 24 to 15 cents.

Last week, however, the speculators got busy again, and manufacturers who were preparing to lower the prices on their products were checked by a sudden jump this week to 21 cents. How long that price will prevail is not to be prophesied. Some dealers say this basis is justified by crop conditions and others attribute it to speculation. What the next move will be is a question that no one seems to want to answer.

CHEAP EGGS FOR EASTER.

The egg market has been suffering a steady slump during the past few weeks. The heavy importations of American new laid eggs caused a break in the high prices ruling some time ago. Since then there has been a gradual decline until lately the market has taken tumbles of several cents. This has been due in a great measure to the unusually heavy receipts lately of Canadian eggs. Shipments of American eggs are now practically nil. Advices from different sections of the country state that the hens are laying even more freely and the trade are looking forward to very liberal supplies. In view of the present and anticipated heavy offerings, it is a pretty safe forecast that Easter eggs will be within the reach of everyone. The consumptive demand cannot cope with the present rate of offerings. An easier market and lower prices are assured.

Anent the egg situation, recent despatches from American points declare that banks will not loan more than ten cents a dozen on egg certificates. As high as fifteen cents has been obtained before. This action on the part of the banks will check speculative buying and tend to depress prices. Dealers here state that its effect on the Canadian market will be somewhat similar and that the price of eggs will be much lower throughout the present year.

INCENTIVES OF GOOD SALESMANSHIP.

Not long since the members and employes of a Minneapolis mercantile company enjoyed an unique banquet to celebrate the closing of a successful year and as the outcome of an interesting contest.

The firm offered its salesmen an extra commission on all sales for a given period preceding Christmas, and to make the matter more exciting, the salesmen were divided into two teams with captains over each and it was agreed the team ending the stipulated period with a smaller total of sales than the other should pay for the banquet out of its extra commissions. At the finish, the total of sales showed a difference of only a few dollars, which proves the contest was a close and exciting one.

A similar contest between the various sections of Canadian grocery stores could be arranged to advantage, the net result being a big boost to sales and the creation of a better feeling amongst the sales staff.

DELAYED IN SENATE.

Mr. Monk's Co-operative Bill whose provisions were fully described in this paper several weeks ago, and which was apparently railroaded through the House a couple of weeks ago when representations had been made to those interested that it would be given further consideration, was discussed at some length in the Senate on Tuesday of this week.

Senator McMullen, championed the cause of the retail merchants in Canada, said that their interests as a class should be considered and cited instances where co-operative organizations had not been successful.

Several other members spoke on other aspects of the question.

After considerable debate the bill passed the second reading and was referred to the banking committee. Considerable hope is entertained that the Senate may refuse to allow the bill to pass the third reading.

THE SITUATION IN THE WEST

The Western Viewpoint by our Special Winnipeg Correspondent.

The end of another week brings the most springlike weather, a general forward movement of immigration, the letting of large railway construction contracts, the advertising for men for construction camps and a very sharp increase in the inquiries for real estate. In another week or so it will be possible to say something of the outlook for seeding, if the present weather continues.

One of the events of the week was the signing of the contract for the building of the first 100 miles of G.T.P. east from Prince Rupert. This is practically all rock work and represents an outlay of somewhere between five and ten million dollars, more probably the larger amount.

Big Business in Railway Supplies.

The purchasing of supplies for the enormous gangs of men that will be employed has already begun. Work on another contract on the G.T.P. is also being pushed, this is the 100 miles west from Edmonton. East from Winnipeg on the transcontinental line, nearly 7,000 men are employed and daily fresh men are being sent out to the various camps of J. D. McArthur, who has the contract for this work. The supplies for this army represent very decent trade in themselves. The beef for these camps is nearly all brought in and slaughtered at Winnipeg, and during the month of February alone the beef bills ran close to $50,000 to say nothing of the smoked and dried meats that are consumed.

Land Deals and Immigration.

In real estate the event of the week has been the purchase by the William Pearson Co. of 90,000 acres of land in the Last Mountain district of Saskatchewan, from the Canadian Northern Railway. The actual price paid for this land could not be ascertained, but it was evidently a long one, judging by the figures the Pearson Company are asking and obtaining for individual farms. Another land transaction is the reserving of 50,000 acres in the Tramping Lake district near Battleford, Saskatchewan for the Lutheran Colonization Co., of Hastings, Nebraska. For this colony a large number of people will be brought in by special trains this spring and afterwards the company will continue to bring in parties, their object being to secure cheap homes for Lutherans on the fertile lands of the Canadian West.

Spasmodic Wheat arket.

The wheat market has been a dull and unsatisfactory one nearly all the week, with spasmodic advances and retreats, and but a limited demand for cash grain one day and a rush the next.

Holders of large quantities of low grade wheat at Fort William are becoming anxious as to its movement, fearing that it will not reach the seaboard in time. There has been a recent complaint that not sufficient cars are obtainable at the lake front. It is just possible that some of this congestion is due to men who held wheat intending to resell it in store at Fort William and not having done so are now obliged to ship and have thus caused a sudden rush for cars.

Distributing Seed Grain.

The distribution of seed grain is progressing rapidly and there is no doubt that this season more choice seed will be sown than ever before in the Canadian West. All seed will be delivered by the middle of April at the latest.

One of the features of this seed distribution that should not be overlooked is the splendid generosity of the railways. The reduction in freight for the carrying of seed is over 7 cents per bushel and when it is remembered that probably 4,000,000 bushels of wheat and oats will be moved back and forwards it is possible to realize what this reduction means. The price of wheat for seed, of eaen the highest grade, is $1.18 a bushel, when many looked for it to be $1.50. The wheat and oats were well bought and the buying reflects infinite credit on C. C. Castle, the commissioner who was entrusted with the task.

The Future of the Grain Exchange.

The splendid building in course of erection for the Winnipeg Grain and Produce Exchange will be offered for sale by Sheriff, the members refusing under their emasculated charter to invest another dollar in a fund to complete it. An unchartered company may be formed to buy building in.

Matters in reference to the Winnipeg Grain and Produce Exchange have taken a very definite shape during the week. Ever since the bill amending the charter was assented to the members of the exchange have been devising ways and means of making a disposition of their property so as to reduce their loss as much as possible. The council of the exchange has held many meetings and there have been many informal gatherings of members for discussion and one or two regular meetings, the nature of which was not given out to the press, but which were admittedly to find a solution of the difficulty, if possible.

Finally it was announced that a special general meeting was called for Friday, March 20, at which the council would report their findings and the whole matter would be dealt with.

The meeting was duly convened and the attendance was the largest in the history of the exchange, fully 200 memberships being represented, a number of members having come in from distant points of the west to attend.

The secretary read the report of the council, which reviewed the present critical financial situation of the exchange regarding the ownership of the $500,000 building in course of erection, which was allegedly the result of the amendment to the exchange's charter, and suggested three courses of action.

After some consideration and a couple of other resolutions, the matter was settled by the passing of the following motion :

"That in view of the financial situation of the exchange, as set forth in the notice convening this meeting, the council is hereby authorized and instructed to inform the contractors and the creditor banks that the said exchange, in consequence of the recent legislation passed at the last session of the legislature, is unable to make financial arrangements to meet its obligations to them."

Thus the whole property of the exchange, with the uncompleted building, is thrown on the hands of the contractors and there is only one course open and that is for the contractors to have it sold by the sheriff.

May Form a "Holding Company."

Though no members of the Winnipeg Grain and Produce Exchange are willing to risk another dollar on property to be held in the name of that body, there is a strong feeling on the part of nearly all the members in the city that they would like to buy the building in when it is sold and many schemes have been talked over.

After the formal meeting on Friday afternoon it was thought well, considering the number of country members in the city, to call an informal meeeing of exchange members and lay the schemes before them. This was done and a chairman and secretary, pro tem, selected. Though this meeting was composed of members of the grain exchange it was a private meeting and had nothing whatever to do with the exchange as a body. The discussion of ways and means was long and animated, but the plan of forming "a holding company" to buy in the building was generally favored. It seemed to be considered that this would be feasible as from the location and plan of the building it is not sufficiently desirable as an office building to make outsiders keen to buy it and it would be necessary for whoever did buy to bid up to some $500,000 and of this some $300,000 would have to be cash to release the equity of the exchange in the building. If, however, a purchaser is found willing to go to a figure that will cover the indebtedness to banks and contractors and release the equity of the members to him, the property will go.

If however, the property is bought in by "a holding company" they will complete the building with a view, of course, of its being used by the grain traders of Winnipeg. The exchange, of course, will practically cease to exist with the passing of the property into other hands, but unless there is a general move to Fort William, which may not come for some months, and possibly not for a year, there must be grain trading in Winnipeg. The initiated seem to feel confident that a voluntary partnership of the old members of the exchange will be formed to carry on business and secure markets. There will be no charter, as it will be a purely voluntary company, but it is rumored the price of memberships to any but old members of the present grain exchange will be sufficiently high to keep any undesirables out of the company. Having no charter, such a company will be subject only to the common law of the land and cannot be legislated against for the amusement or the benefit of any class whatever. Any such voluntary partnership would, without doubt, be operated, so far as rules and by-laws are concerned, along the same lines as the present exchange, the rules and by-laws of which have been pronounced again and again entirely in accordance with common law. Unless this can be done the whole grain trade will be in a hopeless muddle, and even if eventually this scheme is worked out, there must be months of chaos and uncertainty and always heavy financial loss not only to members of the exchange, but also eventually to the producers, when they begin to feel the influence of this extremely chaotic manner of trading.

Situation Affects Financial Corporations.

The passing of this confiscatory legislation is already being felt in many directions and in none more than in financial corporations. Head offices in England and in the east are instituting the most searching inquiry into the effect of this legislation on vested interests and in not a few cases insurance and other companies holding provincial charters are quietly but rapidly taking steps to secure Dominion charters or put their companies on some different basis.

The attitude of large loan companies and banks is that if this legislation is possible in the case of one provincial charter it is possible in all, and that therefore loans to any company or corporation having a provincial charter are more or less unsafe and to be avoided for the future.

MAY IMPORT TEA DUST FREE.

Bill Favoring Manufacturers Likely to Pass Congress.

The following item from a recent issue of the New York Herald will be interesting to Canadian readers: "The bill that has been periodically introduced by Senator Stone, of Missouri, and by his predecessor, Senator Cockrell, to permit the free importation of tea dust and tea sweepings will be favorably reported by the Ways and Means Committee of the House. Caffeine and its associate drug, theine, so largely used in the compounding of headache remedies and similar medicaments, are manufactured from the dust and sweepings of tea, whose importation is forbidden by the act of 1897."

REDUCED RAILWAY FARES.

Latest Move in Connection With Montreal Exhibition of Groceries.

Through the energetic efforts put forth by the management arrangements for the holding of the Montreal Exhibition of Groceries are rapidly being completed.

Reduced railway fares is the latest idea. It has been arranged that railway companies shall sell lowest one-way first-class tickets for the round trip. From stations where one-way first-class fare to Montreal does not exceed $2.50 tickets will be sold good going Thursday and Friday, April 23 and 24, and returning until Wednesday, April 29. From Kingston, Sharbot Lake, Renfrew and east in the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, tickets will be sold good going Wednesday, April 22, and valid for return until Wednesday, April 29.

As the fair starts April 17 and runs until April 29, it will be seen at its best during the time of the reduced railway fares. Grocers who can possibly manage to attend the exhibition should do so, as the educative value of the visit well merits the slight expenditure entailed.

There are doubtless many grocers who have occasion to visit Montreal periodically. Any who do should seize this opportunity of killing two birds with one stone.

Space is rapidly being sold, One of the latest booths sold will contain a display of Balmoral pure food products.

A HALF CENTURY'S RECORD

When a manufacturing business has been successful continuously for over half a century, without a halt, it has certainly achieved a very enviable record and naturally this fact is given a dependence by consumers, in the goods made by such a concern.

The Boeckh Brush Factories in Toronto were established in 1856 and it has been their continuous success that has made the present large demand for the always reliable "Boeckh Brushes." Almost from the very start, the name Boeckh has been recognized as an assurance of excellence of quality and value—the natural result being that to-day nearly 80 per cent. of all the brushes made in Canada bear this name.

Their manufactures comprise a varied line of spring goods and those who have not already got in line for the "Spring Cleaning and Painting Up Sale" should do so at once as the demand for brushes particularly is heavier at this season than at any other time.

Markets and Market Notes

Sugar Situation Exceedingly Strong With Active Business—Changes in Several Staple Lines—News From the World's Markets.

QUEBEC MARKETS

Montreal, March 25th.

POINTERS—

Sugar—Up 20c and very firm.
Eggs—Easier, receipts heavy.
Butter—Easier.
Maple Syrup—New crop expected.
Tapioca—Firmer in Singapore.
Beans—Down 5c.
Coffees—Maracaibos scarce and higher.

The high price of sugar at present is responsible for considerable comment among the dealers, and the prospect of its being higher before May is not favorably received. The heavy receipts of fresh laid eggs are responsible for quite a decline in prices this week. The demand is strong also, but in some cases the receipts exceed the requirements of the market considerably. Tapioca is reported as being firmer in Singapore, but no advance in price is noticeable locally. Beans are easier, being quoted at $1.75 to $1.85 this week. Butter is easier also. Fresh made is being received and is quoted at 31c to 32c. Fresh dairy rolls are in good demand, and are scarce. Prices, however, are lower in sympathy with creamery. Japan and Gunpowder teas are reported in good demand this week. Conditions in the country are better, and payments are being received more freely so that an improved condition of affairs rules.

SUGAR—The sugar market is very firm at the advanced prices, with an upward tendency. On Thursday of last week the price was raised 10c, and on Friday another advance of 10c took place. While any further rise is not looked for at present, it is the general opinion that before May 1 the price will be $5 a barrel for granulated. The demand at present is heavy.

CANNED GOODS

Montreal—The demand for canned goods is quite as good as it was last week, dealers reporting a good request for all lines, especially for fish and fruits.

Toronto—Demand is a little more active this week with corn and peas the favored lines in buying. There is some talk of the supply of peas being short, but there seems to be enough to supply local demand.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Sugar—Advanced 20c., exceedingly firm.
Prunes—Moving well.
Eggs—Slumped 5c. and weak.
Cocoa—Unsteady.
Collections—Fair.

Toronto, March 26, 1908.

Business continues encouraging in wholesale circles though reports are not quite so enthusiastic as a week ago. Collections are fair and retailers are beginning to meet their paper somewhat more satisfactorily.

The feature of the week, of course, has been the heavy advances in sugar and the critical condition of the markets, both primary and local. Cocoa beans, under speculative operations, have been fluctuating widely and are now on a basis almost even with the recent large advance.

A material slump in eggs under heavy supplies is the notable fact in the provision business.

TEAS—A fair business is being done locally, with demand prevalent for lower grades.

The slightly easier feeling in lower grades noted during the last month seems to be disappearing, owing to the removal of somewhat artificial conditions and the market seems to be recovering its former high basis. In their weekly circular, dated March 12, Wm. Jas. & Hy. Thompson say:

"Indications are not wanting that the outlook is gradually becoming brighter, for the board of trade returns show a better state of affairs than the London figures, inasmuch as the total deliveries are fully equal to those recorded during February, 1907, while the shortage in the bonded stocks has grown from 1¾ to 3 million lbs. In these circumstances it is scarcely surprising that the market is beginning to assume a healthier tone, while there has been a noticeable disposition on the part of buyers to purchase more freely than of late. The fact also that re-exports so far this month are on a level with those for the corresponding period last year seems to justify the hope that we may look for a removal before long of the one unsatisfactory feature of the past few months trading.

"It is interesting to note that, in spite of the heavy increase of 5½ millions in the arrivals from China during the three months ending February, duty payments during the same period were only 1½ millions ahead—thus showing how small, even at a time of scarcity in common tea, is the proportion of this growth distributors are in a position to use in their blends."

COFFEE—Local business continues very fair at steady prices. Willett & Gray say of the situation abroad:

"Occasional larger receipts at Santos than expected from the recently confirmed smaller estimates have prompted inquiries for an explanation. The answers unhesitatingly adhere to the estimates of total receipts at Santos of about 6¾ millions, judging from the supplies remaining in the interior. Occasional increased receipts are therefore ascribed to the higher values that rule at Santos for coffees with merit, so that if the movement is thus increased somewhat only a small quantity is left behind and means very light receipts for the balance of the crop. These advices are cabled by leading houses in Brazil and are entitled to full consideration. Meanwhile consumption goes on with ever increasing volume, and although there never was a time when buying was restricted so closely as now, the American deliveries are maintained on a remarkably good level, with smaller supplies than ever in the interior.

"The receipts at Santos and Rio for 8½ months so far of the season were 8,800,000 bags, and during that time the stocks at Rio and Santos have decreased 1,650,000 bags, so that consuming markets have purchased in the same period from those two ports 10,450,000 bags of coffee. The world's visible meanwhile has decreased over 500,000 bags. This of itself indicates annual consumption of Santos and Rio coffees upwards of 13,500,000 bags, and just as much as the Santos and Rio crops fall short of that quantity must come out of the reserves in consuming markets.

"Not only is the San Paulo Government holding firmly to their determination not to offer any of their coffees until their limit of price is reached and the trade calls for the coffee, they are about to start an extensive propaganda looking to increased consumption of Santos coffees, with large appropriations to carry it out, under a systematic commission of experts."

SUGAR—An advance of 10 cents occured on Friday, and another followed on Saturday, these putting prices on a basis of $4.90. These advances are all justified by conditions abroad which have been outlined in these columns from week to week.

The markets at the present time are exceptionally strong, so much so that the situation seems to be assuming the characteristics of the boom of 1905, when Europe advanced to 16¾c for beets and the American market to $5.31 for raws and $6.15 refined and a basis of $5.75 was reached in Canadian markets.

Willett & Gray say of the present situation in raws:

"Sufficient information came to our hands this week to cause use to revise our Cuba crop estimate by a reduction of 100,000 to 1,000,000 tons, as explained elsewhere.

"This reduction in connection with reports of Mr. F. O. Licht that the weather in Europe continues unfavorable for work in the beet fields, started a fresh speculation on the European sugar exchanges carrying beet sugar up to 11s. 0¾d. at the close against 10s. 6¾d. at the beginning of the week under review an advance of 6d., equal to ½c per lb.

"In our local markets the sympathetic rise was for 96 degrees Centrifugals on spot from 4.05c per lb. to 4.125c per lb. and Cuba sugars for shipment from 2¾c to 2⅞c c. & f., an advance of ⅛c per lb.

"Centrifugals at the close are 9c per 100 lb. below beet parity, against 11c per 100 lbs. difference last week and making little progress towards closing the gap. Cost and freight offerings at 2⅞c 96 degrees test (4.24c duty paid) were all absorbed, leaving the lowest sellers at 3c c. & f.

"There should be liberal offerings on the 3c per lb. level for Centrifugals which may delay a further advance for a little time, at least.

"In view of the reduction of 100,000 tons in the estimate of the Cuba crops, the indications are that 200,000 tons of European beet sugar will be needed this summer to give a moderate stock.

"Purchases of beet sugar in Europe to extent of 20,000 tons are reported and the destination is probably New Orleans.

"The number of Centrals grinding in Cuba is reduced to 154, and Guma-Mejer reduce their estimate of the crop to 900,000 tons minimum or 1,000,000 tons maximum."

They estimate the Cuban crop as follows:

"We continue to receive many complaints from Cuba of disappointing outturns of the sugar crop. Tonnage of cane per acre is proving to be less than estimated by the planters early in the season, in instances as much as 20 to 50 per cent. less, and the recent drought has had the effect of diminishing the quantity of juice in the cane. In view of such unfavorable results in the principal sugar producing sections of the Island, we have reduced our estimate of the total Cuban crop to 1,000,000 tons."

Considering all the facts the situation is indeed a critical one and no relief is looked for till May at least. Members of the trade in Toronto are laying wagers this week that sugar wil sell for 5½ cents wholesale before May and there are few takers.

The American refiners made another advance of 10 points on Wednesday. At time of writing this had not affected the Canadian situation, and prices are quoted as below. An advance in Canadian refined, is, however, expected to follow this, and may take place before this issue reaches our readers.

If retailers have not yet laid in a somewhat substantial stock of sugar, a consideration of the conditions of the market can only point them to one course of action.

TRADE NOTES.

The Maple Syrup Produce Co., of Bolton Forest, Que., has been registered.

Grocers who handle pork and pork products would do well to send their name to Joseph O'Mara, Palmerston, for his Easter price list.

Attention is called to the special advertisement in this issue of E. W. Gillett Co., Limited, warning buyers against the purchase of a so-called Gillett's lye, which is said to be put on the market by an unscrupulous United States firm. It would be well to watch for and avoid this imitation article.

J. J. Pickup, who was formerly with Shaw T. Nishimura, Montreal, and also with J. L. Watt & Scott, Toronto, has opened a general brokerage business in Toronto and has secured the agency for a leading London tea house and also for two large green fruit dealers in New York. His temporary office is at 83 Shuter St.

Gillett's Lye WARNING!

Within the last few days we have learned that a concern in the Lye business in Chicago have offered, what they call "Gillett's Lye" to the wholesale trade in Canada. The concern selling and those who might buy would be liable under the Canadian Trade-mark Act and Canadian laws, and besides under the Anti-dumping Clause the article would not be admitted at an under valuation. We warn the trade against buying these goods as we intend to protect our proprietary rights to the full extent of the law.

American Can Company Acquires Interest in Sanitary Co.

The following announcement, which was circulated this week, is of considerable interest to the canning trade in general :

"The American Can Company has acquired an interest in the Sanitary Can Company, and the Sanitary Can Company has arranged to move its New York headquarters to the building of the American Can Company, No. 447 West 14th street, at an early date. The management of the Sanitary Can Company's business will remain with Messrs. William Y. Bogle, president, and George W. Cobb, general manager, and its present organization will be continued as heretofore in all departments. The several departments of the two companies will, however, be in close touch, and will act in concert when such action shall be to the advantage of the patrons of either company."

Goodhand & Miller, grocers, of Watford, Ont., have sold to A. Cameron.

Eggs Declined Sharply With Easier Feeling in Butter—Cheese Firm With Scanty Stocks—Review of the Packing Situation.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

Montreal March 25.

Supplies are rapidly dwindling, and holders of cheese are letting their stock out in small lots at steadily advancing figures. True, the upward tendency of the market is not observable in any startling jumps in quotations, but figures are getting higher ½c at a time. This week white is quoted at 13½c to 13¾c by one house. This is an advance of ½c over last week. Some firms are still selling at last week's figures, but the most conservative are firmer in their views. Colored is unchanged in price, something in the neighborhood of 13½c being asked by those with stocks to offer.

As the weeks slip on more houses are finding themselves in the position of a few who last week were reported as declaring themselves unable to give authoratative information because they were not in the market, having no stocks.

Demand is not particularly brisk, but the steady consumption, which always necessitates a certain quantity, is cleaning up the small holdings, which are not being replaced by current receipts. Few lots of cheese are coming forward. weekly receipts for the past three periods of six days averaging but 50 boxes.

Last week receipts amounted to 80 boxes, against 7 boxes previous week and 42 boxes same week last year. Total receipts to date amount to 2,053,992 boxes, against 2,349,833 boxes same period one year ago.

Butter sold last week, finest, at 30c to 31c. This week the highest asked by any house is 30½c, but this is not the ruling figure. The best creamery is obtainable anywhere from 28c to 30c. Most concerns are asking 28½c to 29½c. This easier feeling is evidently the forerunner of an easiness which will make itself felt as the new season's butter comes on the market. It is no doubt a fact also that the falling off in consumption caused by high prices forced many houses to bring their quotations down to a level within easier reach of the average grocer. That the price should be weaker is hardly what one would expect at this time when holdings are so light and becoming less every week.

Dealers report a very satisfactory trade with city grocers, while sales to country retailers are also very good. Some nice orders of one to two hundred packages are reported.

During the period when butter was sold at skyrocket prices grocers did a great business in honey, syrups and other lines of food products which in a measure took the place of butter. Sales of these are still noticeably larger than usual at this time of year, especially in the case of corn syrups, but with butter dropping down to its old level, and the prospect of fresh new creamery, no doubt many who temporarily were forced to do without butter will return to that generally regarded necessary table article. On the other hand, the maple syrup season will shortly be in full swing, and many consumers do not consider it necessary to use both maple syrup and butter. It is probable, therefore, that unless butter prices continue downward demand will show no appreciable improvement within the next few weeks. Many dealers are just as glad of this, as their stocks are not large, and they anticipate having just enough to go around. Some houses expect to see a firmer market.

First packages of new creamery will be welcomed. Supplies will hardly come forward in any quantity until the new season is well on its way toward the end of April at the very earliest. Country points are short of butter of every kind, and will consume all that is made in their districts for the first few weeks. After that the creameries will get a supply ahead, and will be in a position to ship to the city more freely.

Dairy butter is a little easier this week, being quoted 25c to 26c. Receipts last week amounted to 240 packages, against 370 packages previous week and 1,168 packages same week a year ago. Total receipts to date amount to 416,093 packages, against 611,303 packages same date a year ago.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

Toronto, March 26th.

Though Canadian packers are offering somewhat higher prices this week and conditions in the local markets seem to be slightly more encouraging, matters abroad are on the same unsatisfactory basis.

While the American shipments were lighter last week, those busy shippers, the Danes, again made record "killings," their deliveries on the British market aggregating 43,000. Considering this, it is small matter for wonder that the British market is dull and it seems quite evident that there will not be a great deal of demand for Canadian bacon until these immense Danish shipments are curtailed.

In the meantime, Canadian packers are moving along, in some instances running their plants at a loss. The past week they have been running at about three-quarter time, and with light demand, as above, and light deliveries, the question of keeping their labor employed is a pressing one.

Canadian farmers have been objecting very strongly to the prices offered for hogs for some months back and in many cases are threatening to go, and have gone out of the business. As a matter of fact, the prices offered by Canadian packers have been considerably above those offered elsewhere, and at times seemed to be above what market conditions would justify.

As a result of this American shippers have been able, even under the handicap of a 2 and 3-cent duty, to unload a large amount of pork products on the Canadian market, particularly in the West. This business occurs to more or less extent every year, but has been much larger this year than usual.

How the Canadian situation is regarded in Great Britain is shown in the following letter which came from a selling agent of considerable authority in England to one of the large Canadian packers last week:

"No improvement to report nor is there likely to be any till the Danish killings let up. Canadian packers are playing the fool game to perfection. Where is the sense of keeping up the price of hogs to such a high level, that it allows American packers the run of your Canadian markets for their product. Such a policy is for lunatics and not one for sane men. The losses, of course, will be heavy and they are most richly deserved. We are selling slowly at 10s. per cwt. loss all the time."

Prices quoted have been rather unsteady this week. $5.25 f.o.b. was quoted generally on Tuesday, which is 10 points better than a week ago. There were rumors on Tuesday and Wednesday of a break to $5.40, but this could not be confirmed at time of writing. This should stimulate delivery to some extent, but stocks in farmers' hands are said to be rather low and packers seem to foresee a possibility of very dear hogs before fall.

Conditions existing in American markets last week are summarized in the following paragraphs from the New York Journal of Commerce:

"The past week has witnessed no great activity or change in the prices of hog products. Receipts of hogs have fallen off moderately and prices have advanced, especially at the East. Packers early week bulled the market and shorts covered. After mid-week they withdrew their support and prices fell back, notwithstanding hogs kept up and prices were stronger than early in the week for raw material. It is believed that the Cudahy Company and the beef trust are on opposite sides of the market, and the fluctuations have been caused as much by their operations as by legitimate influences. Offerings of cash stuff have been moderate with no pressure to sell, and in most cases held more firmly in the West; demand has only been of a hand-to-mouth character and no advances have been obtained except in speculative articles, chiefly in lard. Demand for that has been very light at the advanced prices asked, and exporters have been out except for small lots. They have inquired a little for meats at the West, but higher prices prevented business, as packers' consignments on the other hand are still cheaper than to buy here."

PROVISION MARKETS

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—The provision market remains firm. Pure lard is higher this week, having been advanced ½c on Tuesday. Compound lard is also very firm, as is also smoked meats. Hams and bacon are in good demand at unchanged prices. Other lines are unchanged.

BUTTER—The butter market is much easier this week, and all lines are lower in price. There is some fresh made creamery being received, and in consequence prices have declined. Fresh dairy rolls are in good request and scarce, but are slightly lower in price in sympathy with creamery. Held creamery is lower. An increase in receipts of fresh made creamery is expected early next month. At present it is quoted at 31c to 32c per lb.

Fresh large rolls	0 25	0 25½

EGGS—The egg market is much easier this week, owing to heavy receipts of fresh laid, which in some cases are in excess of the demand, although trade is brisk. The low prices of American eggs are also responsible to a certain extent for the easier prices locally. Fresh laid are quoted at 19c to 20c per doz. and still lower quotations are expected. Pickled eggs have declined considerably also, being quoted at 15c to 16c per dozen.

New laid	0 19	0 20

EGGS—As forecasted last week, another considerable decline in the price of new laid eggs has happened during the week. The offerings from Ontario points have been unusually heavy. No shipments from the United States are arriving. While the demand has improved greatly, it is not sufficient to equalize receipts. Prices have dropped 5c all round. The market is in a weak condition and a further drop seems assured.

WHOLESALE HOUSE FOR EDMONTON.

New Firm of Grocery Jobbers Will Bid for Alberta Trade.

A new wholesale grocery house is to open in Edmonton as soon as arrangements can be completed and the stock moved to that town. G. F. & J. Galt, wholesale teas, of Calgary, Winnipeg, Vancouver and other points, have taken space in the Morris block. William McNab, a resident of Edmonton for the past three years, has been appointed manager.

The new wholesalers will not only carry a stock of teas, but will put in a complete stock of their special lines for the Edmonton trade. It is not likely that the new branch will be open much before May 1, as it will take some time to fit up the premises and get the stock in.

WHY CEYLON TEA IS POPULAR.

In a recent number of this paper attention was directed to the amazing progress of Ceylon tea in popular favor in North America; and the statement was then made that it had won greatly upon its merits. It may not be out of place to give here a slight resume of the facts upon which this statement was based, and, also, some little description of the island, and of the tea itself, that may enable the reader to inform himself as to the latter's virtues and the causes to which they owe their being. That the climate is equable may be gathered from the fact that tea is picked the year round in Ceylon. The situation of the island—in the Indian Ocean—is evidence enough that it gets the full fructifying power of a tropic sun. The altitude of its plantations, some of which are located seven thousand feet above the sea, accounts for the vigor of the plant, and its consequent possession, in such high degree, of these natural properties that combine to make tea so comforting and inspiring a beverage. To the island's volcanic origin is due its independence of artificial soil-fertilization, and to it, also, are ascribed certain agreeable and beneficent peculiarities of the tea—notably its lemony flavor, which other countries have long and utterly in vain, attempted to reproduce.

Then, too, the island being in the possession of the English, Ceylon has the great advantage of European scientific cultivation, which has entirely replaced the primitive and ineffective Oriental methods. The happy-go-lucky way of curing and preparing the tea for markets by hand that still obtains, for example, in China and other tea-growing countries, has given way in Ceylon to machine processes, and these not only make for sanitation and economy, but also for uniformity of grade, etc.

Ceylon tea is consumed in vast quantities by the British, though not, it is true, to the extent that Indian is. The latter gives a heavier liquor, and seems to be preferred on that account "across the sea." Still, the milder Ceylon is largely used to tone down to the more fastidious palate, the Indian product's greater astringency and headiness. It is probably because of the fact that it affords a heppy blending of the delicacy and fragrance of the China tea with more or less of the full body and high stimulating powers of the Indian product that Ceylon so commends itself to tea drinkers in this country. Perhaps, too, American prejudice in favor of machine prepared food products has much to do with the enthusiastic welcome accorded it here.

The following word comes from Dawson: "The potato market is long on quantity, and sales are none too rapid. The egg market, while low, now and then on over-ice stock, is sufficiently well stocked to keep the price of ranch eggs down to $2 to $3 wholesale."

A COLUMN FOR CLERKS

Hints and Good Advice for the Grocer's Assistant—Qualities Which Make for Success in Any Business.

Employers want men who combine with ambition and material talents, honesty and capacity for hard work. Honesty means something more than financial reliability. It is the quality which makes a man work without watching the clock, or being afraid that he will give his employer more value than he is being paid for. The honest employe brings to his work the best effort of which he is capable and begrudges nothing where the interests of his employers are at stake. A young man was recently applying to a well-known employer for a position. He was in the midst of a rather glowing description of his qualifications for the place, when the employer interrupted him with: "Never mind about all this. There is just one thing I want to know. Will you work?"

Every man who intends to make himself of value to his employer and to win advancement (and the two go hand in hand, despite all that pessimists may say) must have this capacity for work. No matter how great his ability, how thorough his education, or how attractive his personality, these qualities are as worthless as a locomotive without fuel unless backed up by persistence and energy, wrote J. H. Hapgood in World's Work. He may be retained for a time because of his ability, but in the long race he will be found wanting. Some day his employer will be forced to give the position which he has hoped for, and which, by his natural talents, he is pre-eminently fitted to fill, to a man who, although less capable, has shown himself to be a worker.

In considering applicants for positions, employers are always on the watch for signs of this persistence. Many well-known business men think that they can judge a man on this point by the manner in which he seeks a place, and this is not a bad method. Men often advance to some responsible position, and then suddenly and without apparent reasons, fail and drop out. "The place got too big for him," we say. But in most cases the real reason for the failure is that the man began to slacken in effort, thinking that he had advanced so far on the ladder of success that he could afford to take things easy.

For the business man of to-day there is no such thing as taking things easy. The higher he gets, the more is expected of him, and the harder he must strive. The president of a great manufacturing company, for example, says that one of his duties alone, the securing of capable assistants, is harder work than he ever had to do when he was only the head of a minor department. The man who does not realize that continuous effort is essential to a general manager as to an office boy, will not be of permanent value.

It is work that makes a good salesman—not natural ability, appearance, or personality. One of the best salesmen in the United States is red-headed, homely, uncouth, and poorly dressed—he does not seem capable of selling bread to a hungry millionaire. Yet he sells on an average more than $100,000 worth of goods a year, in a field where competition is remarkably keen. He succeeds by making hard work take the place of the adaptability, the personal magnetism, and the appearance which he lacks.

The perseverance of this salesman is the quality lacking in many men. Plenty of men can work hard when the road to success seems clear, but when difficulties thicken they lose their grip. Others work by spurts, keying themselves up to high pitches for brief periods, and then lapsing into half-hearted effort. Neither the fair weather type, nor the sky-rocket worker is desired. Employers want men who can be relied upon for even better effort when the skies are dark than in times of prosperity, and who will be as persistent the month after next as they are to-day.

The managing director of one of the largest British banking institutions, having more than one hundred branches throughout the world, attributes the failure of many men to not realizing this truth. It has been his observation that out of one hundred employes starting on an apparently equal footing, only ten ever rise above the surface, and of this number not more than one ever proves fit to hold permanently a position of great trust and responsibility. The other nine begin to take things easy as they advance farther and farther, and thus fail to reach their maximum value. For of fit men there is a great scarcity. Whenever found, large salaries and unlimited opportunities for advancement await them.

WHAT TO DO NEXT MONTH

Easter Trade Offers Opportunities to the Live Grocers—Opening of Spring Business—Preparations for Coming Summer.

April should be a good month for the grocer awake to the opportunities which lie before him, provided he is not afraid to work for the success of his business during the thirty days which commence next Wednesday.

During the premier part of the month the Lenten season, which began March 4, continues. There will be ample time to sell a considerable quantity of fish of all kinds right up to the last Friday of Lent, April 17. The fish department of the grocery store should be a paying one. If it is not at present it should be made so. Some grocers object to handling fish because of the extra trouble, of the danger of contamination of other goods through the odors, and a variety of other reasons, but there is really no objection to the line from the man who works. And he is the one who reaps the profits. Speaking further about fish for the remainder of the Lenten period, how about pushing package goods a little more strenuously? There are a number of Canadian packers of fish who put up most attractive lines at popular prices. These goods are, as a rule, much appreciated by customers, probably you handle a line or two, at least, already. If not, give the goods a trial this month and you will be rewarded. Package fish will become one of your steady lines.

Of course, it is Easter which looms up larger than anything else in April. Do you give much attention to the Easter trade? Or do you just go ahead in the same old way without taking advantage of the opportunities afforded you to increase your turnover at this season? Any number of grocers make April a mighty big month largely through their Easter sales.

Push Lines of Confectionery.

That confectionery department which has been a quiet section of the store since Christmas can now be boomed with profit. Easter time is a season of rejoicing on a mild scale. People have the holiday spirit, for a few days anyway, and there is no reason why you should not take advantage of the fact. They are willing to spend money for things which are not necessary, but which please them just the same. Easter eggs, made of chocolate, are obtainable in a variety of forms from all confectionery houses. The latter give considerable attention to the Easter trade and in consequence can show you a range of goods from which you will have no trouble in selecting a line of novelties for which you will find a ready market in your town.

Do not go into this matter in a half-hearted manner. Be the first grocer in the place to secure your stock. Get the pick of these specialties and devote time and energy—and advertising space—to letting the public know what you have for them. Besides the Easter eggs there are Easter rabbits, and other animals of this description; Easter baskets of fancy confectionery, and other sweetmeats adapted to Easter time.

When these goods arrive they should be put on display. They should be before the public at least a week before Easter Sunday. Some grocers arrange a neat table in the front part of the store; others place the goods in the confectionery showcases, while all make window displays, and the progressive merchants devote some of their advertising space to the novelties. Do not forget the chocolate specialties.

April 1 is generally conceded to be the first day of spring. Lines which the grocer can push to advantage for the spring and early summer trade should be looming large before the eyes of the up-to-date merchant. It goes without saying that spring goods should be in the hands of the grocer in April.

Special Spring Lines.

Among the spring lines which find ready sale are butter, eggs and other lines coming from the farmer, such as maple sugar, maple syrups, and kindred products. Butter has been very expensive all winter, but towards the middle of April the new make will be finding its way onto the markets, and, as receipts increase there will be a decline in prices. Already, early as it is, the approach of the new season is influencing the butter market. People will be glad to get the first of the new season's creamery. It's a good idea to stock up early. Eggs, "strictly new laid"—those that we can depend upon—will be coming in freely toward the middle of April, and with consequent lower prices there ought to be room for numerous sales.

What About Maple Products?

Then, the maple syrup and maple sugar season opens in earnest in April. Get the pure article and push it strenuously. Let people know you have the genuine. Everybody likes maple syrup. The real article is delicious, especially in the spring time. Then, too, everybody knows that they are likely to get what they ask for when they request maple syrup right in the maple syrup season. Avoid the impure syrup as poison. Of course, if you have some customers who do not care to pay the price for the pure article there are numerous mixtures which are excellent. But the point is this, do not sell a mixture for the real article.

Seeds, for the farm and the garden will be in demand during April. How about a few boxes? Your jobber will be able to supply you if you ask him.

And, going back to Easter again, smoked meats are worth considering. There is a strong demand for these around this season. Do not delay in ordering. Get into the game early. Breakfast bacons, hams, and all these products find ready sale. And they are such staples that one has but to suggest them to a customer.

Plan for Spring Improvements.

It is just about this time that you ought to get busy about the store, warehouse and stable if you are going to do any spring house-cleaning. Going to increase space, do some painting, extend the warehouse? Do not put it off until those warm summer days when a fellow does not feel much like taking off his coat and working really hard on some such job. Chances are it will not be done in 1908 if you do.

In the store itself it will not do any harm to turn things around a bit. You have a lot of winter goods which are not seasonable. These should be gotten out of the way, either sold at special sales or stored. In any event, it will do no harm to get the must, dust and accumulations of the winter cleaned up. The store will have the brighter appearance for any such attention to it.

Look Up New Customers.

And spring time is the season to get after those old customers who have not been buying much from you of late, also those people whom you would like to have purchasing at your store. Everybody feels good at seeing the sunshine, the ice breaking up in the rivers and lakes, the snow disappearing and summer coming on. It is an opportune time to get in some good work. People are in a more receptive mood than they are at most other seasons, This is when you should make your advertisement in the local paper full of live interest, readable and racy, without being slangy or "smart." Everybody feels good. Show that you do too. Be enthusiastic in your advertising, in your manner. It will become catching, your clerks will be the better for your enthusiasm and so will your business.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

California Oranges in Heavy Demand—Potatoes Easier, Imported Vegetables Firm—Mild weather Slightly Affects the Fish Market.

There has been a decided improvement in the volume of business being transacted in fruits. The change from cold to warm weather has stiffened the demand. Prices of nearly all lines are firm to higher, with advances already made in certain lines. Navel oranges are practically monopolizing the orange market at present. The quality of the navels arriving is excellent. Prices have been advanced 10 and 15c. California lemons are steady under a good demand. The market for bananas is beginning to open up and dealers are preparing for increased business. There is still talk of a crop shortage and it is highly probable that prices will advance. Pineapples are firmer.

Considerable business continues to be transacted in vegetables. Potatoes are plentiful again, the heavy offerings being responsible for an easier feeling and a decline in prices. Beets are off the market, or, at least, very difficult to obtain. Turnips are getting scarce, as are also onions. Imported vegetables are arriving in heavier quantities. People seem to be buying better. Florida celery is a little lower. Boston lettuce, spinach and cucumbers are in good demand. Strawberries are arriving freely. Rhubarb and radish are being quoted this week.

The fish market continues in a healthy condition and business keeps well up to the previous level. The mild weather has but slightly weakened the consumptive demand. There are fears of a decided shortage before the Lenten season is over. Halibut has been moving very freely. Fresh haddock is replacing frozen haddock and is being secured in Boston. Prices remain unchanged.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—There is a fairly good demand for green fruits this week. All lines of oranges are in good demand. Strawberries and grape fruit are also selling well. Navel and Florida oranges have declined considerably in price. Kumquats are off the market. Pineapples are a shade firmer. Other lines are unchanged. Bitter oranges are almost done.

FISH — The fish market continues steady, and all lines are selling well. Prepared boneless cod and salt herring are in very good demand. Other lines are moving well. TORONTO.

GREEN FRUITS—A healthy feeling prevails in nearly all lines of fruits. The mild weather has quickened the consumptive demand and caused good sales. For the present prices are firm and higher in some lines. California navels have advanced 10c and 15c as a result of the brisk demand for navels, which is found in the market. Lemons have an upward tendency and are beginning to move more freely. Bananas are picking up, prices being slightly higher and the demand much better. Grape fruit and Almerias are unchanged. It is almost impossible to obtain any beets. Turnips are short and higher at 50c. Good quality imported vegetables are arriving in bigger quantities. Florida celery is plentiful and a shade easier. Strawberries are of excellent quality. Rhubarb is on the market this week and is being quoted at $1.50 per dozen. Boston lettuce is 5c higher. New radishes are selling well.

FISH—Business has not been quite so heavy as a result of the mild weather. Good orders, however, are being received. Prices continue steady all round. There are fears of a general shortage in supplies before the Lenten season is over. Halibut is getting short, the run on it having been particularly heavy lately. Herring are a little slow. Cod and mackerel are moving well. Finnan haddie is a little off in quality. Oysters are coming in for their share of the trade.

TO CONNECT MONTREAL WITH G.T.P.

Board of Trade Petitions Government to Build Branch Line.

That Montreal has been neglected by the Government in the matter of giving the city a connection with the National Transcontinental Railway was the feeling expressed at a meeting of the Board of Trade of that city held on Monday. One hundred were in attendance and every one of them was in some way interested in the speedy building of a short branch line connecting the metropolis of Canada with the country's national railway. Some present were of the opinion that the delay was largely due to the inactivity of the members of Parliament representing Montreal, and many agreed that Canada's first city was unceremoniously being side-tracked much to the detriment of trade interests in Montreal. The members decided to petition the Government at once showing them :

"That Montreal, the commercial metropolis and national port of the Dominion, the head of ocean navigation, and, to a very large extent, the eastern terminal of the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Railway Companies, has all the advantages required to become a great railway and industrial centre.

"That it is in the interest of Canada at large, and the district of Montreal in particular, that a branch line should be constructed between the main line of the National Transcontinental Railway and the city of Montreal by the most direct route.

"That the management of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway has declared that that company can not commence the construction of the branch line to Montreal until its main line is practically completed.

"That the construction of the branch line will greatly benefit the business community of Montreal and the neighboring district, and will further develop an immense tract of valuable territory between the main line of the National Transcontinental Railway and the northern part of the Montreal district.

"That the provision of the branch line would, with the Grand Trunk bridge at Montreal, connect the two sections of the National Transcontinental Railway now divided by the St. Lawrence river, and therefore that the construction of said branch line should be proceeded with forthwith,"

Then the petition continues :

"Wherefore your petitioners do humbly pray your honorable house to adopt, during this session of Parliament, legislation providing for the construction forthwith by the Dominion Government, of a branch line affording direct connection between Montreal and the National Transcontinental Railway, said branch to start at a suitable point on the main line and to follow on a south-easterly direction, the shortest practicable route to Montreal, the conditions of the construction of such branch line to be those specified in the Acts respecting the National Transcontinental Railway for the construction of the eastern division thereof."

These "reasons why" should appeal to the Government as being nothing less than absolute truth, and it is to be hoped that the memorial will have its desired effect in hastening legislation urgently required in the interests of not only Montreal, but of the whole of Canada, because of the unique position of the largest city as a distributing centre and the commercial metropolis of the Dominion.

MONTREAL INCORPORATIONS.

In the latest issue of the Canada Gazette announcement is made of the incorporation of two firms who will do business on a large scale in Montreal, these are : Ram Lal's Pure Tea Co., and Matthews, Fortier & Monette, Limited. The incorporators in the first-mentioned company are Charles Henry Roomsmale-Cocq, E. M. Woods, O. P. Hannington, G. Redman and A. E. McFall. They are permitted to carry on business as tea and coffee importers and blenders, and as manufacturers of baking powder, essences, and kindred lines. The authorized capital of the concern is $100,000.

The other firm's incorporators are W. E. Matthews, A. E. Matthews, R. G. Code, E. F. Burritt and C. T. Moffat, all of Ottawa. The authorized capital is $75,000, and their charter allows the firm to deal in all food products and delicacies, such as butter, eggs, cheese, cereals.

WORTHY SPECIAL NUMBER.

The special spring number of the Maritime Merchant, which has just come to hand, should ably sustain the high reputation already enjoyed by this excellent journal. Two hundred and forty-five pages, printed on callendared paper, well illustrated, and with a very appropriate cover, make up a very attractive number. The departments usually devoted to the various lines of trade are enlarged and a considerable amount of reading matter and illustrations relative to local industry add to the general interest. The excellent typography in the issue is worthy of note and a large amount of advertising is an evidence of the publication's value as a publicity medium.

NEW CANNERY IN CHILLIWACK, B.C.

British Columbia is rapidly coming into her own as a recognized fruit producing province of the Dominion. A company is now being organized in Chillwack, to build and operate a fruit cannery. The plant will have a capacity of 20,000 cases and an evaporating plant will also be operated. The intention is to have the factory ready to take care of this year's fruit. The company is being organized as the Chilliwack Canning and Preserving Company, with headquarters in that town.

N. B. MARKETS ADVANCING

Sugar, Molasses, Cornmeal, Pork and Beef Going Up—Demand Heavy for Fish for Lent—Other Grocery News.

Special Correspondence to The Canadian Grocer.

St. John, N.B., March 24.

Sugar advanced another 10 cents a hundred on Thursday last, making a total advance since Jan. 1 of 40 cents a hundred on barrels and 70 cents on Austrian granulated in bags. Bag sugar was being quoted very low which accounts for the big increase in the quotations. Molasses is advancing. Some small quantities of new stock have arrived and are being quoted at 30 cents a gallon for prompt delivery. Larger shipments are expected this week. For future delivery the price is a little higher as the market is unsettled and the jobbers are not anxious to book orders for any quantity at the present price. The advance in sugars is affecting the price of molasses as the planters feel they can get more money by holding off for a while and they are watching the sugar market closely.

Cornmeal, in bags, has advanced 15 cents a hundred during the past fortnight. Lard is advancing; pure lard being held at a ¼-cent advance with the price for compound unchanged but firm. Pork is up 25 cents a barrel and beef is quoted 50 cents a barrel higher.

The egg market has gone off, the price now ranging around 19, 20 and 21 cents. Large shipments are coming in from the country and a still further drop is anticipated.

Butter is scarce and high. Creamery is retailing as high as 38 cents a pound and tubs of good dairy butter are proportionately high.

Produce prices in Carleton County have dropped considerably. Last week potatoes were being sold at $1.20, while hay declined to $7 and $8. Oats hold fairly firm at 40 to 42 cents.

The Lenten demand for fresh fish has been very heavy. Good catches of halibut are being made in the bay and some nice new stock is offered for sale. A quantity of Bay of Fundy cod has also been received, and from the present indications it seems safe to conclude that before long there will be a marked decrease in importations of fresh fish from the American market.

Alderman Thomas H. Bullock, manager of the Imperial Oil Company, has announced his intention of opposing Mayor Sears for the mayoralty chair in the civic elections to be held in April.

AN ENGLISH VISITOR.

J. Fullerton, of Rowat's Pickles, is in Canada from England, on a periodical visit. Mr. Fullerton, speaking to The Canadian Grocer, stated that conditions in England were improving week by week. The financial upheaval which unsettled trade conditions on this side was keenly felt in the Old Country. The cotton industries were much affected from the middle of December on, but things are much better now. The thousands of unemployed residing in the iron and steel manufacturing centres are gradually securing employment. Prospects are good for excellent spring trade.

Mr. Fullerton will visit several Canadian cities while here, in the interests of the famous English pickle house.

B.C. RETAILERS ORGANIZING.

British Columbia retailers are following the example of retailers in the other provinces and steps are now being taken to organize in that province a strong association to be known as the British Columbia Retail Merchants' Agency. Offices have been opened in the Court House block, corner Robson and Howe streets, Vancouver, and the work of organization is in charge of Wm. J. Butt, late of Winnipeg, whose portrait The Grocer takes pleasure in reproducing herewith.

Mr. Butt is an energetic business man who has had considerable practical experience in wholesale and retail lines and knows the many difficulties the retailer has to contend with—difficulties which could often be avoided by united effort.

Before moving west, Mr. Butt held a responsible position in the wholesale hardware house of Frothingham & Workman, Montreal. This position he resigned to become chief clerk for Merrick Anderson & Co., in Winnipeg. Later he was for several years in the retail hardware business on Portage avenue, Winnipeg, being a member of the firm of Lennox & Butt. The Canadian Grocer knows Mr. Butt well and believes he will be successful in building up a strong retail association at the Pacific coast.

WM. J. BUTT

Of Vancouver, Organizer B. C. Retail Merchants' Agency.

The new association now being organized has in view the usual objects of such associations. It aims at curtailing the credit system, at securing for its members accurate information as to the credit of customers and to advance and protect the interests of its members by advocating and watching legislation affecting retailers.

The new movement is meeting with good success in Vancouver and in other parts of the province. A number of successful meetings have been held and the trade are being educated to see the advantages of organization.

MARKET NEWS FROM NOVA SCOTIA

Favorable Grocery Business—Retailers Cease Handling Butter—High Prices Restricting Trade—Some Business Changes.

(Special Correspondence to The Canadian Grocer)

Halifax, N.S., March 24.

The local grocery markets appear to be in a very healthy condition, though business is not quite as brisk as might be expected for the season. It is generally conceded that the high prices restrict trade. For instance, many of the grocers here have given up handling butter owing to the high price. To The Grocer the other day a well-known commission merchant said that his sales of butter to the grocers had fallen off very greatly of late, and that the grocers said it was impossible to handle and make any money out of it. The top however, seems to be about reached and the jobbers expect that the price will ease off some before very long.

Eggs are now quoted at 21c for fresh laid stock and they will continue to drop from now on. Even at these prices the demand is not very great. The moderate price for eggs all this season has prevented the usual first rush when prices dropped.

Sugar has an upward tendency and during the past few days prices have been advanced ten cents. No cause has been assigned for the increase. The steamer Dahome, of the P. & B. line, which arrived here on Friday from the West Indies, brought 20,000 bags of raw sugar.

Molasses is very firm here, with a fairly good demand. The price, however, is considered reasonable for the season of the year. Quotations on sugar in Halifax this week are: Cut loaf, in barrels, $5.25; extra standard granulated, $4.70; Austrian granulated $4.60; bright yellow, $4.50; No. 1 yellow, $4.20.

* * *

The market is well supplies with fruit. some fine Jamaica oranges arrived during the week and the bananas are of fairly good quality.

During the past season Nova Scotia fruit has been awarded more premiums at the various English shows than in any other previous year. By a co-operation between the Agent-general for Nova Scotia, J. Howard, and the Department of Agriculture in this province, arrangements were completed to send to England a larger amount of choice specimens of fruit than had heretofore been sent. At the Royal Horticultural Society Show, held in November last, Nova Scotia fruit was awarded a silver gilt medal. At the Crystal Show, held a few days later, a gold medal was awarded, and now at the spring show of the Royal Horticultural Society, another gold medal has been received. In addition, at the fall show, twelve local fruit growers from Nova Scotia, who sent their fruit along with the department exhibit, received medals.

In regard to the March show, at which the gold medal was awarded, exceedingly favorable comments have appeared in the English press.

GROCERY FACTS

Something About the Goods Handed Over the Counter Every Day.

Do clerks know enough about the goods they are selling? With a view to giving some useful information about staple goods a column or so of these "Facts About Groceries" will appear regularly.

Mustard.

Mustard is manufactured of several strengths or qualities, and from a mixture of different kinds of seed, white and brown, and with or without the addition of other ingredients, such as wheat flour, tumeric, cayenne, etc. Every firm has, of course, its own particular recipes and processes. This white seed, Sinapis alba, yields a much larger percentage of flour than the dark brown or black variety, Sinapis nigra, and is much cheaper.

Now ground mustard made from dark seed with this oil left in will not keep good long owing to variations in temperature, exposure to air, etc. It soon cakes the powder, turns it rancid, bitter, and unfit for use; hence any kegs, tins or other packages, with discolored paper linings or wrappers showing oil stains within or without, should always be rejected as old or out of condition. The oil is, in fact, a source of great trouble to manufacturers who wish to sell a pure mustard in powder, of good flavor, and one that will keep good.

Pimento, Jamaica Pepper, or Allspice.

Is the dried unripe berry of the pimento tree, known as Eugenia pimento or pimento officinalis. The tree is a fine evergreen, growing twenty to thirty feet high, of the myrtle bloom order, very common in Jamaica, West Indies and South America. Its leaves are of oblong or oval shape, of a deep shiny green color, and about four inches long. It is largely cultivated in plantations called "pimento walks," but grows to perfection, in a wild state, in Jamaica, whence British importations have been mostly derived; hence the name Jamaica pepper. The berries are light and brittle, of roundish form and crowned with the remains of the calyx, generally in the form of a raised, sear-like ring. Each corn contains two dark brown reniform seeds. They are called "Allspice," from the fancy that they have the flavor of cinnamon, cloves and nutmegs combined. The corns are about the same size as huckleberries, and are sometimes adulterated with mustard husks. There are also inferior kinds, such as pimento acris.

What Chicory Is.

It is the roasted root of chichorium intybus, or wild endive, and belongs to the products of China, Holland, France and England. It is roasted in greased pans to prevent sticking. It imparts a dark color and bitter taste to coffee, but adds no nutriment. It has for an adulterant Venetian red wheat flour, red earth, rye, beans, mustard husks, and other things. Chicory itself is not poisonous, but it has too many imitations, then it is not pure coffee by any means.

Walter Baker & Co., Montreal, have reduced the price of their soluble cocoa in 1-lb. tins from 45 cents to 41 cents.

TOBACCO MEN SEE GOVERNMENT

Will Oppose Proposed Excise Duties—Divided on Question of Uniform Stamp.

The new excise duties on tobacco and cigars and the change to a uniform stamp, proposed in the budget speech recently, have awakened a good deal of interest among cigar and tobacco manufacturers, and several delegations have interviewed the Government regarding the matter.

The last one, composed of a large number of manufacturers from Toronto, Montreal, Quebec and London, met in Ottawa on Saturday last and held a conference on the situation before presenting their views to the Government.

On Monday, the deputation, headed by J. Bruce Payne, of Granby, Que., waited on Hons. Messrs. Templeman and Fielding in regard to the proposed changes.

They asked that the excise duty on cigars be reduced from $2 to $1 per thousand, that the customs duty on tobacco be raised from $3 to $4, retaining the ad valorem duty of 25 per cent., and that the Government tax all Canadian leaf at 5 cents per pound.

The members of the deputation were rather divided on the proposal to have a uniform black excise stamp on all cigars. The Quebec men favor this, on the ground that it will be favorable to the more extensive use of Canadian leaf and will thus benefit the tobacco raising industry. The Ontario manufacturers are almost unanimous in strongly opposing the union stamp, contending that the Canadian leaf, as turned out at present, is not of a satisfactory quality for cigar making and that the proposed change would be injurious to the manufacturing interests and would not be fair to the consumer.

The ministers after hearing the arguments presented promised to give the matter due consideration before action was taken.

The assets of J. A. Thibodeau, grocer, of Sorel, Que., are to be sold.

Talking to the Point

CLASSIFIED WANT ADS get right down to the point at issue. If you want something, say so in a few well-chosen words. Readers like that sort of straight-from-the-shoulder-talk, and that is the reason why condensed ads are so productive of the best kind of results.

CLASSIFIED WANT ADS are always noticed. They are read by wide-awake, intelligent grocers, who are on the look-out for favorable opportunities to fill their requirements.

Do you know how cheap Electricity is? Ever think of using it to Grind Coffee? Ask the Manager of the nearest Power House. He will post you on the convenience and economy of Electricity in your business. An will save your clerk's time, your customers' time, and advertise your store. Write for catalogs describing our various Electric Mills with capacities for granulating from 4 oz. to 9 lbs. of coffee per minute.

The illustration shows our double mill, No. 08712 with motor for direct current; one mill fitted with grinders for granulating, and the other for pulverizing. Each iron hopper holds six pounds of coffee. There are two speeds, fast and slow, which can be instantly changed from one to the other: at fast speed this mill granulates three pounds of coffee per minute. Fitted with ¾ h.p. motor for direct current, or ½ h.p. motor for alternating current. The latter for slow speed only. Can be regulated while running for grinding either fine or coarse.

We will gladly give any information desired about these mills.

Exalted Types

We are familiar with "exalted types of manhood," and it is to such that every community "takes off its hat."

Now, as our goods bear the same relation to the ordinary haphazard variety as the First Citizen does to the Hobo, it is pertinent to affix the adjective "Exalted" to

WOOD'S COFFEES

They have earned and maintained the highest position "among their fellows."

Another Store-keeper Sued for Damages

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH IN CAKES

& SUN PASTE STOVE POLISH IN TINS

Dangerous stove polishes continue to get store-keepers into trouble. The daily papers of Detroit, early this month, report Mrs. A. D. ——— is seeking to recover in the courts $15,000 from Mr. C. G. ——— who sold her some inflammable, liquid stove polish that exploded and severely burned her face and arms.

Wise store-keepers will keep out of trouble by handling only the stove polishes which are safe in the hands of the user. RISING SUN Stove Polish and SUN PASTE Stove Polish are made by reliable processes and are absolutely free from dangers of fire or explosion. PUSH THEM.

The Soap That Saves

The 67 per cent. of pure oil in each cake of "Shell Brand" Castile Soap prevents the usual amount of shrinkage prevalent in ordinary Castile Soap. It also prevents complaint from customers that "it is not an economical soap to buy." And it shows the dealer a good profit. Then, too, as a toilet soap it is about as fine an article as one could wish. Made by Couret Freres of Marseilles, France.

"Shell" Brand Castile Soap

Pickles of High Quality

Fine vegetables and absolutely pure Malt Vinegar combined with extraordinary care and expert watchfulness have won for "Hannah's Excelsior" Pickles an enviable position among lovers of sound piquant pickles. Produced in Glasgow, Scotland, and put up in all sizes desired. "Excelsior" is a name to conjure with when pickle buying.

TECHNICAL BOOK DEPARTMENT

The Maclean Publishing Co.,
10 Front St. East, - - TORONTO, CAN

London, Ont., March 17th, 1908

Messrs. The Canadian Canners, Limited
Hamilton, Ont.

Dear Sirs:—

With regard to your letter from Mr. Malcolmson which appeared in the "Canadian Grocer" of March 13th, 1908, we may say that we have been selling Hygeian Canned Beets right along to our customers.

Hygeian Beets are the kind we have been trying to get for several years, and we have no hesitancy in pronouncing them the finest canned Beets we have ever sold. They are equally as nice as new beets at this season, and much more satisfactory.

Your Canned Peaches, Raspberries, Strawberries and Red Cherries, of this brand are the finest canned fruits we have ever sold either in glass or tins, and are equal in every respect to the choicest home made canned fruits.

We remain,

Yours respectfully,

(Sgd.) T. A. ROWAT & COMPANY

Hundreds of Successful Grocers throughout this broad Dominion are witnesses that Old Homestead Brand of Canned Fruits and Vegetables is the leading brand in the trade. They will tell you that Old Homestead Brand didn't get there by accident or mere talk. It took perfect purity and the acme of excellence in flavor to make Old Homestead Brand the most popular brand—the brand always in demand. Now we have got to the top we intend to stay there, and stay there by keeping Old Homestead quality at the high pitch of excellence which first gained for it the approbation of economical housekeepers and the praise of shrewd grocers. You will make no mistake if you specify

Old Homestead Brand

when ordering from your jobber

The Old Homestead Canning Co.

Do You Buy Tea On "I-Hope-It-Will-Sell" Plan?

Suppose someone does offer you a tea at a low price.

Do you believe it is economical to try and introduce an unknown and possibly very inferior brand of tea and run the risk of losing some of your best customers?

Do you think you are making money by selling poor tea even if it is cheap?

There is as much difference in the "selling power" of tea as there is in the salesmen themselves.

After all the sales test is the surest test. "SALADA" has for sixteen years enjoyed the reputation of being the surest and quickest selling tea on the Canadian market. A position won wholly and solely on merit.

"SALADA"

Good tea like everything else costs money. We don't expect that every grocer will see the wisdom of this policy, but for those that don't an order of "SALADA" is the surest way to prove it.

Profitable Goods

Are the goods that are a little better than the others: goods that will make sales where the others won't. Oso Brand Pickles are good pickles, and show their quality. We have special facilities for turning out the best pickles, and we have made the most of them. For instance, we provide the seed from which the vegetables are grown and so get the best from the start; the cucumbers go straight from the vine to the factory, so that none of the fresh crispness is lost. We make our own vinegar and it cannot be beaten for pickling purposes. It will certainly pay you to specify that you want our goods when ordering pickles.

Another Limerick Contest

FOR St. George's Baking Powder

$500 in Cash Prizes

Our first Limerick contest was a grand success. Thousands competed, and grocers who handled St. George's made a tidy profit on the increased sales. We have launched another—with $500 in prizes—to run until May 30th. This means two months of big advertising and a greatly increased demand for St. George's Baking Powder.

It certainly will be good business policy to stock goods that everybody will be asking for.

HOLBROOK'S Worcestershire SAUCE

A bare statement in an advertisement is not convincing unless it can be justified by experience in handling the article advertised. We could take up a good deal of your time in making true statements in praise of this Sauce, but instead we merely ask you to test it for yourself. Your decision will be that it is a Sauce which on first trial must secure permanent users. Its particular and pleasing flavor, free from excessive heat, suggests the blending of many choice ingredients and so tickles the palate that its use becomes essential. This has been the experience in the Old Country where its popularity is ever increasing. The next question which interests you is PROFIT, this will be found to be much better than that obtained on most advertised proprietary lines but an enquiry to

"The Hard Luck Seed"

A Story for Grocers of Modern Business Methods—How a Grocer's Good Wife Picked Out the Flaws in Her Husband's Methods and Put New Life in the Busine ss.

"John," said Clarke's pretty wife, after breakfast one morning, "I shall want some money to-day. I must get ready for the visit promised mother, you know."

John looked worried. Things were going badly at the grocery on the corner, and he needed every cent he had to meet bills with. He wanted his wife to make the visit, but did not see how he could spare the cash at that time.

"Can't you postpone the visit?" he asked.

"Oh, John!" gasped wifey.

"I've got a lot of bills to meet, and every dollar looks like a cart-wheel to me now. If you could only wait a few weeks."

Wifey wrinkled her pretty brows. This visit to mother had already been twice postponed in the interest of unpaid bills. If John had been working for someone else for $12 a week, she thought, she would have had better clothing and more money to use for herself.

"It won't cost so very much," she said.

"At least $50, I presume?" asked John.

"Oh, a little more than that, dear, for I haven't had any new clothes lately, and you don't want me to go to the old home looking shabby, do you? Besides, the carfare there and back is about $30."

Clarke sank dejectedly into a chair.

"You must have the money, I suppose," he said, "but I shall have to stand off some of the bills, or get more money at some bank. I don't know what's got into everything. I haven't got half the trade I had a year ago, and it seems that I've got all the bad pay people in town, at that. I'm surely up against a streak of hard luck."

"What seems to be the trouble with your trade?" asked wifey.

"Oh, I don't know. People who used to do business with me now go to Barr's. I've tried to find out what's wrong, but I can't."

Wifey looked out of the window and beat time on the carpet with one slippered foot. Her father had been a grocer, and she had worked in his store for a year or two before her marriage with Clarke. Her father had made money, and she thought that her husband ought to do equally well, as he was a friendly sort of a man and had a fine business location.

"I've had to cut down on clerk expenses," continued John, "until it is hard work getting anything done. I've only one clerk left, and it looks as if I wouldn't need him much longer. I'm all to the bad."

"I'll put off the visit, dear," said wifey, "and help you out at the store. Perhaps I can learn where the trouble is. You know I was star clerk at father's."

"Indeed you won't come to the store" said John. "Nice thing that would be! What would all your society people say? Not for mine, dear!"

"I have not any society people, John," said wifey. "I haven't the clothing to go out much, and people stay away after two or three calls. I've been thinking since we've been talking that I may have lost some of your trade by not returning calls. Anyway, before I come down to clerk for you I'm going to fix up in my nicest and pay every call I owe. Now, don't say a word. I'm going to help you out at the store, you despondent old dear!"

And wifey made her calls as per agreement and then went to the store in a gingham apron and waited on customers, keeping her eyes open every minute for the cause of the poverty of the concern. A few scenes, sketched from the next few days, will describe what she found:

"I want these goods sent up before 10 o'clock," said a stylishly dressed woman, the very first morning after the new clerk appeared. "I'm going away at 10 sharp, and the vegetables will freeze if left outside, while the dogs and cats will get at the meat."

"Very well," said John, "I'll have them up there long before that."

Wifey noticed that it was five minutes to 10 when the delivery boy started off with the order. When he came back he said he had left the goods without knocking on the door to see if the people were at home—just left them on the back porch.

That night, just before closing time, a red-headed man burst into the store with a bushel basket swung across his paunch. He was perspiring from the unwonted exertion of carrying the load the basket held, and his eyes flashed angrily.

"Here's your stuff," he said, putting contents of the basket on the floor. "You were told not to leave it at all if you couldn't get it to the house before 10 o'clock. You left it after my wife had gone away. The vegetables are frozen and the dogs have been at the meat. Here's what's left of the order. Give me my money."

John was about to put up an argument, but wifey stopped him with a look, paid over the money, and walked doorward with the customer, now showing signs of repenting his rough conduct.

"I know how it is," she said. "Women can't stay at home all day waiting for slow delivery boys. I'm sorry, but the mischief has been done."

"See here," said the red-headed man, "I guess I was a little bit ugly over the matter, and I'm sure leaving the store a loser, so here's the money. Duplicate that order and send it up in the morning."

The next day a couple of girls, members of two fine families, whose trade was worth a lot to any dealer, came in and ordered sugar for some special purpose of their own.

"We must have cane sugar," they insisted, "and have it on time. We're going to have a party to-night, and we have got to make a lot of fudge and sweets. You'll break our hearts if you disappoint us."

"All right," said John, smilingly, "you shall have the best there is, and have it on time. Don't worry over it."

As soon as the girls went out John started to put up the sugar. He threw the scoop into the barrel and frowned.

"It's always the way," he said. "I haven't a pound of cane sugar in the store. Sold the last I had yesterday, and was going to order more by 'phone this morning. Just my luck! Now, I haven't time to send for more, and this must go up—this old beet stuff. Perhaps they won't know the difference."

Wifey saw that John had not yet learned his lesson and said nothing. The next morning two very angry girls entered the store.

"You spoiled our whole party," one of them said to John, "by substituting beet sugar for cane. Everything was ruined with that old blue stuff. You may just send your bill and we'll find another place to trade."

Wifey didn't feel like trying to square this just then. She knew that when the grocer spoils a party by inattention to business the girls who are the promoters are not the ones to argue with. She squared with the fathers later on, however.

John entered the store one morning in a rage. He found the furnace fire out and some of the potatoes frozen. He was at fault, for it was one of his duties to see that the furnace was all right before leaving for the night. While he was mourning over the frost-bitten vegetables a boy came rushing in.

"Send us some potatoes that are fit to eat!" he shouted. "Dad bought some of Howe, and they're no good. Send 'em over in time for dinner."

John measured out a bushel of the frost-touched tubers and sent them over about 11 o'clock. That afternoon, after some of them had been boiled for dinner, and a meal spoiled, they were returned and dumped on the floor with angry words.

"You can't work off your frozen stuff on me!" said the man.

Incidents of this character were of frequent occurrence. Goods were not sent as ordered, and they were not sent on time. John promised anything and everything in order to make a sale, and then neglected to perform his part of the bargain. He sent stale goods to men who owed big bills, saying that anything was good enough for them, forgetting that the way to lose a bill is to make the debtor angry. He did not keep his stock up, and often sent articles "just as good" as in the sugar case.

"John," said wifey, one day after a particularly exasperating incident of wrong goods sent out, "we're losing ground every day. I wish you would make that long promised visit to mother and let me run the store. I can fix things, I think, so you can go."

"What can you do here that I can not?" demanded John.

"I can keep faith with customers," replied wifey. "I guess that will cast the hoodoo out of the store. I think that if I deliver on time, and send the goods ordered, I can change that streak of hard luck to good luck. The trouble with the store, John, is that it is not dependable. You think you have done your duty as a merchant when you take in the money. Another thing, John dear, I can keep the stock up, which you don't do. If you'll make the visit to mother, I think I can find the expense money for you!"

"So you think you've found the hard luck seed, eh?" asked John.

"I know that I have," was the reply. "You are not dependable. I, for one, wouldn't wait your slow deliveries, and no woman will."

"Say," said John, with a blush—a real blush!—"why not try the new system together?"

And they did, and it won out, too!

STAMPS FOR FUNERALS.

Up-to-date Chicago undertakers are now offering "trading stamps with every funeral," says the New York Herald. Brightest one in the lot will probably be the first to adopt the scheme of giving double stamps to all who order funerals before noon.

Minto Bros. report their business in Melagama tea for the past three months to be 50 per cent. above that done in the same period in 1907.

AN EASTER GROCERY WINDOW

A Suggestive Display of Hams and Eggs for Special Attraction During the Easter Holiday Week.

A special window for a special occasion is always a very attractive and much-talked-of feature. Easter week is already in close proximity and it is worth while thinking now about making a special effort for trade at this more or less observed holiday time.

An idea for a window is presented herewith which ought to be of some help in securing a share of the Easter business. The sketch is borrowed from a recent issue of the Grocery World, of Philadelphia.

As will be seen at once, the idea is to present a display of Easter hams and eggs in attractive arrangement.

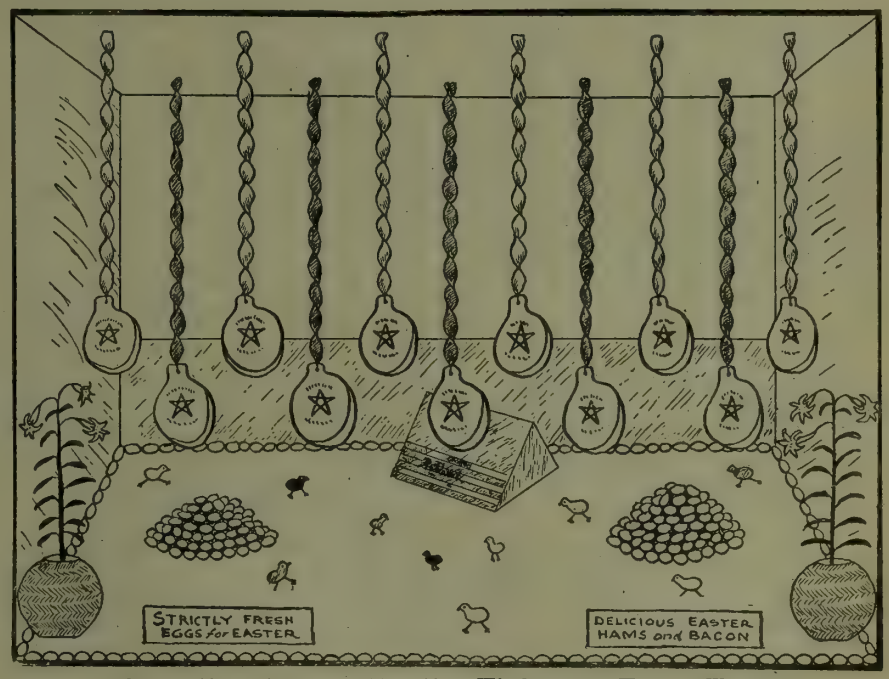
The floor is covered with sawdust. Then a background is made with a strip of white paper 20 inches or more wide. Then around the edge of the window is placed a row of eggs end to end.

The hams are hung from the ceiling by wire, stovepipe wire will serve the purpose, and are intended to be arranged in two rows, the rear row hanging about a foot or fifteen inches lower than the front row. Strips of crepe tissue about an inch and a half wide are twisted around the rows and fastened to show the curl. A pleasing effect may be introduced here by using different colors of tissue and working out a diagonal or square pattern in these hanging ribbons.

Of course, Easter wouldn't be Easter without eggs. Place a good-sized pile of them in either side of the window. They may be piled inside a small barrel hoop, and the sawdust heaped up a little to cover the hoop. A few colored eggs placed on the top of the piles will add to the effect.

At the front of each side of the window place an Easter lily. Then to give the window a real-life appearance, put a chicken coop—one may be easily knocked together or an old one used—in the back of the window, with an artificial hen inside. Then place at irregular spots on the sawdust floor several artificial chicks.

A couple of well-printed cards bearing some suggestive catch lines, in the forefront of the window will add to its effectiveness.



Suggestions for an Attractive Window for Easter Week.

MEET IN HAMILTON IN MAY.

Ontario Wholesale Grocers' Guild Planning Interesting Programme.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Wholesale Grocers' Guild will be held in Hamilton on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 5th and 6th.

The place of meeting was decided as the result of an invitation from the trade of Hamilton last year and a very pleasant and profitable gathering is expected.

While the programme has not as yet been definitely announced, it is understood that it will include several papers by members on trade subjects, and discussion on the points brought out. Among these are expected one from H. C. Beckett, of Hamilton, on "The Importance of Trade Associations and their Relations to the Government," and another from Fred. Smye, also of Hamilton, on "The Cost of Doing Business." Other subjects likely to be discussed are, "The Importance of a Better Recognition of Associated Efforts," and "The Relation of the Wholesale Grocer to the Manufacturer."

With such discussions in view, the meeting certainly promises to be most interesting.

*Grocery News from Coast to Coast

Letters From Our Own Special Correspondents in the Larger Towns and Cities of Canada—New Ideas in the Trade and Business Changes Noted.

CHATHAM.

After a long, hard fight, the local grocers have carried their point with reference to the amendment of the clause in the market by-law prohibiting them from making purchases on the city market before 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The by-law making the desired amendment passed its third reading at last week's council meeting almost without a murmur. Just before the by-law was finally passed, Ald. Westman moved that the council go back into committee to reconsider the matter, but the motion failed to find a seconder.

There is, as was probably inevitable, a certain amount of public objection, but this will probably wear off in the course of time, when it is found that the change is a convenience, rather than an inconvenience, to the purchasing public.

And still the Ben Brodie peddling matter will not down. Since the city's appeal in the matter was allowed and Judge Dowlin has found that the by-law can be enforced, Brodie's solicitor has intimated that if the fee is not reduced, steps will be taken by the peddling fraternity of the city to appeal to the High Court with a view to having the by-law quashed.

* * *

The maple syrup season is on. Quite a bit of the genuine product is offered for sale on the market and in the stores, the price being 35c per quart, with varying reductions for larger quantities. The harvest is reported good.

* * *

The marriage of Clarence Blackburn, formerly of McCorvie's grocery, to Miss Erie Millard, of Windsor, took place in the latter city last week.

Capt. F. B. Stevens' grain elevator on concession 14 Dover, was burned to the ground on Monday morning. It being filled, the loss will be heavy. Incendiarism is hinted.

A leading citizen passed away on Sunday in the person of Ex-Mayor S. T. Martin. Mr. Martin was in his 70th year, and filled the chief magistrate's chair in 1893. He was prominent in connection with large drainage works, whereby much marsh land in this district was redeemed to cultivation.

Samson R. Russell, who for a number of years past has conducted a grocery on Queen street, south of the G.T.R., died very suddenly on Friday morning, being found dead in bed at six o'clock. He had been suffering from heart disease for many years. Mr. Russell, who was in his 24th year, was a very popular young man, and his death came as a shock to many friends, particularly in the local trade.

Richard Cudmore, aged 79, passed away in Detroit last week. He at one time conducted a grocery at the corner of William and Wellington streets, where Gray's factory now stands.

The latest grocer to join the ranks of the advertisers is John W. Dyer, the genial St. Clair street man. Mr. Dyer is now using a three-inch space in the local press to boom the business of the Red Star store, and is putting forth a neat and attractive announcement.

* * *

Mr. Bennett, of E. R. Snook's grocery, left on Monday for Los Angeles, Cal., where he will locate for a time. Though only thirty or thereabouts, he has seen much of the world, and while during his year's stay here made quite a hit soliciting orders.

Local grocers are complaining with regard to the new special freight tariff, which went into effect March 15—at least in so far as it deals with cartage charges. The tariff has been adopted by the C.P.R. and G.T.R., though apparently the Pere Marquette, largely an American road, is not implicated. It fixes the cartage charges at each end of the line at 2c per 100 pounds, with a minimum charge in each case of 15c. Grocers here who have to pay charges at both ends declare that the practice is unfair, and that the wholesalers should assume the cartage charges at points of shipment and deliver the goods f.o.b. cars there.

Chas. Matthews, of Woodstock, has issued a writ in the High Court against the Ridgetown Canning Co., most of the members of which are residents of London, claiming between $300 and $400 for services rendered to the company in obtaining applications from farmers for them, and also for other services rendered. The writ was served last week at London. This is the company in whose behalf a by-law granting certain concessions was passed last year by the Ridgetown ratepayers, though the factory never materialized.

Samuel Cox, for years a baker and butcher, at South Woodslee, and lately engaged in farming near that village, passed away recently.

* * *

Jas. Clendenning, president of the Kent Farmers' Produce Company, of Blenheim, and his assistant solicitors for stock, report that they have met with gratifying success, upwards of $6,000 being already subscribed.

Petrolea is the latest location for a canning factory. Henry Mann, of that town, is interested in the scheme.

* * *

W. A. Gosnell, of Ridgetown, who is giving up business, has moved his stock of crockery and groceries into another store, where it is now being auctioned off.

Brook Wigle, of Kingsville, formerly employed with Fielding & Campeau, grocers, of Windsor, passed away recently, after a three weeks' illness.

It is understood that the new cheese factory at Wyoming will commence operations about May 1st. The equipment is due to arrive this week from Aylmer, and will be installed without delay. Mr. Dell Shain has met with much success in soliciting subscriptions from farmers in the vicinity. Mr. Doan will be manager of the concern.

* * *

Reports indicate that the farmers of this vicinity will go very largely into the raising of sugar beets this year, a considerable acreage having been already signed for in Kent, Essex and Lambton.

BELLEVILLE.

A. E. Ridley has opened up a brand new grocery business in a neat brick block on the corner of Victoria avenue and William street. The building has a fine plate glass daylight front facing Victoria avenue. The store fixtures are solid oak, installed by the Toronto Show Case Co., and compare favorably with the furnishings of the finest groceries in our large cities. The shelves and silent salesmen are tastefully stocked with the finest confectionery and groceries. There is a fine refrigerating plant in the building, and a furnace that is unlike many of those in the downtown stores, high and dry, and will be available for use whenever needed. Mr. Ridley is prepared to attend to all 'phone orders on shortest notice and will, we have no doubt, meet with success.

I. B. Harker, who has been a subscriber to The Canadian Grocer since its first issue, has just completed his annual stocktaking, and expresses himself as well satisfied with progress during the past year. He reports an ever increasing trade, and that, despite the reported hard times, he has done more business th's last two months than during the same period last year.

*Contributions are invited from grocers or clerks in small places or where there is not a regular correspondent of this paper.

All of the leading grocers in town are favorably impressed with the free market day in the middle of the week, as advocated by A. Wallbridge, and think that the idea cannot be too strongly placed before the city council.

Business generally is moving along very smoothly, with a slight increase over the same period for last year.

Butter and eggs dropped to 28c and 16c, respectively, last Saturday, eggs starting out at 23c.

* * *

Maple syrup has not started to come in yet, and there is likely to be a short crop this year, we are told.

* * *

Price-cutting in flour has been satisfactorily regulated. A short time ago some of the merchants were selling flour at a loss as high as 10 per cent.

There are rumors of more new grocery businesses being launched here in the future, and we think it wise for the prospective grocers to consider the prospects before overloading the boat. It is not by any means a sinecure to get a new business started. Increased rents, clerks' salaries, cash registers, new scales, increased competition, all tend to make it just a little difficult to do business, in fact, it is getting to be more of a fine art every day to conduct a really successful grocery business.

EDMONTON.

The chief question that is agitating the producers, consumers and the middlemen in Edmonton at present is that of a suitable market in which trading may be carried on. The farmer and market gardener and the citizen, are all anxious that suitable market accommodations should be provided. The grocer and general storekeepers are not so anxious, as a small proportion of their trade would be thus taken away. The effect is not, however, of sufficient importance to cause any open opposition to the movement.

"Edmonton," said a prominent gentleman recently to a Canadian Grocer representative, "is making almost phenomenal advances in many ways, but is neglecting the important feature of a market for garden produce. The soil here is admirably adapted to the growing of this produce, but there are no facilities for the producer coming in direct contact with the consumer, and thus obtaining the best price for his goods and thus there is no encouragement for him to cultivate this branch of farming operations."

These are but the sentiments of a large number of the residents of Edmonton and vicinity, and efforts are being made to induce the council to take steps to have a suitable market building erected.

Arrangements are being made to open a new wholesale house in Edmonton shortly. The new firm is the G. F. & J. Galt Co., wholesale tea merchants, of Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver. Offices and warehouse space have been secured in the Morris block, next to the A. McDonald Co.'s block. William McNab, a resident of Edmonton for the past three years, has been appointed manager of the local branch of the company. It is expected that the new firm will commence business in Edmonton about May 1st.

GUELPH.

The regular meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association was held on Thursday night. A deputation from the Clerks' Association presented a petition for the regular Thursday half-holiday this year and were again turned down. The grocers favored the holiday, but the jewelers and gents' furnishing stores claimed to have had a hard year and the majority decided unfavorably. It was decided to give the clerks one whole day during the summer to hold their annual picnic. The high price of electric lights here and the appointing of a bad account collector, with an office to which each Monday morning the members could send in their lists and have them collected, was some of the business transacted.

The Clerks' Association is not satisfied with the decision over the half-holiday, claiming that it was not put to a vote; and also that their petition was signed by a majority of the business men of the city. But right there is where the shoe pinches. The merchants don't all belong to the association, and, therefore, have no vote. Would it not be a good idea for both bodies to get these merchants to join the association? The clerks also claim that if the holiday is not granted this year it is gone for good and that the one day is not at all satisfactory.

It has been suggested by one grocer that if there is going to be a western Ontario grocers' picnic that that one day this year might come in all right.

Business in the grocery stores was a little flat again last week on account of the bad state of the roads in this section. Good butter is reported very scarce, although it will only be temporary. The farmers are still using runners, while the snow is practically all gone in the city.

Those seedless grape fruit and lemons are all right and good sellers.

One dry goods store here gave each purchaser three roses on Saturday night and did a good business.

* * *

There is some talk of a commission house being started here by local parties, and no doubt there is a lot of business to be picked up in that line in Guelph.

KINGSTON.

Trade is a little on the flat side. The islanders are cut off again from us, as the ice is too weak to risk good horses and people.

Colleges will soon close, which means smaller orders from the restaurants and boarding houses. The Y.W.C.A. have opened up a large boarding house and it is filling up rapidly with good people.

The egg market has flopped and the product of the busy hen is now 15c to 17c a dozen. The butter market is stiff yet. Creamery is retailing for 35c and dairy at 28c to 30c.

* * *

The grocers here are putting up sugar now at, granulated, 6c lb., or 18 lbs. for $1; yellow, 5c lb. or 21 lbs. for $1.

James McCulla, proprietor of the Belfast grocery, met with a small but painful accident in cutting (no, not prices) but bologna, last week. The customer drew his attention by saying, "I don't think you will have enough." He looked up, still working the toothless buzz saw, and said. "Oh, yes, I think so," and off went the top of his thumb.

* * *

J. Todd, grocer, of Sheffield, Eng., arrived here with wife and child recently. He came out with the Salvation Army. He has engaged with Mr. Sears, a retired gentleman.

Bob Sutherland, city traveler for Fenwick Hendry, secured the John Carruthers gold medal for this year. It has to be won two successive years to be retained. It has about twenty gold bands on a ribbon of winners in former years of men who only won one year. No one yet has been fortunate enough to get it the second year, but we think Bob will say next year, "By gosh, I have it for good."

* * *

A lady demonstrator is lauding the praises of Suchard's cocoa here. She is at Gilbert's stores this week. It is a good way of introducing an article if followed up by judicious advertising; not all in magazines, but in local and trade papers.

The representative of Rickett's blue and Zebra stove shine, is making a door to door sample campaign in town and expects good results.

Christie's biscuits, "Ever-et?" John Everett calls on the trade twice a month now and always has snaps to offer. He still looks like a senator, and may he be spared to visit us for many years to come is the wish of one hundred and thirty-nine Kingston grocers and half grocers.

* * *

Before putting your sleigh away for the summer, get it overhauled and painted, and it will have lots of time to dry and will pay you. Too many get a rig painted and run it out before the paint is dry. You know the result.

* * *

Good delivery horses have jumped up in price. You must now pay $125 to $175 or take a plug, and plug drivers and horses don't pay a dividend.

* * *

J. Gilbert purchased two large Dayton computing scales from the local agent, Will Crothers, recently, and is well pleased with them. He says they are beginning to pay for themselves already.

Anderson Bros., grocers, do a large fresh and smoked meat business and may eventually go in extensively and push out the groceries. There is more money in meats, they say.

* * *

Herb Dunlop, formerly head clerk with Jas. Redden & Co., has joined the staff of the new Clarified Milk Co., and will hustle for trade.

Rees Bros. brought in a car of fine navels last week, and expect their first car of bananas this week.

* * *

On April first begin low freight rates. Don't get fooled by shipping before that date.

LONDON.

Signs are not lacking of returning confidence in the grocery trade. Retailers are buying with more freedom now that the weather is becoming more settled and the roads are improving, the result being a decided betterment of trade.

* * *

Brokers report all staples unchanged. Teas remain firm. There has been no further advance in sugar, but that commodity is now just as speculative an article as wheat. Whether the next movement will be upward or downward even the most experienced grocery men will not undertake to say.

* * *

Canned goods are slow of sale, wholesalers report. The cause is ascribed to the action of the late firm of Lind, Kerrigan & Co. in buying out the output of the London Canning Company and selling out to retailers at a figure lower than the regular wholesalers could procure the goods for. The consequence is the latter find their stocks of canned goods are diminishing very slowly. To their credit be it said, however, retailers are maintaining prices well under the circumstances.

* * *

It is not improbable that the Lind-Kerrigan business will be continued as a going concern. At all events it is expected there will be lively competition at the sale on Thursday next, bidders from outside places, including Montreal, being expected here. A well-known local broker, it is said, will endeavor to get control of the business for a syndicate, as he has every confidence that there is room for the house in London, and that with sufficient capital it could be made to pay.

* * *

For some time past between 25,000 to 30,000 head of cattle have been daily passing through this city over the Grand Trunk Railway, all bound for the European markets. The animals are being shipped at various points in the western States, and the trade has become so heavy that several special cattle trains have been put on by the company. Forty cars, with between twenty and thirty cattle in a car, make a train. In the case of Texas steers, which have very large horns, not more than fifteen or twenty can be placed in a car. The shipments are expected to be very heavy for some weeks yet.

Frank Robinson, grocer, of South London, has returned from a holiday of several months spent at Seattle and other Pacific coast points. Mr. Robinson's many friends will be glad to know he returns much improved in health.

HAMILTON.

Trade in grocery lines is a little bit quiet just now, the great public sticking pretty close to the stores where they get credit.

The sharp advance in sugar is not making the average housekeeper feel very pleasant and the grocer of course gets the blame, but this is now counterbalanced by the drop in eggs, which occurred when most grocers were loaded up at fairly high prices.

Almas Bros., of John St. South, have sold their fine grocery and meat business to Gilmore & Gillies. Mr. Gilmore is from the Canadian co-operative coocern, where he succeeded in building up a large trade for that institution. and Mr. Gillies is from the well known Gillies business on York Street. The large connection they bring with them and the very large business of Almas Bros. combined, will soon put them on easy street.

* * *

Trade in wholesale circles is very quiet and the retailers are complaining of their selling in retail quantities. One grocer reports tnat he saw an invoice to a Chinaman from one of the large wholesale houses. Others say the travelers have instructions to call on all eating houses and lunch counters where there is any chance to sell—pretty small business for people who cater to good trade.

* * *

Rev. Mr. Laidman, one of the promoters and secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Co-operative Store, has resigned and has accepted the pastorate of a church in the Niagara Peninsula.

STRATFORD.

Grocers and citizens generally are sorry to hear of the failure of the fine grocery store run by Will J. Norfolk. His store was known as "The Clean Grocery," and everything was kept in a spic and span condition. The sale of the assets of the estate took place last week. The sale was a most satisfactory one and was largely attended. Buyers were present from London, Toronto, Port Hope and other distant places. The goods and chattels were disposed of to Walsh Bros., of this city, at 53½c on the dollar, and J. Foster, of Cleveland, bought the book debts at 32½c on the dollar.

Several important subjects were discussed at a general meeting of the local branch of the Retail Merchants' Association held last week in Societies' hall.

It was agreed that the association make application to the proper postal authorities to have the afternoon mail, which is at present delivered in the retail section at 3 p.m., delivered after 5 p.m. The merchants are not satisfied with the 3 p.m. delivery as they are unable to get their afternoon mail delivered to them until the following morning.

The association will also apply to the Postmaster-General to have the present postage rate of two cents on drop city letters reduced to one cent.

It was agreed that the Bad Pay list should be revised and that the same be properly printed, a copy of the list to be furnished to every retail merchant in the city.

Considerable discussion took place as to the passing of the Industrial and Co-operative Societies' Bill and the amendment to the Criminal Code. In regard to the Criminal Code the retailers, concluded that they should be allowed to meet together for their own reasonable protection, the same as other companies and associations were allowed to do.

MONTREAL.

At a meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association, held Thursday, March 26, the report of the delegation which was sent to Quebec, to interview the Premier regarding the maintenance of the liquor license on the same basis as was allowed them last year, namely, a reduction of 50 per cent. off the increase, was read and declared favorable, the Premier having promised that the advance would not be put into effect for this year at least.

* * *

A delegation was appointed to go to Quebec and support the Montreal city council in their request to be empowered to raise the peddlers' license to $200. This question has been occupying the attention of the retailers for some time past, as this class of dealers are injurious to the retail grocer, their small expenses and low rate of license enabling them to cut prices on their various lines of fruits and vegetables to such an extent as to make competition prohibitive on the part of the retail grocer.

* * *

George Graham and some of the other progressive grocers of the city are delivering their groceries in rather neat folding wooden boxes, which are manufactured by the Hubbard Folding Grocery Delivery Box people, of Minneapolis. The boxes are very useful and have many features to commend them to the retailer for delivery purposes. Kenneth H. Munro is looking after the line in Canada.

VANCOUVER.

It is doubtful if ever eggs were so plentiful on the coast before. In Vancouver, the consumer is getting the best for 30c, while in Seattle the price is 25c, with a probable drop to 20c. That is something unheard of. Last week when 35c had been dropped down to, it was thought that would be rock bottom. for the price fluctuates between that and 70c. Those private consumers who get their eggs brought in by the egg and chicken dealers on the outskirts of the city are told that it is not profitable to deliver then at less than 35c, though three-dozen lots are sold for 90c. The weather has been very favorable and eggs have flooded the market from all over. Feed, however, is not reduced, which makes it hard for the man who keeps chickens. But the consumer welcomes the low price, and for once one can get eggs without feeling that a luxury is being purchased.

During the week a number of excellent No. 1 B.C. apples have been brought out. These must have been kept back to allow disposal of No. 2 and No. 3 grades, for a short time ago the No. 1 could not be had. Now that the lower grades have been worked off, the better ones are coming along. Prices, $2.25 and $2.50 per box.

* * *

Another fruit feature is that in the price of oranges. They have gone up a little, but still they are about 75c a case less than they were a year ago, with quality this year A1. The fruit is large and sweet and very juicy.

* * *

Flour milling is steadily coming to the front on the coast, the trade with the Orient bringing good business. Here, however, there is strong competition with mills on the other side of the line. Last fall they expected an active movement, and large quantities were ground. This did not come up to expectations, and since then Washington mills have been almost at a standstill. The surplus has been worked off now, and a decided improvement is reported in the situation. Small but plentiful orders are coming from the Orient, principally from North China ports.

Following the report that very few salmon canneries will be operated on the Canadian side of the line comes the news that only nine of the canneries on Puget Sound will be run, and Chinese labor contracts are being made on the basis of half a pack. Contracts are not being made with the trap owners for supply, most of the latter preferring to take their chances on the open market. It is expected that this will be one of the lightest seasons on record.

* * *

The Dominion Government is to make another experiment in planting lobsters on the British Columbia coast, and 2,000 or 3,000 will be brought out next month and put in Cooper Cove, at Sooke, near Victoria, on Vancouver Island. Readers of The Grocer will remember the previous experiments which have been made along this line, but the lobsters have disappeared. Whether they can have fallen a prey to devil fish or other marauders of the deep, it is not definitely known. One was caught near Salt Spring Island some months ago, which showed that it had both lived considerable time and traveled. It was in good condition.

* * *

Reports from Nanaimo yesterday were that the herring were spawning in greater numbers than ever, and that the catch should be a good one during the season. In this connection, the Provincial Government is being asked to consider a proposal to aid in bringing out from Scotland two hundred fishermen, three fish smokers and five coopers, the offer being submitted by Murdo Maclean, Stornoway. The Government is asked to pay the fare of $80 in each case and guarantee employment for six months. In return, the money will be refunded out of the first earnings. The matter has been referred to G. Starrett, manager of the New England Fish Company, of this city, with a request for a report as to the advisability of assisting in the immigration project.

Copas & Young, who recently bought out Fell's grocery, at Victoria, had a fire last Monday night. Most of the damage was done by water. Very fortunately, the insurance was fixed only last Saturday morning.

* * *

At the annual meeting of the Chilliwack Creamery Association last week it was reported that the average price of butter was 29.5c, as compared with 23.7c in 1906, which gives over $16,000 more money to be divided among the patrons. The cost of manufacture was a trifle higher, being 4.4c, as against 3.9c in 1906. The matter of installing a cold storage plant was left with the directors. The officers elected were : President, F. C. Kickbush, (re-elected) ; vice-president, W. H. Hawkshaw ; secretary-treasurer, W. L. Macken ; directors, Messrs. Barrow, C. Vickerson, Willis Holden and J. S. Mercer.

With construction going ahead on the G.T.P. in the north, the purchase of supplies should bring some good business to coast merchants. It was stipulated by the Provincial Government in the agreement with the Grand Trunk Pacific that supplies should be bought in the province, and steamship companies are anticipating a brisk trade. Work will be in full swing in a month or two. It has been found that the coasting laws of Canada will permit an American boat to carry freight from an American port to a Canadian port, although it cannot do it between two Canadian ports. On the other hand, Canadian boats are handicapped in that they cannot do likewise. The point is that some fear that supplies, which may have to be purchased in the east, may be brought over the Great Northern and shipped north from Seattle, instead of having this business kept in Canada, and shipped through Vancouver. Every once in a while it is found that the coasting laws are defective in some point or other. The Vancouver Board of Trade has taken the matter up.

Both dealer and consumer are awaiting with interest the opening of the new public market in Vancouver. This will not be for a month or two yet, but the buildings are well under way, and arrangements are already being made to give a direct boat service between this city and the producing districts on the Fraser River, above New Westminster. At the last market in New Westminster, prices were fairly low, compared with what they are in Vancouver, and if they are the same in the new market, the attendance should be large. The fear has been expressed that this will develop into a wholesale buying emporium, but whether this will be the case or not, there is this point, that the consumer cannot always afford to buy, say meat, in the quantities offered by the farmer. The experience of eastern markets is quoted, but the weather here is not like what it is in the East. But restaurants, which can afford to put in facilities to handle stocks, ought to be large buyers and the price of the average meal ,which is now fairly high, might be reduced. With it all, however, the whole thing is somewhat of a venture, and the outcome is awaited with interest.

WOODSTOCK.

A movement is on foot in this city to form a co-operative society for the purpose of building a large departmental store and a committee is busy with the preliminaries. Whether or not the matter will be carried to a successful end is a question which will be determined by just in what light the laboring class of the citizens will view it. The recent hard times have put many mechanics and laborers behind, and some are in debt with their dealers.

This fact alone, should these people cast their lot with the co-operative society, would cause the dealers to become wrathy. The result would be that the dealers would close down on their erstwhile customers, their credit would be killed and division court suits might result.

Co-operative societies in England have been very successful. A local contractor who visited the British Isles this winter went over many of the stores conducted by such societies, and found them highly successful. He, of course, has dispensed this information among his fellows, and thus not a little impetus was added to the movement.

Burglars entered the general store of Wm. Kirkpatrick, of Burgessville, a few miles from here, a few nights ago. They broke open the till, but the proprietor was lucky enough to have removed the contents of that receptacle the night before. Nothing valuable was taken, but the thieves helped themselves to some crackers and cheese.

* * *

There was a busy market Saturday. eggs sold at 15c, 16c and 17c per dozen. Butter brought 30c per pound. Large quantities of maple syrup sold readily at a dollar per gallon.

A well-known wholesale and retail grocer says that April, generally the smallest month of the year, gives promise of being a very good business month this year.

WEATHER CONDITIONS AND OUTLOOK.

The month of March took its departure in a very lamblike manner, after its strenuous introduction four weeks ago, and indications early in the week pointed to the realization of a really early spring. The last couple of days, have, however, deferred slightly any calculations in this direction. Ontario and Quebec suffered on Wednesday and Thursday from exceedingly cold and violent winds, and the West, at last reports, was in the grip of the worst blizzard of the season, which struck North Saskatchewan on Tuesday and became general on Wednesday. This storm was even heavy enough to block traffic on the railway lines.

These conditions, while seemingly a detriment to the early opening of seeding, are really a benefit. Southern reports tell of a warm wave which is taking out the last touches of frost in the Middle States, and is likely to strike Canada shortly. Reports from the West also say that while this late storm will delay seeding operations for a few days, the snow was really needed to get a good deal of the land into satisfactory shape.

The frosty nights and warmer days of the past week have been welcomed very heartily by the maple syrup makers. These conditions have made the sap run merrily and prospects seem very favorable for a good crop this season.

BUYING CANADIAN BEANS.

The Ontario bean markets are considerably firmer this week and from rather a peculiar cause. It is stated that American markets are found to be very short this season and jobbers across the line are sending the buyers into Ontario for supplies. Just how great this demand is may be learned from the fact that these American buyers, at some points in the western part of the province, are said to be willing to pay from five to ten cents more than is offered by Canadian dealers. Some buying was done for United States firms a few weeks ago, but the demand then was not so strong, and while the local market was firmed up at that time it did not reach the point it has assumed under the present conditions.

THE SEASON'S ICE HARVEST.

Rather alarming reports have been circulated lately as to a great shortage in this winter's cut of ice and consequent high prices during the summer. Careful enquiry among the dealers does not bear out these statements to the full.

The only shortage is in what dealers call the "reserve supply," meaning by this the storage ice held in Toronto, and available in case of emergency. This supply is only about three-fourths what it usually is, due to the stormy and inclement weather this winter blocking the railways and thus interfering with ice shipments. The general cut is fully up to the average. Available supplies stored at upper lake points are quite sufficient for the demands of the trade.

Despite the fact that expenses have been greater in this winter's ice yield, there is little fear of any advance in prices, and last year's schedule will, in all probability, prevail. Ice is not a thing of necessity and its sale is, therefore very sensitive to any advance in prices. Large consumptive buyers, however, will be unable to obtain any cut rates as formerly.

ASSOCIATION WINS ITS POINT.

The London Retail Grocers' Association furnishes a remarkably good example of what may be accomplished by a well-managed organization, and a case in point touched in the following extract from a letter from our correspondent in that city shows how far-reaching its influence is and to what extent the members benefit :

"Outside biscuit manufacturers who have been selling direct to restaurant-keepers and others, have been brought to time by the Retail Grocers' Association. According to instructions, the treasurer wrote the offending parties recently, explaining the position of affairs and setting forth the consequences of their continuing to do business in the way complained of. A reply has been received from each of them, promising to offend no more."

This is only one grievance that the London association has been able to remedy. And their association grows in strength as they accomplish this good work.

The same grievances exist in almost every town in Canada, and they will continue to exist until some steps similar to this are taken to remedy themi Why not organize a Grocers' Association in your town and get conditions in the trade on a more satisfactory basis ?

LIGHT SALMON PACK PROBABLE.

From reports coming from the salmon canneries of the coast it appears that the coming season's pack will be exceedingly short and may possibly be one of the lightest on record.

Owing to scarcity of fish in some of the rivers it is said that only nine canneries will be operated on Puget Sound, and very few of the Canadian factories are preparing for a season's work. Other facts which points to the conclusion noted above is that the Chinese labor contracts have been made on a basis of half pack and that the trap owners have signed practically no contracts, evidently preferring to take their chances on an open market.

AN ATTRACTIVE NEW FEATURE.

The Grocer, always on the lookout for attractive features, has secured the publication rights in Canada for a new story, "Men Who Sell Things," by Walter Moody, which will be run as a serial as a regular weekly feature, and will continue for several months. The story, which is an exposition of the practical and amusing sides of salesmanship, is remarkably well written and will be interesting, not only to the traveler and salesman, but also to the store manager. A special offer is being made to non-subscribers in connection with the publication of this story, which is noted more fully on another page of this issue.

THE WESTERN WHEAT FOR 1908.

From our Special Winnipeg Correspondent.

Anxious inquiries come from all over the East and South, and the burden of their cry is, "What is the outlook for the wheat crop of 1908?" That is a hard question to ask with the prairie covered with snow, which has fallen in the last two weeks and the thermometer roaming at zero, more or less. Not being a prophet or the seventh son of a seventh son, I do not know, I cannot tell. It may help some of the anxious ones, however, if they have an idea of what the prospects are for the wheat going in under favorable conditions. Personally, I consider the prospects at the present time better, in many respects, than for ten years. The West is peculiar and what would be ruin down East is what we want here. Last summer was wet and cold, followed by a fine dry fall. There was an enormous amount of fall ploughing done, and the new breaking had the benefit, for six weeks, of bright days and hard frosts at night, before it got any snow blanket at all. The snowfall in the early part of the winter was light all over the country, so that although the winter has not been a severe one the frost has had a chance to penetrate the ground to a good depth. During the last month there has been a good snowfall, which has extended pretty well all over the West, and is sufficient, even if no more should come, to moisten the surface of the seed bed when it melts, and leave the ground in that delightful mellow, friable condition which is so hard to describe and so easy for the experienced wheat man to detect. If there are no high winds and hard frosts in May the indications are that there is moisture enough to carry the new crop well into June without any heavy rainfall. This to Western farmers is the ideal condition.

Therefore, at the present time, there is known to be a wide area prepared for wheat, probably taking the three Provinces as a whole, 25 per cent more than in 1907. The outlook for the moment is for an excellent seedbed in which the plants will get a good start, and, lastly, through the distribution of seed grain by the Government it is probable that never in the whole history of the Canadian West has so much choice seed been sown in any year as will be put in the ground in 1908. With anything like ordinary conditions throughout the year the West stands to reap one of the best crops in its history. Of course, all this is very much in the air, but as far as the season has gone the conditions are good. They are normal, particularly so, and to the farmer there is more comfort in normal conditions, even if they may not be the rosiest, than in anything abnormal, no matter however apparently favorable it may be.

As has been said, the area prepared for wheat is large and it may be further increased from the fact that the price of good seed oats is very high, 85c and 90c per bushel, the prices of wheat are relatively cheaper and this may lead to part of the oat land being devoted to wheat.

THE SITUATION IN THE WEST

The Outlook at the End of the Month—A Small Real Estate Boom—Conditions in the Building Trade—Grain Exchange to Buy Building—The Wheat and Cattle Markets.

The Western Viewpoint by our Special Winnipeg Correspondent.

Movement of real estate and building are the two things that are uppermost in the general conversation of commercial circles this week. The announcements in regard to the splendid union depot of the G.T.P. and C.N.R. have given an impetus to all matters in connection with building and the sale of land.

With a frontage on Main Street of 350 feet and a cupola rising 100 feet in air, the "Fort Garry Station" will be a landmark and at the same time will be a fitting successor to "Fort Garry," the walls of which surrounded all the land on which it is to be erected. The building will have a depth running eastward to the Red River of 140 feet, and when completed will be the finest railway station in the Dominion of Canada.

The municipalities of Springfield and St. Boniface have quite a tiny boom on in lots and blocks near to the land on which the G.T.P. will erect its shops. The exact location of the land has not yet been announced, so that this lends a spice of uncertainty to the buying.

Sales of small lots have been quite numerous during the past week and loan companies and land companies both report a great increase in the inquiry for farm lands as batches of settlers continue to arrive daily. There is not the mad rush of the past few years but to those who consider the question carefully, looking well to the future of the immigrants and the power of the country to assimilate them in the matters of providing transportation for their produce and supplying them with coal and other things, the stream is quite large enough and it certainly is more select in quality.

In regard to building, Winnipeg is the only criterion available just now and here it may be said that twenty-two building permits have been issded during the past week for buildings aggregating $65,000. This would indicate that outside of the big railway station the buildings this season are likely to be small, many of them being residences of the middle-class type.

There is no doubt that any lowering in the price of building material would at once be reflected in the increased number of building permits issued, but just at present there is no very great prospect of such a lowering of prices taking place. The money stringency of the past winter will without doubt be reflected in the building trade to a very considerable extent though the natural growth of the city will force the erection of more houses. Many leases are renewed from March to May and a careful inquiry has elicited the fact that there has been a very general reduction of rents, both in business and house property. None of the reductions are sweeping, but they are sufficient to show that the days of the landlord as "cock of the walk" in Winnipeg are numbered, and this in itself will give a great impetus to business in other lines, for the money taken from rent will assuredly go into other comforts for the family. A lowering of rents will, however, tend to lessen the number of houses built by individuals for their own use.

Another step has been taken in the affairs of the Grain Exchange. At the informal meeting, following exchange meeting, which was fully dealt with in a special article last week, a committee was appointed to inquire into the possibilities of issuing preferred stock to men who having an equity in the new building were willing to put up $500 each towards buying it in. The plan had been to issue preferred stock, 10 per cent. guaranteed, to these men and then go to the banks with that preferred stock and raise the money to purchase the building. At a meeting held Friday afternoon, the 28th, the committee reported that they could not issue preferred stock as in doing so they would affect their right of letters patent. The forming of this company is going on and though it is a disappointment that preferred stock cannot be issued, common stock will be issued and the company will go to the banks with that. It is expected that it will take a little longer to get the money, that is all. The press are most rigorously excluded from these meetings but the above came from a reliable source and is rather more than approximately correct.

The wheat market has been a very dull one since Wednesday. Up to that date there was a very good inquiry for No. 1 and 2 feed for export and a quiet but manifest eagerness on the part of millers to secure contract grades. There is still some business in low grades for export but the improvement in conditions of the winter wheat crop in America has had a tendency to slacken inquiry and prices, while the continued heavy shipments from Argentine is another bear factor. It is worthy of remark, however, that Argentine has already shipped over half of her available surplus, even putting it at the rather high figure of 120,000,000 bushels, so that shipments are not likely to increase from that quarter and it is still three months to July.

Western receipts are very small and there is but one opinion and that is that the wheat is remarkably well cleared up in the country. General trade is being held back for the nonce by the little turn of cold weather, but the thermometer is rising and with it the volume of trade.

Some curious conditions prevail just now as to the produce market. Last fall hay was known to be scarce, as owing to the heavy and continued rains many of the native hay meadows had been under water all season.

The man with a good supply of hay put up was regarded as having sure money in sight. The extremely mild winter, however, has lessened the demand to a most wonderful degree. In the first place farmers did not commence to feed heavily until after Christmas and the prospects are that they will not need to feed much after the first of May, while last year they fed from the beginning of November until the end of May. The result is that hay that was expected to realize $10 per ton in March and April is offering today in car lots at $6 and $8.

Butter is another anomaly. Butter was dear all winter, the winter was mild and farmers went in for dairy butter making more extensively than they have done for many years, with the result that though prices were high there was more fresh dairy butter offered on the local market than for many years. This has seriously affected the large central creameries that operate during the winter and they report it much more difficult than usual to secure cream and just at the opening of spring instead of creamery butter going down, it is going up, and to-day, (Saturday, March 28) is selling at 37½.

It might be asked if the farmers have made the butter why does it not answer as well as the creamery. Though the farmers have made more than usual the stocks held are more closely cleaned up than is common, the people who usually buy packed butter at this season are buying fresh dairy, while the people who normally at this season would buy fresh dairy have to fall back on creamery, with a smaller make to fall back on.

On the other hand, eggs are almost a drug on the market. It is a long time since Winnipeg was able to buy strictly new laid eggs retail for 25c. a dozen weeks before Easter, yet such is the case this year. The mild weather and the need of money have directed more care to the poultry, with a most surprising increase in the supplies.

Another line in which the supplies bear a direct relation to the mild winter, is that of hogs. The receipts are increasing, which is not usual so early in the year, and the hogs are also of good quality.

All the news from the ranges indicates that the cattle have come through the winter in magnificent shape and that very considerable numbers will be ready for shipment very early in June, indeed should the warm weather come early in May there will be quite a shipment before the end of the month. Some range steers are coming in every week in small bunches and they are in prime condition, six weeks on fresh grass would make them fat as butter. The flesh now is firm and a better foundation could not be asked for finishing. The demand is good, and the outlook for well finished stuff is excellent. Choice export steers bring 4c. point of shipment and there have been a few extra fine bunches that have brought 4¼c. Buyers are not too anxious to shout about what they are willing to pay, but a visit to the Winnipeg yards shows how keen is the competition for really good stuff. On the other hand, there is a lot of awfully bad stuff coming in, that is being shipped in as fat cattle. As one larger dealer wrathfully remarked, "They have rounded up all the dairy grandmothers, put them in the barn and fed them hay and a little meal for a few weeks and just as the old ladies are beginning to warm up and feel good they ship them in and call them stall-fed stock. It is simply going to break the market, even for tops, if we get much more of this stuff. —H.

HINTS ON OUTSIDE DISPLAY.

A Practical Grocer Gives His Ideas Regarding This Department.

Do outside displays pay a grocer? From our own experience, in spite of so much talk of germs and microbes, etc., it does pay. We know it from actual experience and now that the fine weather is about here and until the fall after the fruit season, a grocer can make good wages for himself from a display in front of his store alone. It is all very well for those large stores with lots of room inside to display their goods, to shout microbes, etc., but where are those large stores that have so much room for display purposes inside? They are in the minority around here. Very few have room enough to display their ordinary stock, let alone anything special. It is not necessary to put your whole stock outside, but it is necessary to work a little harder and get it out in good time in the mornings also.

I have heard it suggested not to let the same man put out the display and have to bring it in as those who bring it in at nights sometimes weary of well doing. A couple of tables about 6 feet long and 1½ feet wide, nicely dressed with seasonable goods, will not only pay for themselves, but attract the attention of people who pass your door several times a day who never come inside.

Don't block your window displays. We have so many lines of canned goods, package cereals, soaps, etc., that make great displays and will not be affected by microbes nor deteriorate in value if properly looked after in front of your store any more than hidden away where no one except yourself knows they are in stock. A good large two-sided blackboard, with leaders and prices quoted is also a good paying investment. Do not be afraid to misspell or make an error on the blackboard as people have been known to come in and leave an order just to get a chance to tell you of your mistake. Change it often and keep the people interested. Put price tickets on all your lines. Not cut prices by any means, but just regular prices. Change the color and style of your tickets also, occasionally. Give it a trial and you will soon know whether it pays you or not.

IMPORTS OF PORK FROM U. S.

Amount and Value of Fresh Meats Brought in Given Out in Commons.

The deputation of farmers which recently waited on the Government at Ottawa asking for an increase in the duty on American pork products, has evidently stimulated a desire for information on the part of some of the members. On Thursday, March 26th, questions were asked in the House of Commons, the replies to which should be of interest to the trade in Canada generally.

A. A. McLean asked: "How much mess pork, ham and bacon, giving the quantity and value of each, was imported into Canada from the United States during the months of November and December, 1907, and January and February, 1908?"

Hon. William Paterson, Minister of Customs, gave in reply: "Pork barrelled in brine, 3,046,869 pounds; value, $244,528. Bacon, hams, shoulders and sides, 2,112,457 pounds; value, $232,808."

Mr. Sproule asked: (1) "How much fresh pork has been imported for home consumption into Canada since December 1, 1907, up to March 1, 1908?" (2) "What amount of cured or salted pork has been imported for same period?" (3) "What amount of all other kinds of fresh meats was imported during the same period?"

Hon. Wm. Paterson gave as reply:— "Pork barrelled in brine, 2,059,448 lbs.; value $166,109; bacon, hams, shoulders and sides, 1,515,289 lbs., value $154,622; mutton and lamb, fresh, 545,113 lbs., value $39,025; fresh pork, 21,818 lbs., value $1,934; other meats, fresh, 53,857 lbs., value $6,282."

PURE FOOD SHOW IN OTTAWA.

Grocers' Section of Retail Merchants' Association Arranging for Exhibition at Fair Time.

The grocers' section of the Retail Merchants' Association of Ottawa, are preparing for a splendid pure food show to be held in the fat stock building at the time of the annual Ottawa exhibition next fall.

At a recent meeting the matter was taken up and the organization carried forward to a large extent. F. W. Forde was appointed head of the committee to secure exhibitors, William York was given charge of exhibitors' space and A. G. Johnson is at the head of the decorating committee, which, by the way, will have considerable work to do, for it was decided to spare no expense in making the building most attractive. C. J. Provost was given charge of the financial end of the exhibition and P. Lamoureux was appointed convener of the reception committee. Other sub-committees will be elected shortly.

An advisory committee was also appointed, including E. M. Trowern and J. A. Beaudry, Dominion secretary and treasurer, respectively, of the R.M.A.; Henry Walters, president of the Ottawa association; H. A. Beckett, Hamilton, president of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, and the wholesale merchants in Ottawa.

A plan of the building will be made at once and arrangements carried forward as rapidly as possible. It is believed that the pure food show will be one of the most attractive features of the Central Canada Fair in September.

Markets and Market Notes

Reports From Canadian Markets and Notes From Overseas Sources of Growing Supplies—Sugar Remains Very Firm and Few Changes Noted in Staple Lines.

QUEBEC MARKETS

Montreal, April 2nd, 1908.

POINTERS—

Sugar—Very firm.

Butter—Easier.

Eggs—Declined.

Tea—Quiet.

Maple Products—New syrup and sugar arriving.

The sugar market is still very strong and an advance is likely to take place at any time. This is quite in keeping with the prediction that sugar would be $5 per bbl. before May 1. Receipts of new laid eggs are very heavy, and, as a consequence, prices have declined, many dealers being obliged to get rid of their surplus stocks. Butter is also a little easier this week. Fall make creamery is quoted at 28c to 29c lb. There is not very much fresh being received, and quotations are about the same for this line, 31c. Some new maple syrup has been received on the market and is in good demand at 65c to 75c per tin of 8½ lbs. New maple sugar is also quoted at 10c to 11c per lb. So far receipts of these lines have not been very large owing to the weather being unfavorable for operations. Tea business is quiet this week, the only lines there is any demand for are blacks and Japans. Coffee trade is also quiet, all lines being firm in price. Spice market continues firm, with a fair demand. Beans are rather quiet also this week at the reduced prices. Country roads are in bad condition, and this is responsible in a certain measure for several lines of trade being slow. Collections are reported to be good this week.

SUGAR—The sugar market remains very firm under a good demand. There has been no advance to the time of going to press, but one is likely to take place at any time, as the New York market is steadily advancing. The market is likely to remain very firm owing to the scarcity of raw sugar.

MAPLE PRODUCTS—Receipts of new maple syrup so far are light, owing to the weather being unfavorable for operations in this line, but what is on the market is in good demand at 65c to 75c per tin of 8½ lbs. Maple sugar is also in good demand at 10c to 11c lb. There has not been very much of this put on the market yet, and it is too early to predict what productions will be.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Sugar—Very firm.

Maple Syrup—New stock on the market.

Beans—Firmer.

Eggs—Supplies plentiful.

Collections—Fair.

Toronto, April 1, 1908.

Business is rather dull in the wholesale markets this week, jobbers being unanimous in admitting quieter conditions. No very satisfactory reason is given for this, the poor condition of the country roads under the opening up of spring being the only reason spoken of. Spice dealers are more cheerful as the eastern confectionery business seems to have created better conditions than have existed for some time in their business.

There have been no striking changes during the week and the markets are pretty generally steady. Sugar remains at the point reached on March 21, though it is still very firm and may go up again any time. Beans are somewhat firmer and evaporated apples are a little easier, but otherwise the staple lines are unchanged. New maple syrup came on the market during the week, though in small quantitles, and only a few of the jobbers have yet obtained a supply.

The financial side of the business remains on about the same basis. Collections are fair but none too easy though somewhat more confidence seems to be displayed.

TEAS—Local business continues comparatively light at the continued high prices.

The James and Hy. Thompson Co., of London, in their latest circular, dated March 19, say :

"Very little change has taken place during the past week, although there has been a distinctly firmer tendency for all the better liquoring parcels, with an advance in price in several instances. Fair common leaf has again been keenly sought after at 6¾d. per lb., while the quantity obtainable at 6½d. has been smaller owing to occasionally better quality. On the whole, therefore, what little movement has been noticeable since our last has been in favor of sellers.

"Cabled advices from India of shipments to this country during the first half of the month fully confirm our earlier estimates, and the further deficiency of 1½ millions in the total available for the U.K. brings the shortage in the landed receipts here from all India up to about 16 millions, or from Northern India alone nearly 18 millions—a falling off of over 10 per cent. The smaller exports cabled from Ceylon should also impart confidence to a market which seems likely to be by no means overburdened with tea during the next few months."

Gow, Wilson & Stanton, speaking in similar tone on same date, say :

"With a steady expansion in the demand for Indian and Ceylon teas in foreign countries, and with no material increase in the planted area, a repetition of the unsatisfactory position which ruled during 1903, 1904 and 1905, appears unlikely. Shipments from Calcutta and Chittagong during first half of March show a falling off of nearly 1½ million lbs., and from Ceylon of 1¼ million lbs., so that with very little more of the present crop remaining to be shipped from India, and with rather unfavorable reports as to growth from Ceylon, arrivals are likely to be light in the immediate future."

SUGAR—At time of writing the situation remains practically the same as last week. An advance was expected at the end of last week, but as yet has not materialized. The market continues exceedingly strong, even firmer than at last reports, and it is likely another advance will occur before Saturday.

A cable received locally on Wednesday noted an advance of 10c on raws on the New Orleans markets on Tuesday. The American market is considerably above the Canadian and still advancing.

Willett & Gray say of the situation in raws :

"Another important advance in both raws and refined at home and abroad marks a notable weev in the sugar markets of the world. Centrifugals which closed last week at 4.125c per lb. duty paid 96 degrees test, now stand at 4.36 cents, the highest point yet reached of the present campaign. The corresponding sales, cost and freight, were from 2¾c up to 3c per lb., and at the close sellers are withdrawn at this basis and waiting for a further advance. Buyers seem willing to rest a while at this level.

"The European markets have kept pace with our own being stimulated somewhat by purchases already made for the United States. As high as 11s 9d per cwt. c. & f. N.Y., being reported for April-May beet shipments, equal to 4.40c per lb. for centrifugals. European beet quotations for the week rose from 11s 0¾d to 11s 4½d, 4.40c per lb. parity, closing steady at the advance.

"The parity of beets to centrifugals is now 4c per 100 lbs. higher for beets.

"The stimulus for the somewhat remarkable advance noted is found in the conviction prevalent of an unknown shortage in the Cuba crop, which in instances is no doubt exaggerated, although sufficiently important to warrant the rise which has already taken place.

"Also, for a continued number of weeks Mr. Licht reported unfavorable weather, for work in the beet fields, which has now given place to favorable weather, but in reply to the question, 'Will sugar advance cause large increase of beet sowings?' Mr. Licht replies to us by cable, 'Not probable.'

"Without increased sowings of beets unusually high prices for sugar seem likely for a lengthened period of time.

"We give this week the final estimate of the American beet crop, amounting to a total of 440,200 tons.

"We have reduced the estimates of the crops of British West Indies and San Domingo 20 per cent., in view of unfavorable reports received from those islands."

Czarnikow, MacDougall & Co., say of the situation in part:

"Last week's rumored purchases of European beets have been confirmed and refiners have further fortified themselves against too high claims on the part of cane producers by making additional beet purchases this week, the price, it is understood, being 11s 9d c.f. for April and May shipment, equivalent say to 3c to 3.05c c.f. for Cubas, or 4.35c to 4.40c landed. It is now believed that the beet purchases so far made for United States account amount to about 90,000 tons.

"The reports from Cuba are such that we may take it that the Cuban crop will be 500,000 tons less than that of last year, which means that United States refiners will either have to draw that additional quantity from other countries or cut down their meltings, or end the year with no stocks on hand, provided always that those importing requirements are not lessened by an increase of the domestic crop of western beets and Louisiana cane."

Prices at time of writing were quoted as follows:

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES—Business in the regular line is rather quiet. Small stocks of maple syrup, new crop, have arrived and are quoted by a few houses at $1.25 per gal. This is pure stock, and what has come in is of good quality. Weather conditions seem favorable for a good make of syrup this year.

DRIED FRUITS—Business is only fairly good, with prunes still the leading article. There is nothing new to report.

RICE AND TAPIOCA—The feeling is perhaps a little easier this week though there are no noticeable changes to report. Arrivals from primary markets are keeping jobbers' stocks fairly well supplied.

SPICES—Dealers report business as considerably brighter this week, the demand for confectionery and holiday goods adding to the regular volume.

Cocoa is slightly easier this week, but there is nothing definite as to its future movement.

BEANS—The market is firmer this week, presumably on account of the presence of American buyers, who are purchasing heavily at from five to ten cents above prices regularly offered.

DEPUTATION TO OPPOSE BILL.

Toronto Retail Merchants' Association Hold Strong Meeting and Take Steps to Defeat Measure.

The Toronto branch of the Retail Merchants' Association held an enthusiastic meeting in Broadway Hall on Wednesday evening, April 1st, with a view to taking steps to prevent the passing in the Senate of the Co-operative Bill, which was railroaded through the House of Commons in such an unwarranted manner a couple of weeks ago.

F. C. Higgins, chairman of the Toronto branch, who was in the chair, told something of the work the association had done up to the present time, and outlined suggested work for the future.

E. M. Trowern, Dominion Secretary, who has had charge of the association's campaign against the bill, told of its history in the Legislature, how it had cropped up for three years, and had been formerly laid aside, but this year had been taken up as a Government measure, and, contrary to representations, had been railroaded through the House. Mr. Trowern told of the bill's treatment in committee, and was outspoken in denunciation of the unbusinesslike methods used in dealing with it. He characterized the bill as the greatest humbug of the 19th century, and prophesied serious results for the retailer if it became active. He condemned both parties for their action in the matter, but was enthusiastic in his praise of the Senate where the bill has been temporarily delayed. He pled with the members to act energetically to save their businesses. Speaking of the progress of the co-operative movement in Great Britain, Mr. Trowern attributed the large number of unemployed in Toronto this winter to the passing of the retailer as a result of the spread of this movement in England and Scotland.

G. E. Gibbard, chairman of the Druggists' Section, followed Mr. Trowern, and mentioned a number of reasons why the bill should be opposed. He was suspicious of the alleged benefits of the proposed movement and saw in it a scheme to drive out the retailer for the benefit of large corporations of English capitalists. Mr. Gibbard spoke of the good work the association is doing in the matter, and suggested that a subscription be taken to defray the expenses of a deputation to be sent to Ottawa. The matter was carried through immediately, and $126 was realized for the work.

T. Kinnear, representing the wholesale grocers of the city, spoke of the good feeling existing between the wholesale and retail trade, and said that the wholesalers were also interested in this matter, and would stand at the retailers' backs in opposing the bill.

Hugh Blain expressed himself as heartily opposing the bill, which he characterized as a piece of very unwise legislation and hoped that it would be defeated.

Finally a resolution was brought forward by Walter Mann, seconded by R. W. Dockray, and carried unanimously, to the effect that the association endorse the action of the Executive in opposing the bill in the Senate.

A deputation of twenty-four from the association went to Ottawa from Toronto on Thursday night. There they will be joined by a similar deputation from Montreal and by a monster representation from the Ottawa Association, and will see the Premier at noon to-day.

It is understood the Provincial Legislature has also taken steps to oppose the bill on the ground that it will tend to seriously injure the provincial revenues and representatives of the Provincial Government will be present to lend their influence.

G.T.P. TO MONTREAL.

Premier Assures Deputation it Will Be Constructed.

A delegation representing the Montreal Board of Trade went to Ottawa on Tuesday to present to the Premier the petition of that body praying that a branch of the Transcontinental Railway be built to Montreal.

Those forming the delegation were:—President, T. J. Drummond; 1st Vice-President, Farquhar Robertson; Secretary, Geo. Hadrill; Andrew A. Allan, A. A. Ayer, Robert Bickerdike, M.P., B. Hal Brown, Geo. Caverhill, J. S. N. Dougall, W. I. Gear, Wm. Hanson, Peter Lyall, J. P. Mullarkey, Robert Munro, Alex. Orsali, Jos. Quintal, Norman Wight.

The Premier, in replying to the delegation, admitted the advisability of the branch asked for, and finally gave assurance that the branch connection would be built as soon as was possible.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 9 a.m. Thursday, April. 2, 1908.)

Business continues active and prospects for a large spring and summer trade are good. Collections are improving. Prospects point to an early spring and with the large amount of ploughing done last fall there will be a largely increased acreage under crop. With a favorable season this will mean prosperity for the west.

MEN WHO SELL THINGS

We have just closed an arrangement whereby we will have the exclusive right to publish in Canada a book for salesmen, by Walter D. Moody, formerly traveling salesman, buyer and general sales manager for a large wholesale house, and now business manager of the Chicago Association of Commerce—the largest body of business men in the world, numbering about two thousand seven hundred members.

Mr. Moody's book is dedicated to the "Commercial Ambassador," and he has written it primarily for the traveling man. It also contains much educational matter for the business man, young and old, and there is a vein of business philosophy running through it that will appeal to any man or boy interested in self-development and a successful future. It is a book every salesman worthy the name will find indispensable.

Mr. Moody has been engaged for a year and a half in compiling these experiences and observations of his life's work in connection with the field of salesmanship as viewed from the standpoint of the traveling salesman, buyer, sales manager and employer, and as this book appeals to all who are concerned in any line of trade or business, it is just the book those in your own line who are engaged in the creative, money-getting side will find most useful and valuable.

The publication will be begun shortly in The Canadian Grocer and will run for several months. Special subscriptions will be taken during the time it is running, at $1.00. Of course, regular subscribers get it without extra change. We would appreciate very much our readers drawing the attention of commercial travelers, and their clerks, to this announcement. Here are some selections which show the author's vigorous and entertaining style.

The salesman who hopes to win real success must change his negative qualities into positive ones, and then stick to some good reliable house where his chances for growth are assured.

A salesman of experience realizes that ideas —practical methods of selling goods—are of the greatest value, and he also knows that it pays him to search for them.

Time and thought taken in complaining of competition is useless expenditure of energy. It lessens your capacity for the accomplishment of things for which you were employed.

The Salesman goes out and digs up business, while the Order-taker just shambles around, waiting to be fed, like the hippopotamus in the menagerie.

A good salesman must know more about his goods than the man he is selling to knows about them. Knowledge and enthusiasm beat oratory every time. Enthusiasm in a salesman begets enthusiasm in a customer.

The best salesmen any house can have are the salesmen it builds for itself. The old saying, "Salesmen are born, and not made," is the veriest kind of tommyrot in this day of science and progress.

What the world of salesmanship wants is educated enthusiasm. The purest of king's English will secure an audience and hold attention for the salesman anywhere, while slang and short cuts of speech often excite distrust and offend the ear of the truly refined.

Dairy Produce and Provisions

Stocks of Cheese Are Low and Receipts Small—New Make Butter of Good Quality is on the Market—The Hog Markets Advanced.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

Montreal, April 1, 1908.

That stocks of cheese held in Montreal do not total more than 25,000 boxes is the general opinion of the trade. And it is not a few large houses that hold the supply. These 25,000 boxes are scattered pretty well among the produce dealers, few houses having a respectable quantity. Some of the larger firms have been out of the market entirely for some weeks, admitting that they were cleaned out completely.

For the past month or so quotations have not fluctuated a great deal. If anything, the prices are a shade lower this week. Holders of good colored are securing a figure in the neighborhood of 13c to 13¼c, while white is being placed at 12¾c to 13c. It is doubtful if any firm having a supply of white on hand, however, would refuse 12¾c.

Reports from the other side are to the effect that Canadian cheese is being sidetracked to a great extent by the New Zealand article. A considerable quantity of this has been arriving in England of late, and as the price has been lower than that asked for Canadian by 25c to 50c cwt., it is not surprising that many Old Country firms should find Canadian cheese rather a drag when it came to making sales. Canadian quality will be recognized in the end, however, and within the next couple of months, after the new make begins to be a strong factor in the market, our cheese will be sold just as freely as in the past in the markets of England.

Local dealers report a very fair trade. Shipments to points around Montreal, and to the west, such as they are, the latter would indicate that retailers are buying but for their immediate requirements. It is not likely that they will be interested in even fairly large purchases, as many desire to have on hand as little as possible of last season's cheese when the new make arrives on the market.

Receipts of cheese last week amounted to nil boxes, against 80 boxes previous week, and 106 boxes same week a year ago. Total receipts for the season amount to 2,053,992 boxes, against 2,349,939 boxes same period one year ago.

Greater interest is being taken in butter now that the new make has started to arrive. Truly enough, receipts so far have been very small. They have not been large enough to be a factor of importance in the market by any means. Yet the mere fact that new butter is obtainable once and in a while is in itself good news. New creamery in quantity is being looked forward to by everyone. The quality of arrivals so far has not been all that could be desired, but this will improve later on, and by 15th of this month it ought to be around the old standard for which Canada, the Eastern Townships particularly is famous. Packages are coming forward by both express and freight.

For the new stuff which has already been placed, dealers have obtained 29½c to 30c. Some feel that the former price is a little low, but it would be difficult to get more than 30c, which is also lower than the figure given by one or two houses. A prominent butter man, speaking of arrivals of new butter, said that he found receipts fully 50 per cent. less than they were at this time last year. He admitted the earliness of the season, but thought that new creamery should be coming forward a little more freely.

Held stocks are not large. The temporary high prices which ruled a few weeks ago, served to keep holdings from dwindling down too quickly. October creamery fetches 28c to 29c, the latter price for extra fine quality.

Some merchants are a bit chary of taking hold of held stock which has been stored ever since last fall. They are afraid to pay the price asked for fear they might be paying high figures for stock not quite up to the mark. Those who are waiting for new butter are therefore buying from hand to mouth.

Finest dairy rolls are selling from 26c to 27c, while poorer grades of dairy bring 23c to 24c.

Receipts of butter last week amounted to 167 packages, against 1,136 packages same week a year ago. Receipts of a week previous amounted to 240 packages. Total receipts to date amount to 416,260 packages, against 612,439 packages same period a year ago.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

Toronto, April 2, 1908.

In the face of unfavorable conditions abroad the Canadian packing industry shows a somewhat firmer position this week.

The English market just at present is in rather an excited condition and is rather irregular, though it shows an advance of about three shillings on the previous week's basis.

This would seem to mean somewhat more encouragement to Canadian products, but when it is known that those indefatigable workers, the Danes, made the enormous deliveries of 52,000 last week, it will be seen that the market was exceedingly well supplied. The Danish shippers have been making records this year and when they made "killings" of 48,000 a few weeks ago, it was thought the possible aggregate had been about reached. No one seems to be aware of the possibilities of this country, however, for again last week they turned out the record shipments noted above.

American markets have advanced materially and as a consequence their shipments dropped off somewhat, the aggregate being about 13,000.

Canadian packers this week are quoting $5.40 f.o.b. The advance is more a result of short local deliveries than of any outside demand. The bad condition of the country roads having seriously affected the quantity of receipts.

The summary of the American provision markets last week is given in Cincinnati Prices Current as follows :—

"There is shown considerable lessening in the marketing of hogs the past week, and the supply has fallen short of corresponding period last year. Total western slaughtering, 490,000 hogs, compared with 615,000 the preceding week, and 635,000 two weeks ago. For corresponding time last year the number was 550,000, and two years ago 490,000. From March 1 the total is 2,030,000, against 1,740,000 year ago—an increase of 290,000. Prices have developed an upward movement, top figures on yesterday reaching $5.30 per 100 pounds at Chicago, compared with $5 a week ago; here at Cincinnati $5.45 was reached on yesterday, against $5.05 a week ago. The general average for prominent markets at the close is $5.15 per 100 pounds, compared with $4.70 a week ago; $4.55 two weeks ago; $6.20 a year ago; $6.35 two years ago, $5.25 three years ago; $5.30 four years ago. The quality runs from fair to good, and in most instances is being well maintained.

"The speculative provision market was fairly active the past week. Early in the week a firm tone prevailed and the strength in the corn markets, with lighter receipts of hogs, and well-maintained prices induced buying. On Monday there was a decline in corn prices and provision quotations were lower. Since then more strength has been shown, and while trade was quiet, some recovery was made in values, although closing quotations for leading articles at Chicago are slightly lower than at the close of the preceding week. Export demand was fair and foreign markets held steady. Domestic markets were quiet and unchanged. The liberal stocks of speculative articles on hand had a tendency to check advances in prices. The export clearances of product were fair, but show a decrease as compared with the preceding week, while an increase is shown over the movement in the corresponding week last year."

PROVISION MARKETS

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—The provision market continues steady and local packers report good business doing for the Easter trade. Owing to the summer rates of some houses going into effect business is brisker. Lard is firmer and likely to advance. Smoked meats also are very firm and scarce. One firm reports ham up 1c lb. this week.

BUTTER—Prices on fall-made creamery have declined during the week, some holders being anxious to sell their stocks but the situation is firming up, as stocks of fall-made are dwindling and receipts of fresh are light, in fact, only about 33 1-3 to 50 per cent. as heavy as the corresponding period last year. Receipts of dairy rolls are light, owing to bad roads in the country, and prices are firm at 24½c to 25c.

EGGS—Receipts of new laid eggs continue large, and some dealers are cutting prices to get rid of surplus stocks. Demand is strong owing to the Lenten season. Prices will likely be well maintained from now until after Easter. New laids are quoted at 17c to 18c per dozen, and pickled at 14c to 15c. Receipts of eggs last week amounted to 454 cases, as against 1,049 cases same week last year. Total receipts to date amount to 190,926 cases, against 240,774 cases same period a year ago.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Reading notices under this heading will be accepted at 10 cents per agate line.

There are many lines of goods that can be put in wooden pails to advantage, and manufacturers and packers will find it advisable to give this matter their attention as it is a well-known fact that the sweet, clean wood is the most sanitary and the most suitable for putting up anything in the line of foods and besides, the package is not cumbersome and is much preferred by the retail dealer. Pails also have an additional advantage over most other packages in the fact that their commercial value does not end as merely a package, as there are so many uses they can be put to after the contents have been removed.

Those interested in this line of goods can get full particulars by sending a card to the United Factories, Ltd., 80 York street, Toronto.

The Customer With a Preference is the grocer's preferred customer. This is simple and self-evident.

It is easier to supply one who says "Have you CLARK'S MEATS?" than one who says "What meats have you?" and "What's the difference between them?"

Customers naturally ask for CLARK'S MEATS as they are better known from coast to coast than any other.

Is your line of CLARK'S MEATS complete? Don't run short.

THE FLOUR AND CEREAL MARKETS

Quebec Markets Remain Firm and Fairly Active—Ontario Reports Considerable Dullness in All Lines.

Conditions are not materially changed in the Canadian flour and cereal markets since last report.

Reports from Montreal show a continuance of good demand and firm feeling, with unchanged prices in flour, cereals and feed.

Ontario markets are in less satisfactory condition. Both millers and cereal manufacturers report exceedingly dull business. There is very little demand and supplies also are light, in some cases, as a consequence of bad country roads. An easier feeling pervades the markets generally, and while prices continue on the same basis, a slump in flour is expected within a couple of days.

MONTREAL.

FLOUR—The flour market is unchanged this week. There is still noticeable a firm tone, and a good local demand for all lines is reported. Prices are the same as at last report.

WANT COMMERCIAL TAX EASED.

Montreal Board of Trade Petition Government for Reduction.

On Saturday last, March 28, a delegation from the Montreal Board of Trade waited upon Premier Gouin, in Montreal, asking that something be done to relieve the commercial corporations and insurance companies doing business in the Province of Quebec from the heavy taxation which has been imposed upon them for the past few years by the Provincial Government. The petition follows :

"The memorial of the council to the Montreal Board of Trade humbly showeth :

"That this board has ever regarded with disfavor the taxation of commercial corporations for the reason that the board believes that such burdens have a detrimental effect upon the business of the province ;

"That this board protested most earnestly by deputation against the increase of such taxation proposed by your Government in March, 1906, which increase was with some modification thereafter adopted ;

"That the reason given by the Provincial Cabinet for such increase in the taxation of commercial corporations was the urgent need of the province for additional revenue, and that because the success of the efforts of the Quebec Government to secure for this province an increase of the amount of the Dominion subsidy was not then assured and therefore that such increased taxation must be imposed to provide the required additional revenue ;

"That the province having succeeded in securing from the Dominion Government a large increase in the subsidy, amounting to $600,000 per annum, your memorialists respectfully submit that the said tax on commercial corporations should be abolished or greatly reduced.

"Signed on behalf of the council of the Montreal Board of Trade,

T. J. DRUMMOND,
President.

GEO. HADRILL,
Secretary."

Premier Gouin assured the delegation that something would be done in the matter. He would not promise the question being considered during the present session, but they could count upon the matter being taken up and seriously considered. He reminded them that commercial corporations were not required to pay as much in Quebec as in the Province of Ontario. Nevertheless, any undue burden would not be saddled upon Quebec companies if the Government could help it. He anticipated the adoption of a policy anent taxation which would meet with the approval of the delegation.

A VISION OF INTEGRITY.

The Value of Uprightness of Character in the Modern Business World.

By Robt. P. Kreitler.

What seest thou? And I said, a plumb-line.—Amos, vii., 8.

In the prime of his life there was granted the prophet Amos a vision of a symbolic picture. He saw a master builder testing a wall. The wall and the builder did not attract his attention so much as the implement with which the wall was being tested. Used to determine whether the wall was true or not, it suggested a process by which the characters aad lives of men were to be tested.

There is hardly a part of life without its visions, but the vision that counts is that which gives us enough of truth and righteousness to inspire our lives. There is nothing which stimulates to nobler action more than a vision of integrity. Affection, genius, intellect inspire men, for they give visions of life. But they count for nothing without integrity at the bottom. It is at the basis of life, individually and collectively. Uprightness of character will outweigh ability and a clean life over-balance brains.

There never was a time when there was greater need than at present to bring down close to the life of the average man the vision of integrity in action. The distressing discoveries that have revealed the lack of it in all walks of life have simply shown that too many of us are concerned with the husk, not the kernel. Character itself may well be regarded as a wall, for there is a kind of masonry which we must test by the plumb of integrity. Analyze character, and we find it is the one great, silent force which moves through the avenues of thought, feeling and action, until it shows others just what may be expected of us. Only one force reigns supreme in that character, and keen observers can tell at a glance what that force is. To use our analogy, there is but one style of architecture influencing our character wall; the sensual man is building on bestial lines; the miser on those of money getting; the philosopher, of wisdom; the broad-minded, spiritual man on those of integrity and uprightness. And so it goes.

There is another point in the analogy. There is a vast amount of different materials being incorporated into our buildings. Earth, lime, stone, brick, wood and iron. But each must be tested by some standard of correctness before it is permitted a place. So in life. Our character wall must not have embodied in it anything but what will stand the highest test. In our use of the mental, moral, muscular, political and religious material heaped about us we must apply the test that will best help to produce a noble result.

As we build courage comes from the prosaic fact that we can do only a little day by day. Stone upon stone, tier upon tier, is the old, old law. The form, style and expression of life being slowly turned into character, we test each day's work as we look toward a finished result. It is antiquated, but still true, that we do not become a devil or a saint in a day. We, as we grow into something different from all others, must constantly measure ourselves by the standards our visions have granted us. It is a miserably sad thing to have the one opportunity of life come to us, an opportunity wherein we might show our integrity and our loyalty, and to awaken to the fact that slowly acts have become habits, habits character, and we are unable to live up to the opportunity. It is a serious thing if we personally fail, but a still more serious thing if we kill consciously the visions of integrity in others. In that sense we become "homocides," for the ancient Greeks believed the word "homo" stood for the creature capable of aspiration and imagination.

Hints for Grocery Salesmen

The Value of Ambition as an Aid to Progress and Success—One Traveler's Novel "Remembering" Scheme—Travelers' Convention in Calgary.

THE VALUE OF AMBITION.

The salesman who realizes the value of ambition, and at the same time tempers his knowledge with common sense, is on the highroad to success. No man, without ambition, ever bettered himself of his own good work, but ambition must be rightly applied, its controlling forces kept within certain bounds, or else the results will be disastrous. "Keep your eyes on the stars, but do not forget you are walking on the earth," was a maxim once set forth by President Roosevelt to his people, and in it he conveyed an apt warning to those whose minds, solely centred upon a certain object, gave no heed to the danger of tripping by the way.

The ambition which makes a salesman discontented with his lot; which makes him eager to step into the shoes of the man above him before he has earned the right by hard work and diligent study; which makes him, to the point of childish petulance, eager to become master of men before he is master of himself, is the ambition which carries nothing but disaster in its train. There is no royal road to success, and the man who is so anxious to manage a store, or to possess one himself, that he cannot stop to throw his heart into the work of his employer fails at the very beginning.

Duty Must Not Be Forgotten.

"I ought to be managing this department, instead of so-and-so, I am sure I am a better man than he," says the young salesman, and then he glares at the unfortunate customer, who, coming for a certain article, reminds him that for the time being, at any rate, he is not the manager. The purchaser is probably served in a surly manner, no attempt is made to show the best lines in the store, no attempt made to make a sale outside the article asked for, and the merchant is not only at a pecuniary loss, but in all probability a customer has been driven away from the store forever.

This ambitious young man, too, has no patience to pay attention to the humdrum work he may have in hand. How could he be expected to keep a bright polish on the stoves, or have the shelves in nice array, when he ought to be ordering stock and bossing the other employes! And then one day he is curtly told that his services are no longer needed, and he goes away reviling at the base ingratitude of the world in general and of employers in particular, only to repeat the same process again and again until his time is gone by, for nature is not lavish with her opportunities.

Shortsightedness of Clerks.

He never realizes that it is his own fault, that he has been left behind. He reads in this paper and in that, the value of being ambitious, and he characterizes the advice as folly, because he had been ambitious, and what had been the result. A shortsighted young man truly, but there are many more like him around us. If he could divest himself of his own self conceit; if he could understand that in looking at the stars so intently he had been tripped many times by the ground, he would see why he had failed. "Had he shown a genuine love for his work, had he done his best for his employer, whether he was in his right place or not, had he done for others what he would expect others to do for him?" Let him ask himself these questions and the conviction must come to him that he had lamentably failed from the first.

Ambition and Application.

Ambition, rightly applied, however, is the mainspring of success. Ambition should make the young salesman keenly alive to the necessity of keeping the counters as brightly polished as human labor can make them, of having the shelves as tidy as strict attention to their order can keep them. What is worth doing, is worth doing well, and the smallest detail in store routine has its definite aim and object. It is the right ambition which makes a man anxious to do the best he can, whether he feels he is fitted for higher work or not, and to throw himself thoroughly into the task he has in hand, whether it be sweeping the floors or dressing the window. It is the right ambition which makes him give cheerful obedience and loyalty to the man above him, although he may be convinced that the relative positions ought to be reversed. His time will come all the quicker for giving this obedience and loyalty.

Must Study to Rise.

The rightly ambitious man will make a special study of all the goods he has to sell, of what material they are made and as to how they can best be applied. By this means he can talk intelligently to the customer, probably command a sale, focus the attention of those in authority upon his work, and beyond that give himself extra qualifications for the time when his advance takes place and his ambition is being realized. This is the age of specializing, therefore a complete study should be made of the science of salesmanship. Keep the eyes open. When another salesman advances a new line of argument and it appears a sound one, treasure it up for future use; do not be too superior to learn from others; diligently study all the technical papers that can be secured, and show an employer that his advice is valued, and his success an incentive. Let the salesman remember the scriptural injunction, "do unto others as you would they should do unto you," and in following it out as between employer and employe, a great pitfall will be successfully passed.

Be Earnest and Enthusiastic.

The sensibly ambitious man is earnest and enthusiastic. Earnest in making the best sales, earnest in making his window display better than the one before, earnest in his loyalty to those above him, and earnest in his desire to forge ahead. He is enthusiastic over his trade, enthusiastic over the success of his employer, and enthusiastic over the fact that he is part and parcel of a great industry. The man who is ambitious is well on the road to success, but he must trudge on alone, finding out by experience and hard knocks the right turnings to take, and reaching his goal only by laborious effort cheerfully given. The man who expects to travel the same road by means of a stage coach will encounter a breakdown before he has gone half the distance.

WRITES LETTERS TO HIMSELF.

A certain western town has an hotel clerk who is an observer of human, or, at least, commercial traveler nature. He recently remarked to a reporter that men on the road write letters to themselves before they get to the next hotel, so they will appear important when they register and ask for their mail. The clerks soon get on to them, because they see the handwriting on the register and on the mail. "But," he added, "that isn't always the reason, and I noticed it in a man whom I finally got to know very well. He wasn't the kind of a fellow who cared about appearing 'important,' so I asked him about it. The explanation was simple. His business was such that it involved an infinity of minor details. His memory was good as to these, but it was faulty as to matters not directly pertaining to his department, so when he was in another town and recalled something he had to attend to in the next town, he would write it on a slip of paper and mail it to himself. He didn't put the memorandum in his pocket for fear he would forget about putting it there. He said he had used the plan for a long time, always writing ahead if there was something in another town he wanted to remember, and said it was the best plan he had ever figured out to keep from forgetting things."

TRAVELERS' CONVENTION AT CALGARY.

Calgary travelers are making extensive preparations for the great gathering of commercial men from all parts of the continent, which will be held in that city in June. If the plans proposed are carried out the visitors to this convention will be given the time of their lives. That the attendance will be large seems assured. Already inquiries are being received from travelers' organizations and assurances are being given that they are planning to attend in large numbers. One such organization from North Dakota proposes to bring two coach loads of travelers and their wives, and a brass band.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Prices Rule Firm in Fruit Market—Fancy Vegetables Arriving in Larger Quantities—Fish Moving Slower Due to Mild Weather.

Fruits in general are meeting with a steady demand. Although business has not reached any great proportions yet, the mild weather will stimulate the consumption of fruits and the market accordingly. Oranges remain firm at old prices. Marmalade oranges are about done and will only last for a few weeks longer. Lemons are unchanged. The November crop of Messinas is now arriving in fairly heavy supply. Bananas are feeling the effect of the mild weather and moving better. Cranberries and Almerias are still being handled but will soon be cleared out.

Potatoes maintain their level and are steady at last week's quotations. Turnips are difficult to obtain. A great deal of interest centres in the increased shipments of imported lines. Prices are lower for strawberries, onions and cucumbers. Boston lettuce is higher. New tomatoes are selling well. The quality of these southern vegetables is excellent.

Nothing interesting has happened in the fish market. Prices rule steady. The demand has fallen off, due to the soft weather. A scarcity of supplies is anticipated.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—Business in green fruits has been quite in keeping with that of last week, although weather conditions have not been as favorable. Bananas are quoted a little lower, while navel and Florida oranges are stiffer in price. Pineapples, Florida oranges and Florida grape fruit are in heavy demand. All other lines are in fair demand at unchanged prices. If mild weather prevails during April a good increase in business will result.

VEGETABLES—There continues to be a fair amount of business doing in the vegetable line this week, and all varieties are moving fairly well. California celery, Boston hothouse cucumbers, and Spanish onions have slightly declined in price. Potatoes are also a little lower, owing to heavy receipts. Canadian onions are firmer this week and are quoted as high as 3c a lb. Lettuce, celery and tomatoes are in very good demand. Other lines are in fair demand at unchanged prices.

FISH—There is a slight falling off in demand for fish this week, and business has been quieter than for some days. Fresh haddock is becoming scarce. Frozen fish is getting well cleared off the market, but many fresh lines are expected in a week or so, and this will help out the situation.

GREEN FRUITS—Business has been very satisfactory and, with milder weather in sight, will be much improved. Good sales are being reported. Prices remain firm in all lines. Oranges remain steady, but are not moving quite so freely. Lemons maintain their firm feeling, and are in good demand. The mild weather lately has brightened up the banana situation, prices having an upward tendency. Grape fruit is featureless. Almeria grapes and cranberries are in light supply. The quality is varied, prices being quoted accordingly. Pineapples are in fair demand.

VEGETABLES—Fair business is reported. Potatoes are not materially changed. Canadians ars arriving in large quantities, while Delawares are in light supply. Turnips are scarce. Beets are done. Fancy stuff is arriving in larger quantities and meeting with an improved demand. Strawberries and cucumbers are quoted at lower prices. Lettuce has advanced 5c. Spinach and asparagus are new arrivals on the market this week and are selling satisfactorily.

FRUIT MEN CO-OPERATE.

A number of fruit men doing business in Montreal and the immediate vicinity of the city have banded together for the purpose of mutual profit and protection. They have formed a stock company and being well under way, anticipate supplying themselves this season and hereafter with all early vegetables, such as tomatoes, and early fruits like strawberries, at a minimum cost.

They have secured land near St. Hilaire, which is some twenty-two miles from the city, where they will raise these fruits and vegetables in hot-beds. By this co-operation they will be able to place at the disposal of their customers all early fruits (which usually come from California months before from our own country districts) at a date hitherto considered too early for them. Another feature will be the lower prices which supplies obtainable locally will warrant. The first fruits and vegetables coming from the west at present are sold at figures covering express or freight charges. The outcome of the experiment will be awaited with interest.

THE MARKETS OF NOVA SCOTIA

A Review of Grocery Prices—Good Business in Export Apples—Encouraging Crop Reports—A Slump in Eggs.

(Special Correspondence to The Canadian Grocer)

Halifax, N.S., March 31.

The feature of the grocery markets this week is the advance in the price of sugar. The sugar markets are very unsteady and the price continues its upward tendency. This recent advance of 10c per hundred pounds makes a total increase since the first of the year of about 50c. According to the trend of things the jobbers are of the opinion that sugar will keep advancing. Various reasons are assigned for the prevailing high prices, but the dealers here know little or nothing regarding the real cause. Shortage of the crop is taken for granted as the principal reason.

Prices quoted here are: Extra standard, (bbl.), $5; Austrian granulated, (bags) $4.90; bright yellow (bbl.), $4.80; No. 1 yellow, (bbl.), $4.50.

The canned goods trade is quite brisk. Stocks held appear ample to carry the jobbers through the season.

* * *

All the fruit dealers report business exceptionally good. Some of them have all the trade that they can handle just at present. The export of apples from this port continues quite heavy, the Furness liner Rappahannock, which sailed from here during the week, taking 12,000 for the London market. There are still some Bishop Pippins on the market, but the season is now late and these apples are soft. Hard winter fruit finds ready sale, but very little of it reaches this market, the growers or jobbers preferring to send their fruit across the water. Russets command $4 per barrel here now, and the storekeepers say that this price is too high for fruit on the home market. The best grades of apples now offered for sale are 25 to 50 cents per barrel higher than they were a week ago.

Jamaica oranges are worth from $5.50 to $6 per barrel; California navels from $3.25 to $3.50; Floridas $3.50 per box, and Valencias from $3.50 to $4.75. Bananas are $2.50 per bunch. Lemons, 300, come at $2.75.

* * *

Potatoes are selling on Prince Edward Island for 35c, and turnips for 15c. Potatoes here are quoted at 55c per bushel; turnips at $1.50 per bag; parsnips, $1.75, and beets $1.50. Cabbage is becoming very scarce, and is selling at $1 to $1.25 per dozen.

* * *

Despite the unfavorable weather conditions in the spring and autumn of last year, the crops of Nova Scotia in 1907 fared better agriculturally than any other province in the Dominion, except Prince Edward Island, according to the report of the Secretary for Agriculture which Premier Murray laid on the table of the House of Assembly this week.

* * *

The supply of fresh laid eggs is very good and the price this week has dropped to 18c.

* * *

The Dartmouth grocers are too fast a bunch for the hardwaremen, for in a recent game they defeated James Simmonds & Son's employes 2—1. The line-up was:

Grocers—Goal, Stevens; point, Whelby; cover, Henderson; forwards, Richards, Publiconer, J. Kane, H. Kane.

J. Simmonds & Son—Goal, G. Devan; point, P. Ward; cover, C. P. Martin; forwards, R. Walker, C. Proper, R. W. Mosher, L. W. Myatt.

TRADE NOTES.

T. J. Gilbert, grocer, of Montreal, has made an assignment.

W. Savard, general merchant, of Lorette, Que., has assigned.

C. T. Smith, grocer, of Sarnia, Ont., has made an assignment.

John Carswell, grocer, of Plattsville, Ont., has sold to C. Moyer.

A. Fortier & Co., general merchants, of Beauceville, Que., have assigned.

J. J. Efford, Sapperton, B.C., has purchased the grocery of O. M. Helgerson.

Carrington Bros., of Carman, Man., have opened a grocery and confectionery store.

Jacob Kellerman, general merchant, of Dashwood, Ont., has sold to Tieman & Ediehoffer.

The general store business of E. H. Howey, Vanessa, Ont., has been taken over by J. E. Durham.

Allen Rae, Wroxeter, Ont., has been succeeded in the grocery and crockery business by R. J. Laing & Co.

Announcement is made by the Improved Match Company, Drummondville, Que., that they have doubled the capacity of their plant, and are now capable of turning out one hundred and sixty cases a day.

John McEwan, who has managed the Palace grocery, in Kemptville, for Alex. Henry, since its inception three years ago, has tendered his resignation and will leave about the first of next month for Tompkins, Sask., where he has accepted the position of manager of a large store for a joint stock company. He has also taken an interest in the same. Mr. McEwan's departure from town will be much regretted. He has worked up a most successful business here and has been a good citizen.—Kemptville Times.

The Way to the Retailer.

¶ Advertisements should not, any more than individuals, obtrude.

¶ Obtrusion is more likely to meet with rebuff than cordial reception.

¶ The advertisement in a trade newspaper never obtrudes, because the medium which carries it does not obtrude.

¶ Every trade newspaper that leaves the press reaches a buyer or probable buyer.

¶ Retail merchants buy trade newspapers for the advertisements they carry as well as for the reading matter which they contain.

¶ They look to the advertising columns of the trade newspaper for hints on what to buy, and where to buy, just as much as they look to the reading columns for market information, trade news, and business-getting ideas.

¶ What, then, is the conclusion of the whole matter? This and nothing else: Those who wish to maintain their standing in the trade or those who wish to improve their standing in the trade should continuously use the advertising columns of a good trade newspaper.

CONDENSED OR "WANT" ADVERTISEMENTS.

Advertisements under this heading, 1c. a word each insertion.

Contractions count as one word, but five figures (as $1,000) are allowed as one word.

OUR NEW BRUNSWICK LETTER

Province Enjoying Brisk Trade with Markets Advancing.

St. John, N.B., March 30.

Business has been quite brisk of late. The jobbers are shipping away their seed orders and the demand for general groceries has been very good.

In looking over the past month it is noticeable that there has been no change whatever in the flour market. Wheat has been fluctuating around 95c for May delivery, and there is no immediate prospect of any marked change either up or down. Local jobbers are somewhat surprised that Ontario millers have not advanced the price of their flour as the difference between Manitoba and Ontario patents is really too great, and in view of this fact there may still be higher prices on Ontario flour.

* * *

Feed is scarce and higher and owing to the increased demand it is not expected the price will be any lower for some time. Cornmeal and oatmeal are both firmer and the outlook is for a little higher prices.

* * *

Pork and beef are unchanged since last report. Lard is also unchanged.

* * *

Sugar is still jumping upwards. Another advance of 10c a hundredweight was recorded on Wednesday last. This makes a total advance since the first of the month of 70c a hundred, on Austrian granulated in bags, and 40c a hundred on standard granulated and all grades of yellow. The market is exceptionally strong and other advances are looked for in the near future. The advance is not caused by speculation, but by actual shortage in the world's supply of raw sugar.

* * *

Fancy Barbadoes molasses has advanced 3c a gallon in Barbadoes this month in sympathy with the advance in sugar. Shipments of new Barbadoes molasses are arriving almost every week.

* * *

Cheese is quoted at 14½c for September flats. New cheese is not expected for another month. Butter still keeps high and scarce. Eggs are dropping gradually and are now offered at 18 and 19 cents for fresh stock.

* * *

Ben Ferguson, representing Walter Boker & Co., and J. Burns and M. Malzer, cigar salesmen, were in the city last week calling on the trade.

GROCERY FACTS

Something About the Goods Handed Over the Counter Every Day.

Japanese Rice.

The Empire of Japan consists of about 498 islands, containing a total area of 111,134,513 acres, of which 7,238,097 acres are under cultivation for rice. Three varieties of that cereal are grown—ordinary, glutinous and upland. For ordinary rice the average yield per acre is about 35 bushels, for the second-named 29 bushels, and the last-named 18 bushels. Of ordinary rice the total yield averages 208,770,000 bushels, glutinous 19,410,000, upland 3,445,000, or a total of 231,625,000 bushels.

Agriculturally speaking, the entire country is devoted to rice growing. The smallness of the farm holdings is a remarkable feature in connection with the industry in Japan, the average being from ⅛-acre to 1 and 2 acres in extent. The smallness of the fields, combined with their levelness. are what enables the system of irrigation to be so perfectly carried out.

At harvesting the rice is cut with a small hand sickle, and is occasionally allowed to lie on the ground for several days. It is then tied in small bundles and placed over a kind of trellis made of bamboo, with the grain hanging down the reason for that being, should rain fall. the grain does not become so much damaged.

Of the total population of Japan—48,864,000—over 60 per cent. are engaged in agricultural pursuits, of which rice is the chief product. In addition to producing annually about 231,675,000 bus. of rice, Japan has to import, thus, in 1906, 12,200,000 bus. were imported.

Indigo.

An important and valuable blue coloring matter, mostly used by dyers and artists, but also sparingly by confectioners, etc., and very largely for making laundry blue. It is obtained from the leaves of several kinds of plants in the East Indies, and is a light friable substance of a deep blue color. Nine-tenths of it comes from India and is very powerful. The kind cultivated in Bengal and known as indigofera tinctoria is considered the best, and next to it are the I. anil of the West Indies, and the I. guatemali of Central America.

The chief indigo plant is nearly like that of tares, and the pods of similar shape. The seed. which much resembles gunpowder in size and shape, is sown in the spring in rows about a foot apart, and if kept free from weeds it grows very rapidly.

In about nine weeks after sowing, and just as it is beginning to flower, the leafy stems, then three to four feet high, are all cut off with a pruning knife to within a couple of inches of the ground, another crop of leaves is ready in about six weeks, and even a third crop will grow in favorable seasons.

The leaves, similar in shape to those of the ash, are gathered into bundles, put at once into wooden vats and covered with water, where in fifteen to twenty hours they begin to ferment, turning the water thick and green and evolving bubbles of carbonic acid gas. The light green liquor is then drawn off into an empty vat a little lime water is added to it, and well beaten up—this causes the green water to turn blue and settle to the bottom of the vat. The clearer water is next drawn off, and the pasty residuum is formed into small lumps or cakes, dried by the sun, and finally marketed.—Grocery World.

TRADE NOTES.

The Oriental Tobacco Co., of Montreal, has received letters of incorporation to carry on the general business of manufacturers and dealers in tobacco. The promoters are, M. Kouri, J. Shamy G. J. Jarjour, E. Abraham and S. E. Shahan, all of Montreal.

Letters of incorporation have been granted to A. B. Cunningham, Jas. Wiskin, W, C, Austin, S. T. Medd and A. E. Hicks, all of Peterboro, Ont., to manufacture and deal in cereal products under the corporate name of the "Canada Flakes Company, Limited." The head office will be in Peterboro.

Letters patent have been granted to W. E. Matthews. A. E. Matthews, R. G. Code, E. F. Burritt and C. T. Moffat, all of Ottawa, empowering them to manufacture and deal in food products of every kind. The firm's name will be Matthews, Fortier & Monette, Limited. The head office will be in Montreal.

Robert Kennedy, formerly with Forbes Bros., wholesale grocers, Montreal, has joined the traveling staff of Eby-Blain, Toronto, and will represent them in the territory on the main line of the C.P. R., from Smith's Falls to Kenora, and the Soo branch, replacing A. R. Cade, recently resigned.

The Easter price list of the Laing Packing and Provision Company, Montreal, is just being mailed to the trade. It is a beautiful piece of work, or rather a series of splendid examples of the printer's art, for there are several folders. The prices, too, are most interesting and worthy of the retailer's perusal.

Reduce Your Bookkeeping

Break away from the fetters which have bound you to the "old regime" of bookkeeping.

Don't work overtime to get out the accounts, or search vainly through a pile of books to discover a mistake. Install a modern Crain Loose Leaf System. It will reduce your bookkeeping.

Handy Self Indexed Ledger with all live accounts instead of a bulky bound one half full of dead or closed accounts. The work is simplified. The accounts are always up to date.

Write and tell us what is the nature of your business and we will show you how to improve your office system.

PERFECTION

is difficult of attainment in anything. In cans we have succeeded in coming nearer to the mark than others.

Acme Cans are of uniform quality, sanitary, and of good appearance. Each and every can is tested before leaving the factory.

The possibility of poor cans being turned out is minimized to the greatest degree by the use of finest raw material and the employment of skilled help.

By Filling Your Order We Can Prove This.

ESTABLISHED 1870

We are not in trade competition to DO the cheapest thing.

An article whose first recommendation is mere cheapness "does" everybody who handles it, and proves the most expensive in the end.

We aid the Grocer to build up trade with good things.

Our products are of a distinctive type, of solid worth and intrinsic value.

WOOD'S COFFEES

are also cheapest ; but that is not their first distinction : They are cheapest because they are BEST.

"Batger's"

Lime Juice Lemon Squash

The summer time is fast approaching, when there will be a heavy demand for summer drinks. The pure fruit juice of both, LIMES and LEMONS, have been and always will be the most popular and healthful summer drinks.

"Batger's" Lime Juice and Lemon Squash are absolutely pure and as good in flavor as modern ingenuity, the finest fully ripened fruits and over 150 years' experience can make them.

They are put up in two sizes—pints and quarts —two dozen in a case—are retailed at popular prices, allowing you a handsome profit.

Another Store-keeper Sued for Damages

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH IN CAKES

SUN PASTE STOVE POLISH IN TINS

Dangerous stove polishes continue to get store-keepers into trouble. The daily papers of Detroit, early this month, report Mrs. A. D. ——— is seeking to recover in the courts $15,000 from Mr. C. G. ——— who sold her some inflammable, liquid stove polish that exploded and severely burned her face and arms.

Wise store-keepers will keep out of trouble by handling only the stove polishes which are safe in the hands of the user. RISING SUN Stove Polish and SUN PASTE Stove Polish are made by reliable processes and are absolutely free from dangers of fire or explosion. PUSH THEM.

TECHNICAL BOOK DEPARTMENT

The Maclean Publishing Co.,
10 Front St. East, - - TORONTO, CAN

London, Ont., March 17th, 1908

Messrs. The Canadian Canners, Limited
Hamilton, Ont.

Dear Sirs:—

With regard to your letter from Mr. Malcolmson which appeared in the "Canadian Grocer" of March 13th, 1908, we may say that we have been selling Hygeian Canned Beets right along to our customers.

Hygeian Beets are the kind we have been trying to get for several years, and we have no hesitancy in pronouncing them the finest canned Beets we have ever sold. They are equally as nice as new beets at this season, and much more satisfactory.

Your Canned Peaches, Raspberries, Strawberries and Red Cherries, of this brand are the finest canned fruits we have ever sold either in glass or tins, and are equal in every respect to the choicest home made canned fruits.

We remain,

Yours respectfully,

(Sgd.) T. A. ROWAT & COMPANY

Every Can is the Same—Unbeatable !

The uniform excellence of Quality is one of the many points which raises

Old Homestead Brand

into a class above all others. The work in Old Homestead factory is conducted with unceasing vigilance. Thorough, persistent inspection prevents any can from leaving the factory which does not come up to the high standard we have set for Old Homestead Brand. Therefore there is No waste matter—nothing but substantial, well-flavored fruits and vegetables and their delicious, appetizing juices—in an Old Homestead can.

The wise grocer is the man who picks out the best lines to sell his customers. And a trial order will convince you that Old Homestead Brand, Canned Fruits and Vegetables, is a line which thoroughly satisfies your customers, and pays you an excellent cash profit.

ASK YOUR JOBBER FOR OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND.

The Old Homestead Canning Co.

Picton, Ontario

FACTS ARE STUBBORN THINGS.

During the four weeks immediately following the increase in the price of the 25c. grade of "SALADA" to 30c. per pound we scarcely held our own, but our sales for the past two weeks show an extraordinary increase over the corresponding period of 1907 and prove that the consumer willingly pays for a good article.

Results are undoubtedly what count. When you buy tea you expect it to sell and not to stay on your shelves. "SALADA" gets results and it is in the rapid turnover that you make money. If you can make two profits on "SALADA" while you are waiting for one on some other, with the same amount of money invested, which is the more profitable?

Our enormous and rapidly increasing sales, amounting to over 18,000,000 packets annually, prove that besides being longest before the Canadian public and having by far the largest sale is the most reliable and the quickest selling of teas. Then we do what no other concern does "take it back if it doesn't sell." Ask our imitators to imitate us in this. There are two matters where they stop short at, one is quality and the other a guarantee that their brand will sell.

Profitable Goods

Are the goods that are a little better than the others: goods that will make sales where the others won't. Ozo Brand Pickles are good pickles, and show their quality. We have special facilities for turning out the best pickles, and we have made the most of them. For instance, we provide the seed from which the vegetables are grown and so get the best from the start; the cucumbers go straight from the vine to the factory, so that none of the fresh crispness is lost. We make our own vinegar and it cannot be beaten for pickling purposes. It will certainly pay you to specify that you want our goods when ordering pickles.

So often when approaching a grocer on the subject of higher grade brooms, we are met with the statement : "Oh ! we have no trade for goods like that. Our customers won't pay more than twenty-five cents."

Don't Make Such a Mistake !

Consumers in all parts of the country will pay the price if you show them that they get value for their money, but they will never find it out unless you give them an opportunity.

Thousands of people use

twenty-five cent brooms, not because they cannot afford to pay more, not because they wouldn't pay a higher price, but simply because not being offered anything better they do not know that which retails at forty cents will outwear two of the twenty-five cent article, and will give them much better satisfaction as well as save them money.

If you are amongst the ones who think they have no trade for good brooms, send us your next order. Let it include some "Pansy," and you will be surprised and pleased at the result.

Take the Initiative

Why not your store have the reputation for selling "Good Tea"? Why not give your customers quality talk instead of price talk? If your opposition is willing to sell inferior butter at a cheap price, is that any reason why you should run the risk of losing your best trade and do the same? It is equally true of tea. These two articles are your best ads. Quality is remembered when price is forgotten. This is truer to-day than ever.

Here are a few facts: Teas that you formerly sold your customers at 25c. have advanced during the past year about 5c. per pound. Do you think you can give your customers as good value for 25c. in the face of this? It is well to look at these matters squarely. When you do, you will realize there is only one course open, and that is—tell your customers plainly that you cannot give them as good value at 25c. as you have previously done, and sell them a better grade of tea. This establishes a reputation for Quality.

Let the other fellow sell the 25c. Tea and establish a reputation for Cheapness.

Your customers will find Red Rose Tea the same high quality it has always been,—no change in labels or grades. We simply discontinued 25c. tea when we could not honestly give the value for the money.

Take the initiative; start to-day to make your store the quality store, and push the better grades of tea.

Effective Window Dressing

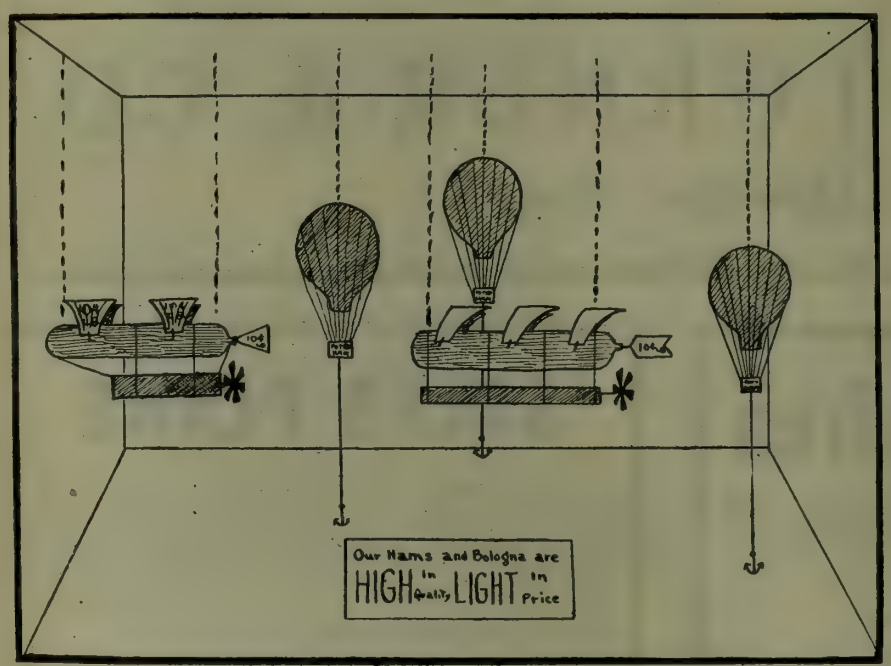
A Novel Balloon and Airship Window Which is Easily Constructed and Should Prove a Very Attractive Feature—The Show Window a Valuable Factor in Advertising the Grocery Store.

People are reading a good deal these days about airship flight and the development of aerial navigation and a great deal of interest is manifested in the experiments conducted from time to time. With this in view the window illustrated below, the sketch and idea for which are borrowed from our contemporary, the Grocery World, of Philadelphia and New York, will from its novelty attract a good deal of attention and comment and ought to sell goods. A window such as the one suggested would have all the people in a small town talking about it in a couple of days and would entice the children to come out of their way home from school to see it.

One would scarcely guess at first glance that the idea is for a display of hams and bacon and yet the plan can be very easily and inexpensively carried out.

The balloons are made of short, chunky hams, which give an excellent idea of the extended gas bag. First take out the string and insert a piece of wire. Wrap the wire around the ham tightly and twist it at the large end. You can now hang it up from this end by a fine wire, which will be almost invisible. The cars beneath the balloon proper are small cans of potted meat. These may be opened, the contents removed and holes punched around the top for strings, which are to run over the balloon to form a sort of supporting net-work, or if you do not care to open the small cans, several lines of twine may be run around them and the supporting strings tied to this. All the strings going over the balloon cross at the centre of the top and may be given a twist around the wire to hold them in place.

The airships are made from bologna suspended by two fine wires, one at each end. The wings, rudder and propeller are cut from white cardboard. To fasten them split one end of a short piece of skewer, insert the cardboard and stick the skewer in the bologna. In this case the car is represented by a package of macaroni or an empty carton. The cars are hung from the bologna by white twine. The propellers may be glued on a cork and this, in turn, on the carton The idea can be greatly elaborated. For instance, the floor might be covered with green crinkled paper to represent grass and a few paper houses might be set around as fancy dictates. Roads might be marked out with sand, and a few twigs might be stuck in to represent trees.



A Balloon and Airship Window for Grocery Display.

A sign in the foreground of the window will, of course, be a helpful feature. One such as suggested in the sketch seems to be quite appropriate.

ADVERTISING THE STORE.

The properly used show window is the best advertising medium within the reach of the retail merchant, and yet, curiously enough, it seems to be the least appreciated of all the means he uses. His show window is his best medium, because it will sell goods for him at a less percentage of cost than any other means at his command. I say that it is the least appreciated because of the fact that it is so very generally neglected. Most retail merchants have not yet learned its true value. Many of them seem to think that it is merely a space which must be filled up with something—it does not really matter what or how. All this is wrong.

The big store goes to the length of employing an artist who spends all his time and thought in getting up an exceedingly attractive window display. And these window displays sell goods enough to make the window dresser and his big salary a good investment. We called these window trimmers artists, and many of them are nothing less, as an inspection will soon show, but it is not enough that a display shall please the eye It must sell goods or it is not successful. The big store demands that there shall be a sale of a displayed article while it is in the window, and if the increase does not come the fact is chalked up against the window dresser in the records of the manager.

There is no line of merchandise of which an attractive window display may not be made. As an illustration of the way in which these displays sell goods, I might instance my own case—for I am a seasoned bird, and am not easily caught by the advertiser. On my way home I pass three grocery stores. When I am in need of a stated article I stop at the one where I habitually trade—for all of us have our preferences. The store where I trade ordinarily has attractive windows, which always makes a special display in its windows, no matter what the season. It is much farther from my home than the one where I usually trade, and as a consequence I have farther to carry any purchase I may make there—and yet I very frequently stop there and buy something just because the window display makes me think I want what is there shown. The purchase is almost always an extra—something which I had no idea I wanted until the display reminded me of my need, or created the need, which is better still. In other words the window sold the goods.

There are any number of people walking the streets of your town whose money burns in their pockets fairly yearning to be spent. Show them something to spend it on, and make them think they want it, and the trick is done. These are the people to whom your window should sell goods.

Of course, the average retail merchant cannot afford to pay a big salary to an exclusive window trimmer, but the chances are that there is someone within reach who can do many times better than he is doing now with the means at his command. It may be his assistant, his wife, or daughter. The proper thing to do is to experiment till he finds the right one, and then let that one do his best. Window trimming is an art, but like most other arts it can be studied and acquired. Get out on the street and study other windows. Analyze the ones which appear to you as being above the average. Learn what it is which makes them better than most of the others. Pick out the good points and emulate them. Pick out the faults and avoid them. I do not mean to advise copying, but we can learn from the mistakes and successes of others without copying.

*Grocery News from Coast to Coast

Letters From Our Own Special Correspondents in the Larger Towns and Cities of Canada—New Ideas in the Trade and Business Changes Noted.

CHATHAM.

The recent repeal of the clause in the market by-law prohibiting grocers and retailers from purchasing on the city market before 10 o'clock on Saturday morning has elicited some discussion through the columns of the public press. One local paper devoted a fair share of its front page to the views of an unnamed "prominent citizen," strongly condemnatory of the change. Another opponent of the change is ex-Ald. Wm. Potter, himself a grocer. Mr. Potter was largely instrumental in procuring the original restriction, and holds very strongly that the general public should have first chance at the market. Magistrate Houston takes the opposite side just as strongly. The magistrate makes the statement that the old by-law, while restricting grocers and other local retailers, could not legally affect outside buyers for shipment; and hence, discriminated against local men in favor of outsiders. The discussion seems to have died down, however.

Last week the city experienced a butter famine, several grocers on Thursday morning reporting themselves completely sold out of dairy butter, while the creamery product commanded the exceptional price of 35c. Bean prices advanced sharply from $1.30 to $1.50 for the hand-picked grade, and other qualities correspondingly.

* * *

An attempt to burglarize the grocery of John McConnell, Park street, was made Saturday night. Towards closing time Mr. Ferguson, a clerk, and Lorimer, the delivery boy, found two men trying to fix a rear window, evidently with a view to effecting an easy entrance when everyone was in bed. They cornered the two men for a few moments in the stable, but the men set upon Lorimer, hammering him pretty badly, and made good their escape. There are no clues to their identity. Incidentally, the local police have received notice from the other side that an organized band of crooks are heading for Ontario, and merchants are warned to be on the lookout and keep their doors and windows locked.

Wm. Morrice, who for the past two years has conducted a butcher shop on Queen street, has purchased the business and shop of Taylor & Stedman, at the corner of Park and Prince streets. He took possession on Monday. Mr. Morrice intends remodelling the shop. He will put in a new front, new fixtures and solid granite counters.

* * *

W. H. Curran, Joseph street, has purchased the stores at the corner of Van Allen and Grand avenues, at present occupied by A. J. Wilson's grocery and Frank Hallinan's meat shop, together with the adjoining house, the consideration being about $2,000. There has been considerable rumor of late regarding a desire on Mr. Curran's part to re-enter the meat business, but it is understood that he has purchased this property purely for investment, and that the tenants will be undisturbed.

* * *

Following the example set by Chatham some time ago, seventy-seven business men of Sarnia have signed an agreement not to purchase tickets for entertainments, or things offered for sale at their business places during working hours.

* * *

Edward Mitt[illegible] baker, of Ridgetown, is adding new mixing and molding machinery and a gasoline engine to his plant.

* * *

H. Waddell last week purchased the general store and stock of W. C. Shaw, Sombra.

* * *

A new canning factory will be built and operated this year at Stoney Point. The stock is largely held by residents of that place and Tecumseh. During the coming season, it is stated, only tomatoes will be handled.

* * *

Colin Getty has opened a factory for the conversion of tobacco into twist in the Irwin block, Leamington.

* * *

R, P. Adams, butcher, of Tilbury, has branched out into the grocery business, and is doing considerable advertising in the local press.

GALT.

Quiet, but steady, might be given as the grocery probabilities in Galt at the present time.

* * *

Quebec maple syrup and sugar, guaranteed absolutely pure, is finding an unprecedented sale in Galt this year, and local merchants are ordering in considerable quantities. The Government report of purity is evidently accountable for the large sale. Local maple products are coming in, but are mainly disposed of on the market, the price being 40 cents per quart.

* * *

Eggs have dropped and may no longer be regarded as luxuries. The price on the market on Saturday was 15c per dozen, and large quantities were offered for sale.

* * *

A deputation from the town council was in Hamilton and Brantford last week inspecting the markets in those cities, with a view to obtaining information which would be of benefit in increasing the growth of the Galt market. They obtained much valuable information, which will be acted upon.

* * *

Vance Chapman, at one time with Sloan Bros., grocers, now studying for the Baptist ministry, has been visiting at his home here.

* * *

"Only two more weeks," said a grocery clerk to your correspondent. His meaning will be understood when it is stated that he was engaged in locating a fish in the bottom of an almost empty barrel.

GEORGETOWN, P.E.I.

Business is improving every day now and grocers and others are feeling more like themselves again. At present the indications are that we shall have an early spring, and the sooner things settle down to normal conditions the better.

* * *

One feature of last week's conditions was an absolute scarcity of prime or hand-picked beans. A car is expected every day from Pictou. Butter also was at a premium.

* * *

At this writing the price of standard sugar is $5.05, and yet most grocers continue to retail it at five cents. Some are making money handling sugar. It is not the P.E.I. retailer.

* * *

The annual Seed Fair was opened at Summerside by His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Mackinnon in his usual happy manner. The attendance at the fair and number of exhibits was twice that of last year.

* * *

Eggs are going down rapidly. The mild weather has set the hens up in business in good style.

* * *

An unusually strong contingent of drummers visited the town recently. One result of their visit is the picture of a dainty little miss, washing the globe with Natha Soap hanging in the grocery stores.

INGERSOLL.

The recent prediction of your correspondent relative to the maple syrup outlook was knocked awry by conditions which prevailed at Saturday's market. Instead of the supply being limited, as many expected, it was the largest in years, and for once the producers found it necessary, after an early hour, to hustle for business. This they did by traveling the streets. In the early morning sales were made at $1.25 but the price soon dropped to $1 a gallon, and it is said that during the afternoon some makers disposed of as much as possible at 80c per gallon rather than take the balance of their supply home again. The unusual plentiful supply is accounted for by a combination of circumstances. In the first place, the season has been an exceptionally favorable one, while on the other hand, many more trees than formerly have been tapped. Notwithstanding the fact that there are not a great number of large maple bushes in this section the run of sap was unusually large and the farmers had a busy week gathering the sap and boiling down. It is said that one farmer, who was meeting with difficulty in disposing of his supply of syrup, stated that he did not wish to take it back home as he already had 35 gallons. "I never before made syrup of such a fine flavor," said one producer, to your correspondent, and the quality of the article justified the remark. In every way the buyer has benefitted this season, first, in the reduced price, and secondly in the superior quality.

*Contributions are invited from grocers or clerks in small places or where there is not a regular correspondent of this paper.

Weather conditions last week interfered with business to no small extent. The country roads, as a rule, are still in bad shape, and it is a well-known fact that when both the roads and the weather are bad country people prefer postponing their trips to town. This is what a great many did last week, although the extra volume of business on Saturday partially atoned for the falling-off early in the week. However, trade has been very satisfactory, the grocers state, and a busy season is looked for. Of course, the farmers will soon be busy on the land, but, then, farmers nowadays are so nicely situated that they can usually make a run to town, and in the spring and summer many of them come in early in the evening.

At last the price of eggs has dropped to a point when practically all consumers should be satisfied. At Saturday's market many lots were sold at fifteen cents, and judging from the large quantities offered this will doubtless be the ruling price for the Easter season.

HAMILTON.

Grocers here are pleased at the active interest displayed by The Canadian Grocer in regard to the Co-operative Act now before the Senate, and at the same time feel that if the activity had been evinced in other quarters a little earlier in the game, it might have been of more benefit.

A large section of the retail trade feel annoyed at the fact that neither the Dominion nor the Ontario Grocers' Guild paid any slightest attention to this threatening legislation. I maintain these are the people who should have put up a fight for the rights of the retailers. They have a powerful association, with all the machinery for defending themselves against all aggressive legislation—but evidently did not think it worth while to protect their customers. Here is a point that should impress itself on the mind of every retail grocer in the Province, that is, hold up both hands for a Provincial Association. Look at the action of the labor unions. They send a deputation to Ottawa and get any legislation they ask for, even a Department of Labor. I think the retailers, if only united, could not only be heard at the Capital, but could also exert rather a powerful influence on this same wholesale guild which now ignores their interests.

Now is the time for the grocer to think about the matter of shorter hours. The days are growing longer and he and his clerks would be able to enjoy a little bit of daylight, if he would make up his mind to close at six o'clock. Try it. Life is too short to spend all of it behind a counter. Have the courage of your convictions. Never mind what the other fellow does—close up and you will find your customers won't leave you. Explain the case to them and you will be the winner. A better day is on, catch on and enjoy it.

At the last meeting of the local association, E. J. Moore, editor of The Canadian Grocer was present and addressed those present on the subject of forming a Provincial Association and on the Co-operative Act. This bright young man pleased the grocers very much and they hope to make him welcome again in the near future. Some very kind things were said of him, but as he may censor this article I will not repeat them.

Maple syrup is coming in freely and is certainly of fine quality, but the farmers are holding up the price. $1.50 a gallon for good stuff.

KINGSTON.

This week Miss Webster is demonstrating Suchard's cocoa at Albert Glover's store. She intends staying in Kingston for a month so Suchard's cocoa will be well known. Miss Webster is one of the best demonstrators on the continent. It is simply wonderful how she mixes, makes, talks and gets people to pour the delicious liquid down their throats and follows up by the sale of a tin of cocoa or tablet of chocolate.

Talking about the crooked dealings of some beings the real estate man on the market declared he found a boulder weighing 25 pounds in the centre of a bale of hay purchased recently. A grocer standing near by said he found a brick in a roll of butter and once a roll of butter mixed with cornmeal. Still another knight of the tin scoop said he bought a barrel of apples good on top but bad underneath. The farmer called them "seek no furthers."

Ed. Putnam, Seeley's Bay, has rented his bakery and intends giving all his attention to the grocery and confectionery business and he will no doubt succeed. Seeley's Bay lost its only hotel by fire a few months ago. There are five general stores, several churches and a brick and tile works. It is a very busy and pretty point on the Rideau River and is visited by many tourists.

After long waiting, A. Maclean & Co., wholesale and retail merchants, received word from Ottawa recently that they were awarded the contract for supplying the Kingston Penitentiary with groceries and pork for the ensuing year. They were $600 below two other tenderers.

The big milk cans full of maple syrup and the farmers with tin dippers were plentiful on the market Saturday. It sold for $1 to $1.20 per gal.

If this frosty weather keeps on there will be a big output of syrup.

Complaint was made by a consumer recently that stones of flour put up by certain mills were 3 to 4 ounces short. Where there is a big output these ounces soon run into tons but we don't feel that this was done intentionally, but just through carelessness.

J. D. Paulin, who lately established a general grocery business here, has been doing remarkably well since his start.

ST. CATHARINES.

J. T. Festing, successor to the firm of W. J. and J. McCalla, who for a number of years past has carried on business as a general grocer, has closed the retail branch and will, hereafter, conduct a wholesale grocery business. Mr. Festing has, during his number of years' residence in St. Catharines, become favorably known as a practical business man.

* * *

The other two wholesale grocer firms, W. H. Merriman and John Ross, report that business has been, and is, in a flourishing condition.

Michael McGuire & Company, have sold their retail grocery business to Wm. Parks, who comes well recommended. McGuire & Co. have turned their attention to a general jobbing business and with their recognized ability will make a success of their undertaking.

Though money was tight in the market during the past few months there has been but one failure among the St. Catharines merchants who, true to their mode of conducting business, have weathered the financial storm and have come out with success.

* * *

The two merchant milling firms, Black & Forsyth, and The Hedley-Shaw Milling Company, have been running their mills day and night lately to meet the demands of the trade.

* * *

The market still continues to be active. Hay sold at $15 per ton, butter 35c per lb., eggs 20c per dozen. Meats continue at the old prices.

* * *

Spring is opening earlier than for some years past. There is no ice on the canal, no frost in the ground and there is every appearance that farm and garden operations will be a month earlier than in 1907.

LONDON.

The stock of Lind, Kerrigan & Co., wholesale grocers, who recently assigned, was sold at auction on Thursday afternoon, April 2nd. The bidding was quite spirited, the stock, valued at $30,000, being finally knocked down to E. L. Liddicott, the east end retail grocer, who is generally supposed to have been acting for T. B. Escott & Co., at 78 cents on the dollar.

As a result of the recent sharp advances in the price of sugar retailers are now giving one pound less for the dollar than formerly, which means that consumers will hereafter find only seventeen pounds in a parcel.

On Saturday afternoon last ex-President C. W. Nicholls, of the Western Ontario Commercial Travelers' Association, was made the recipient of a magnificent oak cabinet of silverware and cutlery. The accompanying address, which was couched in most flattering terms, was beautifully engraved in colored inks and handsomely bound in Morocco. Mr. Nicholls for two years has held the office of president and was most efficient in his duties.

The Tuckett Cigar Company have given up their branch business here, their 40 hands having been paid off and notified that the company is quitting London. The concern's output here was over two million cigars annually. Their intention is to confine manufacturing operations to Montreal and Hamilton.

Moderate activity is reported in both wholesale and retail lines.

REGINA.

Business conditions as existing in Regina to-day in all lines of trade are most unique. It is probable that never before in the history of the place have the conditions been exactly what they are at the present time and some features of the situations are far from encouraging. On the whole, however, there is a spirit of confidence in the future and merchants generally believe that a couple of months will see better times.

For the past six months there have been many varying situations. Early in October the pinch began to make itself felt, and rumors of the damage to the crops, which were thought to be greatly exaggerated, were proved only too true as the returns from the threshing began to come in. The prosperity of the farmers means the prosperity of the general public in the west, where wheat growing is essentially the means of livelihood, and the failure of the crop of 1907 was one of the hardest blows yet received by the country. The season throughout was, of course, most unparalleled in the history of the country and it was too much to expect that the wheat would come through undamaged. The frosts came early and the wheat ripened late, and the result was that glorious-looking fields of growing grain were worthless.

All this, of course, had its effect on the business situation, and merchants who were carrying the farmers learned that they must be satisfied to renew notes and give credit for another year. This meant approaching the banks for a further line of credit, and as it was about this time that the financial panic in the United States was at its height, the banks became more conservative. In the face of these conditions and the pressing of the wholesales in the east, the merchants of the west were up against a hard proposition. Many were faced with the prospect of liquidation or assignment, and it is a credit to the people of the country, no less than to the wholesale merchants that more were not forced to close their doors.

After the discouraging trade of the fall the stores looked for a small Christmas trade, but in this they were agreeably disappointed. The people were doing Christmas shopping as heavily this year as they ever did, and although the purchases were not as large and expensive, they were a good deal more numerous, The result of this was that merchants, and particularly those handling holiday goods, were assisted in weathering the financial storm and January was entered on a fairly firm footing. January is not looked upon as a very heavy purchasing month and the stores were content to struggle along through that inaugural month. Collections during the month proved better than expected, and the same may be said of February. During that month stock-taking sales were the order, and many merchants came by ready money because of these bargain days and the reducing of stocks.

March, the month in which it is exuected that conditions become brighter, has not proved as good as February, and there little money was paid. The farmers are purchasing their seed grain, either from the Government or from private individuals, and this is taking all the cash they have to spare.

The beginning of April, however, sees a restoring of confidence and business picking up. The farmers are coming into the city in larger numbers and preparations are being made to get the seed into the ground early. Business is brisker than it has been since last October, and generally things look brighter.

* * *

During the winter there have been a number of assignments, but the firms closed out are small and in no case has there been a large mercantile failure throughout the west. The big stores are absorbing the little ones and the merchants who advertise and go after the trade in the right way are coming out the best.

* * *

Commercial travelers from eastern Canada find business as poor to-day, however, as it ever was before, but the reason is not hard to find. A prominent Regina merchant, in conversation the

BONUSING INDUSTRIES.

J. P. Downey, M.L.A., introduced a bill in the Ontario Legislature, making it unlawful for a municipality to offer inducements to manufacturers to establish themselves there, but it was defeated. Mr. Downey's policy is good, though he goes a bit too far, but sane business men will favor the introduction of the bill again next session, in a somewhat modified form. The editors of the MacLean papers have been in close touch with this question for many years, and have been steadily educating the business community to the evils of a system which offers inducements to a concern to remove from one centre to another, or the granting of sums of money to aid men or syndicates who had not yet shown their capacity to handle their own money successfully. The opposition to Mr. Downey's bill came from the representatives of the smaller localities, and it is they who are usually guilty of this unbusinesslike procedure. Let Mr. Downey aim next issue to prohibit cash bonuses or loans by municipalities to any industry.

Years of experience with this question leads those who have studied it, to the conclusion that the granting of concessions to manufacturers in the way of exemptions from taxation, and possibly water rates, are fair, and should be encouraged. In fact, exemption of all manufacturing plants anywhere in Canada, from taxation of any kind, would materially aid the development of manufacturing in this country and be profitable to the municipalities and country as well. On the other hand, the payment of a cash bonus has in nearly every instance been money mis-spent. The establishment and building up of manufacturing benefits the people of a town by the increased business it brings to the place through the money earned by the manufacturer and his employes, and spent by them in the town and among the farmers within radius of twenty or thirty miles. That the farmer particularly benefits by the growth of a town is shown by the increasing revenue of the farmers in its vicinity, and in the value of their lands as well. More important still are the better educational and other facilities for the residents that the larger centres afford.

A small municipality may be excused for offering inducements to a concern situated in a very large centre where taxes are very high. In fact, it would be better for the country, as a whole, to have its manufacturing industries distributed as much as possible.

We are decidedly opposed to bonuses, except in very rare instances. It is not money that successful manufacturers want in this country. It is experienced and intelligent managers and workmen. In the case of new industries, the men who desire to establish them, if they have the experience and have shown their capacity to do things, will find no difficulty, in ordinary times, in securing all the capital necessary.

The industries that are most to be encouraged are those which can turn the raw material produced in the district, or that can be produced in the district, into the finished article, and the ideal condition is when the manufacturing concern is composed of local shareholders who put in their own savings or surplus. This necessitates good management that has been thoroughly tried. This has been done to a very considerable extent, and most successfully, in Oshawa, and in a smaller way in many places for the manufacture of cheese and butter.

HIGH SUGAR BOOSTS CANDY PRICES.

The present high prices of sugar are affecting more than the grocers. As may be imagined, the recent heavy advances have hit confectionery manufacturers rather hard and as a result almost all lines of candy are bound to advance shortly.

Already one or two of the larger firms have taken action and last week raised the prices half a cent a pound on the cheaper lines on which profits are cut pretty close. Other firms are considering the matter but as yet have made no move.

On the higher grade of goods a better profit is made and fluctuation in the basic component, sugar, is not so directly felt. If further advances in refined occur, however, which seems the only possible course as a result of the condition of the sugar markets at present, a general advance in all lines will be made.

ONTARIO TOBACCO CROP LIGHT.

Reports from Western Ontario seem to give indications of a light tobacco crop this year. One correspondent says: "Where last year there were hundreds of beds at this season, this year they are few and far between. Growers declare the crop is too uncertain and that they are at the mercy of the buyers."

STRONG PROVISION MARKETS.

The provision markets have assumed a notably firmer tone this week in all lines. For instance, cheese is reported firmer and with short stocks held locally and arrivals of new cheese a month in the distance this condition looks somewhat stable. Supplies of butter, too, were found to be shorter this week and prices were raised from 2 to 3 cents. New butter seems slow in coming in and reports from some districts give indications of a light make of butter. Eggs which have been plentiful for a couple of weeks seem a little less so and prices are slightly firmer. Lard prices too, have gone up a notch and a feeling of firmness is evident in all pork products consequent on the heavy advances in hogs by Canadian packers during the past two weeks.

BE CAREFUL IN LOCKING UP.

The epidemic of attempts to rob banks and other places of business, which has been particularly evident during the past two weeks, seems to point to the fact that a larger number of crooks than usual are in the country. Reports from several Canadian centres also say that the police have been warned of the movement of a body of suspicious characters from the United States to Canada.

It might be well for the next few weeks to be particularly careful in locking up. See that windows are properly fastened and stable doors are securely locked before you leave your store for the night. The unexpected may not happen, but it's worth while to be careful.

Wm. E. McElwaine, grocer, St. John, N.B., has assigned to W. E. O. Jones.

THE SITUATION IN THE WEST

Formation of Winnipeg Stock Exchange—Crop Indications Promising—Financial Situation Much More Encouraging—Heavy Railroad Business.

The Western Viewpoint, by our Special Winnipeg Correspondent.

One of the announcements of the week that indicates the growth of Winnipeg and which at the same time may afford a solution of the vexed problem of the Grain Exchange. The president is A. M. Nanton, one of the best known financial men in the Canadian West today and the secretary, W. Sandford Evans. The Stock Exchange was under consideration last fall and a charter was secured during the previous session of the local house but it was not thought well to proceed at that time on account of the money stringency. Arrangements were made, however, to secure quarters in the new Grain Exchange building, which was then going merrily on its way to completion. The new Stock Exchange will not open for actual business until August first. It is known that some of the more prominent elevator concerns are actively interested in the Stock Exchange and it is generally felt throughout the city that here may be the way out of a grave difficulty. The fact that the new exchange will open for business just a month before the new crop will begin to come on the market is in itself suggestive. The financial backing of the Stock Exchange is of the best and it may be that this organization will buy the Grain Exchange building when it is put up at Sheriff's sale. In the meantime there is no manner of doubt the old exchange is breaking up from the inside with even greater rapidity than was expected. The very fact that it is doing so bodes ill for the forming of a voluntary association, without charter, to operate as an exchange. Although the old organization worked under a charter it was always more or less of a voluntary character, that is, men belonged to it and observed the rules because it was an advantage for them to do so. Now there is no control over the quotations, the commission rule is abolished and no new rules can be made without the consent of the prothonotary. The cohesion seems to have disappeared, one member is cutting into another member's business, writing his customers and the like, and the whole Exchange is demoralized.

As a lesson to those who have asked for and those who have passed the vicious confiscatory legislation it might be well if one crop had to be marketed without the well regulated facilities that have been in use for so many years but this would mean a great loss to the country as a whole, so that thoughtful people are earnestly hoping the matter will be settled in some way and trade conditions running smoothly before the next crop has to be marketed.

The outlook for seeding the crop is exceedingly bright at the present time. In Southern Alberta seeding has already started in a number of places. In Northern Alberta, if the present weather continues, the seeding will start in a few days, and indeed, that is true of almost every section of the West. In some small areas the March snowfall was so heavy that it will probably be April 15 before they can begin, but as these were among the sections that were dry last year no one is doing any kicking on the score of the snow.

The Government grain seed distribution is progressing splendidly, all wheat will be in the farmers' hands by April 15 and all the oats and barley before May 1. Conditions in the West could not be better, for the time of the year, than they are this season.

If there is one thing in the Canadian West that gives satisfaction more than another, it is the fact that in spite of the money stringency the principal and interest of loans has been so well met throughout the entire season. Even the most optimistic of the loan company managers now admits that the continual supply of money from this source has been a surprise to him. This condition has produced its legitimate result and those who had invested heavily in the West before are seeking further investment and money is plentiful for loans, of good quality, especially on farm lands. The principal and interest was a little slower in coming in last year but it came and now loan companies are looking for business. Funds are coming in for investment all the time and it is very noticeable the extent to which British capital is now seeking investment in the Canadian West. Indeed, some of the loan companies are receiving considerable correspondence at the present time from India from parties seeking reliable investment. The tight money situation was not caused because money did not exist but because it was being hoarded, owing to a scare. Periods of this kind are always followed by abundance of money and the present is no exception, only the money has come out of hiding rather more quickly than usual after a panic and it is particularly gratifying to those who have always had faith in the West that so large a stream of money, seeking new investment, should be coming our way. Though little was said about it, loaning on high-grade securities went on steadily all winter. It was always possible for first-class security to get a loan, indeed, one loan company has always had at its credit at least $250,000 for this purpose. It is not thought, even by those who have the largest amounts for investment, that rates are likely to be much lowered because the demand for money for the carrying on of development work is so great that there will not be any difficulty in placing even the large investments offered. At present the rates run from 7 per cent. in the choicest sections of Manitoba to 8 and 9 per cent. in the farther west.

Some idea of the amount of railway construction that is not only projected, but is now actively under operation in the Canadian West, is given in the fact that one of the big contracting firms has at the present time 12,000 men under engagement and the major portion of them at work in the West.

All the railways report an increasingly heavy traffic business and though the past winter curtailed receipts in the matter of freight handling, the passenger departments more than made up for it, especially in traffic from West to East, that being heavier than from East to West which is the reverse of former experience during the winter months.

One of the events of the week is the C.P.R. announcement of party rates for parties of ten or more traveling on a single ticket from points in the east to points in the west. The basis is one fare for the round trip by the all Canadian route. This is making the companies that have not all-Canadian routes sit up and take notice, as it is very questionable whether they can get their American colleagues to give them the same rates through Chicago and St. Paul.

It is supposed that the C.P.R. is doing this specially with a view to developing certain portions of territory in the West, where they are laying out new townsites. The company are offering 51 new townsites this season, the most important being Wilkie, in the heart of the Cut Knife country south of Battleford and 80 miles from Saskatoon on the new line of the C.P.R. This offer should give the local merchants on any of these townsites an opportunity to get in good friends of his from the East. There are few who do not know at least ten who would be desirable settlers, from their old home town.

The proposed purchase of the electric street railway by the City of Winnipeg is one of the much discussed subjects at the present time. There is no doubt the feeling in favor of the city owning this system is very strong.—H.

TRADE NOTES.

Geo. R. Small, of the Canada Maple Exchange, Montreal, was in Ottawa on Monday.

T. J. Bellanger, late with Mr. Pearce, has opened a grocery store on River's Hill, East Ward, Parry Sound.

After just two years in business, Harry Stevens, of Stevens & Hayden, of Woodstock, N.B., has sold his share of the grocery business to O. A. Townsend, who is thoroughly well up in that branch of trade and who doubtless will receive a generous share of the public patronage. Before engaging in any other undertaking, Mr. Stevens will make a visit to friends in Glassville and vicinity.

CORRESPONDENCE

other day, remarked that the reason the commercial men are not getting the business is because the stocks of the stores that failed have been bought out by the larger business houses, and consequently all are fairly well supplied with goods.

* * *

Real estate is picking up again, and during March a large number of good sales have been made. There were but few sales throughout the winter, and it was thought that prices were considerably dropped. Sales reported this spring, however, indicate that there has been no drop in prices, and that values are to-day about what they were a year ago.

VANCOUVER.

The rise in the price of sugar may result in a small war in Vancouver. It is proposed to bring a large shipment of sugar from Scotland, and this will arrive somewhere between the 19th and 25th of this month. The B. C. Sugar Refining Company has advanced prices one-half a cent during the past week or two, in two jumps of a quarter of a cent per pound in each instance, in sympathy with the increase in the price of sugar, because of the failure of the cane crop in different producing countries. The importers of the consignment from Scotland purpose selling at a quarter of a cent less per pound than the local refining company. This is small, but it is an item in such a staple as this. Whether a reduction will be made to meet this remains to be seen, but it is anticipated.

Another feature is the reduction of a cent per pound in pure lard, as the result of the competition between the Frye-Bruhn Company, of Seattle, and the Swift Company. This flurry is, perhaps, altogether local, but it has resulted in the selling of the pure brand at the usual price of the compound, namely, 12c or 12¼c. It is not expected that this reduction will be maintained for any great length of time.

* * *

Last fall there was a fear in Dawson that the condensed cream stock would not be enough to prevent a famine during the winter. Still, there has been not only enough for use in that city, but also some available for shipment to points down the Yukon River. At the same time, the selling price is at $1.50 per case profit, which is about twice as much as in other winters. It was expected, too, that the hay and oats stock would be light and that a stiffening in prices would take place, but prices are moderate at $100 and $110 per ton, respectively.

* * *

In short, anticipated shortness in stocks have not materialized. It was thought that the butter market would be such that consumers would be almost using axle grease, but the price has moderated so that the wholesale price is only 52½c for over-ice stock, and 50c for storage.

A prominent salmon canning man from Puget Sound, who was here the other day gave a line on conditions in this important branch of the trade. He said: "There are probably not more than 200,000 cases of salmon all told left in the packers' hands," referring, of course, to the packers on the Sound. "Probably half, if not more than that, are pinks. A few sockeye halfs and some other odd lots are left, and there are a few cohoes scattered here and there, but how many it is difficult to say. This is a very light stock when last season's heavy pack is taken into consideration. Owing to the light pack that seems to be looked for this season, prices are holding up well, and there is every reason to believe that prices will open at or above those of last year. While practically every cannery in Alaska is preparing to operate, packers are not anticipating a maximum pack. It is quite generally felt that the pack will be light.

James Persse, Tees & Persse, of Winnipeg, one of the largest wholesale houses in that city, may start a branch on this Coast. He has been out on a trip, ostensibly for pleasure, but has been looking over the ground with a view to establishing branches both in Vancouver and Victoria. For many years the firm has been among the foremost concerns in Western Canada, and the growth of the business west of the mountains has necessitated the locating here of a branch warehouse.

With the development of the fruit growing industry, more nurseries are being set out. G. S. Ehle, who has had experience in Washington and Oregon, has selected Kaslo as the scene of his operations in British Columbia, and will start in with 50,000 grafts this spring.

* * *

Tweddle and Hill, who are extensive growers on the Niagara peninsula, have become owners of 100 acres of orchard land near Grand Forks, the reported purchase price being $175 per acre. It is their intention to establish a modern nursery, and will plant out fifty acres this spring.

* * *

A retail grocer mentioned to your correspondent this morning the lack of a good chow-chow tomato mixture. This, he explained, is the preparation from green tomatoes, such as "mother used to make," and not what is known now as the chow-chow pickles. "With all Heinz's 57 varieties and the brands of other large manufacturing firms," he said, "there is not that article for which I have many a call. It is to be found in private domestic use in the fall, when tomatoes are handy, and although considerable is put down, it is soon used up because of its excellent quality. I cannot see why some of the big makers cannot secure a recipe of some good article. If the right thing is produced, something like the home-made which we get offered at times in the fall, the market will be a large one."

SEASON'S FIRST FRUIT STEAMER.

A cable has been received by the Robt. Reford Co., Montreal, announcing the sailing of their steamer Fremona from Sorrento to Montreal. This is the first sailing of the season for this port, the honor going to the fruit steamers which bring Mediterranean fruit to Canada. According to the cable, the Fremona carries with her 43,205 packages of oranges and lemons from Messina, and 22,310 packages from Sorrento. She is due in Montreal on April 26th.

AROUSING GREAT INTEREST.

Posters Out for Montreal Exhibition of Groceries and Things Are Booming.

With the posters out and a host of advertising stickers scattered around the trade in Montreal and vicinity are becoming greatly interested in the Exhibition of Groceries, to be held in the Arena, Montreal, from April 17th to 29th.

A gentleman who is pretty closely in touch with the Montreal trade, said to

W. H. DUNN.
Member of the Advisory Committee, Montreal Exhibition of Groceries.

The Grocer this week: "The trade are pretty nearly crazy in the matter. I never saw such a boom in my life, and if I hadn't pretty cold blood I might get my head turned,"

Prospects for a successful show next week appear to be exceedingly bright.

SEIZED SHIPMENT OF CANNED APPLES.

Health Authorities of Winnipeg Condemn Fruit From Ontario.

A despatch from Winnipeg dated April 7th reports that the health authorities in that city seized 330 cases, each containing six one-gallon cans of apples on Monday. The goods are declared by the health officials to be absolutely unfit for food. All bore the label, it is alleged, of the Oshawa Canning Company. It is likely that prosecution will follow.

Markets and Market Notes

Reports From Canadian Markets and Notes From Overseas Sources of Grocery Supplies—Sugar Remains Very Firm and Few Changes Noted in Staple Lines.

QUEBEC MARKETS

Montreal, April 9, 1908.

POINTERS—

Sugar—Very firm.

Provisions—Firmer.

Eggs—Higher.

Butter—Higher.

The sugar market is very strong, and the report from the primary markets of the advance on beets is likely to result in an advance on refined sugar, which may occur any day. Receipts of fresh made creamery are falling off, and as stocks of storage butter held here are light, prices have advanced. Fresh creamery is quoted as high as 32c to 35c lb. Eggs, also, are higher this week, selling at 18c to 20c per dozen. Receipts of fresh laid are heavy, but stocks of storage and pickled are practically exhausted, and this combined with the heavy demand, is responsible for the advance in prices. However, it is not expected that these prices will hold for any length of time, and it is thought that within a week quotations will be much lower. The tea situation is unchanged, trade in this line being quiet. Coffees and spices are dull, and there are no changes in prices. Fruit dealers report a better business this week in almost all lines. Dried fruit business is still very quiet. There are larger quantities of new crop of maple sugar and maple syrup arriving on the market now.

TEA—The tea market has not shown any improvement over last week. Business in general is quiet. Some dealers report having done some nice business in Japans, blacks, and greens, this, however, was not to any large extent, and business on the whole is dull. Prices have not changed, remaining firm.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL—The canned goods situation is unchanged since last week. All lines are still in good demand, especially fish and fruits.

TORONTO—Canned goods are only moving fairly. The weather has been scarcely warm enough yet to cause heavy demand but business is expected to open out when the warm weather really begins.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Sugar—Firm and advancing.
Beans—Firm and advanced.
Collections—Fair.

Toronto, April 9, 1908.

The wholesale markets continue quiet this week with demand for staples very dull. This is attributed chiefly to the bad condition of the country roads, which prevent the farmers from getting out and keep the retailers' business dull. The travelers, too, are having some difficulty in getting around and these conditions all reflect on the activity of the jobbers' business.

Sugar continues to hold first place as a market feature and outside this prices of staple goods are generally steady.

SUGAR—The world's sugar markets continue to send in reports which would confirm all that has been said about prospects of very high sugar. Refined at time of writing is quoted on the Toronto market at the same figure as a week ago, but, as was said last week, another advance is expected shortly and may occur within a day or two. Regarding the outlook for the next few weeks Willett & Gray's daily circular received locally on Wednesday says: "Both raws and refined must advance till the point is reached, which will check consumption."

Willett & Gray's review of the situation in raws says:

"The week under review has shown some signs of reaction, such as are always present in an advancing trend to the sugar market.

"The large and rapid rise both at home and abroad naturally led to much realizing at the top prices and checked temporarily the upward movement—only temporary, however, as all the advance made is fully warranted by the crop situation, and already at the close there is a partial recovery in Europe by renewal of purchases there by American refiners.

"Thus far these purchases have crossed the 100,000 ton mark set by us at first, are now likely to continue from time to time until our later estimate of 200,000 to 300,000 tons is finally reached. Indications still point to a shortage in the Cuba crop which, figuring from a visible of 680,000 tons to this date, may not exceed 1,000,000 tons in all. Dry weather in most sections of the Island continues to unfavorably affect the old and young canes. The number of Centrals grinding is reduced to 135, or six less than at this time last week.

"The actual quotation for 96 degrees Centrifugals has not changed from 4.36c duty paid and 3c c. & f.; but for several days purchases were impracticable and were only able to be resumed by an actual decline of 3d. which came to the European beet sugar markets. Advantage was taken of this reaction and disposition to sell to secure some 150,000 bags of Centrifugals at 3c c. & f. and 10,000 tons or more beets at 11s. 9d. c. & f., equal to 4.40c per pound for 96 degrees Centrifugals.

"Centrifugals and beets are now at about equal parity, and the course of prices from now forward will be governed by the European markets, which in turn are largely influenced by news from this side and from the Colonies as to maturing crops and these informations go over the cable almost daily, accounting for the frequent up-and-down fluctuations on the Sugar Exchanges."

Regarding refined, Willett & Gray report: "Quotations have remained unchanged throughout the week, except that at New Orleans for special reasons 10c per 100 pounds is added, and except for a turn of easiness, not weakness, in the raw market a similar rise would have come here, and will undoubtedly be made on a full recovery of values in Europe, which markets influence refined as well as raw sugar values.

"The deliveries have fully equalled the production and business under new contracts has increased.

"It is well to carry as full a line of supplies as is practicable under the thirty-day limit of refiners."

TEAS—Business locally is comparatively quiet and only a hand-to-mouth system is being followed under the present conditions of the tea markets. Thompson Bros.' weekly circular, dated March 26th, says:

"The gradual improvement in tone during the past few weeks has developed into a distinct advance in rates for certain descriptions, especially on the Indian market, where the supply of Assams appears to be closing earlier than expected. Common leaf may be quoted steady without being dearer, and there is no doubt that the price of the coarser sorts is being affected by the considerable quantity of inferior China which has for some time been offering.

"It speaks well for the healthy state of the market that, in contrast to what usually happens at this time of year, little or no disturbance to trade is being occasioned by the near approach of the Budget announcement. Complaints of the quietness of country business still continue, but the fact that in spite of this the tone is improving is but another proof of the tendency of buyers to stock little beyond their immediate requirements. Prospects therefore would appear to be more favorable from the importers' point of view, bearing in mind the coming decrease in the quantity to be brought to auction."

COFFEE—Dealers report business in coffee as very fair.

Willett & Gray say, in part, regarding the current situation:

"The change in the statistics during the month of March shows a decrease in the world's visible of about 560,000 bags, bringing the total down to April 1, 1908, 15,460,000 bags, compared with April 1, 1907, 15,398,000 bags.

"The March receipts in Brazil came very close to the estimate made at the beginning of the month, and the arrivals of milds have been liberal under the relative higher values obtainable. The notable feature of the month is the large deliveries here and in Europe, say 1,635,000 bags, so that if the March movement into sight of all kinds was over 1,000,000 bags, the steady drain for actual hand-to-mouth consumption necessitated the withdrawal of about 600,000 bags from reserve stocks in consuming countries. Under the natural influence of supply and demand this should create a very good impression, because supplies will decrease to a greater degree during the next three months, while consumption will keep up on about the present scale.

"Furthermore, under the influence of this it cannot be expected that prices will stand still. Even hand-to-mouth buying, severely restricted as it has been, reveals remarkable distribution of supplies from the seaports and an upward tendency in the markets would hardly fail to stimulate new business in view of the strong legitimate position of coffee.

"Bearish sentiment has brought out some new short selling of options which at this low level can only be a help to the article when the turn comes on inevitable smaller receipts and big deliveries.

"From the extreme high point of the world's visible 16,911,000 bags, there has been a decrease of 1,450,000 bags in four months from December 1, 1907, up to date."

DRIED FRUITS—Demand is reported very good for prunes but otherwise business is dull. Prices are the same as a week ago, as follows:

NEW TOBACCO REGULATIONS.

The matter of the proposed changes in the present tobacco regulations and the establishment of a uniform stamp, which has been before the House several times this session and which has been previously noted at some length in these columns, came up for debate again on Thursday, April 2nd.

Hon. Wm. Templeman, in introducing the matter, said that the changes were advocated simply to benefit the Canadian tobacco growers and that from $30,000 to $40,000 revenues yearly would be lost if they were enforced.

Major Beattie, of London; Mr. Bristol, Toronto, and others, opposed the changes, contending that the majority of the tobacco manufacturers were averse to any change being made and foresaw serious results from the proposed legislation.

After some further debate Mr. Templeman introduced a bill embodying the proposed changes.

POINTS IN WINDOW DISPLAY.

It is at night when the outside world is dark that your window will look the most attractive. For this reason, too, it follows that one of the first things to be seen to is that the window must be well illuminated. Nothing so surely kills off a window display as poor lights. And at the same time it may be stated that there is no other investment which will pay a merchant so well as good lights throughout the store as well as in the window, but if the lights must be cut down anywhere, let it not be in the windows.

The chief fault of the ordinary window display is crowding. Don't try to put your entire stock in your windows, but leave room for an effective arrangement of what you do put there. Too much stuff will defeat your purpose, which is to call attention to the items displayed with enough force to make the gazer want to buy.

There is one more point. Do not expect a window display to sell goods indefinitely. Those who pass your place will get tired of seeing the same thing day after day. Give them something new to look at once in a while. Let them get into the habit of looking to see what you are going to offer them next. Sooner or later you will draw the fancy of the regular gazer and sell him, or her, something. If your offerings are made on the basis of attractive prices, make the price a part of the display. In most cases it is well to do this anyway, as the combination of the article and the price together sometimes make an appeal that one cannot resist.—H. S. Hall, in the New Idea.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 9 a.m. Thursday, April. 9, 1908.)

With the advance in sugar has come an advance in various lines of confectionery. Mixed candies are up one-half-cent per lb. and other lines in proportion. With fine spring weather the trade are disposed to be optimistic over the crop and business outlook and this is reflected in more liberal buying.

WILL RE-ORGANIZE GLUCOSE COMPANY.

New York Concern Will Operate Under New Auspices and Name.

Late reports from New York say that interests identified with the Royal Baking Powder Company, which bought control of the Western Glucose Company, have brought out a re-organization plan for the finances of the latter company. It is understood that henceforth the Western Glucose will be known as the American Maize Products Company, and will have a capital of $3,000,000. It will compete with the Corn Products Company, the glucose trust.

NEW TORONTO BREAD FACTORY.

The Bredin Co. Buy Property and Will Instal Large Plant.

The Bredin Bread Company, Toronto, has just purchased two acres of land on the north side of Bloor street, just east of Dundas street, and it is understood they will proceed at once to erect a large three-storey bread factory on the property.

The price paid for the land was $16,500, and the factory will probably cost $50,000 or $60,000.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Reading notices under this heading will be accepted at 10 cents per agate line.

White & Co., Toronto, are making large preparations for the handling of the Easter business in fruits, and the fish business for Good Friday. Everything in fancy fruits, as well as the more staple lines, will be on hand for the occasion, and with their splendid shipping facilities they will be able to give the trade good service.

A FEW COMMENTS ON THE VALUE OF THE WINNIPEG FOOD SHOW OF 1907, BY THE FIRMS WHO EXHIBITED. MANY OTHERS COULD BE CITED.

"We take this opportunity, on behalf of ourselves and Messrs. H. J. Heinz Company, for whom we are agents, of expressing our appreciation of the highly satisfactory manner in which the recent Pure Food Show in connection with your Association was conducted. Your method has undoubtedly been proven to be the most valuable medium through which to place the merits of pure foodstuffs before the consuming public, and we congratulate you on your enterprise and the success which has attended it."—The Codville Co., Ltd., Winnipeg, Manufacturers Gold Standard Products.

"In spite of the hot weather, fully 20,000 people attended the show and of these more than 15,000 were housewives who were after information. The exhibitors had a splendid opportunity to demonstrate the merits of their goods to people who were there to see and learn and hence were interested. It was no idle, sight-seeing crowd but a great throng of serious people who attended the show because they wanted to learn something."—The Canadian Grocer, July 26th, '07.

"The Pure Food Show gave us the opportunity of demonstrating to those not acquainted with the fact, that "Purity" flour makes more bread and better bread than any other brand. The value of the demonstration has been felt in the increased sale of "Purity" and we are pleased to commend your enterprise in educating the public as to the importance of pure foods."—Western Canada Flour Mills Co., Ltd.

"We desire to express our appreciation of the value of your recent Food Show from an advertising standpoint. Our Lock Brand goods were well and favorably known to the general trade prior to the show, but the show gave us the opportunity of demonstrating to the consumer the superiority of same and this was of value to us and we wish you success in future shows."—Foley, Lock & Larson, Ltd., Winnipeg.

"The show has done us a world of good. We sold a big pile of goods through the Grocers, and the demonstrations made to the consumers at the show has increased our sales in this territory many, many fold. We are certain that no more direct and positive method of increasing sales could be used."—E. J. Clark, Western Agent Thos. Woods, Teas and Coffee, Montreal and Boston.

"We are more than satisfied. Have booked a pile of orders and introduced the 57 varieties to crowds of responsive consumers."—Colver Gordon, Advertising Manager, The H. J. Heinz Co., Pittsburg.

"Good thing. We sold our entire display several times over and feel more than satisfied."—H. Musham of Holbrooks Limited, Toronto.

"As a direct result of the Food Show we have our goods in practically all the grocery stores in Winnipeg and nearby towns."—Standard Soap Co., Calgary.

"I am heartily in favor of the Food Show. The expense of an exhibit is more than repaid by the direct results that follow."—Hugh Hickey of Mason & Hickey, Brokers, Winnipeg.

"Our goods had merit and your Food Show gave us the chance to demonstrate that fact to the consumer and the trade. That it was a good thing for us is evidenced by the largely increased trade we now have in Western Canada."—S. E. Bradley, Western Agent Maple Tree Producers Association, Waterloo, P.Q.

HAMILTON FAVORS ASSOCIATION.

Question Presented at Regular Meeting of Retailers Last Thursday.

A representative of The Grocer paid a pleasant little visit to Hamilton last week and had the pleasure of spending Thursday evening with the members of the Retail Grocers' Association at their regular monthly meeting in the Board of Trade rooms.

Hamilton has a strong association, from the standpoint of membership, and they ought to have, for there's a lot of stores in the Ambitious City that will compare mighty favorably with anything else in Ontario, or, for that matter, anywhere. When the grocers organize a picnic or a smoker over there everybody in the trade turns out, and things go with a hum.

When it comes to the really practical and useful side of the organization, however, the members are a little less enthusiastic. This shouldn't be so. They've got a president, John Forth, who's as full of energy and vim as a Kentucky two-year-old, and whose bright and busy little store up on Queen Street gives evidence of this. Their secretary, M. R. Hill, is—well, everybody in the trade in Western Ontario knows "Bay" Hill, and we don't need to describe his excellencies. And beside this, there are a lot of reliable men, the best, and, some of them, the oldest grocers in Hamilton, who stand by the association in all matters. Some of the newer members, however, seem to forget that they could get a lot of really practical benefit from being faithful to the association.

Thursday evening's meeting included considerable routine business. Perhaps the most important item of a local nature was the announcing of the date—the same date they always have, and always will have, for the association's annual excursion to Niagara Falls. Last year they took a goodly portion of the city's population on this outing, and it is hoped that the success may be repeated this year. There was also considerable discussion over the peddler nuisance, which is said to be particularly prevalent in Hamilton. Information will be secured as to what has been done in other towns and steps taken in the near future to provide some remedy for the nuisance. The Co-operative Act now before the Senate at Ottawa was also discussed at some length and it was decided that if anything further were to be done in opposing the act the association should have a part in it.

The Grocer representative brought before the association the proposal, which is gaining some headway in Ontario, to organize a Provincial Retail Grocers' Association. The material advantages which would be realized from such an organization were touched on, the matter was discussed from all standpoints and the members of the association were asked to consider it. After the presentation of the matter it was talked over at some length by the members present. All who spoke were enthusiastic as to the benefits which could be derived from such an organization, and while no definite action was taken at this meeting, it is probable that the matter will be treated in a practical way later on. One thing is certain, if the organization of the association goes forward the Hamilton grocers will have a part in it.

FOR STANDARD LOAF OF BREAD.

Provisions of Mr. McNaught's Bill Reported to Ontario Legislature.

W. K. McNaught's bread bill, which has been in course of preparation for some time and has stirred up considerable interest among the trade in Ontario was reported by the Municipal Committee of the Legislature to which it had been referred, on Tuesday. The provisions of the bill as reported are given herewith:

All bread, except fancy bread, shall weigh either 1½ or 3 pounds. This standard bread may be labelled, but the label is optional. When the label is used it must show the maker's name, weight and that the loaf is a standard one. Fancy bread must weigh 16 or 20 ounces, and be labelled. Bread-makers shall have scales and weights for weighing. No adulteration or deleterious material shall be used.

The council of any municipality may appoint inspectors who shall have power to test bread in the bakeries. Any loaf which is under weight shall be subject to seizure, but the maker shall not be liable to any other penalty under the act unless any ten loaves, when weighed together, shall fall below the aggregate required by the act.

A provincial analysis of bread ingredients shall be accepted as evidence.

A breach of any provision of the act will call for a fine of not more than $5 or 30 days' imprisonment.

The act shall come into force on July 1, 1908.

FIRE IN BRANDON GROCERY.

J. F. Price Suffered Serious Loss Last Week.

Fire broke out in a store room over J. F. Price's grocery store on the corner of Rosser Avenue and Ninth Street about 7.30 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, doing damage to the extent of about $400 to the building. Stock valued to the extent of $2,000 was more or less damaged by water.

The fire apparently started in a corner of one of the second storey rooms, between the ceiling and the floor on the outside wall. The firemen gained entrance to the building first through an upstairs window. The chemical was at once emptied and checked the flames for a time. Two holes were made through the outside wall and the hose introduced, and the water turned on. The flames went up the wall on the outside burning cornice, and parts of the floor were also damaged.

The water leaked through the ceiling down upon the goods in the store, soaking nearly everything.

The building belongs to the Dickenson estate and is one of the landmarks of the city. It is insured.—Brandon Times.

SOME HARDSHIPS OF TRAVELING.

Sitting in an office or working behind the counter one is apt to picture the traveler's life as one overflowing with the good things of life. Eating at hotels, seeing the country and charging expenses up to the house, looks good to the fellow who has to stay in one spot on the map and eat at home always. But try the road for a while and the average man will long for the simple meals, the cosy bed and regular hours of the man who can walk or take a street car from his house to the store every day.

Hotels in Eastern Canada are none too sanitary and meals are not what they should be, but the average Eastern salesman has only from Monday morning till Friday night on the road, and he has a touch of home life at the week end. Not so with the Western travelers, however. His territory is large, the towns small, the hotel accommodation limited, the dangers of typhoid great, and the temptations to "go wrong" unlimited. Driving over the prairie in all kinds of weather, getting up to catch the 2 a.m. train, waiting at dreary depots hours for accommodation trains, finding all the good rooms gone and having to sit up all night or bunk with the bugs, drinking water loaded with typhoid germs or accepting the invitation of the good-hearted merchant to "have something," are all incidents in the life of the salesmen in the West, apart from the difficulties of transporting baggage, making sales and "making good" with the firm.

Only a few of the rough spots have been touched upon, but volumes of "experiences" could be written by every traveler who has been given a "territory" in a "new" country. Of course there are bright spots and a fraternity feeling amongst the "boys" helps to make life worth living. "Bill, take care of the fellow upstairs, I've got to leave town and he's got the symptoms. He's a new one or he'd have piked for headquarters a day or two ago," illustrates the fellow feeling existing amongst the men who do not know who typhoid's next victim will be. And "I've had to pack several trunks and ship them to the house," the words of a prominent Western hardwareman, indicate that constant treating at the bar and fear of changes of drinking water, with other incidentals of Western traveling life, help many to go to the bad.

No, the life of the traveler isn't all peaches and cream. At best, it is a wearisome existence and the retailer who considers his own and his fellowman's interest will always have a pleasant word if he hasn't an order for the men who call on him loaded with order books and stocks of good ideas picked up by calling at other stores.

Cheese Firmer With Light Stocks—Butter Advanced With Little New Make—Hogs Take Another Upward Step on Improvement in English Market.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

Montreal, April 8, 1908.

New Zealand cheese continues to be a strong factor in the English market, and as it is arriving in the Old Country in quantity it has brought prices down to a lower level than is usual in the markets across the water at this season.

Dealers here, however, are not devoting a great deal of attention to conditions on the other side, as far as immediate business is concerned, for, most of them, being pretty nearly cleaned out, if not actually so, are not bothering about quotations.

A firmer tone prevails in cheese this week, one house asking as much as 13¼c for finest. The lowest quoted is 13c, though there are some who will shade for a sale.

These figures show that dealers here are not wasting much thought over their friends across the water from a business standpoint. Figures to hand from England show that stocks held beginning of April were some 50,000 boxes short of what they were a year ago. The actual figures indicate holdings as being 152,000 boxes, against 202,000 boxes last year at the same date.

It is yet a little early to talk of new cheese, which will hardly be on the market in anything like decent quantity for another month at least.

Receipts last week amounted to but 6 boxes, against nil boxes previous week and 437 boxes same week a year ago. Total receipts to date amount to 2,053,998 boxes, against 2,350,376 boxes same period one year ago.

There has been a strong advance in butter since last report and the market rules very firm to-day at 31½c to 32c, against 29½c to 30c last week. These figures are for new make creamery. Dairy is quoted at 26c to 27½c. Held creamery is offered by some at 28c to 30c.

New butter is coming in very slowly. Creameries are shipping, many of them, three times a week, so that it cannot be said that supplies arriving in Montreal are small because of the delay in shipment on the part of creameries. Reports from the country state that the roads are in wretched condition, and that the milk supply is very short, much below what it is at this time of the average year. The cows are not yielding as much as usual this spring neither owing to the fact that they were not properly fed during the winter, feed being extremely dear.

So light has been the supply of milk in some districts that creameries usually open April 1, or April 15 at latest, are not going to be in a position to operate until May 1.

All this tends to make firm markets, and from the present indications prices will hold for some little time, until the new make comes forward in quantity to go round, at any rate.

At present there is just enough new butter coming in to make people wish for more, as there is not nearly enough to supply the demand, the result is keen competition for what is to be obtained.

Held butter in the hands of dealers at present does not total up very high, and one house, at least, is asking as much for the fine October creamery it has in store as for the new make now coming forward. This concern claims that the October stock, while not as fresh, is more substantial, and well worth the price. Since butter is so scarce, and demand so strong, it is not surprising that they should get the figures they ask.

Orders are being received in large numbers from outside points as well as from city merchants. There is a strong demand from all sides and this has to be taken care of by small stocks, which is the situation in a nut shell.

Dairy is more scarce than it has been for some time andl the prices mentioned in the foregoing hold firm.

Receipts last week amounted to 573 packages, against 167 packages previous week and 779 packages same week 1907. Total receipts to date amount to 416,833 packages, against 613,218 packages same period one year ago.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

A material advance in prices during the week is an evidence of improved conditions in the Canadian pork packing industry.

The English market is on a basis six shillings better this week, is steady and in much more receptive mood, a set of conditions that offers a good deal of encouragement to Canadian exporters.

And all this in spite of the fact that those wonder-workers in produce, the Danes, shipped in another record-breaking lot of hogs last week, the aggregate reaching 48,000.

The improved condition of the market in Great Britain seems to be attributable to the continued reduction in American shipments. The United States sent over only 16,000 boxes last week, which, with 13,000 the week before, was the lowest noted for some time. American markets have been unsteady since last report, conditions ruling across the line are noted in the following summary from the New York Journal of Commerce:

"The late bull campaign has had a fall the past week, after a further advance early, as the leading bulls began taking profits early week before the first of the month's stocks were made public, showing a heavy increase in March. But receipts of hogs continued light and enabled the Cudahy Co. to support prices on weak spots, and to run in any old shorts who had not covered on the advance and any new ones who came in after the reaction. Other packers were the chief shorts, it seemed, and some of the big ones were believed on that side of the market, though it is doubtful if they have covered in view of the heavy stock on the first of the month, which surprised the trade in view of the late light receipts. Farmers are still busy with spring work, and larger receipts after they are done are expected, and the feeling is prices have been put up all if not more than warranted in face of the reduced consumption, even with the extreme high prices of beef, which latter is bringing in more cattle. A halt, therefore, appears to have come to this boom and a further reaction is expected."

Just how much the improved condition of the British market has affected matters here is seen in the fact that when last week they were offering $5.40 f.o.b. for hogs, this week the price has jumped to $6.10 to $6.15. For hogs off cars at factory they are paying around $6.50.

In spite of these much improved prices deliveries are light and it seems the farmers are holding their stock in expectation of still further advances. Prices this week are on a par with what was being offered last fall before the long-continued depression at the end of 1907 and the first two months of 1908.

PROVISION MARKETS

PROVISIONS—The provision market is much firmer this week. Pure lard is quoted at 12½c per lb. Hams are also higher, as is also pork. The advances are due to the higher prices of live stock. Local packers report a very brisk Easter trade.

BUTTER—The butter market is considerably firmer this week. Receipts of fresh creamery are light and as stocks of storage are very small, prices have gone up, some dealers quoting as high as 35c per lb. for fresh made creamery. Roll butter, also, is scarce, owing to the poor condition of the roads. It is quoted at 25c to 28c per lb. Fall made creamery is quoted at 30c to 32c.

WAS IN THE McKENZIE REBELLION

Death of Port Robinson Grocer Who Has Held Large Connection With Local Institutions.

Robert Coulter, a pioneer grocer of Port Robinson, Ont., and a noted figure in his community, died recently at the age of 85.

The late Mr. Coulter had quite an interesting history. At 13 he joined the ranks as a substitute for his father in the McKenzie rebellion. Early in life he learned the saddlery and harness-making business, then became a grocer and then a general merchant. For many years he was a Justice of the Peace, for years reeve of Thorold township, thrice warden of Welland county, president of the Reform Association, first license inspector for Welland county when the Government took over that office. He was an Orangeman, a member of Welland lodge A.F. and A.M. at Fonthill and a charter member of Myrtle lodge A.F. and A.M. at Port Robinson. For some time he was leader of the Port Robinson brass band and was time collector of customs and canal tolls at Port Robinson for some years. Mr. Coulter was well-known as a temperance man, being a charter member of the division founded at Port Robinson.

"Clark" Quality in Preserved Meats

Grocers know that quality and price go hand-in-hand usually.

Take CLARK'S MEATS, for instance.

The best meat means greater cost, more careful handling means greater cost, more processes in manufacturing mean greater cost.

All these go into CLARK'S MEATS, but they all mean value, and if there is one article more than another that must have value and be above and beyond criticism, it is preserved meat.

Isn't that true?

By the way—How is your stock of CLARK'S MEATS?

TO REPEAL CANNED GOODS ACT.

Hon. Sydney Fisher Introduces Important Bills to the House on Monday.

A couple of measures of particular interest to the packing and canning trades of Canada were introduced by Hon. Sydney Fisher in the House of Commons on Monday.

The first bill provided for some amendments to the meat and canned foods act passed last year, with the ostensible purpose of making it more workable.

Another measure, Mr. Fisher explained, was introduced with the object of repealing the Canned Goods Act, which is held to be obsolete and which conflicts in some details with the more recent Meat and Canned Goods Act.

A third measure had as its object the amendment of the Fruit Marks and Dairy Acts, by making the penalties more stringent. The bill proposes to make the penalties under the Fruit Marks Act for first offence from $10 to $50; second, $50 to $100, and third offence, $500. Penalties for the adulteration of cheese will also be increased.

All three bills were given a first reading.

THE FLOUR AND CEREAL MARKETS

Ontario Flour Markets Easier—Quebec Remains Steady—High Sugar Prices Cause Advance in Confectionery.

The feature of the week has been a drop of 20 cents per barrel on flour in the Ontario market. The decline comes in consequence of reports assuring large supplies of wheat, not only in Canada but also in other countries. The Argentine supply is this season largely above the average and the visible supply of wheat this spring is materially above that at the same time last year. A brisker demand in Montreal and the Eastern Provinces seems to have kept the market on a more stable basis.

Business in cereals continues fair with light supplies and prices the same as at last report.

MONTREAL.

FLOUR—The market has taken a step down during the week and all lines are considerably easier, a reduction of 20 cents all round being made. This came as the result of the reports of large supplies of wheat not only in Canada, but also in other wheat-producing countries. STORAGE FOR WESTERN GRAIN.

Suggestion That Railways Be Compelled to Build Elevators at Important Points.

By our Special Winnipeg Correspondent.

With a deputation of grain growers at Ottawa clamoring for Government-owned interior elevators and a certain amount of support for their contention being afforded by elevator owners who would not mind unloading on the Government a number of the present houses, it seems opportune to discuss the question of interior storage for grain.

During the crop year of 1906-7, which extends from the 1st of September to the 31st of August, there was inspected at Winnipeg 73,824,480 bushels of wheat. Of this amount 64,138,723 bushels passed through elevators, and 9,685,757, or a little over 12 per cent., was loaded either over platforms or direct from vehicles into cars. This goes to show that with the ever increasing production of wheat it is only possible for a very small portion of the crop to be shipped in this way. Even the small percentage shipped as above, was said by the railway companies, and with considerable evidence on their side, to have very materially delayed and hampered their equipment.

It would not be reasonable to expect that so large a crop could be marketed without friction between buyer and seller, but the friction and agitation has gone on for years and is yearly growing worse. The present elevator system does not seem to meet the demands of the people and the clamor for Government-owned interior elevators has become an importunate cry. The grain growers have tried the provinces for Government-owned elevators and have been told they had no power to grant the request and now they are tackling the Dominion Government on the question, for what they seem to imagine would be a panacea for all their grievances, but which would be much more likely to prove a white elephant to the Government without any corresponding help or relief to the farmers.

There is no doubt the elevator system, at the present time, is not satisfactory to the farmers, nor indeed is it satisfactory to very many of the elevator owners. When the system was inaugurated it was introduced by Sir William Van Horne. The C.P.R. at that time was hard up and had no money to build storage for the ever-increasing volume of wheat, and inducements were given private individuals to erect elevators where millions of bushels of grain could be stored until such time as the railway company got ready to haul it out. It was a great assistance to the railway to have these elevators built, and as they were a monopoly they were very profitable to elevator owners But, like all monopolies, they waxed fat and oppressive, and after the celebrated Elevator Commission had made its report the Grain Act was passed, giving to the farmers the right to ship over loading platforms, etc. Later the act was amended regulating the distribution of cars and it was not until that amendment that much was heard about special binning. Up to about 1904 grain was very generally stored "by grade" storage receipts, but about this time, when the car distribution clause was to be strictly enforced, elevator men began to declare their inability to longer store wheat in that way owing to the uncertainty of getting cars to get it out, and about the same time also came a very general demand for special binning of wheat. Very few of the old elevators were erected with a view to special binning, indeed, they were nearly all erected to permit of grain stored "by grade." In the latter case the elevator would have eleven or twelve bins, including the shipping bins. In the former case there would be twenty-eight or thirty bins, including shippers, each bin capable of holding about a car-load. The cost of constructing a special bin elevator is about one-third more than the cost of the ordinary "by grade" elevator. The elevator trade, as a rule, have been quick to adapt themselves to any new requirements, but they have not met this change of conditions, claiming that it was impossible to do so for lack of funds. The more recently-erected elevators have, in the main, complied with the new requirements, but they form but a very small proportion of the whole.

It has been claimed, and to me, at least, with every show of reason, that the railways should provide storage for wheat just as they do for every other class of freight, even to the erecting of huge freight sheds for the storage of many cars of agricultural implements. The railway companies enjoy and always will enjoy a monopoly of the grain haulage of this country. There are no big rivers, inland lakes or canals to compete in getting the wheat off the prairies and down to the lake front, or to the Hudson's Bay. The shortage of equipment for moving the crop is a perennial grievance and this lack of equipment has been a tremendous loss to the western farmer; hence the idea of compelling the railways, by law, to furnish additional grain-handling facilities. The general concensus of opinion in the west in that 66 per cent. of the crop should reach Fort William before navigation closes. Even the railway companies are disposed to admit this, but at present it looks as if it would be a long time before this desired goal would be reached. A solution of the difficulty, which, it is understood, has already been suggested to the Dominion Government by a man well posted in the whole situation, and a solution that would meet with the hearty endorsation of all but the fanatics on Government ownership of interior elevators, is that the Railway Act be so amended as to compel all railways operating in the Manitoba grain inspection division to build at their own expense and operate a 25,000-bushel special bin storage elevator at each grain shipping point where the production would warrant such a building. If one of these elevators was erected at each important grain shipping point, it would go far to restore confidence on the part of the farmers as the railway companies would only operate these houses as grain storage elevators, there would be no ground for the charges of unfair rates, undue dockage, etc. Not only would these elevators, in themselves, be satisfactory, but they would establish a very high standard which every elevator company having a house at the same point would be absolutely obliged to live up to. It would only be fair for the railways to give this service, they would get the usual compensation for handling the grain which would give them a profit. They control all the transport facilities and any number of gravel pits and the like, so that construction of the houses could be made at the lowest minimum cost. They would gain in the matter of reducing, if not entirely abolishing, the loading over platforms, which is a very great nuisance, resulting in delays of all kinds. It would not be difficult for the railway companies to raise the money to erect these houses, and neither would they take long to construct.

This is a matter that every merchant, as well as every farmer, is interested in. It is a matter that should be given careful and thoughtful consideration and when a man has made up his mind he could do much to forward the scheme by talking it up and bringing to the minds of the farmers in his vicinity the advantages of this method over that of Government-owned interior elevators.

As to the Government ownership of terminals, it is pretty safe to say there is only one opinion on that question in the west to-day. That is that the Dominion Government should own or have absolute control of all terminal elevators, if the identity of our wheat and the standard of grades is to be preserved.—H.
